PEARCE—WHITTINGTON

At an afternoon wedding last Saturday in the Unitarian Church Miss Ruth Delano Whittington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alfred Whittington of Woodside road became the bride of Francis Cliff Pearce of Wollaston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. S. Pearce. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the church.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white crepe satin trimmed with pearls and having a court train. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Esther H. Lombard of Hingham, formerly of this town, accompanied the bride as maid of honor. She wore grey georgette over pink with black picture hat and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Robert F. Raymond, Jr., of Newton was groomsman. The ushers were Edward Stone and Francis Sweeney, both of Boston.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pearce left immediately on a wedding trip by automobile to Charlotte, N. C. where they will be the guests of the bride's sister, Mrs. Edgar Sherman.

The bride is well known among the town's people. She is a graduate of the Winchester High School, class of 1918 and of the Katherine Gibbs' School in Boston. She is a member of the Sigma Beta Sorority of this town. Mr. Pearce is a veteran of the world war, serving overseas with the 101st Engineers. Following the armistice he spent four years as representative of a large importing house at Singapore, Straits Settlements, from which position he has but recently returned. He is at present associated with the real estate firm of F. W. Norris in Boston. He is a member of the First Corps Cadets and of the Architects' Club of Boston.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Pearce will make their home after the middle of October in Wollaston.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS AT WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB REACHES SEMI-FINALS

In the semi-finals of the Winchester Boat Club Davis Cup Tournament last Saturday afternoon, Ralph Purrington defeated Francis Randlett, thereby putting Randlett out of the running. Ralph did not find this task an easy one, however, as time and time again Randlett's smashing drives caused Purrington grave concern. The match was won largely by the superior ground covering ability of Purrington. The score was 6—4, 6—3.

In the second match between "Spike" Tyler and Bob Moffette, the dope sheet was somewhat upset. Followers of the local talent had conceded victory to Tyler by virtue of his longer experience in the game, and his steadiness. Moffette started out by accurate placements, and rather remarkable ground covering. It seemed to the spectators that Tyler was slow in warming up. In the second set he showed steady improvement and every game played went into deuce. He surpassed Moffette throughout in service and his playing was decidedly better than shown by the scores of 2—1 and 8—6 in favor of Moffette. More power to Bob though, he played some fine tennis to beat the "vet."

The third match, Staff Rogers vs. Mel Tucker, had all the ear marks of being one of those eight-day affairs. They were evenly matched, both playing cautiously, trying for placements rather than resorting to speed. Both sets see-sawed back and forth and finally Tucker evened things up by capturing the second set 11—9, the score for the first set being 6—4. Roger's game has improved steadily, but he does not make this sport his chief pastime, as he prefers the paddling game.

Two cups more repose on the dance hall shelf awaiting their captors, Gamage, Moffette, Purrington, and Tucker being the remaining aspirants.

APPOINTED SUPERINTENDENT OF WATER DEPARTMENT

Mr. Harry W. Dotten was appointed superintendent of the Water Department by the Water Board at its meeting held Monday evening. Mr. Dotten, who has been assistant superintendent of the department for over 10 years, succeeds his father, the late William T. Dotten, who was superintendent of the department from the time of the building of our present reservoirs up to his death a fortnight ago.

CONVENIENT TIMETABLES

Convenient pocket timetables, giving the new time on the steam railroad, may be obtained of the following firms: Franklin E. Barnes & Co., E. R. Butterworth, Edward T. Harrington, Michael P. Queenin, Winchester Taxi Service Co. and the Winchester Trust Co.

It is to be regretted that Wednesday night's heavy frost destroyed Winchester's cotton crop, for Mr. William Watt of Forest street had hopes of keeping his plants through the ripening period and picking the cotton. As it turned out, the plants were badly nipped before the cotton had time to bloom. Mr. Watt, besides his experience in cotton, which he grew from seedlings, makes a hobby of fruit, and he has on his estate many fine and unusual varieties of grapes, plums and apples. He experiments with raising his fruit from seedlings and has already some very unusual specimens. While we have some particularly fine fruit here this year, it is doubtful if any one estate can show the combined results of his place on Forest street.

BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE IN COLLISION WITH TRUCK

Henry Dorsette, aged 14, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. William Ayer of Sylvester avenue, was taken to the Winchester Hospital Monday morning after being run over by a two and one-half ton Brockway truck on Church street at the corner of Common street.

The accident occurred at 8:20 o'clock. The truck which was the property of Braver, Haley & Co. of Roxbury was being driven along Church street toward the square by Albert E. Rodd of 17 Elmwood avenue, Roxbury. Young Dorsette was riding his bicycle beside the machine and going in the same direction. When at Common street the boy's machine skidded upon the wet roadway and ran against the left front wheel of the truck, throwing its rider to the ground.

Rodd quickly applied his brakes but before he could bring the truck to a stop its left rear wheel had passed over both the boy and his bicycle.

Young Dorsette was picked up by Rodd and taken with him and officer Farrell to the Winchester Hospital where he was attended by Dr. Herbert E. Maynard. There it was found that the lad was not so badly hurt as was at first supposed, having sustained but two lacerations under the knee of his left leg. No broken bones were found. Monday's accident marked the third time Henry has been struck by a motor vehicle without serious results.

SUMMER HOME BURNED

Mrs. Margaret L. Newman of Summit avenue had the misfortune to have her summer home at Kearsarge, N. H., burn down last week. The fire occurred while a party of members of the family and friends were occupying the place, Mr. and Mrs. Newman Giles and children, Miss Louise Giles, Mr. Henry Weed and others being there. The fire occurred during the evening, and it was especially fortunate that the party had packed their suit cases preparatory to a trip the following morning; so that they were able to save the most of their personal belongings. While sitting in the living room they were attracted by the noise of the flames, and upon investigating found the whole roof ablaze. The alarm was given and efforts directed to saving what they could of the furnishings, but the fire advanced so rapidly that beyond taking out their bags little else was rescued. The cottage was burned to the ground. It is thought that the fire originated from a defect in the chimney, an open fire having been kept in the living room through the day.

BOOTLEGGER DREW $150 FINE

John Kofonicos of 110 Lewis street, Lowell, arrested last week Wednesday in Winchester center by Sergt. Thomas Cassidy of the police department, was found guilty of transporting liquor illegally and fined $150 by Judge Morton.

Kofonicos was driving along Main street toward Woburn and was stopped by Sergt. Cassidy when he failed to heed the new traffic beacon at Hevey's Pharmacy which was set against him.

Sergt. Cassidy's suspicions became aroused while he was talking to Kofonicos, and a cursory search of his Ford touring car disclosed several tin cans in the tonneau covered with a blanket.

At the station house he was found to be carrying 11 five-gallon cans and five one-gallon cans of alcohol, and was booked on the charge of illegal transportation of intoxicants.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS" WILL LIVE FOREVER

Some books are read, and then thrown away. Some pictures are seen, and then forgotten. The life of an ordinary movie—the society drama or comedy, is about two years. Classi csof literature like "Hamlet" and Emerson's "Essay on Compensation" live throughout generations and are read again and again. "The Ten Commandments" has a theme so great, a sweep so large, and is so elaborately produced that it is one of the small group of films which will never die. As a fine book can be read over and over again, so a picture like this can be looked at more than once without losing its flavor. Cecil B. DeMille's cinemasterpiece will be shown at the Medford Theatre, beginning Monday, Oct. 5, for a run of four days, at a popular scale of prices.

CHARLES R. IRVING

Charles R. Irving, aged 83, senior member of the Boston firm of Irving and Casson, furniture manufacturers died early Thursday morning at his home, 20 Ridgefield road. Mr. Irving had been one of a party which left last July for a trip to California and it was while in that State that he became ill. He had returned to his home only last Saturday, his condition having grown worse since that time.

Mr. Irving was a native of New Brunswick. He had made his home in Winchester for the past seven years coming here from Chelsea. Surviving are his wife and one son, Arthur P. Irving of this town.

Private funeral services will be held at the late residence on Sunday afternoon at 1.30 and will be conducted by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

Henry J. (Buckey) Lyons, who was in town for several weeks on his vacation, has returned to his home in Chicago. He is now attending the convention of the American Legion at Omaha, Neb.

HOSPITAL ENVELOPE DAY SATURDAY, OCT. 3

This Saturday, Oct. 3, has been selected as Hospital Envelope Day by the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, conducting the Winchester Hospital. Our people are given this opportunity to aid in the maintenance of a Community work that every day reiterates its need and importance. It is for the good of all of us. No matter how small or how large the gift, "all of us" can aid in making possible a continuation of the service and enlargement of the work of Winchester Hospital.

The Board of Directors have expressed their appreciation of the generous way the Winchester people have contributed toward the building fund. But the hospital work and visiting nurse activities must continue during the building period. The annual Envelope Day which was omitted the year of the Building Fund Campaign, and has been a source of revenue for a number of years, is expected this year to supply the means now needed more than ever before. The Envelope Day, in fact, is the association's only source of revenue outside of the fees of patients, interest on endowment funds, and subscriptions of from $5 to $100 by one-hundred sustaining members.

It will soon be possible to increase the income from the addition to the hospital building. The nurses' home has been moved to a more suitable location and enlarged. It was started in May and is now nearing completion. The heating plant will be ready to operate within a few weeks. Like every new house, modern improvements make for efficiency, but increase the running expenses.

The Hospital Day envelopes were given out yesterday (Thursday). One was left at every house in Winchester. If any one of "all of us" does not receive an envelope notify Mrs. Harry Sanborn, chairman of the committee in charge of distribution and collection or any one of the captains of districts.

The following is a complete list of those in charge: Mesdames Frank Paine, William Hickey, H. C. Rohrman, William C. McDonald, F. M. Roberts, William C. Sache, N. M. Nichols, J. W. Butter, Charles I. Lampee, Charles Burnham, E. P. Buckley.

Tomorrow (Saturday), the envelopes will be collected. Dig a little deeper into your exchequer this year. There is no question about the worthiness of the cause. It's a work of humanity that every community gives its first consideration. The Board of Directors knowing in advance that Winchester will hear the call and give most liberally, extend their thanks in the name of the Winchester people in advance.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly Society began the year very auspiciusly on Tuesday afternoon, when almost 100 members of the Society assembled at the home of Mrs. George H. Reed, for the first meeting of the autumn.

After extending a cordial welcome to the members, Miss Mason, President of the Society, outlined briefly her plans for the year's work, and asked for the co-operation of one and all.

Miss Mary Bradford, of Fairhaven, a Director of the National Alliance, spoke upon "Unitarian Women," giving interesting anecdotes about Dorothea Dix and Julia Ward Howe.

A delightful musical program given by Mrs. Helen Barr, soloist, with Mrs. W. A. LeFavour at the piano, and Miss Mabel Wingate, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. F. C. Alexander was greatly enjoyed.

An informal reception followed the meeting, giving the members an opportunity to greet the hostess, Mrs. Reed and the new officers of the Society. Tea was served by the Tea Committee of which Mrs. I. E. Gamage and Mrs. E. B. Haynes are Chairmen, Mrs. John A. Maddocks and Mrs. H. W. Hildreth pouring.

EDWARD H. BUTLER

Edward H. Butler, former well known Winchester boy who for the past two years had made his home in New York, died suddenly last Saturday evening of heart disease while visiting at the home of friends in that city.

Mr. Butler was a native of Winchester, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Butler who now make their home in Atlantic. He was educated in the Winchester schools and enjoyed a wide circle of friends among the young people of the town. He was 33 years of age and is survived, besides his parents, by a sister, Mrs. Helen Perry of Newton and by a brother, Frank Butler of New York City.

Funeral services were held on Thursday morning at Norfolk Downs with a High Mass of Requiem in the Sacred Heart Church. The bearers included Butler McDonald of Winchester, Edward Boyle of Woburn, Paul Keenan of Cambridge, William O'Brien of Dorchester, Thomas Kelley of Atlantic and John Cass of Atlantic. Interment was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

WINCHESTER WON AT SOCCOR

Winchester defeated the Shamrocks, 4 to 1, in a Bay State Junior Soccer League game at Sullivan Square Sunday. The Shamrocks with only nine men, never had a chance against the snappy Winchester outfit.

The summary:

Winchester—Tullong, goal; Granland and Olson, backs; Hornell, Neiman and Lundon, halfbacks; Eklund, Linder, Carlson, Dahlmen and Swenson, forwards.

Shamrocks—Reid, goal; Duffy and McLaney, backs; Doherty and Roderick, halfbacks; Cairney, Blomquist, Devlin and Bernstein, forwards.

Referee—Thomas Freeman, East Boston. Linesmen—Smith and Allen. Goal scorers—Eklund 2, Dahlmen, Swensen and Blomquist. Time—Two 45-min. periods.

BENJAMIN B. HILL

Benjamin B. Hill, aged 49, of 44 Yale street ,died Sunday morning, Sept. 27, at the Samaritan Hospital in Troy, N. Y., of injuries received in an automobile accident on Sept. 15, near that city. Mr. Hill, who was on his vacation was taking a motor trip to Albany accompanied by Mrs. Hill. At a point just out of Troy their machine skidded on a wet stretch of road and overturned. Mr. Hill was found to be badly injured and was removed to the Samaritan Hospital. He had been thought to be well on the road to recovery and Mrs. Hill had returned to Winchester when she received word of his death.

Mr. Hill was a native of Worcester, the son of William and Sarah (Carlisle) Hill. He received his education in that city, and had for the past five years been associated with the Boston firm of L. Sherman Adams as a bond salesman. He came to Winchester about a year ago from Concord. He was a member of the Winchester Country Club, the Calumet Club, and the Boston City Club. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy S. Hill, and three children, Benjamin B. Hill, Jr., James, and Ann Hill.

Largely attended funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the late residence, and were conducted by the Rev. Henry Sherrill, rector of Trinity Church, Boston. The bearers included L. Sherman Adams and Granville L. Hancock of Boston, Elliot Allen of Newton, Milton Perry of Worcester, Charles Hildreth of Worcester, and Dexter W. Chamberlain of Boston. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

OLD HOMESTEAD VACANT

For the first time in 119 years, the old Symmes homestead at Symmes Corner is vacant. Built in 1806 by Deacon John Symmes, it has been occupied continuously by his descendants until the present time. Now, while our Tree Warden, Mr. Samuel S. Symmes, would still like to have the place and see it occupied, the provisions of the will of the last owner have placed its care and supervision in a peculiar state whereby it stands alone, unoccupied and forelorn.

A fine old colonial homestead, this Symmes house occupies the sightly corner at Main and Bacon streets in the section long identified by its builder. The last owner, Miss Amelia Symmes, died in June. She left the estate in trust of the late Judge Littlefield for the benefit of three Winchester institutions—the Hospital, the Home for Aged People and the Unitarian Church. Upon its sale all three were to share equally in the proceeds.

Not being able to secure arrangements for the future, members of the Symmes family have moved elsewhere since the death of Miss Amelia, and now the place is vacant Mr. Samuel S. Symmes says he would be glad to purchase the estate, could he find out who has charge of it or if it is for sale.

THE TAX BILLS

The new tax bills, which were mailed yesterday, are causing considerable aggitation about town. In fact the town appears to be quite widely and quite generally stirred up over them. Departing from the customary and time-honored form of listing the real estate under valuation and assessment for individual parcels, this year's bill contains only a total figure.

As our tax rate has advanced, and as there has undoubtedly been some changes in valuations, property owners desire very naturally to know how their holdings are taxed. The bill as sent out this year contains no information other than to state the sum called for payment.

While it is stated that property owners may ascertain how their holdings are taxed by making a personal visit to the Town Hall, the new departure is at considerable variance from the trade custom enjoyed in this vicinity of issuing itemized bills.

VESPER SERVICE

Sunday, 4.30 P. M. First Congregational Church

The Chancel Choir of the First Congregational Church, under the leadership of G. Wallace Woodworth will give the first vesper service of the season on Sunday afternoon at 4.30. The musical program is as follows:

"Chorale in B Minor" Franck
"Elevazione" Zipoli
"Prelude and Fugue in B Flat" Bach
"They are Ever Blessed" (The Beatitudes) Franck
"How Lovely are the Messengers" (St. Paul) Mendelssohn
"Let Their Celestial Concerts All Unite" (Samson) Handel

Mr. Chidley will give a brief address on "The Great Secret." The public is cordially invited.

TRIED TO STEAL PAY ROLL

An attempt was made last night to steal the pay roll at the Beggs & Cobb factory on Swanton street, thieves entering the office through a rear window and trying to open the safe. The company pays off Fridays, and presumably the thieves were after this money. The dial on the safe was smashed and thus far it has been impossible to open it, although it is thought that the thieves were baffled in their attempted robbery.

EXHIBITION OF PHOTOGRAPHS

At the Winchester Public Library from Sept. 22 to Oct. 10, there will be an exhibition of photographs of "The North Pole and Roundabout," loaned by the Library Art Club.

THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

Only minor injuries were reported as the result of three motor collisions which occurred in town over the past week-end, though some of the cars involved were quite badly wrecked.

The first accident occurred at 2:25 on Saturday afternoon at the corner of Park avenue and Washington street. A Hudson sedan, the property of the Anderson Motor Co. of 528 Main street, Winchester, driven by Herman W. Bergfeld of 27 Cedar street, Malden, while going north on Washington street was in collision with a Ford driven by Richard F. Coss of 30 Salem street, Winchester, who was going east across Washington street to enter Park avenue. The Ford was tipped completely over by the force of the collision, and was badly smashed; the Hudson, slightly damaged. Coss complained of a cut on his left knee.

At 4:35 on the same afternoon two cars came together at the corner of Church and Wildwood streets, a place which is fast becoming noted for its motor mishaps. A Durant sedan operated by Mrs. Bessie G. Munroe of 61 North street, West Somerville, who was accompanied by her husband, Ira D. Munroe, was struck as it was crossing Church street from Wildwood to enter Central street by a Chevrolet coupe, owned and operated by Thomas F. Garvey of 37 Linden street, Eeverett. Garvey was headed west on Church street, and the two machines evidently came together with great force. Both were badly smashed, the sedan having its right rear wheel broken off and its left side battered in, while the coupe had its whole front end smashed. Mrs. Munroe claimed that she had received injuries to her left elbow in the collision.

An Oldsmobile touring car and a motorcycle figured in the last of the three accidents which occurred at 10:25 Sunday night on Fletcher street near the corner of Church street. The automobile, owned and operated by Edward Robinson of 25 Colchester avenue, Burlington, Vt., was going along Church street toward the square and had made a left turn into Fletcher street when it collided with the motorcycle ridden by Hervey A. Mailhiot of 45 Bank street, Somerville. Mailhiot, who had with him as a passenger Miss Grace Morris of 701 Somerville avenue, Somerville, was coming out of Fletcher street to follow another motocycle into Bacon street. The Oldsmobile was not damaged but the motorcycle was badly smashed. The only injury was that sustained by Miss Morris who received a bruise on her left leg.

PERAMBULATION OF TOWN LINES

The Selectmen have received a letter from the Board in Lexington asking for the co-operation of the Winchester officials in the matter of perambulating the town lines with those of Lexington, starting from the corner of the Winchester, Woburn and Lexington line on Winning farm, Monday, Oct. 5 was selected as the day for the work and Town Engineer James Hinds was selected to serve with Chairman Walter H. Dotten of the Board in the matter of representing Winchester.

It was also decided to instruct the Town Clerk to write the Selectmen of Arlington asking them to meet the local Board on Saturday, Oct. 10, to perambulate the town line between Winchester and that town. Town Engineer Hinds with Selectman William P. Callahan will represent the town in this instance.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

A meeting of the Elementary School Principals with the Supervisor of the Elementary Grades was held at the Wyman School on Tuesday, Sept. 29.

The extension of the Course of Study in English was considered. In addition to composition, which was stressed last year, reading and literature will be emphasized this year. The organization and work of the Junior Red Cross and other important phases of work in the elementary schools were also discussed.

K. OF C. NOTES

The installation of the newly elected officers of Winchester Council, K. of C. will take place Monday night in the clubhouse with what will probably be the most elaborate installation program even undertaken by the council.

Grand Knight Terence D. Cullen has been re-elected with a roster of officers who have pledged themselves to bend every effort to carry on a strenuous campaign of council activities during the year.

At the installation it is planned to have several speakers of note address the council. A program of entertainment is also being formulated which should prove an attraction to the members.

The other officers to be installed are: D. Frank Dinneen, Deputy Grand Knight; Arthur W. Day, Chancellor; Thomas Kilcoyne, Recorder; Edmund A. Goggin, Financial Secretary; Eugene P. Sullivan, Treasurer; Michael C. Ambrose, Advocate; George Young, Warden; Edward Cullen, Inside Guard; Adloe L Forte and Edward McMahon, Outside Guards; Francis R. Murphy, Trustee for three years; Arthur King, Trustee for two years; Luke P. Glendon, Convention Delegate; Frank E. Rogers and Patrick J. Kennedlly, alternates.

The whist parties in aid of the annual autumn festival which is to be held at the clubhouse Oct. 9 and 10 continues to be well attended and the financial returns are very gratifying to the individuals conducting them.

The recent party by Mrs B. Young was one of the most successful of the season. One of the most largely attended parties of the season was that conducted this week by Mrs. Michael C. Ambrose. Enthusiasm among the players ran high and the excellent prizes awarded were received with much appreciation.

The co-operative attitude of the women friends of the council has given added impetus to the work by the council members. Scores of the women of the town are assisting the members in their plans for the coming festival. The whist parties conducted by the women have all been very successful and have tended to increase the interest of the townspeople in the future success of ventures by the council.

Probably one of the best examples of the intensity of council interest among the members was the recent volunteer renovation of the building interior. Twelve volunteers gathered at the home and with all of the necessary implements. A good job was done and the appearance of the home was greatly improved.

Continuing the policy of planning council activities well in advance the entertainment committee has announced the purpose of holding a minstrel show during the month of December. The committees in charge of this affair will not commence to function actively until after the autumn festival but plans for the cast and selection of a director will be discussed in the interim.

Wednesday evening at a largely attended Festival Committee meeting Chairman Furrella appointed heads of different booths for the Festival as follows: Refreshments, Mrs. M. C. Ambrose, Mrs. D. F. Dinneen; Novelty, Mr. D. F. Dinneen, Miss N. Sullivan; Cigars and Candy and Cigarettes, B. Young; Staple Articles, Mr. A. King; Miscellaneous, L. P. Glendon; Dancing, Miss Mary Boyle; Committee Decorations, Mr. A. King and Committee

CUT WIFE'S HAIR. COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Last Saturday afternoon in response to a telephone call stating that some sort of disturbance was in progress in a house on Westland avenue in the rear of Cambridge street, Chief McIntosh and Sergt. Cassidy of the Winchester Police made a hurried trip thither in the police machine. Arriving at the house in question they arrested a colored man on the technical charge of abusing his wife. The man had shorn nearly all the hair from the head of his spouse, leaving only a long bunch on the right side which he stated could easily be spread over the spot rendered temporarily bald by his tonsorial operations. After being removed to the station house and questioned the would-be barber was committed to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

The aurora borealis consists of cathodic rays, which are composed of electric particles emitted by the sun at a speed of many thousand miles a second and so small that several millions placed side by side would not cover an inch.

"HERE COMES THE BRIDE" BY MALDEN PLAYERS

There's a treat in store for playgoers next week at the Malden Auditorium, when the Malden Players will produce the sensational laughing hit, "Here Comes the Bride."

With the record of a year's engagement at the Princess Theatre, New Yerk, and broken records in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and all the large cities of the country, the play comes here with the merry endrosement of tens of thousands of theatregoers.

"Here Comes the Bride" was written by one of the greatest playwrights in the business—Max Marcin, of "Cheating Cheaters," "Silence" and "The Woman in Room 13" fame.

The play launched not only Francine Larrimore, but Otto Kruger into the realm of stardom, with electric lights. The Francine Larrimore role, of course, will be played by Miss Winifred Axtell, leading woman of the Malden Players, while Mr. Ernest Woodward, the capable leading man, will be seen in the Otto Kruger part.

There are exceptionally strong roles for all the supporting members of the company, each one of whom will be agreeably cast, and will be presented with countless opportunities to shine.

WINCHESTER WOMAN IN AUTO ACCIDENT AT BURLINGTON

Mrs. Blanche S. Benson of 25 Park avenue had a narrow escape from serious injury and possible death last Sunday in Burlington when she was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur A. Durant of Woburn and hurled about 50 feet by the force of the impact.

Mrs. Benson was about to enter her own machine which was standing in front of a gasoline station when the accident occurred. She was picked up by Durant and taken to the Choate Hospital in Woburn where it was found that she had sustained a fracture of the right arm as well as body bruises and abrasions. Following first aid treatment Mrs. Benson was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital, being met in Harvard square by her family physician, Dr. Stewart of South Boston. X-ray pictures failed to show further injuries, and reports from her home are to the effect that she is resting comfortably. She will remain in the hospital for another week under observation. Durant was taken into custody by Chief Pollack of the Burlington Police, and was charged with operating a car while under the influence of liquor and with reckless driving.

TRIED TO ENTER HOUSE ON ARLINGTON STREET

At 1:50 Sunday morning the Winchester Police were notified by Florence B. McPhee of Arlington street that a man was attempting to enter her home. A few minutes later another call came in stating that another attempt was being made to enter a home in the same neighborhood, this time at the Schrafft residence. In the meantime officer Noonan had gotten onto the scene, and took into custody a young man whom he found wandering about the vicinity and who was evidently intoxicated. At the station house he gave his name as William Cromie and his address as Somerville. He further stated that he had wandered away from a party of friends, though he was not entirely clear as to just where he had been going with them. In the District Court at Woburn Monday morning he was found guilty on the charge of drunkenness, and fined $10.

Turns Bed to Cure Insomnia.

Insomnia victims have found strange cures, such as counting imaginary sheep passing through a gate, but an inn keeper in Europe, when she discovers one of her guests has not slept well, turns his bed so it will face in another direction. She maintains from her long experience in catering to the comfort of travelers that some are "East and Westers," while others are "North and Southers," or "West and Easters," when it comes to sleeping.

At Last--Snowflakes
We admit that we've been very much behind hand in supplying you with those delectable products of the confectioner's art that we call Snowflakes. Our reason, which will satisfy those discriminating folks who know that the name "Clara Catherine" spells "quality" is that we have been unable to secure fresh cocoanuts that were up to our standard. Now, however, with that difficulty removed, for the first time this season we announce a plentiful supply of Snowflakes.

And Why Not?

The next day after she becomes engaged a girl begins to wonder whether her happiness will last until she is married.

BOWLING BEGINS

Calumet Winter Tournament Opens Oct. 5

The local bowling season opens next Monday, Oct. 1, at the Calumet Club, when the first six of the 20 teams entered in the contest will roll their first match. Games will be rolled every night in the week excepting Saturday from then on, the tournament being scheduled to close about the middle of January.

The 20 teams entered comprise an even hundred of the best bowlers in the club, and with a careful make-up of handicaps, based largely on past performances, the matches should be particularly interesting this season; especially so in considering the formation of some of the teams.

This year's bowling committee at the club is headed by Albert S. Snow, with William Adriance, B. Raymond Gage, Harry L. Pilkington and Earle B. Goldsmith assisting. In general the committee has decided to follow the rules of former tournaments. Three strings will be rolled to each match, points counting for each string and grand total. No postponed games are to be allowed, the foul line rule is to be enforced and the contestants will be re-rated after the sixth and 12th matches. The prizes will be awarded in various classes on the season's bowling on the basis of re-rating given after the 12th match.

All new bowlers will be rerated after the third match and again after the sixth, together with the rest entered in the tournament.

No less than 12 groups of prizes will be awarded, four team prizes and eight individual. Only one individual prize will be awarded to any bowler, although he may of course receive a prize as a member of a team. The prizes will be awarded at the close of the tournament at a dinner to be furnished by the 10 lowest teams. This makes an added incentive to every bowler, whether he is in line for a major prize or not, and is following a custom carried out in recent years at the club.

The composition of teams and schedule of games is as follows:

STONEHAM SURPRISES WINCHESTER

Winchester High School lost its second game of the season last Saturday afternoon to Stoneham High, 12 to 6, on the Pomeworth street grounds, Stoneham. The outcome of the game was rather a surprise, for Winchester in view of its good showing against Medford on the Saturday previous had been favored to win. Whether this general impression had gotten into the minds of the players themselves causing a feeling of over confidence or whether the boys hadn't fully recovered from their battle with the Suburban Leaguers is beside the point. The fact remains that they were clearly outplayed at Stoneham, and were fortunate indeed to score.

Neither team showed much in the way of good football, and the game on the whole was slow and uninteresting. Whatever chance there might have been to make a worth while contest of the meeting was ruined by some very indifferent officiating. The officials were bound that no infraction of the rules should pass unheeded and they surely called plenty which no one could see but themselves. Winchester seemed to be the chief offender against the official's idea of the way the game should be played and the penalties imposed coupled with its backfield's proneness to fumble at the least opportunity made it impossible for any sort of offense to get under way. Fumbling was the bugbear of local football last season, and it surely was much in evidence last Saturday. We kept no count but would wager that fully 50 per cent of Winchester's attempts to advance the ball were rendered null and void by its inability to handle the pigskin.

Stoneham's offense while in midfield was of no particular account against the Winchester defense, if one excepts the forward pass which the boys from the hockey team employed to gain most of their yardage. The locals were particularly vulnerable to this sort of attack, and though most of the passes were made without any attempt at deception, the Winchester players were unable to diagnose them and break them up. Once inside Winchester's 20-yard line Stoneham displayed a real punch which would not be denied. Winchester showed ability to advance the ball while at midfield but couldn't hang on to it long enough to seriously threaten their opponent's goal line.

The first quarter passed without a score. Neither team showed much in the way of a running attack, though McCarthy did get loose once for an 18-yard scamper which coming after a fumble and a poor pass had lost 20 yards wasn't of much help.

Stoneham opened up the second quarter with the ball in their possession on Winchester's 20-yard line, the result of a completed forward pass on fourth down. After an unsuccessful linebuck Clark ripped off five and then 13 yards through the center of the line for a first down on the two-yard stripe. From this point Richards bored off tackle for the score. O'Donnell blocked Bergholtz's try for goal.

Winchester made its lone touchdown soon after. Stoneham kicked off and Harriman ran the ball to midfield. This good start failed to help as Winchester was penalized half the distance to its goal line for clipping. Knowlton punted to his own 45-yard line where the Stoneham back made a fair catch. Three line plunges failed to make the required 10 yards and on fourth down O'Donnell recovered a fumble, giving Winchester the ball on its own 35-yard line. Here occurred the game's real feature. On the very first play "Heinie" Knowlton broke away through the Stoneham left flank and reversing his field a couple of times, throwing in some very nifty dodging for good measure, stepped out 65 long yards through the entire opposing team for a touchdown. Haley missed the goal.

This ended the quarter, and there was no score during the next period. Stoneham completed a long pass on which the runner crossed the line but an offside penalty brought the ball back to its 19-yard line. Another long pass gave Stoneham a first down at midfield but there they lost the ball on downs. Here "Rough" Haley got going in earnest and ripped off runs of 3, 10, 7, and then 20 yards which interspersed with a couple of 15 yard penalties against Winchester for holding gave Winchester a first down on the Stoneham 21-yard line. Here the locals fumbled, but recovered and Haley ran to the Stoneham 15-yard line as the period ended.

The first play of the last quarter was an attempted drop kick by Haley which went wide and which was very poor judgment on third down with the running attack going well. Stoneham gradually worked the ball up the field until Clark got loose to give his team a first down on Winchester's 35-yard mark. Here the locals braced and took the ball on downs, only to lose it on a fumble on the very first play. This time Stoneham made it sure. Plunges by Richards and Clark took the ball to Winchester's 10-yard line, and Bergholtz plowed along to the five-yard marker. Here Winchester braced a bit but Clark and Richards plugged along to the one-foot mark, and on fourth down Bergholtz went over through center for the score. At least, the referee said he was across the line, and possibly he knew whereof he spoke. There are, however, many in the crowd who will always retain their own private opinion that the ball isn't over the goal line even as yet. Be that as it may what the "ref" said went which is as it should be, and the try at goal was made and failed.

Then came considerable of an argument over whether the game was over, and after a time it was decided that there was a minute to play. Stoneham kicked off and McCarthy, Winchester's dusky half back, ran 50 yards to Stoneham's 35-yard line before he was thrown outside. A little cleaning out would have gotten the speed boy free for a score and a possible win. On the next play the same back ran to Stoneham's 27-yard line where the game ended. Bergholtz, R. Richards and Capt. W. Richards starred for Stoneham while Knowlton, Jim Halwartz, Walker and Haley showed well for Winchester.

OLD COLONY TENNIS TITLE SERIES

The annual championship tennis series of the Old Colony Tennis League comprising teams from Arlington, Watertown, Winthrop and Winchester got under way last Saturday afternoon on the courts at Winthrop and was continued Sunday on the Watertown Courts.

In the singles matches Riley of the Benedict Club advanced to the third round, being beaten by Caywood of Winsor in two hard sets, 7—5; 6—4. In doubles Riley paired with Wallace Blanchard has taken the Benedict standard to the semi-finals. On next Saturday afternoon they will play Sharp and Buzzell of Arlington for the right to meet Drake and Caywood of Winsor for the league championship.

Hot Water Sold.

In nearly all Chinese cities a large percentage of the inhabitants live in a sort of hand-to-mouth fashion, buying food from restaurants. Hot water is sold from stands by people who make a business of providing it. The great necessity for economy in fuel seems to be the primary cause of this mode of living.

FIELD HOCKEY LEAGUE GOT UNDER WAY WEDNESDAY

The season of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Girls' Field Hockey League opened Wednesday afternoon when the Woburn High eleven met the Melrose High girls at Melrose, in a Northern Division game. The first Southern Division contest will be played Oct. 6, when the Arlington and Lexington girls will clash at Arlington.

There will be 10 schools in the circuit, five in each division. The Northern Division is made up of the Melrose, Swampscott, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn High Schools and the Southern Division has the Arlington, Dedham, Lexington, Wellesley, and Stoneham High Schools. The Arlington girls won the league championship last year.

Both divisions will play a series of 10 games and at the close, the two teams winning their respective division titles will clash on a neutral field for the league championship and a leg on the five-year championship trophy offered by Harold Clarke Durrell of Medford, the sponsor of the league.

The teams have been practicing since the opening of school. The schedules follow:

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

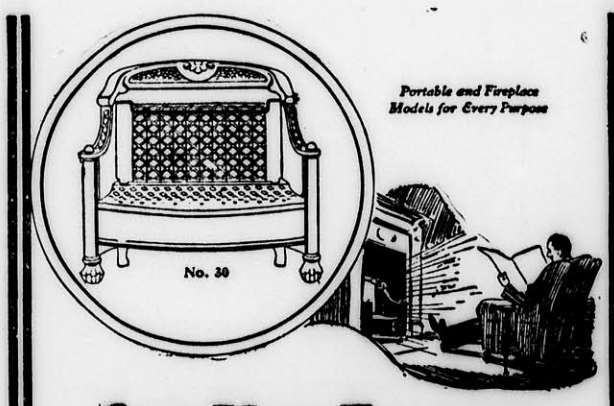

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, "Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

The man who loves his wife, his children, his friends, who smiles, and is kind, will make a good angel when the time comes.

If you want the thing done right and quickly, go to the busy man.

There are two classes in this world, those who say "I can't" and those who say "I can."

You can get much better results by sawing than from jawing.

Today is the tomorrow that you worried about, and that dreadful thing didn't happen, did it?

It takes the hammer of practice to drive a nail of precept.

DON'T GET THAT COLD

The best way to cure a cold, says the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, is not to catch it. You catch cold from someone else who is sneezing or coughing germs. The best way to prevent a cold, therefore, is to keep away from other people who have a cold.

Even if there are "cold" germs around, the person in excellent health may escape getting a cold. It is important for the individual to eat wisely and regularly, to sleep sufficient hours at night, and to get fresh air and exercise. The things to avoid are overeating (especially of sweets and meat) and crowded, overheated places.

Did you ever try going to work a little before rush hours? This is one way of keeping clear of crowds and bad air. Another way is to walk part if the way home from work. This exercise is very desirable for the office worker who sits at a desk seven or eight hours a day.

BALL SQUARE AND CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRES

Sure-fire entertainment with all the thrills and romance that make the movie fan grip his seat will be served aplent at Locatelli's popular houses the Ball Square and the Central during the coming week. Heading the first half of the week will be the stupendous Irvin Willat production "The Air Mail," with Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the featured roles. "The Air Mail" is an epic aeromance of the daring men who pilot the mail planes through the myrian hazards of the air. The picture shows more vividly than words can tell why the motto of the air mail pilot is "Nor snow, nor rain, nor wind, nor night, can stay the pilot in his flight." The companion picture will be "The Troubles of a Bride." It depicts the dramatic elements of gay society with its swift yachting parties, its glorious midnight debauches, its dancing girls and sea-shore revelries. For the last half of the week the screenings will be those of "Welcome Home," the big James Cruze comedy hit of modern married life, played by a high class cast, and "The Danger Signal," with a remarkable cast of prominent players. "Welcome Home" is the story of a likeable old man—a widower—who goes to the city to live with his son and daughter-in-law. He does not realize that his ways are vastly different from theirs, so he is continually upsetting their plans. Its homely story, rich in humor will please immensely. "The Danger Signal" is one of those thoroughly dramatic thrillers which keeps one constantly gasping for breath in fear that something dreadful will happen to the principals. A comedy, news reel and other short picture subjects will also be shown.

TWO BICYCLISTS INJURED

Two accidents involving bicyclists and automobiles occurred last evening. Fortunately no serious injuries to any of the parties involved occurred so far as is known. At 5 o'clock as Charles P. Mulloy of Medford was driving his Ford coupe on Main street he was obliged to turn suddenly into Swanton street to avoid hitting Mario Agro of Florence street who turned in on his bicycle. As it was he struck the wheel, throwing Agro off. Mulloy took him home and a causual examination failed to reveal any injuries.

At 5.45 Salvatore Iannuzzi of Irving street, driving a Ford touring car, collided with a boy named Joseph O'Connor at the corner of Mt. Vernon and Main streets. O'Connor received a cut on his knee and his wheel was broken. He was taken to his home on Cross street.

MR. KNEELAND APPOINTED

At a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Health last Monday evening Mr. William A. Kneeland of Highland avenue was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy existing on the latter body since the resignation of Mr. Carl F. Wood.

A delightful program of music followed, with Mrs. Lochman at the piano accompanying the songs of Miss Jean MacLellen. Delicious refreshments were then served, the hostesses being Mrs. John Gilbert, Mrs. Ara Besse, Mrs. Fred MacDonald and Mrs. William Dewsnap.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Grading of School Grounds

At the March town meeting $7,500 was appropriated to be expended, under the direction of the School Committee, for the grading and improvement of the lots of land upon which were placed the new school buildings. In June, at a special town meeting $2590 additional was appropriated in order to supplement the original appropriation and thereby make possible the completion of the work at the Lincoln and Mystic Schools and to a large extent do the work at the Wyman School.

The School Committee employed Mr. Ralph S. Vinal of Winchester to advise them in the placement of walks, the grading and drainage of the areas and the planting of trees and shrubs. The Committee employed an architect because the work was sufficiently important and the amount of money appropriated was large enough to warrant expert planning. The Committee has sought both a utilitarian and an esthetic result. Mr. Vinal's plans have been admirably laid out and the excution of them has been effected by Mr. Thomas Quigley, Jr., and Mr. James J. Fitzgerald to the great satisfaction of the Committee.

Lincoln School—The grading of the Lincoln School grounds in the rear of the building was one of the greatest problems. A large surface of sand had to be treated and the grading and drainage handled in such a way as to remove all water which had previously lain in large pools in certain sections of the grounds. Mr. Vinal's ingenious plan provided for two levels, the lower level running back about 90 feet to serve as a playground for the younger children. The upper level, running back another 200 feet, was made to serve as a playground for the older pupils. Granolithic steps with an easy pitch have been placed between the lower and upper levels. A bank of shrubbery will attractively divide the upper level from the lower.

By means of these two levels, not only have two separate playgrounds running approximately 300 feet in length been provided, but a great saving of money has resulted due to a diminution in the amount of cut and fill that otherwise would have been necessary.

Granolithic walks averaging generally about eight feet wide have been placed about the building by the street department. The walks leading to the smaller entrances have averaged about three to four feet wide. A well proportioned flag pole has been well placed later in the Fall in order to complete the landscape effect.

Mr. James J. Fitzgerald is to be commended for work well done.

Mystic School—The work at the Mystic School has been done by Mr. Thomas Quigley, Jr., and he, too, has the Committee's commendation for his good work. A finely graded playground 300 feet by 500 feet has been attractively laid out. The slope in the rear of the building has been graded with an eye to proper drainage and beauty as well.

Granolithic walks have been laid out by the street department and these have added greatly to the appearance of the grading.

Shrubbery and trees will be placed on the Mystic grounds later in the Fall to complete the landscape plan.

Wyman School—At the Wyman School, the chief work has been the regrading of the playground in the rear, the placement of a driveway to, and parking space for, the administration building in the rear of the Wyman School. Other sections of the lot obviously needing to be graded have been loamed and seeded.

In the Spring when the grass has got well started, each of the new buildings will have an attractive and serviceable playground.

In addition to placing walks on the school lots proper, the street department has laid granolithic sidewalks bordering the Lincoln School lot on Westley street and bordering the Mystic School lot on Madison avenue and Main street. The entire work of the street department leaves a substantial and wholesome appearance and supplements the grading work in a most satisfactory manner.

The Committee was confronted with the problem of providing play space while the newly seeded areas were given a chance to develop. They were much relieved to find that Mrs. Holton gladly permitted the use of her lot for the Lincoln pupils; Mr. Joslin, representing the Maynard Estate, permitted the use of the rear lot of the Maynard property for the Wyman pupils; and the representatives of the Scott and Henry Estates authorized the use of land in the rear of the Mystic School. All these people have greatly convenienced the Department.

The Committee is under obligation to Mr. Ralph S. Vinal for his economical yet attractive layout.

It is the Committee's intention to ask the town in March for an appropriation to properly put the Noonan School lot into just as fine a condition as the others. This lot, however, has been left to the last because it has at least been usuable. There will be a few minor things to be provided for on one or two of the other lots such as additional loam. The Committee thus hope to complete the entire work and thereby leave school grounds that will be both serviceable and attractive.

Wednesday evening Mrs. John Sharon of Webster street reported to the police that three young fellows had come to her front door, and when she had opened the door to see what they wanted had acted confused and had hurried away. She described them, and they were rounded up by Officer Archie O'Connell who [illegible] them to Mrs. Sharon for identification. The young men were able to satisfy the officer with their explanation of their conduct and were allowed to go.

WINCHESTER GIRLS PLAY CONCORD

The Winchester High School girls' field hockey team will open its 1925 season this afternoon at 3 o'clock on Manchester Field when its team will cross sticks with the Concord High girls. Winchester defeated Concord last season on the latter's grounds and hopes to get away to a good start this fall at its expense. The locals have but five veterans on whom to rely this season, its crack outfit of a year ago being hard hit by graduation. Coach Priscilla Wheeler has been working her charges hard in preparation for the opening battle and believes that her team this year will be even more speedy than last, though of course rather inexperienced in spots. The locals apparently have a sweet forward line built around the veteran wing, "Kay" Carlisle, one of the best goal shooters in the league. The halfbacks have been causing some uneasiness, the graduation of "Bud" Bourne and "Kay" Nelson leaving two big gaps to fill. The last line of defense should give little to worry about with two veterans at goal and left fullback in "Gertie" and "Dot" Bond. The last named was very, very good a year ago.

This year's team is being captained by Vincenia Rollo who plays at left halfback, and managed by Mary Carr. It will probably take the field against Concord as follows: K. Carlisle, left wing; W. Simmons, left inside; K. Vallely, center forward; C. Higgins, right inside; D. MacKenzie, right wing; V. Rollo, left halfback; K. Cassidy, center halfback; K. Shultis, right halfback; D. Bond, left fullback; C. de Coriolis, right fullback; G. Bond, goal. Substitutes who are likely to see action today include M. Merrill, F. Watters, E. Healey, A. Dolan and B. Sweetser.

The schedule follows:

Oct.
2—Concord at Winchester.
6—Stoneham at Winchester.
9—Needham at Needham.
14—Lexington at Winchester.
16—Swampscott at Winchester.
20—Arlington at Winchester.
23—Winchester at Woburn.
30—Winthrop at Winchester.

Nov.
3—Melrose at Winchester.
12—Winchester at Wellesley.

THE WASHINGTON CHAPTER

The Washington Chapter of the Winchester Mothers' Association held its first meeting of the season at the Washington School on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 30, with Mrs. Farrell as presiding officer, and an attendance of about 30 members and guests.

In her opening address, Mrs. Farrell welcomed the new members, and explained a little of the history and purpose of the Winchester Mothers' Association, both in the older central organization and in the various chapters, dwelling particularly on the aims and activities of the Washington Chapter. She conveyed a message of greeting and good wishes from Mrs. Harrison Parker, president of the association, with her regrets that she could not be present at the opening meeting of the Washington Chapter.

Miss Hatch, the principal of the Washington School, explained in a very interesting talk, what the school and teachers were trying to do toward character building in the pupils through emphasis on the three ideas of Health, Thrift and Service, the two latter working out practically in the Savings Bank idea, and the Junior Red Cross.

In the brief business section of the afternoon's program, appointments were announced for the House, Social and Library Committees, and plans were discussed for financing the general running expenses of the Chapter, the four school magazines, and the free milk for a certain number of underweight children.

Special announcement was made of the four lectures on "Food and Nutrition," to be given under the auspices of the Washington Chapter by Miss Beatrice Billings, one of the Home Demonstration agents of the County Extension Service. To this course of lectures, all mothers and homekeepers in the Washington School neighborhood, and members of the other chapters, are cordially invited. The first lecture comes on Wednesday, Oct. 21, the hour and place to be announced later.

Mr. Harold F. Bostwick of Highland avenue was the purchaser of the property at 62 Highland avenue which was sold at public auction on Wednesday afternoon by the Edward T. Harrington Co., auctioneers. The property consisted of a two-story frame dwelling house, garage, outbuildings, and fruit trees and shrubbery, all of which are to be removed from the premises to make room for the new Highlands school. The purchase price was given as $3550.

Winchester Elks are looking forward to another "Marlboro Party" which is being arranged for later in the month. Features are to include a turkey dinner and dancing to music by "Lou" Collins' famous orchestra. Arrangements for the party which is to be strictly an Elks' affair are in the hands of P. E. R. Fred Clement.

The Ladies' Western Missionary Society of the First Congregational Church held its first meeting and luncheon of the Fall season yesterday afternoon in the church vestry. Plans were discussed for the bazaar of the Missionary Society and the Women's Guild to be held Nov. 5 and 6 in the town hall.

Mr. P. F. McCall of Main street while driving his machine along Cambridge street Wednesday evening was forced to get entirely off the road by a man who was headed north along the same highway. Mr. McCall got the number of the car and reported the matter to the police.

One of Gulliver's Islands.

Laputa was an imaginary aerial island, mentioned in Gulliver's Travels. It contained 10,000 acres and was inhabited by a set of dreamy philosophers, who occupied themselves with music and mathematics. Owing to their habitual absent-mindedness, these sages employed attendants, known as "flappers," to rouse them from their reveries by flapping them on the mouth and ears with blown bladders, whenever their attention was to be withdrawn from "high things" and bestowed upon mundane affairs.

Verse the Proof.

Verse is the final proof to the poet that his mastery over his art is complete. It is the shutting up of his powers in "measureful content"; the answer of form to his spirit; of strength and ease to his guidance. . . . Poetry, in its complete sympathy with beauty, must of necessity leave no sense of the beautiful, and no power over its forms, unmanifested; and verse flows as inevitably from this condition of its integrity as other laws of proportion do from any other kind of embodiment of beauty.—Leigh Hunt.

WINCHESTER PLAYS FIRST HOME GAME

Winchester High plays its first game of the 1925 season on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 3 p. m. with the Saugus High eleven. The locals are out to avenge their defeats of the past two Saturdays at the hands of Medford and Stoneham and have been working hard this week to perfect an offense which will be consistent.

Against Stoneham last Saturday Winchester showed flashes of real football and with a bit more work together the team should give a much better account of itself.

Coach Mansfield is not at all discouraged over his team's reverses and was much pleased with the improvement shown on offense in last Saturday's battle. Winchester hardly got away to a good start against Stoneham. The game was scheduled for 2:30, and Coach Mansfield's boys were on the field about 2 o'clock. Its opponents did not put in an appearance until after 3 and the game did not get under way until a half hour later. This fact coupled with the thought that they were getting all the worst of the officiating did not tend to put the boys in a frame of mind to show their best stuff.

Tomorrow there will probably be some changes in the lineup. "Nicky" Fitzgerald is on the cards to start at quarterback, and it is hoped that "Charlie" Cassidy will be able to be at his tackle berth from the opening whistle. "Jim" Halwartz will start at the other tackle on offense, shifting to fullback when Saugus has the ball. McCarthy playing fullback will play Jim's tackle on defense. The remainder of the team will be as it has been with the exception that "Wop" Rolli will start in McCarthy's halfback position. The tentative lineup follows: Center, Frank McCauley; guards, Avard Walker and "Jack" Harriman; tackles, "Charlie" Cassidy and "Jim" Halwartz; ends, Capt. "Bud" Robinson and "Charlie" O'Donnell; quarterback, "Nick" Fitzgerald; halfbacks, "Heinie" Knowlton and "Wop" Rolli; fullback, "Don" McCarthy.

The Bissextile Year.

The bissextile year, which is commonly known as leap year, has 366 days or one more day than the ordinary year. The origin of the name leap year is unknown, but it probably arose from the fact that any date in a leap year after the added day of February 29 "leaps" over the day of the week on which it would fall in ordinary years. For example: If March 1 falls on Monday in one year, it will fall on Tuesday in the next, if that is an ordinary year of 365 days, but on Wednesday if it is leap year.

Prince Rupert's Drops.

The name, Prince Rupert's Drops, is given to tadpole-shaped pieces of glass, formed by melting the glass and allowing it to drop into cold water. If the point of the tail to one of these be broken off, the whole will at once shiver to pieces with a loud report. Owing to the sudden cooling, the particles have not had sufficient time to arrange themselves in a stable manner, and hence they fly asunder as soon as the structure is broken. These curious drops are commonly supposed to have been discovered by Prince Rupert, the grandson of James I of England; but Faraday says that they were simply brought by him into England in 1660.

A penny-in-the-slot automatic elevator has been devised. The passenger inserts a coin, enters the car, and presses the button of the floor to which he or she wishes to ascend.

Throat Cut by Own Orders.

Joseph Leon Vazquez died here recently at the age of sixty-one. He had no direct heirs and had always lived alone. When his will was opened it was found to contain a curious clause, says a Bordeaux letter in Le Petit Parisian (translated for The Kansas City Star). This was to the effect that, after death, M. Vazquez desired that his throat be cut from ear to ear in the presence of certain persons named in the will, the physician who was to perform the operation being designated. This provision of the will was carried out to the letter. Vazquez, who had been a sufferer from catalepsy, had an insane terror of being buried alive. He had decided to take no chances.

NO-NOX, THE NEW GULF MOTOR FUEL, PROVES THE GULF CLAIMS

The Gulf Refining Company report an unexpected sale of NO-NOX and customers are lavish in their praise of this new fuel. The Gulf Refining Company have been very conservative in their advertising of NO-NOX as they say they do not wish to "bull" their customers on this gas—they would rather its merits be discovered by their patrons—they are ready to stand back of the guarantee that NO-NOX will stop carbon knocks and that it contains nothing harmful to man or motor. An anti-knock or stop-knock fuel that really accomplishes its mission is worth the price to any motorist, says an officer of the Gulf Refining Company, as the average consumption of gasoline during the year is about five hundred gallons per car which figures, at three cents additional per gallon, the small sum of $15.00 per annum. The added power efficiency is worth that, not to mention the saving in wear and tear on motor and chassis of insufficient combustion, etc. There seems to be no doubt as to the Gulf Refining Company having at last found the real remedy for carbon knocks.

A Misuse of Talent.

"Some of the smartest men I have ever known," says a great merchant, "were criminals. But I have never known a dishonest man who could not have been much more successful if on the square. There is more honesty in business than there is in other things.

"Big business requires team work on a gigantic scale. Even a dishonest business man wouldn't want a dishonest cashier, or a dishonest clerk, or a dishonest secretary, would he? Crooks have to work in squads of one or two—at any rate, in such small squads that they can always watch each other."—Fred Kelly in the Nation's Business.

Gold for Reflectors.

Through recent tests, gold has been proved more efficient than silver as a coating for light reflectors. For almost 700 years silver has been used for that purpose. In the latest searchlights, copper reflectors coated with pure gold are being employed. These have been found to reflect more light than those covered with silver, since the former throw off a higher percentage of red and yellow rays. It is also claimed that fine color distinctions can be made more easily with the former.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

The average merchant can pick his own customers and shut up shop whenever he pleases. The gas man must be on the job at all times. Gas service must be ready every minute of the day or night. It must be supplied to all alike.

Few services rendered the public are as intimate as this one. And few thrive so well when the contact between the maker and the user is a friendly one, helpful, kindly and sympathetic.

To gain the respect, confidence and good will of our customers is the aim of the management and employees of this company. All other objectives are dependent upon the attainment of this one.

RADIO ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

IT has come to the attention of the undersigned companies that a considerable number of persons are using poles carrying their current for the support of radio antennae.

The public undoubtedly do not realize the hazards of this practice due to the danger of the antennae carrying currents of electricity to the persons making such attachments, to passersby on the streets and also into homes. The practice is condemned by the National Electrical Safety Code Committee and by the authorities having supervision of wires in cities and towns.

The companies, therefore, have reluctantly come to the conclusion that the practice must be stopped and desire to give notice that all such attachments must be removed within ten days.

This rule is promulgated only in the interest of safety and we trust that the public will appreciate its reasonableness and cooperate in its enforcement.

"But I Don't Know Their Telephone Number"

Neighborhood toll calls take our lowest rate

Signal your operator
Give her the number
Hold the line

Socially,
Industrially,
Commercially
We make
New England
a neighborhood

In building Neighborhood Toll Service, that was one of the toughest nuts we had to crack. Here's the kernel.

If the number you want is outside the area covered by your own telephone directory, ask your local Information Operator to supply it.

Call her to learn a distant number, just as you would for the number of a new telephone in your own exchange.

Make a note of it for future use. You may wish to repeat the same call. Most toll users do, and there are advantages in building up a list.

If you wish it, your local manager will make up for you a list of distant numbers you frequently call.

Not Likely to Have Any

The generous mind least regards money and yet most feels want of it.—Benjamin Franklin.

Must Keep Secret.

Under the law in France a doctor may be fined or imprisoned for divulging the details of a patient's illness.

Yes, Why Not?

If there are to be concrete country roads, why not a two-foot sidewalk? Motorists want them as earnestly as pedestrians.

Knots in Boards.

Knots in boards are the result of branches which extend from the center of the tree to the outside. After a branch has died and a cambium of living wood grows over the old piece of branch, a knot forms. All trees have abundant knots, but some clean themselves of their lower branches through rapid decay. When trees free themselves from branches readily and growth is rapid a good amount of clear lumber is formed.

SULLIVAN—KING

Miss Laura King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John King of Salem street, and Robert H. Sullivan of 281 Washington street were quietly united in marriage last Sunday evening in St. Mary's rectory, the ceremony being performed at 6:30 o'clock by the Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons of St. Mary's Church.

The bride wore a powder blue gown of crepe de chine with picture hat to match and carried a bridal bouquet of roses. She was accompanied by Miss Eleanor oFley of Woburn as maid of honor. Miss Foley's gown was of old gold satin with hat to match and she carried pink roses. George C. Sullivan, nephew of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a small reception for members of the families and a few intimate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. At its conclusion Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan left on a 10-davs' wedding trip.

Both are well known in Winchester, the bride being popular in north end social circles while Mr. Sullivan, as one of Winchester's veteran barbers and an election official for many years, enjoys a wide circle of friends. He is a member of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E., and of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on last Thursday afternoon in the Church of the Epiphany of Miss Constance Larned, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Larned of Highland avenue, and G. Fred Ashworth, also of Winchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ashworth of Lincoln street and Highland avenue. The ceremony was performed by the rector o fthe church, Rev. Allen Evans, Jr.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her only attendant was her cousin, Miss Charity R. Myers of White Plains, N. Y. The best man was Gordon C. Joyce, a classmate of the groom at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1924.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The ushers were Elliot P. Thayer of Weymouth and Harold Day of Newton. At the conclusion of a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Ashworth will make their home in Pawtucket, R. I.

CHALLENGE WINCHESTER HORSE-SHOE TOSSERS

To the Editor of the Star:

I issue an open challenge to the horse-shoe or quoit players of Winchester on behalf of the Southenders of Stoneham.

We will be pleased to meet the best four-man team in Winchester on Oct. 12 (holiday), at 2 p. m. at the courts, 23 Wright street, Stoneham, for the best three out of five.

We need a trimming; come and try us.

SMOKER AT WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

There will be a smoker at the Winchester Boat Club next Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 at 8 o'clock. At that time the Cups which were won at the Fourth of July races on the Charles River, and which have newly arrived at the Club will be presented to the War Canoe Crew. These are very substantial and worthwhile trophies and the Club is proud of the fact that her boys won them.

The winner and runner-up in the tennis tournament will be presented the Wm. S. Davis Cups.

An entertainment has been arranged and refreshments will be served. It is hoped that every member will come and bring another member along with him. This is the last club affair of the season.

FIDELIS CLUB DANCE

The "Fidelis Club" will hold its Fall Dance Oct. 30, in the K. of C. Hall, Vine street. This organization is composed of the brightest and most talented young ladies in this vicinity. Their past performances in the way of plays and other entertainments will be a sufficient guarantee for an evening of unalloyed pleasure by those attending the dance. The Assabet Lodge Orchestra will furnish the music which insures the best of melody and most perfect timeing for dancing.

MISSION UNION

The regular meeting of the Mission Union will be held in the vestry Tuesday, Oct. 13. There will be a board meeting at 11 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 12:30. Those bringing guests please notify Mrs. William DeCamp, tel. Win. 0244-R or Miss Elsie Enman, Win. 1144-J. Miss Nugent will be the speaker. All members are urged to be present as changes in the constitution are to be voted upon. Mrs. White wishes those members who took work home for the summer would bring it to this meeting.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Vaughn of 537 High street, West Medford, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mabel Winslow Vaughn, to Elvin Parks Deal, son of Mrs. Hannah J. Deal of 36 Calumet road, Winchester, and the late Dr. Edward E. Deal.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henry and son, Donald, of Highland avenue, have been spending the week at Hanover, N. H.

PROPERTY LISTS BEING SENT OUT

Collector Itemizing Tax as Citizens Desire

Following the desire of Winchester tax payers to have their various parcels of taxable property listed on their bills, Collector Nichols at once commenced the first of the week to issue such lists. They will be sent to all taxpayers and are going out as fast as they can be compiled.

This years' tax bills were sent out with only the total tax assessed. There was no itemization. As Winchester had always been accustomed to have a separate listing of taxable property, and as the Town had passed a vote as long ago as 1907 to have such information sent on the tax bills, the omission this year created considerable aggitation.

New tax bills will not be issued, but each taxpayer will receive a slip listing the items he is taxed for.

K. OF C. NOTES

The annual Autumn festival under the auspices of Winchester Council, K. of C. probably the most important council activity of the year will be held at the clubhouse, Vine street, Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night.

Always attended by thousands of friends of the council, the committee which has worked tirelessly to make the affair a huge success anticipate the largest attendance ever recorded at a like affair in town. Interest in the festival has been stimulated by the hustle of advance preparations that have been underway at the clubhouse during the past week. Scores of council members have devoted much time each night to erecting booths, decorating the interior of the building and discussing plans for the success of the affair.

To those who patronize the festival this year is due a continual series of surprises. Instead of the quantity of articles of no especial value that are displayed at such affairs the booths at this festival will offer nothing but articles that will be of real value either in the home or for the personal needs of the winner.

Staple and fancy articles that will appeal to the taste of the housewife, valuable personal effects that individuals will be glad to obtain and many other novelties will be included. It is planned to have five booths including a novelty booth that is expected to draw hundreds of patrons.

The merchants of Winchester, Woburn and Boston have been very generous in their donations. Many valuable articles have been donated by these business men including a gold K. of C. ring, a bridge lamp, fancy spread, fancy articles and large quantities of refreshments.

Saturday afternoon will be devoted to the entertainment of the children. A large and varied program of amusements has been compiled and it is certain to be a gala day for the kiddies. Special booths will be erected for that afternoon and members of the committee will personally see that the children enjoy themselves all the time they are in attendance.

A feature of the festival which should appeal to the younger people attending will be dancing which will be in the upper hall of the clubhouse. Terry Cullen, hardworking Grand Knight of the Council is personally supervising the musical arrangements and has assured the committee that it will be the best obtainable music that the young folks will step to. To those young people who seldom gather for dancing in the home town, this occasion should furnish an excellent opportunity to see what the younger generation of dancers can do.

The installation of the council officers for the coming year took place last Monday night with a large turnout of members attending. District Deputy J. Lowe McMahon and suite performed the installation ceremony in a most pleasing and impressive manner. Following the installation there were addresses by Deputy McMahon, Chaplain Fr. Fitzgibbons and Grand Knight Terrence Cullen.

Wednesday night, Oct. 7 the Autumn Festival Committee held the last of their meetings previous to the festival on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10. Plans were gone over and everything shaped up to the last detail. Sports and games committee report a very elaborate program for the kiddies. A big feature will be a baby show for babies under three years of age. Scooter races, 3-legged races, shoe races, 100 yard dash, etc., for older children.

Booths will be in charge of the folfolowing committee: Novelty booth, Frank Dineen; Staple article booth, Arthur King; Miscellaneous booth, Luke P. Glendon; Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes, Geo. Young; Refreshment booth, Mrs. M. C. Ambrose. Dancing in upper hall, Terry Cullen's Orchestra. Dancing in charge of Mary Boyle, assisted by members of the Fidalis Club.

THE SEWER AGAIN

Representative Thomas R. Bateman together with Sewell E. Newman, chairman of the town's committee on cleaning up the Aberjona River, atd Town Council Addison R. Pike, have been invited to meet the Board of Selectmen on next Tuesday evening to discuss the adjourned hearing which is to be held in the office of the Metropolitan District Commission at Ashburton Place, Boston, the following day to consider the matter of the much talked of Woburn Sewer.

RUMMAGE SALE

The League of Women Voters will hold a rummage sale over the Main street A. & P. Store Friday, Oct. 16 from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

O'CONNELL—MURRAY

A nuptial mass in St. Luke's Church, the Bronx, N. Y., on Tuesday morning, solemnized the wedding of Miss Lucy M. Murray, daughter of Bernard Murray of that city, to Archibald T. O'Connell of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Connell of Middlesex street. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock by the Rev. Fr. Scully.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Joseph T. Murray of New York. She wore a wedding dress of white beaded georgette with net cap and veil. Her bouquet was of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Murray of New York as maid of honor. Her gown was of rose colored georgette, she wore a picture hat to match, and carried a bonquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Lucy McGill of Astoria, L .I., Miss Ethel Waldo of Woodside, L. I.; Miss Celia Rutz of Park place, Brooklyn; Miss Celia Tonny of Brooklyn, Miss Marie Murphy of New Pork, and Miss Vera Watson of Jersey City. They were all gowned alike in organdy frocks with hats to match. Charles L. O'Connell, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Joseph T. Murray, brother of the bride; Joseph Dolan of New York, Wilbur Gray of Taylorsville, Ky.; Frank Finney of New York, Warren Perkins of Everett, and Charles Noles of Dorchester.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the home of the bride, the young couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. Murray ,the bride's father and several relatives and intimate friends. At 2 o'clock Mr. and Mr. . O'Connell left on a three weeks' honeymoon which is to include visits to Niagara Falls and the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre at Quebec.

The bride is prominent among the younger set in St. Luke's parish and enjoys a wide circle of friends throughout the Bronx. The groom is well known here, and is a patrolman attached to the Winchester Police Department. During the World War he served in the navy, making seven trips overseas on the U. S. ships Sierra and Graf-Waldres. He is a member of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus. Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell will make their home on Elm street in this town.

EPIPHANY YOUNG FOLKS DANCED

A very pretty dancing party was held last Friday evening in the Parish House of the Church of the Epihpany by the young people of the eighth, nineth and 10th grades of the church school. About 30 couples were present and thoroughly enjoyed the dance music of a three-piece orchestra and the dainty refreshments which were served during the evening.

The hall was most attractively decorated ,striking and artistic posters covering all the brick pillars, while colored paper streamers intertwined overhead in the form of a huge cobweb. Clusters of vari-colored balloons were arraigned in every nook and corner.

The party was matronized by the teachers of the eighth and 10th grade girls, Miss Carolyn Breen and Mrs. William C. Sache, with Miss Ethel Davis of Stoneham. The dance marked the first of the young folks' social activities for the winter season at the Epiphany.

CONCERNING THOSE TAX BILLS

Owing to articles published by two newspapers, there seems to be a general impression throughout the town that the reason the tax bills were not itemized this year was due to the fact that the assessors failed to furnish the necessary information to the collector which would enable him to itemize the bills. The Board of Assessors and the Collector, jointly, wish to state that this information was furnished by the assessors, their book being made up exactly the same as in past years. The collector, acting on advise from the State House that it was not necessary to itemize the bills, simply copied the totals.

PUBLIC MEETING OCT. 30TH

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce has engaged the Town Hall and will hold a public meeting on Friday evening, Oct. 30, at which time Mr. C. F. Shaw of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company will speak on the new rates recently required by the company. It is said on good authority that the telephone company is losing money on many of its local exchanges and that it was found necessary to raise the rates in order to get costs. This will be explained and questions will be answered at the coming meeting.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage Intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by the following:

Henry Joseph Evans of 65 Carver street, Boston and Elizabeth Marie McCabe of 62 Bacon street, Winchester.

Walter Freeman A. Edwards of 415 Washington street, Winchester and Jennie Blanche Libby of Winn street Burlington.

Charles Philip O'Rourke of 23 Garden street, Peabody and Eloise Burke of 26 Symmes road.

The fire department was called out last evening for a blaze at the dump on Clark street. There was no damage.

HOSPITAL ENVELOPE DAY RESULTS ARE ENCOURAGING

Last Saturday Oct. 3 was Envelope Day for the Winchester Hospital. On that day the committee were to call on "all of us" and pick up the envelopes containing our mite toward financing the Hospital work for the year. The envelopes had been left at our homes two days previous. Unfortunately the Envelope Day Committee were not in the good graces of Jupiter Pluvius for it rained so hard on Saturday that many of the ladies of the committee did not venture out to make the aforesaid monetary collection. Monday also was a rainy day, and so the collection has been delayed to the extent that Mrs. Harry Sanborn, in charge of the distribution and collection, cannot as we go to press give the Star the exact amount of our sum total donation to the cause. Mrs. Sanborn tells us, however that the reports of collectors up to this minute are fairly encouraging. If your envelope has not been collected, don't worry, the collector in your district will yet be there and list you among the givers to this splendid work. And above all, put into that envelope all you can spare, and send the collector on the way to the next call in a pleasant frame of mind.

Remember, this money is to be used to fund the hospital's actual work, day in and day out. It should not be confused with the building fund money. The building fund is to provide the construction cost of the new nurses' home, boiler plant, and the addition to the wards and rooms. It was pledged for that special purpose and not one cent of it can be used for running expenses. We must depend upon Envelope Day, and upon membership and other contributions to help meet the pay-rolls and other costs at the Hospital. Next to our churches, and equally important with our school-work in this or any other community comes the Hospital, Nursing and Public Health work, and we are fortunate in Winchester to have such a good hospital. One patient who spent two weeks there recently told us that though she dreaded at first going to a hospital, she was treated so well and the hospital was so "homey" and the superintendent and nurses so pleasant and agreeable that she was somewhat sorry when it was time to go home.

The Editor of the Star took occasion to run up there to see the new construction work yesterday. The nurses' home looks fine, a great improvement; the chimney for the new boiler plant is now up 40 feet, with 40 feet more to go. The old boiler plant was in the basement of the hospital; it was entirely inadequate, and the basement was no place for it. The noise and dirt from shovelling coal in a hospital basement is intolerable, and in summer time the added heat from it did not help in the comfort of the sick.

It is clearly the duty of "all of us" to support Envelope Day. If you were not at home when called upon, and discover an envelope in your mail box upon your return, kindly forward your contribution to Mrs. Harry Sanborn, Black Horse Terrace, or to the Captain in your district.

There are other gifts besides money which always help a good cause, and encourage the workers. The donations during September show this spirit of thoughtfulness: flowers from Mrs. Watters; fish, Mr. Dodge; milk, Mrs. Handel Pond; Pears, Mr. Brine; Flowers, Mrs. Woodside; Books and Magazines, Mrs. Whittlesey; Flowers, Mrs. Chipman; Linen, Mrs. Ervine Johnson; Peaches, Mrs. O'Neil; Doll's House, Mrs. Emerson; Plant, Mrs. Martinson; Books, Mrs. J. W. Skillings.

WINCHESTER KNIGHTS INSTALL OFFICERS

Enthusiasm marked the meeting of Winchester Council, K. of C., at which officers were installed at its clubhouse on Vine street Monday evening.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by District Deputy J. Lowe McMahon and staff of Wakefield. The officers inducted were:

Terrence D. Cullen, grand knight; D. Frank Dinneen, deputy grand knight; Arthur W. Day, chancellor; Thomas Kilcoyne, recorder; Edmund A. Goggin, financial secretary; Eugene P. Sullivan, treasurer; Michael C. Ambrose, advocate; George Young, warden; Harry Ferrullo, lecturer; Thomas Gigliotti, organist; Edward Cullen, inside guard; Adloe LaForte and Edward McMahon, outside guards; Francis R. Murphy, Arthur King, trustees.

ROBB—HALL

Miss Mary Linzee Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Linzee Hall of Forest street, Medford and Phillip Hunter Robb, son of Dr. Hunter Robb of New York, were married last Saturday afternoon in Grace Episcopal Church, Medford. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Dev. Dwight Hadley, in the presence of guests from Boston and suburban sections, including a special group of relatives and friends of the bridegroom who came from New York for the event.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with trimmings of tulle and train and veil of the same material. Her bouquet was of white roses and lillies of the valley. Mrs. Charles E. Thayer, 2nd, of Hingham attended her as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Priscilla Pollard of Boston, Miss Margaret Williams of Dedham, Mrs. John Jay Hicks Kerr of Woodmere, L. I.; Mrs. Geoffrey L. Smith of Penn.; also Mrs. John T. J. Clunie, Mrs. Walter Amory and Miss Rachael Smith, all of Boston. They were all gowned alike in rose velvet and georgette and wore hats to match their gowns. They carried bouquets of roses. W. Palmer Dixon of New York was groomsman and the ushers were Willis P. Beal, Walter Scott Blanchard, Vernon L. Hall, 2nd, and James R. Reynolds, all of Boston; also Walter Langdon Post and George Cabot of New York, John Jay Hicks Kerr of Woodmere, L. I.; Hamilton Robb and J. Homer Burton, Jr., of Long Island.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Robb will make their home at Woodmere, L. I.

The groom is well known here, having spent a part of his time, while at college, in Winchester with his stepmother, the former Mrs. Edwin Ginn.

WINCHSETER POLICE LAND FLIM-FLAMMERS

It isn't always prudent to tell one's acquaintances too much concerning one's private affairs. Mr. Jeremiah McCarron of Wendell street is very probably well aware of this fact by now, though he did only what any one else might have done under the circumstances.

It seems that Mr. McCarron had some time ago purchased on the deferred payment plan a piano from the Henry F. Miller Co. of Boston. There remained to be paid on the account some $290. Mr. McCarron had decided to clean the matter up, and had been informed by the piano company that an agent would bent sent to his home to collect the money.

Last week Wednesday the McCarrons reecived a visit from a supposed friend of theirs, one Thomas McHale of Peabody, to whom they related their intention of paying off the money due on the piano. He was interested and was further informed of the fact that an agent of the H. F. Miller Company was coming to Winchester to receive the money in question.

The day following McHale's visit, a young lady called at the McCarron home representing herself as the agent of the Miller Piano Co. and stating that she had come to collect the $290 due on a piano which had been purchased from her house. Three one hundred dollar bills were given over to her in payment with the understanding that $10 in change should be returned to the McCarron home at once.

Time passed and the money did not come. The McCarrons became suspicious and when the change had not put in an appearance by Saturday noontime they got in touch with the Miller people in Boston who informed them that they had sent no collector to Winchester. The local police were then notified, and Chief McIntosh and Sergt. Cassidy started to work on the case.

Suspicion seemed to point to McHale as the only one knowing about the plan to pay over the money, and the police took several trips to Peabody for purposes of investigation. What they learned led them to issue warrants for the arrest of McHale and also the young woman who had represented herself as the agent of the piano company.

The procedure of the pair had been simple. McHale had gotten in touch with his female confederate and she had arranged to call at once at the McCarron home to get the money.

McHale and the woman, who gave her name as Elizabeth Lindale, and her address as Salem, were arrested Wednesday night in Peabody by the police of that place who were acting for the local authorities.

Both were locked up on the charge of getting money under false pretenses and appeared in the District Court at Woburn Thursday morning. At that time their case was continued until this morning to see if restitution of the $300 could be made. Pending final disposition of the case they are being held by the Winchester police.

Chief David H. DeCourcy of the Winchester Fire Department, looking hale and hearty after his visit to Louisville, Ky., where he attended the International Fire Chief's Convention, got back to his desk in the Central Fire Station Monday. He reported the weather very warm in Louisville with a minimum temperature of about 90 degrees. Before returning to Winchester he visited the Ahrens-Fox factory at Cincinnati, and inspected the new pump which the town has purchased from that company. He found the pump about ready to go into the paint shop, and it should be in town by the last of the month. According to Chief DeCourcy, Cincinnati is wonderfully equipped with fire apparatus, nearly all the stations having splendid reserve pieces of equipment as well as those actually in use.

COMMUNICATION

Winchester, Mass.
Oct. 8, 1925

Editor of the Star
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I am sending you a letter which I recently received from Hon. Lewis Parkhurst. Will you kindly print this letter in your paper in order that all of our citizens may be acquainted with the fact that the book of War Records is now completed and that copies may be obtained without charge by applying at the Town Clerk's office.

Yours very truly,
Henry B. Harris

Mr. Henry B. Harris
Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mr. Harris,

Thank you very much for sending me a copy of "Winchester's War Records" recently published by the town under the direction of a committee of which you are chairman.

I have read the book carefully with very great interest, and wish to congratulate your committee on producing a volume of such value to our town. The binding of the book is most attractive, the typography good, the illustrations well printed and positioned on the page, the paper of excellent quality, and the work of the Andover Press to be complimented.

I am especially pleased that there has been brought together in this manner the names of all those who have particpated in the three wars waged since the town was incorporated. I note with much satisfaction that a photograph of the model of the forthcoming War Memorial has been used as the frontispiece. When this Memorial is completed and placed in position near the high school, I hope the names of all the soldiers and sailors mentioned in this book may be inscribed on suitable tablets which will be located in some appropriate manner adjacent to the War Memorial.

I was surprised to find how large a number of men represented our town in these three wars. It is a record of which we can all be proud, and this fact coupled with the splendid backing that was given by our citizens at home leaves nothing to be desired so far as the loyalty and public service of Winchester is concerned whenever the nation has been called to arms. I have never heard mentioned before the fact that certain citizens of Reading were in the Civil War credited to Winchester. The story of our part in this war is told in a most vivid and interesting manner by three of our own citizens, and the memorial verses are most appropriate.

Chapters V and VI give a brief account of the divisions in which many of our men served in the World War, and the personal letters from the front show a glimpse of what war means, and will give future generations something to think about if we are again threatened with war. Altogether this book, compiled with so much difficulty and so much hard work, is a credit to all concerned.

As I understand it there is an edition of 2500 copies published, so that every family in town can have a copy by applying to the Town Clerk. I am sure that not only every family who had a son in the war but every family living here will want a copy as a constant reminder of the great sacrifice made by our young men that we may be permitted to live on in peace and comfort and enjoy the blessing of a free people.

Sincerely yours,
Lewis Parkhurst

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Answers to a Few Questions Concerning the Permanent Court of International Justice

What Is It?

The Permanent Court of International Justice is a Court of eleven judges and four deputy judges sitting at the Hague. The judges serve for nine years and may be re-elected. These judges devote their entire time to the trial and decision of cases between nations. The Court is in session continuously. Any nations, whether members of the Court or not, may bring their disputes before it for settlement. No nation, without its own consent, can be brought to judgment before it.

Who Are These Judges?

The 15 judges now sitting come from Holland, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Spain, Cuba, Brazil, Italy, Switzerland, Jugo-Slavia, Norway, Japan, Roumania, China and the United States.

They are, however, in no sense representatives of their countries. Once these 15 men put on their robes and enter the court room in the Hague Peace Palace they belong to no country but to the world and they are dedicated to the cause of justice between the nations of the earth.

There may in no case be more than one judge from any one country. Should there be no judge on the bench of the nationality of a litigant, however, that nation may choose one of its own judges to be added to the bench for that trial. Only one country has availed itself of this provision, others being satisfied with the impartiality of the Court as elected.

FUNERAL RITES FOR CHARLES R. IRVING

Private funeral services for Charles R. Irving, aged 83, president of the Boston and Cambridge furniture firm of Irving and Casson—A. H. Davenport who passed away last week Thursday morning, were held at his late residence, 20 Ridgefield road, last Sunday afternoon. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church. A profusion of beautiful floral tributes not only from the shop and office employees of the corporation but also from associates in the furniture trade in all parts of New England bore eloquent testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

About 250 employees of the firm at the East Cambridge furniture factory and the Boston office met the body at the entrance to Woodlawn Cemetery in Everett and escorted it to the grave in the family lot. The committal service was conducted by Dr. Chidley.

At the conclusion of the program at the Town Hall there will be a parade through the Italian colony, and in the evening, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, a concert will be given by the Gigliotti orchestra.

Winchester residents are cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Dr. Walton Hubbard, C.S.B., of Los Angeles, Cal. will deliver a free public lecture on Christian Science under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester on Friday, Oct. 23, at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall, Winchester to which all are cordially invited. o9-2t

WILL DISCUSS NEW SIGNS

Oct. 7, 1925

Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols,
Secretary Winchester Chamber of Commerce
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:

Signs (Beacons): Your letter of Oct. 5, stating that a unanimous vote has been passed by the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce that direction signs be considered in connection with the installation of any signal signs, and also that direction signs be painted on all present silent policemen now installed, has been received and brought to the Board's attention.

The chairman reported that he had already talked with members of the Chamber of Commerce, and that there is to be an informal meeting with the representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and members of the Board on Thursday, Oct. 8, to talk this matter over.

Yours truly,
George S. F. Bartlett,
Clerk of the Selectmen

Big Jim Fitzgerald, according to all reports, is showing his usual good game at tackle on the freshman football team at Tufts this fall. The first year men are reputed to have a very strong lineup, and have been giving the varsity all sorts of trouble in the early season workouts. "Fish" Ellis of Medford High fame is piloting the "frosh" outfit. Local sports followers will agree that he will have one slashing lineman behind whom to send his running plays.

MISS CAMILLA MOSES SURPRISED

Miss Camilla Moses, popular Latin teacher on the High School staff, who has resigned to accept a position at Abbott Academy, Andover, was pleasantly surprised by some of her Winchester friends on Thursday evening, Oct. 1.

The surprise, which took the form of a bridge party was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Hoey of Everell road. Miss Esther Brown being the hostess.

Bridge was enjoyed for about two hours, Miss Elizabeth Good making the high score, after which refreshments were served.

In a few, well-chosen words Miss Agnes Murphy, on behalf of the assembled guests, presented Miss Moses with an antique amber glass boudoir lamp with chintz shade.

Those present besides Miss Brown and Miss Moses were Mrs. Hoey and the Misses Ruth Nelson, Elizabeth Good, Gertrude Hayward, Clara Antin, Irene and Agnes Murphy.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Last Sunday an operator at the Winchester Telephone Exchange noticed that the light at Blanchard's coal yard was on, yet no answer from that place could be received. The police were notified and made a hurried trip to the yard, but could find no one about the premises. The light was finally traced to a grounded wire.

A Ford sedan, registered to Kimball & Earl Co. of Main street and operated by Walter E. Bickford of 20 Glenwood avenue, was stolen last Sunday evening from in front of the Methodist Church on Church street.

The Winchester Fire Department was called out at 11:55 Sunday night by a false alarm of fire from Box 37 at the corner of Harvard and Irving street.

Last Saturday evening shortly after 8 o'clock as Hubert Bernard of 7 Lewis road was driving his father's Reo sedan along Sheffield West the machine skidded and tipped over. The car was not badly damaged and no one was injured.

Frank Melly, Winchester's all-around star athlete of last season who went to Montpelier Academy in Vermont earlier in the fall, has left there and is now prepping at Stone School in Boston.

"Art" French's name is mentioned among those who are candidates for the freshman team at Harvard this fall. French was a real star while at Winchester High and Worcester Academy, and should make his mark at Cambridge. In addition to his prowess on the gridiron "Art" is a clever performer at track and field sports, having captained the varsity track team at Worcester a year ago.

Miss Florence Bunting has returned home from Asheville, N. C., where she has been staying the last few weeks at the Battery Park Hotel.

Mrs. William Cummings of Webster street and Miss Ethel Jewett of the Parkway leave tonight for New York where they will sail on Saturday for a two weeks' vacation in Cuba.

Painful Wedding Ceremony

In one of the New Hebrides islands in the Pacific, part of the wedding ceremony consists of relieving the bride of her two middle incisors by smashing them with a rock.

WINCHESTER WINS FIRST HOME GAME

Winchester High School sloshed and slid to its first football win of the season last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field when it defeated Saugus High, 12 to 0, and incidentally, despite the weather, showed its best football to date.

A fair sized crowd proved gluttons for punishment and saw the locals display a complete reversal of the sloppy playing which characterized its work against Stoneham on the previous Saturday. Coach Mansfield had evidently worked his charges hard and to good purpose during the week, and could the boys have had a half decent afternoon and a dry field, their win would have been much more impressive. As it was time alone prevented the scoring of two touchdowns in addition to those chalked up. The fumbling which so marred Winchester's chances at Stoneham was all but entirely missing last Saturday and under conditions which might well have made a certain amount permissible. The shift in the team's lineup seemed to work out well, "Nicky Fitz" showing good judgment in running things at quarterback while "Wop" Rolli did some very effective ball carrying at his natural halfback berth. The Winchester line clearly outplayed the Saugus forwards and made possible the superior work of the local backs.

The first quarter had a decided red tinge, the visitors starting off as if about to sweep everything before them. The locals kicked off to the Saugus 45-yard line and were gradually pushed back by their opponents running attack until they made a stand with their backs to the wall on their own 15-yard line. Saugus gained all of its ground by straight rushing with the exception of one forward pass which was completed for 10 yards. At the 15-yard mark Winchester bracked and took the ball on downs as the period ended.

With the opening of the new quarter Winchester's offense began to look up and some nice line bucking by Knowlton coupled with effective off-tackle slashes by Rolli and McCarthy took the ball right up the field to the Saugus 10-yard line. Wop Rolli especially ran wild during the advance and ripped off some consistently good gains. With the ball on the visitors' 10-yard stripe and second down "Heinie" Knowlton slicked off tackle for the score. Haley failed to kick the goal.

Following the touchdown Winchester kicked off and on the second attempt to advance the ball the locals recovered a Saugus fumble and rushed the leather to their opponents three yard line where they were prevented from scoring by the calling of time.

The third quarter opened in a drenching downpour of rain. Winchester kicked off and after two or three plays Amico recovered a Saugus fumble on their 48 yard line. Haley broke off tackle for 8 yards and Kendrick made 10 yards for a first down on the visitors' 30 yard line. First Kendrick and then Prue took the ball to another first down on the 15 yard line where Haley broke clear off tackle, being thrown about a foot from the goal line. Prue went over for the touchdown, but Haley failed in his try for goal. Winchester kicked off again and after a couple of visiting line bucks had netted about 5 yards Winchester was penalized 15 yards for illegal use of hands to its own 35 yard line. Here Saugus fumbled and Robinson recovered for Winchester. Haley made a foot and Prue failed to gain through center as the period ended.

As the final quarter opened Prue dropped back to punt with the ball on Winchester's 35 yard line. A poor pass got away from the fullback but he recovered the ball and raced 20 yards for a five yard advance. On the next down he punted to the Saugus 45 yard line where three line-bucks failed to give the visitors any yardage. Saugus punted to Winchester's 40 yard line where time was called to allow Knowlton, McCarthy and Fitzgerald to take the places of Kendrick, Prue and Rolli. Knowlton and Haley ripped through the line for a first down at mid-field where McCarthy got loose for 10 yards only to drop the soggy leather when tackled. On second down the visitors fumbled and Winchester recovered at the 40 yard line. McCarthy circled right end for 15 yards and Knowlton and Haley hit the line for 5 more. McCarthy then broke away for another 10 yards and a first down on the visitors 10 yard line. Time was getting short an dthe rain-soaked crowd was yelling for a score. Just about enough time remained for one play and when Haley dodged his way up to the goal line everyone figured the touchdown was made. It did look as though "Rough" got over but the referee ruled that he had been stopped a foot short of his objective and the timer's whistle put an end to the game at that point before the teams could line up. It was hard to distinguish any particular player for special praise which is a sure sign that the team is beginning to function as a unit. Then too after the first few minutes all the players on both teams looked pretty much alike out there while at times the rain was so heavy one couldn't see much of what was going on anyhow.

WINCHESTER GIRLS START RIGHT

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team won its first game of the season last Friday afternoon on Manchester Feld from Concord High, 4 to 0, scoring three of its goals in the second half of the battle.

During the opening quarter the locals' cause looked anything but bright, Concord taking the aggressive from the star and keeping the play almost entirely in Winchester's territory. During much of the second quarter the same held true, the girls from the historic town seeming much speedier than their Winchester opponents. Near the end of the period, however, Kathleen Cassidy who had been doing particularly well at her center halfback berth broke up a Concord rush and passed out to the left where the ball was taken by Wilhelmina Simmons and shot along to "Kay" Carlisle, Winchester's high scorer of a year ago. Carlisle broke away and passing both Concord fullbacks took a long shot at the ticks. The Concord goalie tried to stop the ball by falling in front of it but was unsuccessful, and the ice was broken. Time was called soon after.

The second half of the game saw Winchester going along much better and pressing their opponents throughout. Carlisle scored the second goal in the third quarter after a long rush up the field. The third tally came as the result of some pretty teaming. Dorothea McKenzie, a wee freshman who had showed a lot of speed at right wing took the ball near midfield and rushed it unaided to the Concord goal where she passed in to "Kay" Valleley who caged the ball. Valleley scored the fourth goal in the last quarter getting the ball from scrimmage. All the shots went cleanly through the Concord goal keeper who seemed to be the weak point of the visiting outfit.

For the most part Concord depended on individual effort to advance the ball, and they had a sweet little forward in Tompkins at left wing. Their halfbacks too were very effective in the first period in breaking up Winchester's running game. The locals looked good for their first game considering that more than half their team consisted of new players. Two of these newcomers, Dorothea McKenzie and Kathleen Cassidy were among the stars of the game, and should prove valuable members of the team with more experience. "Kay" Carlisle and Wilhelmina Simmons played their usual good games. The Winchester last line of defense had little opportunity to show its worth, but handled what did come its way in an effective manner. "Kay" Valleley with two goals to her credit got away to a nice start, and should fill the gap at center forward nicely.

STONEHAM WON AT HOCKEY

Stoneham High School girls' field hockey team won a close game from the Winchester girls Tuesday afternoon on Manchester Field 2—1.

There was little choice in the two teams, and the resulting contest was interesting throughout. All the scoring was done in the first half. "Kay" Carlisle, Winchester's left wing, caged the first goal in the opening quarter after Winchester had worked the ball up the field and into a scrimmage in front of the Stoneham sticks. Stoneham knotted the count in the same period when R. Hammill, its right inside, poked in a close shot from in front of the local goal.

H. Fudge won the game for the visitors in the second quarter when she scored from scrimmage after the visitors had rushed the ball up to Winchester's last line of denfense.

The third quarter saw the play very even, but toward the latter part of the game Winchester kept the ball in its opponents' territory pretty much all of the time. Just before the final whistle the Winchester forwards rushed the ball to within the shadow of the Stoneham goal several times but were unable to cage the sphere.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS AT WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The heavy rain of the last weekend and the fact that Bob Moffette had to be away from town, made it impossible for but one match to be run off in the Davis Cup Tennis tournament at the Winchester Boat Club. The only match of the semi-finals was between Hall Gamage and Ralph Purrington. The "dope" sheet was rather unexpectedly upset here. It was generally conceded that Hall Gamage as runner-up in last year's tournament had a very good right to be expected to carry away the singles cup this year. Gamage evidently was not playing up to standard, or at least he appeared not to be able to get into his "stride." On the other hand, it would not be fair to Purrington to say that he did not have competition from his opponent. He sure did, but Ralph played a fine, aggressive game, taking Hall right off his feet. The scores were a decided win for Ralph Purrington by 6—0 and 6—1. It is now up to Bob Moffette, Merrill Tucker and Ralph Purrington to settle the final ownership of the Wm. S. Davis Cup.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Our faults attract more attention than our virtues.

Nothing brings such quick returns as kindness, gentleness, cheerfulness and lending a helping hand.

If you think twice before you speak, you will be quiet fully 75 per cent of the time.

A stitch in time saves nine. Yes, but not unless you take the stitch.

If we were more careful of where we step, those who follow us would not stumble so often.

If you have a poor memory you can much improve it by lending small sums to your friends.

IS DANCING HEALTHFUL?

The State Department of Public Health answers Yes and No. The right kind of dancing is excellent exercise. In addition to this, it provides pleasant social companionship. The chief trouble is that the dance hall, lacking fresh air and with a crowd in addition, is a good breeding place for colds. Then, too, it is not unusual for young people to lose sleep through regular night after night attendance at the dance hall.

Now the State Department of Health does not wish to suggest that the dance hall be taboo. The Department is merely advising moderation. Young people should not spend every night at the dance hall and should not forget that there are other things of importance, such as educational entertainment and most of all the out-of-doors.

CAUTION THE CHILDREN

Last Friday's issue of the Star made mention of three accidents in which the rider of a bicycle figured prominently. Fortunately no one of them was attended by serious consequences; but a word of warning may not be amiss. Such mishaps seemingly are coming with alarming frequency, and it is safe to say that most of those involved therein are children; at least, insofar as the bicycle angle is concerned.

The highways of our town and particularly those which converge in the center are at times reasonably crowded with traffic, and he who would escape accident himself or being the means of inflicting trouble upon others must exercise a constant vigilance. He must keep his eyes and ears strictly on the job.

We noticed last Saturday noon an example of what leads to many of the accidents in which youthful people have a part. A boy was riding a bicycle along Church street out of the center at a time when things are by no means quiet. His gaze was fixed upon the ground and he was swerving from side to side as though alone upon the road. He missed running head on into a lady and little girl only because the former was exceptionally clear headed and quick to act. The little girl and lady might just as well have been a 10-ton truck. The boy would have been no more aware of its presence. He was totally oblivious to his surroundings. The results in the second case would very probably not have been pleasant as the driver likely could not have avoided striking the cyclist under the circumstances.

Many of the accidents in which youthful bicycle riders are involved are entirely the fault of the kiddies' heedlessness. We would not advocate depriving children of the pleasure and health-giving exercise which riding gives, but we do feel that parents should impress upon their offspring who ride wheels the necessity for exercising the greatest care when doing so upon the crowded streets of the town.

A bicycle belonging to George Philbrick of 10 Hillcrest Parkway was run over and smashed at the curbing in front of the Atlantic & Pacific store on Mt. Vernon street by a Reo speed wagon driven by Norman P. Poor of 40 Rosemont street, Dorchester. The accident occured on Tuesday.

Mr. Fred B. Cole of the Parkway was one of the ushers last Saturday at the Hooper-Drew wedding in Wayland.

Last Saturday night in response to a telephone call at police headquarters Sergt. Cassidy made a trip to Elmwood avenue where he took into custody a man on complaint of his family. The man was by no means in a peaceful frame of mind and resisted arrest to the utmost, leaving several marks of violence upon the Sergeant's person before being subdued. In the Woburn Court Monday morning the prisoner was found guilty of assaulting an officer and fined $50, an additional fine of $10 being imposed for drunkenness.

ROLAND HAYES
Colored Singer Coming Here Next Month

A SON OF SLAVES WHO SINGS TO KINGS

The following extract from a recent issue of the Literary Digest gives interesting information regarding Roland Hayes, the negro who has sung for royalty and earned $100,000 in one musical season. He is to appear before Winchester people soon, coming to our Town Hall on Nov. 13, under the auspices of the Winchester Unitarian Society and the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association.

The Digest says:

"No more standing room! No more standing room!"

Over and over, a man was calling out this warning. I could not see him, for I was in the thick of the crowd which jammed the lobby of Carnegie Hall, famous as the scene of New York's greatest musical events. We were there to hear a new and wonderful singer. During the past season thousands have flocked to other auditoriums, in other cities, to hear the same singer.

Don't imagine that his enormous audiences are drawn merely by curiosity. They do not go just to hear a "black man" sing. The best critics in the world have praised him with almost extravagant enthusiasm.

Hayes has the typical features of his race, and yet, when he talks, these features become somehow transformed by that spirit which is within him. He has great simplicity, quiet, and gentleness; a sincere modesty and an exquisite courtesy. Serious and thoughtful, he has none of the irresponsible gaiety we associate with his people.

He was born, thirty-eight years ago, at Curryville, Ga. In spite of its name, Curryville was not a town. It wasn't even a village.

"After the Civil War," Hayes told me, "several hundred acres in the northwestern part of the State were set aside for negroes who had been slaves in that section. Each family had its allotment of land and a primitive little cabin in which to live.

"There was no town. It was just country, and we were miles from a railroad.

"My mother," he said, with a note of deep feeling in his voice, "was a remarkable woman. She had neither education, nor money, nor advantages of any kind. But she had wisdom and great understanding. And she was very calm and sane."

The singer gave a moving description of that ex-slave mother, who, after the father had been crippled by a falling log; plowed or hoed for hours, and then returned to the house to cook and wash and iron. She was troubled by the lack of schooling for her children, and that finally prompted her to move to Chattanooga, Tenn., about 50 miles away. The singer continued:

"My mother had a plan all thought out. My younger brother Jesse, was to go to school all the time. But my elder brother Robert, and I were to take turns, I was to work the first year and support the family, while he went to school. Then he was to work a year, while I went to school. And so on.

"When I was 17 years old I met Arthur Calhoun, a young negro who had been studying music at Oberlin, and who had taken a year off to earn money to go on with his studies. He was teaching in Chattanooga; and in order to earn a little extra he gave entertainments in the church I attended.

"When a friend tried to persuade me to train my voice, I wouldn't take him seriously. When he talked to my mother about it he had an even more discouraging reception. I only laughed at the idea; but she resented it.

"Then, one night," Hayes said, in a low voice that thrilled with feeling, "I had a sudden and startling revelation, the first of three great spiritual experiences which have come to me. It was the opening of a closed door. And through that opened door I saw—dimly enough then, to be sure—yet I did see the first glimpse of the Purpose which is now my whole life.

"It happened in this way: Arthur Calhoun had told a white gentleman living at Chattanooga, about me; and this man had kindly suggested that I come to his house some evening and sing for him. When my friend and I arrived we stood out in the hall, waiting for some people, who happened to be there, to leave. Of course, being negroes, we were not asked to come in until the coast was clear," he said, with a little smile which was quite without bitterness.

"And when we did go in," he went on, "the lady of the house, and her daughters, immediately left the room. But after I had sung a little while they were good enough to come back, one by one.

"When I had finished singing, the gentleman asked me if I had heard any of the great musicians. Of course I hadn't. I didn't even know about them So he played some records on his gramaphone, and I listened to Caruso and Sembrich and Eames, and others of the world's famous singers.

"That night I was born again It was as if a bell had been struck, that rang in my heart. And it has never ceased to ring there.

After much pleading with his mother, the boy started into the world in search of an education, with his share of the family savings—fifty dollars—in his pocket. He went almost "broke" on the way by the ill-advised financing of 10 cent concerts in colored churches—he shouldering the expenses and giving the church half the profits. At length he managed by a seeming miracle to get into Fisk University, at Nashville, through which he worked his way for four years. After that he went to Louisville and worked as a waiter in the Pendennis Club, where his voice won him the additional job of entertaining at club dinners. In that way he attracted the interest of Henry H. Putnam, of Boston, who afterward assisted him to have his voice trained in that city.

Quite often, during our conversation, Hayes would keep his eyes closed while he was speaking. If you have heard one of his concerts, you know that he frequently does this while singing. It is as if he wanted to shut out all external influences to hear only some voice within himself, to see only some inner vision.

"When I reached London, it was the time of the native uprisings in the British possessions; and a man of my color was not very welcome in England. It was weeks—very long, hard weeks—before I could get a hearing. But on May 31, 1920, I gave the first of a series of many London recitals.

In a spirit of prophecy, the negro singer expressed the belief that in three years' time he would have reached the height of his work of helping his people to make their own special contribution to the history of human experience. He said to Miss Mullett:

"My people have been very shy about singing their crude little songs before white folks. They thought they would be laughed at—and they were. Their humble offering was only ridiculous. The best they had to give was not good enough.

"And so they came to despise their own heritage. They tried to copy white people, because it seemed that the white man's methods and standards must be the correct ones. They studied them and imitated them. Do you know why people, your people, tell me, as a man in California told me, that they get from my singing the same things which they get from the singing of white singers? And do you know why they get something else—something they do not understand?

"I believe I know. I am a negro; and we of my race have studied you; watched your reactions and tried to understand them; tried indeed to feel the same reactions! With this understanding, I am able to express, in my singing, what a white man expresses in his.

"But," he went on very gently, "you have not been interested to know what we are thinking and feeling. We are a closed book to you. And when I put into my singing some echo of that which belongs especially to my race, you hear it—but you don't understand it. To you it is something alien, a message you cannot interpret. But the truth is that the white people never allow themselves to come near enough to us to know us. They will not assimilate us as we have them."

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The first meeting of the fall season was held on Thursday evening, Oct. 1. This meeting was an unusually large one and a great deal of important business was transacted. All arrangements were completed for the numerous fall activities.

After the business meeting a social hour was held at which the more talented members contributed to the fun. Refreshments were served by sisters Mrs. Nellie Moffett, Mrs. Nora O'Melia, Mrs. Alice Daly, Miss Mary Martin and Miss Mary O'Melia. Miss Mabel Coty presided at the piano.

The social events of the fall will be ushered in by the whist party of the Sick and Visiting Committee under Chairman Mrs. Nora O'Melia. The proceeds of this party will go to swell the funds of the Sick Committee. As this is a worthy cause all members should make an earnest endeavor to attend and bring along their friends. Mrs. O'Melia and her committee are working exceedingly hard to put this affair over big and the co-operation of the members is needed to lighten the burden. The duties of the Sick Committee are numerous and a great deal of money is needed to carry on these duties so everyone should do their part and put it across. There will be some excellent prizes to select from as the committee already have about 50 prizes donated.

The State banquet will be held some time in November but as yet no definite date has been set.

Sister Annie Scott and Mr. Scott with Sister Elizabeth Powers and children are at Bayonne, N. J., visiting relatives for a few weeks.

Sister Mary Mawn of Hill street who has been on the sick list is slightly improved.

Miss Frances Ahern of Arlington has been appointed District Deputy of Santa Maria Court, C. D. of A., of Winchester.

Grand Regent Annie E. Vayo, Grand Regent Mary A. Rafferty of Stoneham and District Deputy Mrs. Mary Doherty of Stoneham attended special services at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston this week.

It is reported that Mrs. Robert Kingston of Reservoir street has leased the house at 26 Vine street and will occupy Nov. 1.

Superintendent Harry Dotten of the Water Department expects to make his home after Nov. 1, in the house on Reservoir street occupied until his death by his father, the former Superintendent William T. Dotten.

At 2.30 Thursday morning as Officer Cassidy was patrolling his beat on Everett avenue he noticed a light flashing in the cellar of William E. Clark's residence at No. 15. He aroused the inmates and investigated, finding that the flashes were caused by a light burning in a gas water heater.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Wadleigh School

At the Wadleigh School the student council is in progress of organization. Room and class officers were elected this week. The campaign for council officers is now going on arousing much interest among many of the boys and girls. Posters and slogans for favorite candidates are appearing in the halls.

Every Wadleigh pupil has contributed to the Junior Red Cross, making the school 100 per cent in contributions. Each boy and each girl is now reporting on his or her individual services to emphasize the motto of the organization—"I serve." Several activities are being planned for this organization.

The executive board of the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association met in the school Monday evening, Oct. 5, with every officer and Mr. Crowell, Chairman of the Program Committee present. The following committees were appointed:

Hospitality Committee—Mrs. Albert S. Capron, Chairman; Mrs. James R. Livingstone, Mrs. Daniel G. Higgins, Mrs. Albert K. Comins, Mrs. Waldo Bond, Mrs. Thomas R. Bateman.

Ways and Means Committee—Mr. James R. Livingstone, Chairman; Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, Mr. James H. Carr.

Program Committee—Mr. Arthur F. Crowell, Chairman; Mr. Alfred H. Morton, Mr. George A. Yeo, Mrs. Everett D. Chadwick.

Membership Committee—Mrs. John S. Newman, Chairman; Mrs. Frank Jones, Mr. Francis R. Mullin, Mr. Joseph Dolben.

It was voted to give the Membership Committee power to increase their number to twelve so that all the districts of the Town may be represented in their personnel.

Meeting of the Junior Red Cross at Noonan School

The first meeting of the Junior Red Cross Society of the Noonan School was held in the Assembly Hall, Thursday afternoon, Oct. 1. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Charles Dolan, Grade 6.
Vice President—Margaret Powers, Grade 4.
Secretary—Helen Sullivan, Grade 6.
Treasurer—Mary Pabst, Grade 5.

Plans for the coming year were discussed. A report was made that the Junior Red Cross membership was 100 per cent. The Treasurer was authorized to send to the Superintendent an application for seven subscriptions to the Junior Red Cross Magazine.

A sick committee consisting of Gladys Doucette, Marguerite Swanson and Regina Luongo has been appointed to visit any child in the building who is out with any sickness, except a contagious disease, help him to keep up in his studies and bring him cheer of various kinds.

Helen Sullivan, Secretary

Washington School

The first grade children are making booklets containing drawings of Dicky Dare and the four animals he met on the way to school.

In connection with their work in geography the fifth grade children are making booklets about rubber. In addition they have brought in for the bulletin board pieces of pure rubber, and pieces of the hard rubber from which combs are made.

The Junior Red Cross Society held its annual election of officers Monday, Oct. 5. Ballots were prepared in advance by the sixth grade children, and the balloting was done as much as possible as it is in the Town Hall. The children were very orderly and business-like in carrying it out. It constituted a lesson in civics. Fred Philbrick was elected president; Robert Farnham, vice president; Virginia French, secretary; and Dorothy Thompson, Nancy Snyder, Jason Baker to serve with the officers as an executive board.

DUTCH BULBS

THIS IS THE LAST YEAR YOU CAN BUY HOLLAND GROWN BULBS

Mystic School

On Thursday, Oct. 1, the fifth grade of the Mystic School gave a Harvest Home Program. The salute was led by one Boy Scout and three Girl Scouts bearing the Stars and Stripes. Marguerite Jones, Dawn Kelley, Harmon Hall and Albert Grosvenor wearing costumes gave "The Farmyard Song." This was followed by the play "The Lark and Her Young Ones" given by Sarah Claflin, Madeline Goddu, Edna Hanlon, Carl Rossetti, Robert Dotten, Leon Wright, John Rider, John Costello and David Kenerson. After the play a group of children sang "The Corn Harvest." The program ended by all the school singing "America, the Beautiful." Grace Cutter and Joan Dabney announced the program.

Lincoln School

The Lincoln Club held the first assembly of the year, Friday, Oct. 2, with the new officers presiding.

President—Frederick Oldenberg
Vice President—Dexter Mobbs
Secretary—Barbara Shaw

The President called the meeting to order at 2.30. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. After a short business meeting, an entertainment followed.

A delighted and interested audience listened to Miss Clair, a story teller from the New England Food and Dairy Council.

Her story, "A Surprise" illustrated with lantern slides, was entertaining and instructive. Grade 6 was in charge of the meeting.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Entries from Harry Good's stable were among the winners in the Jumping Class at the Brockton Fair last Saturday.

Miss Joan Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott of Arlington street was a bridesmaid at the Essetyn—Peckett wedding last Saturday at Claverack, N. Y. Miss Abbott and the bride were members of the class of 1922 at Vassar.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock a Ford touring car owned and operated by George W. Richardson of Cambridge street was in collision with a small Ford truck, the property of Oscar G. Peterson Bakery of Cambridge, at the corner of Bacon and Church streets. Both machine's were somewhat damaged and the driver of the truck complained of an injury to his right arm.

WINCHESTER PLAYS LEXINGTON MONDAY

Winchester High School's football team will entertain Lexington High on Manchester Field Columbus Day with the opening of festivities set for 2.30 p. m.

This should prove a real battle as on paper the teams appear to be very evenly watched. The locals will be out to avenge the defeats of the past two seasons at the hands of the minutemen and Coach Mansfield has been drilling his charges hard all week with a view to correcting the faults which have cropped out in the last three games.

Last Saturday's showing was exceptionally good in view of the wretched weather conditions, and given a good day Monday, Winchester should give the fans a line on its real ability.

Lexington always has a fast scrappy outfit which gives the best it has all the time. Last year's battle between the two teams was a thriller and Lexington's winning margin was just about the punch produced by one Mr. Gaffney, a sweet running back, who has gone out from the portals of high school sports.

We dont' want to make any predictions on Monday's game but we feel that the locals are about due to show some real offensive football. Defensively the team does rather well, and none of the backs against whom they have played have displayed any marked ability to gain through the local forwards. One thing which the boys must guard against Monday is the use of the forward pass. To date Winchester's backs and center have appeared woefully weak against the overhead game, and Lexington may be depended upon to capitalize this weakness should it crop out against them.

The Winchester team will probably take the field with McCauley at center, Walker and Harriman playing the guards, Cassidy and Halwartz at the tackles, and Capt. Robinson and O'Donnell on the ends. Fitzgerald will start calling signals and his starting backs will probably be "Heinie" Knowlton, "Wop" Rolli and McCarthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fioranti Errico are the parents of a daughter, Rosa, born Sept. 30, at their residence, 33 Loring avenue.

What's the matter with this man---can't he read?

When the signs are clear, why hesitate. Keep to the right and be safe.

Enough people who don't save money know they ought to.

For one thing, it's human nature to put things off.

They expect to start SOON.

To all such we say:—START NOW. Now is the only time there is in the whole universe. Yesterday was now then, and tomorrow will be now when it comes.

But RIGHT NOW you CAN start.

First Military Execution in U. S.

A conspiracy of the British officers and loyalists of New York was made in 1776 to end the Revolutionary war by the murder or capture of its leaders, and the seizure or destruction of its supplies. Washington was to be taken alive and delivered to Sir William Howe. Two guards were bribed, but a third pretended to join the plot and exposed it instead. One of the treacherous guards was named Thomas Hickey. He was hanged June 27, 1776, the first military execution in the American army.

NORTH END IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION HELD WARM SESSION

About 200 members of the North End Improvement Association were present at the meeting held in the Noonan School Hall Wednesday evening. President Raymond Fenton presided with Mrs. Frances Conlon acting as secretary.

Following the reports of several outstanding committees, the school committee was taken rather severely to task for its attitude in the matter of allowing the use of the various school halls for community purposes. Several speakers felt that too much red tape is employed in the matter of assigning the halls, and that discrimination in the matter of the $4 has been shown.

Tax Collector Nichols explained in detail the matter of the lack of itemized tax bills, stating that his was the entire responsibility, and that new bills containing full information are being mailed to the tax payers at his expense. He also explained that but seven tax bills for 1924 remain outstanding which is an exceptionally good showing.

Mr. John Cassidy, speaking for the assessors, explained the necessity for increased valuations. He cited some interesting figures. Last year the O. C. Sanborn property was assessed for $112,000, but this year the new owner refused to accept these figures stating that $60,000 was $5000 more than he had paid for the estate. The valuations in the north end of Winchester have been raised $250,000, $50,000 of that figure being absorbed by Boggs & Cobb. The Wyman School lot sold for 18 cents a foot and is assessed for 35 cents. Four lots on Yale street were sold at auction from 14 cents to 18 cents a foot and are assessed for 25 cents. Several other instances of changes of valuations with figures were given and Mr. Cassidy spoke highly of the work of his colleagues, Messrs. Enman and Winn.

The last matter to come before the meeting was the going on record of the association as opposing the proposed new paint shop on Hemingway street.

WINCHESTER GIRLS AT NEEDHAM TODAY

Winchester High's field hockey team will hop over to Needham this afternoon to cross sticks with the girls of that school in a game scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Not much is known of Needham's strength, but Coach Wheeler will take no chances, and will start her strongest lineup. The girls are still smarting under the unexpected defeat at the hands of Stoneham last Tuesday and will go out from the opening whistle to bring home a win this afternoon.

The probable starting lineup will find the forward line comprising "Kay" Carlisle at left wing, Wilhelmina Simmons at left inside, "Kay" Valleley at center forward, Christine Higgins at right inside, and Dorothea Mackenzie at right wing. The halfbacks will be played by Captain Rollo at left half, "Kay" Shultis or Florence Watters at right, and "Kay" Cassidy at center. "Dot" Bond will play left fullback with Cecile de Coriolis at right. "Gert" Bond will be at goal.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Many Winchester residents will learn with regret of the death in West Medford of Peter J. Kelley, widely known as a skilled farmer, and for many years superintendent of the Peter C. and Shephard Brooks farm. He was well known in both K. of C. and A. O. H. circles, having held high office in both organizations. Funeral services were held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in St. Raphael's Church, West Medford, of which he had been parish collector and an usher for many years. Besides his wife Mr. Kelley is survived by his mother in Ireland, a son, two daughters, four brothers, and six sisters.

Reports from the football camp at Williams College state that Clinton Mason of this town has been promoted to the varsity squad. Mason played a nice end on Winchester's Mystic League championship outfit of three years ago. He was a first string performer at end on the William "frosh," and last year, while ineligible for the varsity, played a strong game with the scrubs. Barring injury he should make a strong bid for a regular berth this fall.

Mrs. D. M. Belcher of this town, representing the Winchester Country Club, finished in a tie for fifth place in the two-day Women's Tournament which ended yesterday at the Springfield Country Club links. Mrs. Belcher's figures were 94, 3, 91, 81—172.

President George F. Arnold and Vice President Charles E. Kendall of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce were guests on last Tuesday evening of the Arlington Board of Trade in G. A. R. Hall, the meeting being termed "Arlington Night." Other guests included Professor Arthur W. Pierce of Dean Academy, Nixon Waterman, Hon. Wellington Wells, president of the State Senate, and W. R. S. Eaton, president, and Dr. Clarence Shannon, secretary of the Lexington Board of Trade.

Purr-rr-rr

Unlike Dickens, Thackeray did not delight in placing among the men and women of his novels unforgettable little portraits of their dogs and cats, parrots or canaries. Nor do we think of Thackeray as having that personal fondness for domestic creatures which was characteristic of Dickens, whose own dogs no less than his favorite raven, Grip, figure largely in his letters. But Thackeray's daughter, Lady Ritchie, gives in her recently published letters several delightful little glimpses of her own and her friends' pets; and in one brief and charming note she even ventures to interpret a few words from Felinese into English. She writes to her friend, Mrs. Gerald Ritchie:

"Solomon (the cat) has been purring messages, tell Peggy. He proposes to write, but says it is superfluous to say how much he misses her, and that he is purrfectly lost without her to stroke his back. He has tried my lap, but he doesn't much like it; he finds it too purrpendicular, and he sends his love purr me."—Youth's Companion.

Night and Day Colors.

Objects do not have the same color at night as in the day. It is the visual apparatus of the eye which enables us to distinguish color, and since we are unable to see after dark, we are unable to distinguish color. The color of objects, with the exception of fluorescent bodies, is not due to any power possessed by the objects of creating the colors exhibited, but merely to the fact that they are able to absorb some of the rays of white light of the sun, while the rest are reflected or scattered in all directions.

Democratic Common Ground.

Cambridge Prospect union, for 36 years the place of evening instruction where poor men's sons met on common ground with sons of the idle rich, in making up work required to enter or continue at Harvard, is the pioneer institution of evening learning in this country. From it most other agencies now giving evening classes took their cue. Recently, in order to compete and conform with these other agencies, it has had to reorganize its own activities.

AMOY: ONCE WORLD'S GREATEST TEA PORT

Amoy, China, one of the ports at which the presence of warships has been requested to protect foreigners, has a place in the history of the American Revolution, although few Americans know it, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. It was from Amoy, then the world's premier tea port, that the ship sailed in 1773 which figured some months later in the famous Boston Tea Party.

Amoy was one of the earliest Chinese cities to have contacts with the West. The Portuguese established themselves there in 1641 but were expelled before long. The British then began operations in Amoy and continued trading through that port exclusively until 1730 when they were ordered to change to Canton. For a long time Amoy was the world's leading port in tea exportation, but for a century this trade has been declining.

Loss of Formosa Great Blow

The greatest blow to Amoy trade came in 1804 when Formosa, just off the Chinese coast from Amoy, was taken from China by Japan. Formosan tea and other products had reached the world through Amoy. Since Japan took over the big island its own ports have been developed and trade worth millions of dollars annually has been lost to Amoy.

Amoy is still a big city, however, with a population of about 150,000. And nothing can take from it the distinction of having one of the best harbors on the Pacific. Like Hongkong, the town is situated on an island—Amoy Island which has a circumference of 35 miles. The nearest peninsula of the mainland is three miles away. The arms of the island and the mainland enclose a large bay whose mountainous shores and islets make this body of water one of the picturesque spots of the Chinese coast. Outside Amoy Island a string of islands, stretching north and south, form an excellent natural breakwater which adds to the value of Amoy's great, deep harbor.

The native city of Amoy has two parts, the old and new cities, divided by a low range of hills topped by old battlements. The site of both is itself the steep slope of a larger hill which rises to barren, boulder-capped summits behind the town. The streets are narrow, steep affairs in which no vehicles but sedan chairs can be used. Even the grandiloquently named Chuanchow Highway is little more than a footpath over which an occasional donkey picks his way.

Has Dubious World's Record

Amoy is popularly accorded a world's record, but it is not one to be shouted about by proud citizens. Many travelers who have seen the unspeakable filth and smelt the indescribable odors of certain Oriental centers assert that in dirtiness and in sanitary conditions Amoy is the Abou ben Adhem of cities. Because of this situation Amoy is frequently visited by cholera and plague.

There is a great gulf in the matter of conditions—and half a mile of salt water—between Amoy and its foreign settlement. This is on Ko-longsu, a small island which lies between Amoy and the mainland. With its consulates and residences built among shady groves, its schools, hospital, churches, and hotels, and above all with its sanitation along western lines, this little oasis is known as "the Paradise of South China."

Open Door for Emigrants

Amoy is a great gateway for coolie emigration, especially to Singapore and the East Indies. About 75,000 natives embark at Amoy each year, and only a small part of this number returns. Nearly every family in Amoy has one or more members abroad, and since the decline of the port's trade, economic disaster is staved off largely by the remittances sent home by these expatriates. This tribute to Amoy amounts to more than $12,000,000 annually.

The largest and deepest draft vessels in the world can be accommodated easily in Amoy's commodious harbor. Because of its excellent harbor facilities, Amoy was selected by the Chinese Government in 1908 as the port at which to receive and fete a section of the United States fleet then on its famous trip around the world.

FINLAND A BILINGUAL LAND

Both Swedish and Finnish Tongues Used, the Latter Being in Ascendant.

To the average traveler the matter of language is apt to be the most vital aspect of any foreign country. Trilingual Switzerland is familiar even to the impoverished continental visitor, but bilingual Finland may be more of a surprise. Nor will the fact that the choice of languages is confined to Swedish and Finnish make the trip any easier.

Formerly the Swedish tongue was in the ascendant among the cultivated classes, having been the vehicle of expression of the famous poet, Runeberg. Now, however, the pendulum is swinging the other way, and you will find even Swedish people adopting Finnish names.

Of course, all educated persons speak both languages interchangeably, even at the family dinner table. In the rural districts, however, it is different. Groups of Swedish peasants in the south and west parts of the country and in the Aaland islands speak only their native tongue, and the rest of the peasants confine themselves to Finnish.

The writers who used Swedish were the first ones who extolled Finland as a nation. Runeberg was followed by Topelius, another poet and story writer, a particular favorite with children, and Fredrik Cygnaeus devoted himself to history. This activity met with a response from literary men who preferred Finnish, so that now equal bodies of characteristically Finnish work have sprung up in both languages.—Living Age.

First U. S. Army Uniforms.

At the beginning of the American Revolution each regiment provided its own uniforms. As these were discarded the soldiers wore any clothes that were available. Such uniforms as were worn were English in design, substituting blue for scarlet coats. At the close of the war uniforms were procured for the few troops retained in service. They resembled the French uniforms of the day, the infantry wearing blue faced with white, and the artillery blue faced with red. Later cavalry was added, the uniforms being green faced first with white, later with black.

No. 11060
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
LAND COURT

To John Swymer and John F. Cassidy of Winchester, Frank C. Nichols and Mrs. Sarah Murroe, of Woburn, and Frederick E. Richardson and Frederick W. Richardson, Administrator, of Burlington, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth; Joseph G. Richardson, of Lawrence, in the County of Essex and said Commonwealth; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Harriet M. Stratton, of said Winchester, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the biuldings thereon, situate in said Winchester, bounded and described as follows:

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

PROTECTING OUR CUSTOMERS

Planning ahead, storing coal and other materials against the day when a strike may occur and a fuel shortage result—that is the daily duty of the gas man. Gas service must not fail, not if human hands can prevent it, and fuel reserves must be sufficient not only to take care of present needs but unforseen demands of the future. If you could see the record of the gas industry's coal purchases prior to the happenings of each coal mining emergency, you would understand our methods of protecting you in the time of trouble. Uppermost in our minds is the desire to render an uninterrupted service, no matter what conditions may be.

Price fluctuations, uncertainty of delivery and other worries of the coal user are but memories to the man who casts his fuel burden on his gas company.

New England's Neighborhood Toll Service

Simple as A B C

If you don't know the number ask your local information operator

Nowadays in New England, calling a distant telephone is as simple as calling a telephone across the street.

"Neighborhood Toll Service," in every detail, follows the familiar routine of a local call.

Signal your own operator.

Give her the number you want.

Hold the line for a completed connection or a report.

This is the fastest, simplest form of toll service known. Yet along both the highways and byways of speech, the miles must still be dealt with by men and women, and machines. You must not expect quite the speed of local calls.

With a few exceptions, we do not undertake at present to give this service to points beyond our own territory.

We do give it between more than a million telephones in five states. It is thoroughly practical, else it would not be offered.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

To the Editor of Star:

I have been scrutinizing some of the tax bills that were delivered at the various domiciles so promptly on the first day of October, 1925, through the courtesy of our enterprising new Tax Collector and Assessors, who received an excellent increase in their salaries last spring to ride in an automobile and look over the fences and hedges and inform the inhabitants by their new methods of bookkeeping which undoubtedly the great Demosthenes or Cicero would be unable to comprehend if they were with us at the present time.

No Mr. Editor, if you scrutinize your tax bill, you will be unable to ascertain what parcel of property on your premises is the most valuable, the dog house, hen house, cow-barn or dwelling house; and when we consider that the two departments, namely Assessors and Tax Collector, cost the taxpayers more than $10,000 a year, to maintain, it seems to me that their new method of bookkeeping is preposterous.

I for one, believe in constructive criticism, and I trust that some folks will reply to this communication in the next issue of the Star and enlighten the taxpayers on this new method of bookkeeping.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Please reserve the evening of Friday, Dec. 4, when a play will be presented by the Dramatic Committee. There will be dancing after the performance.

BALLADE OF A BALL FAN

When it appears to you that life
Has lost its glitter, glint and sheen;
When your reward for toil and strife
Seems but a sadly aching "bean";
When in the fabled soup tureen
You gurgle, gasp, gulp, growl and grunt;—
In fact, when feeling far from keen,
Go, watch the Home Team do a "stunt."

When jinxes everywhere are rife
And "get your goat," crossways and 'tween;
When gaunt Miss Fortune is your wife
(You're wedded to hard luck, I mean);
When premonitions scare you green
And make you boot each throw or bunt;—
'Tis then you need a change of scene;
Go, watch the Home Team do a "stunt."

When duty calls with drum and fife,
And yet, the urge of Seventeen
Cuts through your musings like a knife,
Drop Business, "bo,"—come clean! Come clean!
Go where you know that you can glean
The thrill that was your youthful wont,
As on the "pill" you used to lean;—
Go, watch the Home Team do a "stunt."

Envoy:

Pal, life may yet be all serene,
Among the "bleachers," well in front,
Or safe behind the catcher's screen—
Go, watch the Home Team do a "stunt."

The Letter Was Mailed.

Mistaking a fire box for a mail box, a New York man laid his letter on top and pulled the handle. Four engine companies, two fire trucks, a water tower, two battalion chiefs and a deputy chief arrived in great excitement. A fireman mailed the letter in a nearby mail box.

Not When but Where.

"LIGHTNIN'" NEXT WEEK AT AUDITORIUM

"Lightnin'," the greatest play ever written in the history of the theatre, has at last been released for stock presentation, and by the payment of an enormous royalty, the Malden Players have been privileged to produce it, for the first time by any group of resident players, next week at the Malden Auditorium.

"Lightnin'" was originally produced by John Golden. It destroyed all records by running for three years and one day on Broadway; then ran for two solid years in Chicago, and one year in Boston.

"Lightnin'" has trouped the length and breadth of the United States for seven years. Its popularity is tremendous. There has never been a play like it and it is safe to say there never will be.

The action of the play pivots about the whimsicalities and drolleries of Bill Jones, a bibulous old fraud, nicknamed "Lightnin'" because he never moves fast. He is a Civil War veteran, tippler, champion liar of the county, shiftless, ne'er do well, but philosopher and true friend. There has been no more lovable character in the theatre since the days of Joseph Jefferson and Denman Thompson, and none better played.

To play this important role, Manager Edmund Hayden of the Players, has engaged the noted actor, J. Hammond Daly to appear as guest-star with the Malden Players.

Seats for next week are now on sale and as the demand for this attraction is unusually large, patrons are advised to order in advance.

As usual there will be performances every evening. There will be a special matinee on the holiday (Monday, Columbus Day) and every other afternoon with the exception of Friday.

MEN'S CLUB OPENS SEASON

The Men's Club of the Unitarian Church opened its season last Friday with a ladies' night. The large gathering looked forward with keen appetite to the dinner which "Bill" Wood and his associates on the committee had prepared, but it took generous appetites to cope with a menu consisting of roast beef, baked potato, string beans, lemon sherbet, hot rolls, baked apple dumpling, and coffee.

After the dinner Mrs. Bradley and Miss Thompson, the soprano and contralto respectively of the church quartette, rendered several beautiful selections accompanied by Mr. Charles P. Scott, the regular church organist. Following them, Mr. C. C. Gorst gave an hour's talk on the birds of New England and their songs. Mr. Gorst has devoted his life to the study of birds, and his ability to imitate their songs was almost beyond comprehension. It was with genuine regret that the audience listened to his closing number, the beautiful song of the thrush at eve.

There was an hour of general dancing following the lecture.

The next meeting of the Men's Club will be on Friday, Nov. 6. The speaker will be Dr. William F. Boos, the eminent specialist on poisoning. He will relate his experiences as an expert witness in many famous murder trials.

Aside from these activities, the principal present aim of the club is to assure the success of the concert to be given by Roland Hayes, the great negro tenor, in the Town hall, Nov. 13. The Men's Club is co-operating with the Pop Concert Committee in this matter, and it is the belief of both groups that a crowded house will mark this great musical event. The tickets are in the hands of Dr. Mary T. Maynard at 80 Church street.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

The first meeting of the Florence Crittenton Winchester Circle will be held on Thursday, Oct. 15, in the ladies' parlor of the Unitarian Church at 2:30 p. m. The Circle has decided to change its meetings to the third Thursday of each month rather than the second Thursday as heretofore.

The speaker for this meeting is an exceptionally able one—Dr. Henry H. Crane, pastor of the Methodist Church of Malden. All members of the Circle are urged to attend and hear this splendid speaker.

An unusually fine program for the coming season has been arranged for the Winchester Circle. At present it stands as follows:

Oct. 15—Speaker, Dr. Henry H. Crane.
Nov. 17 and 18—Bazaar.
Nov. 19—Sewing Meeting.
Dec. 17—Home Meeting. Speaker, Dr. Foster S. Kellogg, Chairman of Medical Staff of the Florence Crittenton Home.
Jan. 21—Sewing Meeting.
Feb. 18—Home Meeting. Speakers, Mrs. T. Grafton Abvott, Former President of Winchester Circle and Miss Mary C. Hyde, Superintendent of Florence Crittenton Home.
March 18—Sewing Meeting.
April 15—Home Meeting. Speaker, Dr. Alfred Stearns, Principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.
May 20—Annual Meeting. Speaker, Miss Susan Ginn, Director Bureau of Vocational Guidance.

The names of the homes to be opened for these meetings will be announced later.

Buffalo East of Mississippi.

The last buffalo killed east of the Mississippi river as shot in 1832. The number of buffalo in the West in the early '50s was estimated roughly at from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000, says the Detroit News. They ranged from Mexico north to the Arctic circle, but their natural home was on the plains between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains and not farther south than the Rio Grande. Outside the limits of their habitat the few small herds that existed were stragglers. Daniel Boone once found a herd in Kentucky that numbered 1,000 and it was a large one for that territory.

A LETTER FROM HONGKONG

Lieut. A. T. Emerson Describes Oriental Conditions

The following letter from Lieut. Arthur T. Emerson, U. S. N., attached to the U. S. S. Asheville, describes interesting conditions in the city of Hongkong and surrounding places in China. He writes to his mother, Mrs. T. H. Emerson of Crescent road, as follows:

U. S. S. Asheville
Honkong
July 24

Dear Mother:

We have been doing a lot of jumping around. We all left Manila on the Chaumont on July 12, and arrived here the morning of the 14th. Had a fine trip up and good weather, although a typhoon chased us all the way. On account of the general labor strike here, I was worried, but succeeded in getting the only room in the Hongkong Hotel, the best one here, and board.

Only paying 200 Kongkong dollars a month for everything. A dollar here only equals 58 cents U. S. money, or thereabouts, depending on the exchange, which fluctuates.

The Asheville was up at Canton, about 70 miles up the river from here, so I went up on the gunboat Helena on the 20th. The strike is on up there, and they have been fighting for a month now, so no steamers were running, and all the white people up there were in a state of siege on the Shameen, which is the European quarter, an island separated from the Chinese city by a narrow canal. It took us two days to get up there on the Helena, as she is very old and slow, and there are two shallow places in the river that we had to wait for high tide before we could cross.

As soon as we got up I moved over here, and the next day we came on back here. I like it very much. She is a big- comfortable gunboat, built for tropical work, and we have 12 officers on board, which makes the work easy for all of us; much more room, bigger crew, and more comforts than a destroyer, though she's not long.

On Monday we are shoving off for a short trip to Hainan, Pak-hoi, and Haiphong, the latter in French Indo-China, to stop in at the small places and see what has happened to the missionaries down there, and bring them out if necessary. Probably won't be gone in all longer than a week.

Hongkong is practically normal again now, though for a while none of the Chinese would work, which tied everything up. Canton has been a center of disturbance for a long time, partly Bolshevik, and partly a Chinese anti-foreign movement, headed by a party called the Cantonese, who had for six months been fighting the Yunnanese army. On June 23, the Cantonese succeeded in capturing Canton, killed most of the Yunnanese troops with the most barbarous tortures, and declared an absolute boycott of all foreigners, who barricaded themselves on the Shameen. Due to the presence of several British and French gunboats and the Asheville, no attack was made on the Shameen, but all the servants, clerks, workmen, etc. walked out. This strike spread to Hongkong, but of course the British here would not stand for any nonsense or rioting. Many of the Chinese from here went to Canton, where they were promptly drafted into the army, which was not exactly what they were looking for. When they tried to come back the Cantonese wouldn't let them, and those that succeeded were told by the British that they would have to work for much less pay than they got before, so all of them are a pretty sorry, hungry, and disgusted lot. In Canton, however, things are not mending so fast, and it will probably be a long time before things get back to normal, if they ever do. There are six or eight foreign gunboats up there all the time, and a few troops besides the civilians who all stand guard duty, and commerce is entirely at a standstill, except for some local trade by the Chinese.

It certainly is picturesque up there, and rather smelly, too. Big and little junks, sampans of every description. The big junks carry old muzzle-loading cannon on them, for there are still pirates in the lower river, who only last winter captured a British steamer with a lot of silver on board. Then there are passenger junks, which look like a couple of rows of deck pigeon holes, each little coop about four feet high, in which the passengers squat, crammed in like sardines, and are towed around the river by small tugboats. Then of course the sampans, small open boats from 15 to 30 feet long, in which the whole family, men, women, kids and dogs all live, are born, and die without any other home. There was one alongside today with one man, three women, and four children, one of whom was carrying a tiny baby strapped on her back, besides a dog. They have an arched screen over one end, do their cooking in an open earthenware brazier, and the women do all the work, while the man fishes.

I had the duty today, and Trude and the kids were off to dinner. I had Arsum (Chinese for Arthur) up on deck, when the baby in this particular sampan started to cry. Arsum was perched up on top of the capstan, and he said "Ooh, Daddy, China side baby all time cly cly, bimeby mammy spink." He talks pidgin English all the time, and it's a scream to listen to him. Strong as an ox and on the go every minute. After dinner they stayed a little while for the movies, and he nearly went wild at the comedy. It was the first time he had ever seen any movies and he just laughed and howled until all the crew were laughing at him.

We have a nice big room with a big balcony about 10 by 20 feet, and Trude has a fine amah, or nurse, who washes, sews, mends all the kids clothes and hers, and looks out for Arsum when he will let her, which isn't often, as he insists on having one of us with him all the time. It's not quite as nice for the kids as Cavite where they could run all over the house and grounds, but it's cooler here, and there is quite a crowd of wives, mostly from the Helena, staying there so I think Trude will like it very much.

Well, I think I'll quit this now, as it's getting late, and I'm rather tired, so goodnight.

Love to you both from all of us.
Arthur

Origin of Name Gotham.

"Gotham" was the name of a town in Nottinghamshire, England, the inhabitants of which, about 1200, were ridiculed for simplicity and shortsightedness, and were later termed in derision "the wise men of Gotham." Washington Irving, in the Salmagundi papers, applies the name "Gotham" to New York, satirizing the short-sightedness of many of the inhabitants.

Blood Stain Lasts Ages.

How long will a blood stain last? A British scientist has discovered the fossil remains of a mammoth buried untold ages ago. The sand under the fossil was stained black and was cemented together with iron, forming a dark patch which did not extend far beyond the limits of the bone. He suggests that the stain was due to iron in blood which oozed out of the meat and bone of the defunct mammoth.

Washington Stayed at Home.

Washington was never outside the confines of this country except when he accompanied to the West Indies his half-brother, Lawrence, from whom, later, he inherited Mt. Vernon.

SIDEWALK FLAGS

Chamber of Commerce Settles Difficulty For Merchants

At a meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night it was reported that the matter of the "sidewalk flags" has been satisfactorily adjusted. It appears that merchants were solicited during the summer to enter into an agreement to place flags on their sidewalks, the solicitor contracting to furnish the flags and drill the holes for their erection. The scheme met with some opposition through the question of liability, the Town refusing to sanction the flags, thus leaving the owners of the buildings liable for any damage or injury caused by placing them on the sidewalks. Some of the merchants complained that the agreement was not carried out by the solicitor and that flags ordered were not installed. Through the efforts of the Chamber this grievance has been remedied.

President George F. Arnold reported that the efforts of the Chamber to have the school sites recently cleared of buildings cleaned up were meeting with success, and that the work of cleaning up these unsightly dumps is progressing as promised.

A resolution was drafted to be sent to the Board of Selectmen upon the following vote:

"It is a unanimous vote of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce that direction signs be considered in connection with the installation of any signal signs; that direction signs be painted on all silent policemen now installed."

The Chamber is arranging for a big open meeting in the Town Hall to be held Friday evening, Oct. 30, at which time Mr. Shaw of the Telephone Company will speak to the citizens upon the new rates.

THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

When swimmers try to cross the English Channel they have more than 20 miles of sea water, the width of the channel at its narrowest point, to negotiate, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Just to make the event a sporting one Father Neptune has assembled in the water wedge that separates England and the continent a continuous succession of tidal streams, cross currents, double tides, and vortexes or whirlpools. Added to these handicaps are gales in the winter and spring, while fog and thick weather are common at all seasons.

England and France have an equal share in ruling the waves of what the English-speaking world calls the English Channel and the French call "La Manche" (the sleeve). To judge from the generally agitated character of its surface the pact is not a peaceful one. Geography, not statecraft, is the cause of this apparent discord.

Sickle-Shaped Bays

Along the south shore of England, for the Channel is generally considered as extending from the Sicilly Islands or Lands End to the Strait of Dover, is a succession of wide sickle-shaped bays, the shores of which run north and south, or nearly so, at their western sides, turning eastward somewhat abruptly at their heads. On the French side the arrangement is reversed. The north and south shores are on the eastern sides of the bays, generally speaking, while the gentler trend is to the west.

These sickle-shaped bays, at irregular angles, twist and retard the normal tides and currents like baffles in a steam boiler flue. Tides coming from the Atlantic are found to be progressively slower at each headland until Portland Bill, opposite Cherbourg, is reached. From this point to Selsey Bill, opposite Havre, there are double tides, corresponding to approximately the time of low water in regular tidal progression. The result is two periods of low water in this region, separated by a slight rise known as "guider."

To complicate matters even more the double tide farther east corresponds more nearly with high tide, giving the effect of a prolonged high tide in most places. Southampton, sheltered behind the Isle of Wight, has two periods of high tide.

Battleground of Tides

It is in the vicinity of the Strait of Dover, however, that Neptune puts forth his best efforts. To the tidal maelstrom of the Channel from the Atlantic is added the tidal stream from the North Sea. Although the time of their coming together and departing corresponds roughly, the area of meeting and separation is never slack. Between Beachy Head and North Foreland, and the mouth of the Somme River and Dunkirk, a third stream is formed by the two tidal currents, known as the intermediate stream, which, running first with the channel stream and then with the North Sea stream, changes its direction throughout its length almost simultaneously, a sort of a water shuttle or friction surface between two conflicting sea rivers, never still.

The winds, likewise, have long had a powerful effect on the tidal streams and currents in this region, the latter being in the English Channel simply movements of the surface water set up by gales, some far distant. Often, under the influence of westerly winds from the Bay of Biscay, a new current is set up across the entrance of the channel, known as Rennell's current. Most of the time, however there is a slow and almost continuous current from west to east, perhaps a branch of the Gulf Stream through the North Sea.

The latter part of summer is usually chosen by swimmers as the best time to make the attempt to swim the Channel because the tides are not so strong as during the spring and early summer and the temperature of the water is higher.

Its tides and gales have long given the English Channel a bad name, even among boat passengers. Many who have escaped the mal de mer germ on the open sea succumb on the 22-mile run between Dover and Calais, or the 26-mile run from Folkestone to Boulogne, the shortest routes between England and the Continent. In England it is a custom that amounts almost to an obligation first to inquire of all voyagers arriving from the Continent if they have had a pleasant crossing.

Tattooing for Safety.

Bedouin women, of the Arabian desert, tattoo themselves with figures of animals and stars to keep the evil spirits away. In Persia, women were formerly tattooed, believing this would insure happiness and attract the opposite sex. Tattooing was forbidden the Jews in Bible times. Tradition tells us that the Gloachi, the alleged ancestors of the Annamites, were fishermen, and were constantly in danger from marine animals and sea monsters. To prevent disaster from the genii of the waters, the king of Annam directed his subjects to tattoo their bodies with images of sea monsters—afterward, with dragons and crocodiles.

Charcoal.

It has been found that charcoal, when in what is known as the "active" condition, in which it absorbs certain gases, and when cooled to about the temperature of liquid air, has an even greater attraction for all gases except helium and hydrogen. If the impure helium is passed over such chilled charcoal, the oxygen and nitrogen of the air are caught and held by the charcoal, while helium in a very pure state may be recovered.

Theory of Earthquakes

Some of the ancients believed that earthquakes were caused by subterraneous clouds bursting into lightning.

Miss Brenda Bond signed a contract last Saturday to play the leading woman part in a new motion picture with Johnny Hines. This will be a First National Picture and the name will probably be "Rainbow Riley." Miss Bond left the first of this week for Delaware Water Gap, Pa., where the beautiful, rugged, mountainous scenery will be used for the outdoor location work. She will be occupied about a month on outdoor work, and will then have some studio work in New York.

Miss Katherine Fitch of this town, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. H. Fitch of Oxford street, was last week elected to membership in the exclusive Junior League of Boston.

The Winchester Fire Department was called out at 8:03 Monday evening by an alarm from Box 41 for a fire at the residence of Mr. John Blunt on Main street. The blaze was caused by an explosion which occurred as Mr. Blunt was attempting to solder an empty gasoline tank. Mr. Blunt was knocked several feet by the force of the explosion.

Mr. Hiram Folsom, widely known resident of Winchester's Home For Aged People, was painfully injured on Tuesday when he fell over a bicycle which had been left lying across the sidewalk in front of the plumbing and heating establishment of the J. A. Laraway Company. Mr. Folsom, whose eyesight is somewhat dim, was unable to see the machine and received a bad fall being cut and bruised about the head and face. Mr. Laraway rendered first aid in his office and later took Mr. Folsom to the Home where he was attended by the nurse in charge. He was able to be about on Wednesday but reported himself as somewhat shaken up by his experience.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Simonds and family, formerly of Bruce road, have moved into their new home on Orient street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stidstone expect to occupy their new home on Lawson road next week.

The Board of Selectmen have granted a common victualer's license to John S. Brophy of 33 Cross street.

The Winchester Fire Department answered a still alarm at 12.05 Wednesday noon for a brush fire on Brookside road.

BOAT CLUB PADDLERS ENJOY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

At a smoker held at the Winchester Boat Club last Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 the W. B. C. paddlers were formally presented, individually, with a handsome cup donated by the City of Boston and won by them at the New England Amateur Rowing Association meet held on the Charles River last Fourth of July. President Edward B. Ladd made the presentations in a few well chosen words. He lauded the paddlers and also accepted on behalf of the club as a whole, the splendid silver shield mounted on oak, which will adorn the Clubhouse and serve as a reminder of Winchester's victory.

The season of 1925 has been a favorable one for the Winchester Boat Club. Although as Captain Stafford Rogers mentioned in his speech, it is regretted that Medford Boat Club did not offer stronger competition this year. In both regattas, the 30th of May and the 17th of June, run against Medford, the Winchester Boat Club boys won easily and in the Club Four races on both occasions Winchester defeated her Mystic rivals by a wide margin. Medford lacked the courage to challenge Winchester to a race for the Marshall Symmes Club Four Trophy and the Charles Tenney War Canoe Trophy which Winchester still retains.

The Fourth of July races on the Charles River were the crowning success for Winchester. The trip to Onset, was a very plesant one and the Winchester paddlers gained valuable experience from it but did not annex any laurels.

Everyone looks forward to next year now. With a successful season just passed and with 1926 marking the 25th Anniversary of the birth of the Winchester Boat Club, a large regatta is to be held on the Mystic Lakes with the possibility of all clubs of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association taking part.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

At the October regular meeting much interest was manifested in the work of our Christmas charities.

Among the coming activities is a whist to be held in K. of C. Hall next Thursday evening under the direction of Sisters Anna Kennedy, Catherine Callahan and Mary Golden. Many prizes have been donated and many tables are expected.

The directors met at the home of Regent Blake on Wednesday evening. Regular business came before the meeting.

WASHINGTON CHAPTER

Members of all the chapters of the Mothers' Association are invited to attend the series of four lectures on "Food and Nutrition" to be given under the auspices of the Washington Chapter by Miss Beatrice Billings of the Middlesex County Extension Service. The first lecture will be given on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 2 o'clock, at the Second Congregational Church on Cross street, Winchester Highlands.

BOAT CLUB SMOKER

About 50 members and friends of the Winchester Boat Club attended a smoker held Wednesday, Oct. 14, at the club house. The winning war canoe crew were rewarded and the two handsome William S. Davis tennis cups were exhibited. Due to the unseasonal weather of last week-end the winner and runner-up in the tennis tournament are not yet determined, therefore these cups could not be awarded.

Through the kindness of Secretary Norman M. Mitchell of W. B. C., a Super Hetrodyne radio set was loaned the club. "Bud" Hudson manipulated the dials and drew a very pleasing program from the air. The Hight brothers, "Bob" and "Phil," delighted the gang with their banjos. They team up well and how they can play. Just let either of them take any musical instrument in their hands, and they will make it "sing." To the accompaniment of the Hights the crowd gathered about the open fire and sang old melodies, led by "Doctor" Alan Hovey. Hovey.

The refreshments were typical of the harvest season. Fresh buttered pop corn, cider, doughnuts, apples and smokes.

WINTER VISITED WINCHESTER

Old King Winter paid an untimely visit to Winchester last Saturday, arriving in all his glory amidst a blinding snow storm early in the morning. The temperature hovered around the freezing mark during most of the early morning, and never got much higher than 40 degrees at any time during the day. North to northwesterly winds of gale proportions added to the day's unpleasantness, and did much to strengthen the determination to start the old heater among those who had thought to string along until a later date. Mystic Lake was a picture, the whistling breezes kicking up a heavy sea of good sized white caps which, viewed from the Parkway against the snow-clad heights under a leaden sky, made it hard to believe that but ten days of October had run their course. Everywhere throughout town damage to trees and wires was reported while an electric light pole was blown down near the entrance to Calvary Cemetery. Farmers in the outlying districts reported many of their fall crops ruined by the unseasonable conditions.

WINCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Selectmen of Winchester have given the use of the small Town Hall for the purpose of discussing the telephone and tax situation in Winchester. Mr. Shaw representing the Telephone Company and Mr. Creelman or someone else from the State House will be present to answer questions concerning these important matters of interest to the citizens.

The Assessors will also be present. Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, Oct. 30.

Nathaniel M. Nichols,
Secretary Winchester Chamber of Commerce

SARAH FALL BOWSER

Sarah Fall Bowser, aged 72, and formerly for many years a resident of this town, died Wednesday morning at her home in Stoneham after an illness of a week with penumonia.

Miss Bowser was a native of Richibucto, Can. While in Winchester she made her home on Winthrop street, and was known throughout this district as a music teacher.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the late residence, 33 Cedar avenue, Stoneham. Interment will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Milton.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. Francis R. Henderson and Mrs. William L. Thompson, president of the league, invite all members to their homes, 15 and 20 Ridge street, Monday afternoon, Oct. 19, from 3 to 5. Tea will be served. This will be not only a delightful social gathering, but an opportunity to visit one of the loveliest parts of Winchester where one may obtain a surpassing view, see the autumn foliage and enjoy driving over the newly constructed Ridge street.

Those desiring transportation from the car line at the foot of High street may telephone Monday morning to Mrs. D. C. Dennett, Winchester 0164.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society was held on Tuesday, Oct. 13. Rev. George H. Reed spoke upon "What You Want Us to Do." Miss Betty Bird sang. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock by Miss Nellie Nourse and Mrs. W. B. French, and their committee.

A big crowd assembled in front of the Star office yesterday afternoon for the broadcasting of the final game of the World's series between Washington and Pittsburg. Interest which had seemed to flag more or less throughout the series this year revived with a vengeance for the deciding game which was discribed by announcer Graham McNamee as the most thrilling he had ever witnessed. The crowd which pretty well filled Church street apparently was not especially partizan, but we judged by the lack of applause which greeted the final put out giving Pittsburg the championship that a majority of those present favored Washington. Last year's yell when the Senators defeated the Giants could be heard all around the square.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL NOTES

Miss Mason to Retire as Treasurer—Some Interesting Statistics

It is to be regretted that Miss M. Alice Mason is retiring as treasurer of the hospital. Miss Mason announced last spring that she would not continue as Treasurer through this year. She has held the office for 10 years, and has always given unsparingly her time and energy to the work. Every member of the board of directors has hoped that Miss Mason could continue, but she has felt that she must take a rest from the work and give way to a new treasurer. The hospital has been fortunate to have her in charge of its funds. We may rest assured, however, that she will continue to show a lively interest in its welfare, and occasionally pitch into some special hospital affair, and put her well known effort into it. Mr. Mark R. Jouett wil lsucceed Miss Mason in the office of treasurer.

The Visiting Nurse calls for September totalled 324, or more than 10 calls per day. It is a satisfaction to know that in this community 10 times each day the help and comfort of the Visiting Nurse was rendered. During the winter the nurses are busier, and more patients are served.

The Public Health Nurse reported 165 calls during September, also five baby conferences with an attendance of 141. The largest of these conferences numbered 40 babies, and we are told that it was the most interesting meeting ever held at the Health Center, though punctuated with some bawling and squawking by the little tots in attendance.

There were 101 patients admitted to the Hospital in September, though September is usually not a busy hospital month. Last year's statistics showed that the average stay per patient was a little less than 12 days.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors was held Tuesday evening of last week. All of the committees were represented and reports of all hospital activities were read and discussed. It has been sometimes hard to get a quorum for meetings in the summer, but it has been noticeable that winter or summer, Mrs. Russell has followed every branch of the work. Incidentally, we wonder if many of us realize the work that Mrs. Russell does for the community as president of the hospital and nurse association. It has been said that "Republics are ungrateful" and we fear the same thing may apply to much of our community work. We ask men to serve us as town selectmen, and we promptly forget that they are on the job working hard for us. And so, too, we are apt to forget that our hospital president and the directors give a lot of time to this work, and no matter what the self-sacrifice, it is made with a spirit of cheer and good-will.

The returns from Hospital Envelope Day are very encouraging and to date we may report approximately $800 received. This shows the cooperation of the many givers and the conscientious work of captains and helpers in every district.

MUSIC GARDEN

The first meeting of the season was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lochman on Kenwin road and was well attended. President Mrs. Frank H. ROLLI TO LEAD BASKET SHOOTERS

Flavio Rolli, veteran forward, known to high school sports' followers as "Wop" has been elected to captain this year's basketball team at the Winchester High School. "Wop" is an all around performer, playing football as well as basketball, while two years ago he captained the local school's track team.

He has been a member of the basketball team for the past two seasons and last year enjoyed his best season on the floor. He has oodles of speed, covers well and is a fair shot. This year with Francis Tansey missing, the backbone of the local five's attack will have to be Rolli, and he will find the crowd behind him from the start. The Star offers its congratulations.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

Ralph P. Sylvester, Winchester—new dwelling on lot at 74 Carter street.

Ralph P. Sylvester, Winchester—new dwelling on lot at 63 Carter street.

WINCHESTER TAKES ON WATERTOWN

Capt. Robinson Out of Battle With Injuries—"Fat" Johnson Back

Winchester High will play its first Mystic Valley League football game of the 1925 season tomorrow afternoon on Manchester Field at 2.30 with "Johnnie" Macdonald's Watertown eleven. Both teams have had rather an in and out season thus far, and the game should prove pretty near an even thing with the much talked of breaks deciding the issue. Against Suburban League opponents Winchester was defeated 13—0 by Medford while Watertown held Everett to a tie score. This however, does not give Winchester any the worst of it since it is very probable that Medford is stronger this year than George Brickley's Everett crowd.

The locals will be somewhat handicapped tomorrow as Captain "Bud" Robinson, veteran end, will be unable to start due to an injury received against Lexington on the holiday. B. Murphy will start at his end and defensively the team should suffer little since Robinson has not been in shape all season to play his game. Should the battle come to a point where a drop kick is necessary to decide the situation Winchester will miss her captain since he is the most dependable split kicker on the squad.

One ray in the clouds appeared this week when "Fat" Johnson, veteran line man donned togs for the first time this season. This dependable hard working guard will not start tomorrow but may get into the battle before the final whistle. He has had the experience and should prove a tower of strength in the replacement possibilities of the team.

The probable lineup against Watertown will be O'Donnell and B. Murphy, ends; J. Halwartz and Cassidy, tackles; Walker and Harriman, guards; McCauley, center; Fitzgerald, quarterback; Knowlton and Rolli, halfbacks; McCarthy, fullback.

WINCHESTER PLAYS FIRST LEAGUE HOCKEY MATCH TODAY

With a record of two wins and one defeat the Winchester High School girls' field hockey team will play its first game of the season in its half of the Interscholastic Hockey League on Manchester Field this afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Swampscott girls as opponents.

Winchester won a hard fought game from this club last season, 1—0, at Swampscott and are in hopes to better this showing on its home field this afternoon. A win in this game will get the team away to a good start in the league, and Coach Wheeler will send her strongest possible lineup into the fray.

The locals' showing against Lexington was the best of the year, the eleven showing a much better all around game than heretofore. Swampscott will find the Winchester wings, "Kay" Carlisle and Dorothea McKenzie, particularly hard to stop while its defense should make scoring a tough job. The team will take the field as follows: lw, "Kay Carlisle; li, W. Simmons; cf, K. Valleley; ri, C. Higgins; rw, D. McKenzie; lhb, V. Rollo; chb, K. Cassidy; rhb, K. Shultis or F. Watters; lfb, D. Bond; rfb, C. de Coriolis; g, G. Bond.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

At the regular meeting of the Club last Wednesday night the hope chest with contents thereof gamered together by Mrs. G. H. Lochman and her committee, was presented to the Elks with all due formalities by President Allie E. Davidson. In behalf of the local lodge, Mr. F. H. Scholl accepted the gift, which is to be one of the attractions at the Elks' Charity Ball in November. Further contributions from delayed sources may be left with Mrs. Scholl, 51 Vine street.

Mrs. Ordelia C. Osborne, was elected by popular vote to fill the unexpired term of Past President.

Mrs. Valerie T. O'Connor, chairman of the sick committee, announces a matinee whist at the home of Mrs. Walter Lord, Hancock street, Thursday, Nov. 5. The proceeds of this affair will be used for luxuries for the sick.

The next social night at the Club will be on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28, in Lyceum Hall. A Hallowe'en Party of some dimensions is scheduled for this night and every member is expected to don fancy costume and enter the lists of amateur performers. The affair is open to outside members of the "fair sex" also, anyone of whom may enter the grand march and compete for a prize. The entertainment will consist of several short sketches, written for the occasion by Frances Sullivan. The Old Plantation sketch will include minstrelsy of olden times, the Sunbonnent Sisters will perform an original dance, and many vaudeville numbers have been booked for the occasion. Refreshments will be included in the small subscription asked and it is hoped that all will join in and help to make merry at the affair. This is the time to bring in new members, get acquainted and have one good time. We ought to be able to afford a laugh once a year at least.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

List of contagious diseases reported to the Board of Health for the week ending Thursday, Oct. 15: as follows:

	Cases
Diphtheria	2
Scarlet Fever	1
Mumps	1

ROLAND HAYES HAS CREATED A RENEWED WORLD WIDE INTEREST IN THE NEGRO SPIRITUALS

There is only one way to sing the negro spirituals—in the mood in which they were conceived. And it is scarcely necessary to point out that they are seldom so sung.

With all the beauty and perfection of Roland Hayes' interpretations of the "art" songs, it is the negro spirituals which seem most clearly to distinguish his genius from that of any other living singer. He has the soft, mellowed voice of his race, but in a far finer degree. He knows these songs as of his own people. With his truly remarkable ability for emotional self-projection and vivid illusion, he actually experiences their poignant suffering, their simple and abject religious fervor. It is small wonder that his audience, wherever it may be, is held transfigurd—even vaguely disturbed. For the emotion of the "spirituals", however exalted, is vital, stark, rather than polite.

Europe scarcely knew this great American treasury of folk-songs until Roland Hayes sang them there. It is not surprising that he has started England, France and central Europe talking about them. When Roland Hayes first sang before the King and Queen of England, and when he sang again before the Queen last spring, both were profoundly stirred by the "Spirituals"; they questioned him about them, and pressed him to sing all of them he knew.

Of course, America had long know the negro spirituals, but many who have heard Roland Hayes sing them feel that they have never known them until now. When he sanq in New Yorq "The Crucifixion" a few crude verses, unaccompanied, which describe the agony of the Passion, Heywood Brown wrote in the New York World:

"Roland Hayes sang of Jesus and it seemed to me that this was what religion ought to be. It was a mood instead of a creed, an emotion rather than a doctrine. There was nothing to define and nothing to argue. Each person took what he liked and felt, whatever he had to feel and so there was no heresy. And as for miracles, music itself is a miracle.

"For that matter I saw a miracle in Town Hall. Half of the people who heard Hayes were black and half were white; and while the mood of the song held they were all the same. They shared together the close silence. One emotion wrapped them. And at the end it was a single sob . . . 'He never said a mumbling word,' sang Hayes and we knew that he spoke of Christ, whose voice was clear enough to cross all the seas of water and of blood. . ."

Roland Hayes will give his first concert of his third American Tour in the Town Hall, Friday, Nov. 13, under the joint auspices of the Pop Concert Committee and the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church. Tickets may be obtained from Dr. Mary T. Maynard, 80 Church street.

O'ROURKE—BURKE

Miss Eloise Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Burke of 26 Symmes road, and Mr. Phillip O'Rourke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah O'Rourke of Peabody, were married yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at a nuptial mass at St. Mary's Church before a large gathering of friends and relatives representing most of the towns and cities in this vicinity. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Fitzgibbons of St. Mary's Church and seated in the sancturary during the mass were Rev. Thomas Boderick of Houghs Neck and Rev. Charles McInnis of Peabody. During the service "Salva Regina," "O Salutaris" and "Ven' Jesu" were sing by Miss Lillian Breslin, soprano soloist.

Miss Mary Feeney of Woburn was bridesmaid and Mr. Richard O'Rourke of Wauheegan, Ill., brother of the groom, was best man. Miss Burke made a charming bride in a gown of Alice blue crepe de chine with a large picture hat of black satin and she carried Killarney roses. The bridesmaid was attired in rose crepe de chine with a hat of sand satin and lace and the bouquet was of Killarney roses.

After the Mass the many friends of the couple gathered at the home of the bride's parents at 26 Symmes road, where a wedding breakfast was served by a local caterer. The house was attractively decorated with potted plants and cut flowers with a background of lacy fern and brilliant autumnal foliage. Guests were present from New York, New Jersey, Boston, Peabody, Somerville, Medford, Woburn and Winchester.

After a wedding trip to New York the happy couple will reside at the Crystal Apartments, Wakefield.

Both Mr. and Mrs. O'Rourke are well known, the former being a leather man of Peabody and Woburn and a member of the Rotary Club of Peabody, while his bride is a popular member of the Winchester social set.

SNEAK THIEF GOT PURSE

The Winchester police were notified last Friday by Miss Daisy McPartland of the "Patricia Beauty Shop" on Main street that one of her patrons had lost a pocketbook the day previous which she believed was stolen by a man who had come to the shop ostensibly to make an appointment for a "Mrs. Chase." The purse, the property of Teresa Sullivan of Winchester, had been on the table in the reception room before the man entered, and was missed shortly after he left. Needless to say the "Mrs. Chase" did not keep her appointment. The police have a good description of the man who entered some of the other offices about the square, but so far as is known without being successful in his quest for booty. The local authorities are of the opinion that the man is one who has been quite active in this district, and not long ago was reported as having made a successful haul in Woburn.

HONORED BY ASSOCIATES

After 43 years as Chef and Assistant Purchasing Agent of the Boston City Hospital, Mr. Thomas Sims voluntarily retired last week to his recently purchased home at 30 Pond street, this town. During Mr. Sims' term of service he has seen numerous changes at the Boston City Hospital, notably among them being the increase in the number of patients from 250 in 1882 to 2380 in 1925. Upon his retirement his working associates tendered him a rousing reception and as a token of respect and friendship presented him with a handsome watch, chain and charm.

CHILD HAD NARROW ESCAPE WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Elizabeth Philbrick, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Philbrick of 10 Hillcrest Parkway, received painful injuries when she was struck by a Ford sedan on Highland avenue near Reservoir street shortly after 3:30 on Tuesday afternoon.

According to one report of the accident, the little girl was playing with a group of friends near her home and was chased into the street and directly into the path of the on-coming automobile. The driver of the machine, Jeremiah Reardon of 17 Cambridge terrace, Cambridge, was unable to avoid striking the child who was dragged some distance along the roadway, and finally pulled under the sedan before it could be stopped, witnesses of the accident expressing surprise that she was not killed.

Mr. Reardon took the little girl in his car to the Winchester Hospital where she was attended by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy. She received a bad shaking up and numerous bruises and cuts about the face and body including two deep cuts on the right hand near the wrist which required several stitches to close. Her left arm was broken, but a thorough examination failed to disclose any internal injuries, and after treatment she was taken by her parents to her home.

Talks will be given in the public schools during the coming week by officers of Winchester Lodge of Elks on the "Old Ironsides Campaign." The efforts to raise the necessary money to preserve this famous old ship are meeting with unqualified success throughout the country, and Winchester will undoubtedly turn in a substantial sum to the general committee in charge of the preservation project.

It is said that the entertainment to be given at the Elks' Charity Ball on Nov. 19, at the Town Hall will be the best this town has seen in years.

FOSGATE—DeLORIEA

Miss Miriam DeLoriea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. DeLoriea of 8 Hancock street, Winchester, and Stanley P. Fosgate of Medford Hillside ,son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Fosgate, were united in marriage last Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church of this town. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Henry E. Hodge, former pastor of the church, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Clifton E. Walcott.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. W. S. Doane of Belmont. The bride was escorted by her brother. She wore a wedding dress of white satin trimmed with pearls, and having a veil of lace and pearls caught up with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses and lillies of the valley. Mrs. Edith Way of Springfield, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was of orchid crepe de chine with feather trimming and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Irene E. DeLoriea of Philadelphia, sister of the bride, Miss Marion Dow of Winchester, cousin of the groom, Miss Audrey Godda of Winchester, and Mrs. Dorothy Jones of Winchester. They wore pink georgette and carried bouuets of pink gladioli. Mr. Fosgate had as his best man Alfred Sinclair of Medford Hillside. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors from 8:15 until 9:30. The young couple were assisted in receiving by their parents. The ushers were Kendall Way of Springfield, Harry Watters of Salem, Ellis Gorten and Gove Sleeper of Medford. The color scheme of the decorations was yellow with autumn leaves, palms and white carnations. About two hundred were present including guests from Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Florida, Springfield, Brookline, Salem, Melrose, Belmont and Peabody as well as those from this town. Music for the reception was furnished by Miss Virginia Farmer and Mrs. Arthur Dow of Main street at whose home the wedding presents were displayed. At the conclusion of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Fosgate left on a wedding trip which will take them to the White Mountains and to Florida.

Our Customers are Repeaters

A good customer told us last week that he had tried out another well-known brand of candy. "Once was enough," was his brief but significant comment to the girl who waited on him.

One thing we're proud of is that our customers are repeaters. They come regularly—once a week, twice a week, sometimes more and sometimes less often. But thy do come back. After all, that's the true gauge of a product's quality, isn't it?

Dawn.

But while he stood, a subtle change came over the night, and the air trembled round him as if one had whispered. Drumsheugh lifted his head and looked eastwards. A faint gray stole over the distant horizon, and suddenly a cloud reddened before his eyes. The sun was not in sight, but was rising, and sending forerunners before his face. The cattle began to stir, a blackbird burst into song, and before Drumsheugh crossed the threshold of Saunder's house, the first ray of the sun had broken on a peak of the Gramplans.—"Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush."

LEXINGTON TIES WINCHESTER

Intercepted Forward Pass Gives Visitors Even Break

An 80 yard run by left end Daley, following an intercepted forward pass in the last five minutes of play, gave Lexington a 13—13 tie in its football game with Winchester High on the afternoon of Columbus Day on Manchester Field. A big crowd watched the battle which was well contested and interesting throughout.

Previous to the big break which saved the day for the visitors Winchester had clearly outplayed its opponents, its advantage in rushing the ball being about two to one. Coach Mansfield's boys showed a very good looking running game, especially that which went off the tackles and through the line. Running the ends availed little against Lexington and McCarthy, the local's speedy fullback was able to break clear only once. The Minutemen gained most of their yardage by means of the forward pass, and showed a clever formation on which the quarterback got clean to receive the toss nearly every time.

On the defense Winchester made a mess of the visitors' running game and we doubt whether they would have made a first down by straight rushing, had it not been for the frequent penalties inflicted upon the locals for offside play. Between 50 and 75 yards were handed to Lexington by the over-eagerness of the Red and Black forwards, and had their opponents been able to cash in on their opportunities, they might have rolled up a large score on what the locals handed them.

In both the 3rd and 4th quarters Winchester had beautiful scoring chances ruined. Both were the results of perfect forward passes from Knowlton to O'Donnell. Each time the ball reached the runner and each time he had a clear field to the goal line, only to drop the ball. That Winchester continued to keep its morale in the face of two such tough breaks is distinctly to its credit. We doubt if "Spike" could drop two more passes like those, if he tried. The tackling of Coach Mansfield's boys, especially in open field was wretched, and this department must look up a lot before the important games of the year roll around. Both of Lexington's touchdowns might easily have been averted by hard clean tackling. Especially was this true of the first score which came after Quarterback Sweeney had grabbed a nice pass from Casey. At least three local players had both hands on the runner, yet failed to bring him to earth despite the fact that he was by no means either fast or shifty.

Winchester started like the 20th century. Knowlton kicked off to Lexington's 20 yard line and on the very first play Cassidy recovered a visiting fumble. Winchester, however fumbled in turn with the ball on the 15 yard line, and after a penalty Lexington kicked to Rolli at midfield. Here started one of the best offensive marches which a Winchester team has shown since the days of "Abie" Winer, "Art" French and all. McCarthy got away on the very first play for a 20 yard romp to the Lexington 35 yard line. Knowlton hit the line for four yards and Haley made it first down on the 10 yard line only to have the locals put back to the 15 yard stripe for offside play. "Wop" Rolli made this all up and more on an off-tackle slash, being brought down on the six yard line from which point Haley rammed his way up to within a yard of the Lexington goal line. Rolli went over through center for the score and Robinson kicked the goal. Neither team came near counting during the remaining minutes of the period which ended with the ball in midfield in Lexington's possession.

The second quarter found the battling pretty much on even terms. Winchester might have gotten under way several times but for costly penalties. The locals did work the ball up to Lexington's 25 yard line where an intercepted forward pass spoiled their chances for a score. The half ended with the ball in the possession of the visitors on Winchester's 35 yard line.

The Minutemen scored soon after the opening of the second half when a poor pass got away from Quarterback Fitzgerald and Winchester was forced to punt from its own 5 yard line after a penalty for offside. Prue kicked to mid-field where Cassidy nailed the Lexington runner in his tracks. The visitors at once opened up and a long forward pass, Casey to Sweeney was completed on the Winchester 25 yard line. Another pass was grounded, but Casey got loose for six yards around the end and on the next play Casey shot another forward to Quarterback Sweeney who dodged across the line for the score. The try at goal failed.

Winchester came right back. After play had zig-zagged back and forth in middle field and "Spike" O'Donnell had missed his chance to be a hero, Knowlton punted and big Jim Halwartz recovered a Lexington fumble on the visitors' 25 yard line. Immediately Winchester got going in earnest. Knowlton ripped off five, and Prue four yards through the line and Lexington was penalized. Prue got a yard putting the ball on the five yard marker from where Knowlton rammed ahead to the one yard stripe. On the next play "Heinie" went over behind Cassidy for the score, and here Winchester might have won the game, had it not been for an injury which had removed Captain "Bud" Robinson from the game early in the quarter. Fitzgerald attempted to kick the goal and while his boot had direction he got it away too slow and it was blocked. It's a fairly safe gamble that "Bud" would have added that extra point necessary to win the old game, as he is very good at dropping them over and has had the experience which "Fitzie" lacks.

The period ended with the ball at midfield and soon after the beginning of the last quarter "Jack" Harriman intercepted a Lexington forward pass. Here Rolli entered the fray and Winchester was penalized half the distance to the goal line, apparently for communication. Knowlton punted to mid field and soon after Cassidy recovered a Lexington forward. McCarthy and Rolli were nailed for losses when their interference fell down on the job and once more "Spike" O'Donnell lost a nice pass from Knowlton which would have resulted in a score.

At this point Lexington intercepted a forward pass on its own 15 yard line and after an exchange of kicks and a Winchester penalty the ball went to the visitors on their own eight yard line. After a long end run Cassidy recovered a visiting fumble on the 15 yard line and Winchester had a change of a lifetime. It all went flooey when on the first play the locals were penalized 15 yards for illegal use of hands and after an unsuccessful linebuck Lexington got its chance to pull out with a tie. Standing on the visitors' 30 yard line Knowlton shot out a long pass to the left. It was intercepted by Daley of Lexington on his own 10 yard line and converted into a touchdown by an 80 yard sprint along the sidelines right by almost the entire Winchester team. Despite the fact that the Lexington boys did some nice cleaning out for Daley and giving the lad all the credit in the world for playing alert football, it was largely due to the fact that most of the locals were absolutely rooted to the greensward that the play went. This time Maloy made the extra point good with a pretty kick and it was even Stephen. Winchester tried hard to win and "Wop" Rolli all but broke clear on the kick-off before being thrown at mid field. McCarthy failed to gain and after two unsuccesful forward passes Knowlton kicked across the Lexington goal line as the game ended.

WINCHESTER WINS JUNIOR SOCCOR LEAGUE GAME

The Colonials of Dorchester came to town last Saturday short-handed to play Winchester in a Bay State Junior League game and with only eight men gave battle to the locals, who won the contest by 5—0 It was a fast game despite the wind, snow and cold.

Early in the game the visitors forced matters, but Granlund was in great form and turned them back. Winchester pressed and Swenson opened the scoring, beating Doherty with a fast drive in the corner of the net. Not long after Blonquist made it two up for the home team.

The second half saw the local boys forge ahead through their fine combined play. Fogo was playing a great game for the visitors, but Eklund was not to be denied and scored the Winchester team's third goal. Swenson made it four and just before the final whistle Eklund brought Winchester's total to five.

The summary:

WINCHESTER—Gullberg, g; Linden, rh; Granlund, lh; Dahlman, rh; Lunden, ch; Neiman, lh; Swenson, rof; Eklund, rif; Blonquist, lif; Carlson, inf.

COLONIALS—Doherty, g; Matson, lb; Fogo, rb; Cummings, lh; Brown, ch; Ayles, lif; Popp, cf; Cunningham, rof.

Score, Winchester 5. Goals, Blonquist, Swenson 2, Eklund 2. Referee, A. Patterson. Linesmen, Brown and Steinquist. Time, 45m periods.

GOVERNOR FULLER INVITED

Governor Alvan T. Fuller has been invited to attend the Elks' Charity Ball at the Town Hall Nov. 19. The Governor's acceptance has not yet been received, but it is understood on good authority that it is very probable that Winchester people will have the opportunity of seeing and meeting him on this date.

DINNER AND PARTY

Two Events at Calumet This Month

The entertainment committee at the Calumet Club announced two important evenings scheduled for this month which should interest every member. An opening fall dinner and a Halloween party are listed.

The dinner is to be held next week Saturday evening, Oct. 24, and will be the first big social event of the season. This is the annual get-together dinner, and a varied program of interest to all is announced. The dinner starts at 6:30 p .m. and during its course a vaudeville show will be staged. During the evening, after the dinner closes, a special bowling match between two picked teams will be staged, and prizes will be awarded for billiards, pool and bridge.

This is a particularly pleasing program and one which should appeal to all members. The tickets must be obtained of the steward at the club and should be reserved by Wednesday of next week without fail.

The Halloween party is set for Friday evening, Oct. 30. This is to be an informal party with the entertainment in the nature of a surprise. Members may attend prepared for anything.

Owing to an unavoidable delay, notice of these two evenings has been held to a later date than the committee desired, and the attention of club members is called to the importance of making dinner reservations at once.

CHANCEL WINDOWS INSTALLED IN FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Chancel of the First Congregational Church has just been completed by the installation of three beautiful chancel windows, which will be seen for the first time at the serving in memory of Harrison Parker, are in three lancets of the medallion type of medieval design, and represent scenes from the life of Christ They are memorial windows; one being in memory of Harrison Parker, for 20 years deacon of the church, one in memory of Eugenia Parker Palmer, the mother of Mr. William I. Palmer, and the central window in memory of the founders of the church.

The windows were executed by Reynolds, Francis and Rohnstock, of Boston, whose work, according to Ralph Adams Cram, more nearly resembles the glass in the Medieval Cathedrals of Europe than that done by any other stained glass workers in America.

Set against the ideal north-west light they glow with a rich variety of color, and give a cathedral atmosphere of restfulness, spaciousness and dignity to the church auditirium.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

For every man you can find who is worn out you will find a hundred who rusted out.

There are two things to do when you are imposed upon. One is to stand it and the other we can' think of just at present.

As summer rain is to the parched ground, so is a kind word of encouragement to the struggler.

The average person is not unlike a fish, neither will get into trouble if they keep their mouth shut.

If you know a man whose own dog won't follow him, better not waste much time with that fellow.

KEEPING TRACK OF TIME

A clock is useful for more things than a "time-to-get-up" alarm. It should stand for regularity in all health habits. Many people are not up to the mark physically because they are so irregular in habits of living that their body machinery no longer responds in a normal way. They may eat sufficient food and food of the right kind, and yet be underweight. This is very often due to irregularity in habits—a hustle to school or to work in the morning without breakfast, then a too heavy dinner. Meals should be well-balanced, sufficient for the body needs, and not over-sufficient. The habit of bowel evacuation should be a regular one. The largest per cent of constipation is due to the fact that the individual has not established a regular time each day for bowel evacuation. In the same way, sleep will be soundest if one bedtime hour is kept.

WINCHESTER GIRLS TAKE LEXINGTON

Winchester High defeated Lexington at field hockey Wednesday afternoon at Lexington, 3—0, being on top all the way. The game was not a league contest as the locals play their matches in the northern division of the circuit while Lexington is in the southern half.

"Kay" Carlisle scored the first goal for the locals in the first quarter, Christine Higgins tallying soon after. Little Dorothea McKenzie who has been showing a lot of speed at her right wing position hung up the last Winchester goal in the third quarter. Lexington was at no time able to seriously threaten the Winchester goal.

The summary:

AN UNWELCOME GUEST

He wasn't particularly large, but he was treated with all the respect which a Dempsey or a Wills might well command. Yes, and then some. We're referring to a splendid specimen of the skunk or polecat which decided to pay the Star office and shops adjacent thereto a visit during the storm last Saturday morning. He arrived before the snow squall. At least he was very much in evidence when we opened up at 8 o'clock. So much so that despite the extreme chilliness of the outside air it was necessary to keep the office pretty much open to the weather that one might enjoy the full use of his lungs. It soon became a case of opening things until it became too frigid, and then closing them until it became too thick.

Meanwhile an investigation was begun to determine the quadruped's whereabouts. It was at first thought that the animals had gotten into the cellar, but nothing definite could be determined since no one cared to answer a call for scouting volunteers. A policy of watchful waiting was decided upon, and the basement doors were barred. Meanwhile there was no doubting the fact that the skunk was in the near vicinity. But where?

To Mr. J. Albert Hersey we are indebted for information leading to the discovery of our visitor. Mr. Hersey, entering by the front door instead of by the usual rear entrance, told us that by looking under a fence at the end of the Star alley we might obtain visible evidence of the skunk's presence.

We did so, though without opening our door too wide. About all we could see was a long black, bedraggled tail, but opening the door gave us fresh evidence that it belonged to the skunk.

After a discussion it was decided to leave the animal in peace hoping that he would take his departure over the week-end. This he evidently did, for up to the time of going to press we had no fresh evidence of his remaining in the neighborhood.

COMMUNITIES OPPOSED

Woburn Sewer Met With No Favor at Wednesday's Hearing

At a continued hearing on the proposed Woburn sewer to care for the tannery waste in that city, held before the district commission Wednesday morning, various communities in the metropolitan area were represented and voiced their opposition to the scheme of apportioning the cost. The general concensus of the cities and towns affected by the bill, introduced by Rep. Everberg of Woburn, was that Woburn should bear the expense, it being a purely local benefit.

The hearing was the result of one held on Sept. 30, at which representatives of the various communities asked for more time in which to prepare their opposition and to answer the brief filed on that occasion by Representative Everberg.

Those appearing this week included Walter H. Dotten, chairman of the Board of Selectmen in Winchester; Leon C. Guptill, town counsel for Winthrop and Dr. John Dike, chairman of a committee appointed in Melrose. An attempt was made by Representative Everberg to steer the discussion on to the general proposition involved in the resolve which is before the commissioners, raising the question of the apportionment of the cost of new sewers for "border communities" of the district, but the opponents of the measure insisted on confining themselves to expressing distaste for paying part of the cost of what they considered to be a purely local matter for Woburn.

Opposition was displayed by Winchester, which is particularly interested in the matter, because the waste from manufacturing plants in Woburn and Wilmington, which the proposed new sewer would receive, now runs into the Aberjona River, and thence into the Mystic lakes. Mr. Dotten, speaking for the Winchester Board of Selectmen, declared that once the sewer was put into operation it would be necessary to clean out the Aberjona River from its source throughout its course to where it empties into the lakes, and that the State would have to do the same for them, removing the filth deposited through many years by these manufacturing plants in the northern valley of the river.

"We don't see," Mr. Dotten said, "why Woburn should not take care of this situation itself, or why Winchester and the district should be called upon to clean up a mess dumped into this river."

Representative Everberg attempted to show that Winchester has tanneries within its own limits which are dumping waste into this river, either directly or through the overflow from sewers, but Mr. Dotten insisted that in the case of this tannery everything had been done that was possible to eliminate the nuisance, including connection with the sewer, and that no trouble was being experienced from this source from Winchester plants.

Representative Everberg then brought out the fact that "until 1922 every bill filed in this matter was filed on petition of the Selectmen of Winchester asking for the construction of this sewer as a distinct measure."

Mr. Dotten replied that "we want Woburn to clean up a mess they have made. So far as damage is concerned we will take care of that after the mess has been cleaned up."

For the Winthrop Selectmen, Town Counsel, Leon C. Guptil appeared in opposition "to the construction of this sewer at the cost of the district. They feel," he said, "that it is a strictly a Woburn enterprise and that the Selectmen, having paid their share of the main sewer, it should be considered that any connection to be made with it should be considered a local project, to be paid for by the local communities benefited by the extension of the connection."

The other representatives simply put in their appearance in opposition, without discussing the matter.

FIRST FORUM MEETING SUNDAY

Union Service at 4 P. M. in First Congregational Church—Mrs. Patterson of Los Angeles, Speaker

The first Forum Meeting of the season, under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council of Winchester, will be held in the First Congregational Church, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will be a union service of all the Protestant Churches of Winchester, and will be addressed by Mrs. Ethel L. Patterson of Los Angeles, Cal. She will speak on "The Practice of the Presence of God."

Mrs. Patterson recently held a series of services in New Haven, Conn., and one of the newspapers of that city reports on her addresses as follows:

"Of Mrs. Patterson, who conducted a practical mission in this city during five days of last week, Emerson's well known words, slightly changed, might well apply, 'What you are speaks so loud that it quadruples the force of what you say.' To the many who, deep down in their hearts, long somehow to get a philosophy of life which gives a richer peace and joy than they possess, she says, 'Just try these rules of mine for cultivating the Practice of the Presence of God. I know that they work.' And one must admit that it would be hard to find a more effective example of practicing what one preaches than Mrs. Patterson's own personality, abounding in vitality; with a certain joyous serenity of mind which was not disturbed even when on Thursday she learned of the loss of her lecture notebook on the Lord's prayer, which it took a summer of meditation to evolve; an infectious sense of humor which bubbled forth continually; an unusually rich and vibrant voice of great carrying power; a physical strength and endurance which makes her apparently impervious to fatigue, even by her strenuous five lectures a day while here; and in her eyes and smile a radiance which can only come from "The Light Within." She certainly is a type of Christian the secret of whose philosophy of life one could not but wish to learn.

Why is it that on the first five days of last week from five to seven hundred busy men and women, at the busiest time of the year, were willing to spend an hour every day to hear from a lay-woman, of no academic training, how to Practice the Presence of God. What an anomaly in this practical age of incessant activity, that school-teachers, society women, college professors, social workers, the young and old, should have felt it worth while to come, not to a committee meeting to plan how to do things, but simply for the deepening of the spiritual life?

The answer is this—Mrs. Patterson is a twentieth century mystic who combines the deep spirituality of 'A soul athirst for God,' with a keen practical common sense, which realizes that this 'Practice' is the surest source of true service, a vivid and forceful ability to get across the ideas of St. Francis of Assisi, of St. John and of the Christ, to an audience whose attention never flags from the very first word to those moving and reverent tones, which one cannot easily forget, in which she makes her closing prayer, "In His name we ask it, Amen."

The service Sunday afternoon in the First Congregational Church will be the first in a series of five meetings at which she will speak on successive evenings at 7:45 as follows:

Monday—First Bantist Church.
Tuesday — Second Congregational Church.
Wednesday — Methodist Episcopal Church.
Thursday—First Unitarian Church.
Friday—Church of the Epiphany.

Everyone who wishes to deepen his spiritual life and to strengthen his contact with God should attend this first meeting, and we are sure he will not miss the others.

ELKS TO VISIT SCHOOLS DURING "OLD IRONSIDES WEEK"

Next week, commencing Monday, Oct. 19, and ending Saturday, Oct. 24, is to be observed in Winchester, together with all other towns and cities throughout the United States, as "Old Ironsides Week," so called because in those six days is to be raised by the school children of the country, under the leadership of the Elks, $500,000, a fund for the preservation of the grand old U. S. frigate Constiution, now rotting at her moorings in the Boston Navy Yard.

The history of the Constitution, affectionately known as "Old Ironsides," is an open book to every one. Launched in 1797, she quickly became famous and during the 33 years of her active service never lowered her flag to an enemy ship. Single handed she cruised, first against the navy of France, and afterward against that of Great Britain. During the war of 1812, she defeated the British frigates Querriere, Java, and Pictou, and also the sloops of war, Cyane and Levant. Under Preble the Constitution became the flagship of the American vessels that brought the flag of Algeria to terms and stopped depredations upon American merchant ships cruising in the straits of Gibraltar. In all our naval history there is no ship to equal her in popular esteem. In 1830 the grand old frigate was condemned as unseaworthy and was saved from destruction by salvage through the immortal poem of Oliver Wendell Holmes. Again she has been condemned and once more the nation is to rally to her defense.

Under the leadership of the Elks, with Past Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Boston directing the activities of committees in every lodge the length and breadth of the United States, the children and their adults are to carry on the fight that will make sure that the ensign which for 137 years has never been lowered, will forever flaunt Old Glory above the decks that have never known defeat.

Next Tuesday the Winchester Lodge of Elks will launch its campaign in the local schools with appropriate exercises in each of the buildings in town. A committee has been at work on the details for some time under the leadership of E. R. Maurice Dinneen, and two Elks from Winchester Lodge have been appointed to visit the various schools and address the scholars while starting the work of collecting the town's share of the necessary $500,000.

Charles Harrold and George H. Lochman will visit the High and Parochial Schools; Fred Clement and John McNally the Wadleigh and Mystic. The Wyman, Noonan and Washington have been assigned to George T. Davidson and Fred H. Scholl, while James F. Fitzgerald and John Donaghy will have charge of the program at the Lincoln and Highland buildings. Treasurer John Donaghy will have charge of the funds collected.

While the local Elks anticipate a goodly response to their appeal they realize that the time in which they must raise their money is short, and they bespeak the co-operation of the town's people in putting Winchester's contribution to "Old Ironsides" where it belong—at the top.

Two Winchester boys are mentioned in recent reports from Amherst College, Richard Clark being awarded honors in Latin, while Capen Abbott has been elected to membership in the glee club.

Hoyle Lived in London.

Edmund Hoyle lived from 1672 to 1769. Little is known of his early life. It is thought that he was educated for the law. He lived in London for many years, where he taught games. In 1742 he published "A Short Treatise on the Game of Whist," which went through many editions and became the world's authority. Other games have been added, until "Hoyle" has grown to mean "a set of rules" and includes many games that have been invented since Edmond Hoyle's death.

Quite a Difference.

Optimists talk about what they are going to do; pessimists about what others are not going to.

Earthquake Records.

Hawaii is saving lives and property by the use of earthquake records. When a violent earthquake appearing to have occurred in the Pacific ocean is registered at the Hawaiian observatory, warnings are dispatched to regions likely to be damaged by the tidal waves which frequently follow earth shocks. There may be many hours between the recording of the tremors and the arrival of the waves, giving warned regions time to prepare.

K. OF C. AUTUMN FESTIVAL

The Autumn Festival was brought to a successful end Monday, Oct. 12, it was extended on account of the inclement weather Oct. 9 and 10.

On Friday and Saturday it was well attended and on Monday a tremendous crowd kept the workers at booths busy through the afternoon and evening.

The grounds were very beautifully lighted and the building was decorated and festooned with autumn foliage and colors.

Saturday and Monday afternoon was given over for the children. The entertainment consisted of the following sports and games on Saturday:

50 yard dash for girls—Won by Teresa Lynch.

Egg race for girls—Won by Helen Lee. Anna Cullen, second.

Spoon race for girls—Won by Constance Fitch.

Shoe race for boys—Thomas Cassidy, 1st; Peter Oliver, 2nd; Andrew Lutino, 3rd.

50 yard dash for Juniors—Curro, 1st; Manzo, 2nd; Hanlon, 3rd.

Swimming race—Won by Henry Boyle.

Wheel barrow race for boys—Bernard Gigliotte and Herbert Brooks.

The children were also entertained by two professional clowns and they were greatly amused by their antics.

The entertainment for the children closed Monday afternoon with a baby show, the prizes were awarded as follows:

Prettiest Baby—Jacqueline King; Fatest Baby—Julia Gibbons; Cried Loudest—Dorothy Murray.

All kinds of refreshments were served to the children.

The booths were handsomely decorated and well stocked with everything for the home.

Refreshment booth was in charge of Mrs. M. C. Ambrose assisted by Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Frank Dineen and Mrs. Edward Dineen.

Donation booth in charge of Mr. Luke Glendon assisted by Mr. Frank Rogers, James Vallely, Mr. M. C. Ambrose.

Staple Article booth in charge of Arthur King assisted by Addiloe LaForte, Edw. MacMahon, Mrs. John Murray and Mrs. Arthur King.

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes booth in charge of George Young assisted by Mrs. B. Young, Henry Longfield.

Novelty booth in charge of Frank Dineen assisted by Miss Nellie Sullivan and Joseph King.

Dancing was in charge of Miss Mary Boyle, Chairman assisted by Miss Helen Norton, Miss Ruth McLaughlin, Hazel McKenzie and Miss Evelyn O'Connell.

A handsome hand embroidered bed spread donated by Mrs. Arthur King was awarded to Mrs. Francis Dolan, 23 Border street.

A beautiful bridge lamp donated by Miss Elizabeth Shinnick will be awarded at a whist, date, Wednesday, Oct. 28.

A K. of C. ring also donated will be awarded later.

The festival was a grand success both socially and financially and the committee in charge wishes to express their appreciation to all those who aided in any way.

CURRENT BRINGS FRIGID WATERS TO TROPIC COAST

The Humboldt, or Peruvian Current which has bathed the tropical desert coast of Peru with icy waters and so has given rise to numerous climatic paradoxes, is reported to be changing its course, working havoc to animal life. A steamer captain recently passing up the coast reports that he encountered thousands of dead birds and fish in the sea. Other reports state that regions rainless for years are having heavy rains and that rivers have formed almost over night in the one-time parched desert.

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society quotes a communication to the Society from R. E. Coker telling how Peru's cold current has shaped conditions along the coast.

The Humboldt Current, supplemented no doubt by the upturning of cold bottom waters, maintains its steady course for thousands of miles, from icy Antarctic latitudes to the Equator, says the bulletin. Thus it is that tropical shores are bathed by cold ocean waters, and, with this fundamental contrast, the stage is set for an array of phenomena not fully paralleled in any other part of the world.

Cold Current Has Prevented Rain

Only two events in that interesting series command our present attention. These are the absence of rainfall and the consequent accumulation, through centuries untold, of a mine of wealth which might have been dissipated by a few seasons of rain.

Guano, it will be understood, is primarily the deposit of fish-eating birds, into which may be mixed and incorporated—in greater or less proportion—a variety of other substances, such as the eggs and bodies of birds and the deposits and the bodies of sea-lions. It may be found mixed with gravel and sand in very small proportion or sometimes to an extent rendering it unprofitable to extract.

Peruvian guano is practically synonymous with nitrogenous guano and has long been recognized as the best nitrogenous fertilizer—that is, as a fertilizer of generally high nitrogen value in which the nitrogenous compounds are found in a condition most readily assimilable by our plants.

Consequently a peculiar interest attaches to birds of the Peruvian islands, which have long served to aid the world's agriculture. They are the numerous sea-fowl of the coast, which find their abundant food in the ocean and make their nests upon the islands or points of shore.

Acres of Fish

The peculiar climatic conditions previously mentioned offer merely the proper environmental conditions for the preservation of the product. The primary requisite for abundant bird life is the existence of a plentiful food supply, and this is found in the schools of small fish, called anchobetas, that swarm in the Peruvian Current. There shoals of fish, acres in extent, are often pursued in the water by bonitoes and other large fish, while beset from the air by thousands of birds.

Billions of pounds of fish must be consumed each year by the birds, besides the incalculable quantity devoured by other fishes; but the fecundity of the anchobetas is such that their numbers are still maintained. At times great areas of the sea are made red by myriads of small, brightly colored shrimplike crustacea; and these, too, play a part of importance as food for the fishes and birds.

Not all of the birds are of equal importance from the commercial point of view. Indeed, three species virtually support the guano industry at the present time—the white-breast cormorant (guanay), the big gray pelican, and the white-head gannet.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of William T. Dotten late of Winchester in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Walter H. Dotten who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the nineteenth day of October, A. D. 1925, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Winchester Star, a newspaper published in Winchester the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JOHN C. LEGGAT, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of September in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

Ten years ago the special investigation of the Census Bureau reported that hired girls in housework had the highest death rate and lowest life expectancy of all classes of women engaged in gainful occupations. Moreover, the Bureau found that women doing their housework showed a less favorable bill of health than those in the professional and business world.

What a difference today!

"Out goes the broiling kitchen stove," says Dr. Hutchinson, "with its murderous blacking and coal scuttle and ashes, and in comes the clean, cool, enameled gas stove, controlled by a turn of the wrist and wiped white with a damp cloth; also at proper 'back' height to match the sink and table. Nothing heavier than a broom or skillet or aluminium kettle to be lifted or carried anywhere in the whole house."

Firestone

Safety and Mileage For Rough Winter Driving

OPERATORS of large truck, bus and cab fleets must have rugged, long-mileage tires if they are to make money. That is why so many of them have standardized on Firestone. Experienced race drivers, almost to a man, equip with Firestone. Car owners can have this same extra safety and economy—by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone extra process, impregnates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber—insures greater safety and comfort over rough winter roads—builds extra strength and flexibility into the sidewalls—an exclusive feature that adds thousands of miles to the life of a tire.

Come in—let us save you money by equipping your car with a set of these wonderful tires—prices are still low.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS"

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Strand Theatre, Woburn

The picture which broke all long run records at road show prices is coming to the Strand Theatre, Woburn, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when Cecil B. DeMille's production of "The Ten Commandments" opens a three days engagement there. Playing the "two-a-day" in New York City, it broke the record of 59 weeks which had been held by "The Covered Wagon," remaining at capacity business for 62 consecutive weeks. "The Birth of a Nation" was only able to last 44 weeks on Broadway, while "Way Down East," "The Four Horsemen," and "The Thief of Bagdad" held up for a lesser period. About five million people have seen this remarkable picture since it was first shown at a $2 scale.

In Los Angeles it held up for 31 weeks, Chicago and Philadelphia 20, Boston 14, San Francisco and Cleveland 8; while in Detroit, Washington and Cincinnati it stayed 5 weeks. Sidney, Australia, played host to it for 30 weeks as did Melbourne; while Paris and Auckland, New Zealand greeted it enthusiastically for 10 weeks. Berlin, as impoverished as it was at the time, played the picture for 4 weeks, with the best seats selling at $5 each.

MEDFORD MAN STRUCK BY BROCKTON CAR IN WINCHESTER

Last Monday while Frank Palitano of 403 Main street, Medford, was running to catch a south bound electric car on Main street at Clark street he was struck by the left front mud guard of a Ford touring car, also headed southerly and driven by Theophile G. Dureault of 21 Enterprise street, Brockton. The injured man with Officer Farrell was taken to the Winchester Police Station in Dureault's machine, and attended by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy. He was found to have sustained a slightly strained back as a result of his experience.

ITALIAN RESIDENTS CELEBRATED COLUMBUS DAY

About 700 attended the exercises in the Town Hall last Monday afternoon held under the auspices of the Christopher Columbus Mutual Aid Association in honor of the discovery of America by Columbus. The above organization, as its name implies, is a mutual aid society having a membership of some 125 of the Italian citizens of the town. It has been in existence about two years.

Monday afternoon's meeting centered about the dedication of two handsome flags; one the Italian national banner, the other, the Stars and Stripes. Addresses were made by Exalted Ruler, Maurice Dinneen of Winchester Lodge of Elks whose subject was "The Flag and Americanism", and by M. Della Porta who spoke on Columbus and the influence which his discovery has had upon the world. A 25 piece band furnished music and refreshments consisting of Italian pastries and ice cream were served.

Following the afternoon program a parade headed by the band was held through the streets of the Italian section of the town. In the evening there was an entertainment and dancing in the Town Hall to music by Gigliotti's orchestra.

The committee in charge of the entire celebration included Salvatore di Teso and Pietro Sciasca.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR BOSTON NEWSPAPER MAN

A large delegation of Newspaper men from the Boston American and other Boston newspapers attended the funeral on last Saturday afternoon of George Raymond Sargent, for 20 years a reporter on the first named daily who died at Sydney, Cape Breton, while covering the return from the Arctic of Commander Donald B. MacMillan, the explorer.

The simple services were conducted at Mr. Sargent's late residence, 17 Park avenue, by the Rev. Louis C. Dethlefs, pastor of the First Parish Unitarian Church, Medford.

Mr. Sargent was a native of Volcano, West Virginia, and the son of George P. Sargent a well-known newspaper publiser and editor. He began newspaper work on the Newburyport Herald and made his home in that city for many years before coming to Boston to join the forces of the Boston American nearly 21 years ago. He was the oldest reporter in point of service on the staff of his paper.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Kate Sargent of this town, Mr. Sargent is survived by a sister, Mrs. G. Fred Newton of Merrimac and three brothers, J. Clyde Sargent of Brockton, Charles P. Sargent of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Donn D. Sargent of Salem.

The interment was in Oak Hill Cemetery, Newburyport.

STOLEN CAR SMASHED, ABANDONED

The occupants of a big six Studebaker sedan miracuously escaped serious injury and possible death during last Saturday morning's snow storm when the machine skidded while bound North on Highland avenue and sliding up over the sidewalk at Mason street, crashed into a vacant lot near the junction of the two ways when it tipped over. The left side of the sedan was badly smashed.

Three men, said to have been occupants of the car, made a hurried departure from the scene without making their identity known. When the police arrived the wrecked sedan was towed to the Central Garage while an investigation was begun to locate its owner. The machine was found to belong to Patrick J. Splaine of 54 Revere street, Boston. The latter when notified by the police informed them that it had been stolen earlier in the day from where it was parked opposite his home. When he came to Winchester to arrange for the removal of his property Mr. Splaine stated that Saturday's case was the second time his car had been stolen.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE IN PIANO CASE

Thomas McHale of Peabody and Elizabeth Lindale of Salem, the pair arrested for the Winchester Police last Wednesday night in Peabody by the authorities of that place, appeared in the District Court at Woburn Saturday morning where they were charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

McHale and his confederate had gotten $300 from Mr. Jeremiah McCarron of Wendell street when Miss Lindale posed as a collection agent from the Henry F. Miller piano Company of Boston after Mr. McCarron had told McHale that an agent from that firm was to come to his home for $290 which he owed on a piano.

The MCcarrons' suspicions were subsequently aroused, and after getting in touch with the Miller people, they acquainted the Winchester police with their experience. The local authorities soon narrowed down their suspects and issued warrants for the arrest of McHale and the Lindale woman which were served last Wednesday.

In court Saturday they were found guilty, and McHale was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction, his companion getting an indefinite term in the Reformatory Prison for Women at Sherburne. Upon the restitution of the $300 to Mr. McCarron their sentence was suspended. The original $300 they stated had already been spent, but they were able to raise its equivalent among their friends.

FAMOUS DIAMOND IS BOUGHT

Englishman Obtains the "Princess Mary," Which Was Saved From the Bolshevists.

Carried to England from Russia at the time of the Bolshevist revolution, the mystery diamond known as the "Princess Mary" has at last changed hands, the purchaser being a resident in the north of England. The price paid has not been divulged, but its late owner, Gordon Nathan, last year withdrew the diamond from auction, as the highest bid did not reach $10,000. The diamond is a stone of yellow tint, with a Maltese cross on the back, and was named the "Princess Mary" because before her wedding a proposal was made to present the stone to her. It weighs 44 karats and is thus almost as large as the famous Hope diamond. Mr. Nathan thinks the value of the stone will appreciate, and says: "So long as the currencies of Europe continue to fluctuate, diamonds will remain the safest investment. Diamonds I sold 25 years ago at $80 a karat are today worth $350 a karat. I don't know of anything else which has increased in value to that extent."

Blowing Out Devils.

In Zululand, South Africa, native doctors collect rich fees by blowing into the ears of their patients to cast out evil spirits. The medicine man seats the victim on the blanketed floor of the outdoor surgery, after announcing that he is to dispel the wicked demons causing sickness. He places a horn to the patient's ear and blows. The ill one generally makes a bad face, cries "enough," and, being convinced that he has been cured, is troubled no more. In severe cases herbs are used as a remedy, when the horn is not effective.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Still in School.

May June met her friend Agnes in the street. They stood talking for a while, when a friend of theirs, Doris by name, passed them on the other side of the street. In animated conversation with her was Colonel Mitkin.

"Were not Doris and the colonel schoolmates?" asked May, as she caught sight of the pair.

"Yes," answered her friend, "and they are yet."

"Where?" asked May in surprise.

"Oh, don't you know?" said Agnes. "In the school for scandal."

MILK CHART FOR SEPTEMBER 1925

Published by the Winchester Board of Health

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The October meeting will be held on Friday, the 23rd, with Mrs. Charles Forsaithe, Morningside. As it is to be an all day sewing meeting for the soldiers and sailors it is reuested that all members bring a basket lunch.

Warnings against the present onslaught of the Wets to find Prohibition impossible to enforce and thus to secure the return of wine and beer, were sounded in a letter sent out by Mrs. Tilton to the members of the Women's Division of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League.

Mrs. Tilton said in part: "As the Research Bureau of the Federal Council of Churches points out, the two main weaknesses in the enforcement of Prohobition are—(1) That the churches since the enactment of the 18th Amendment, have not kept up their crusading spirit against alcohol. (2) That the Government has not sufficiently tried to enforce the Prohibition Law."

"No business man" says Mrs. Tilton, "would place his business in the hands of men who wished to see that business fail and yet, that too often has been the history of Prohibition, in the hands of our Government. Undoubtedly the President of the United States would like to see the law enforced, but to attain this end, means a house cleaning that will take not only time and discourage, but extreme measures.

Mrs. Tilton also points out that a study of history shows that enforcement of Prohibition is following the course of past reforms. The Slave Traffic, abolished in 1807, begot an enormous illicit traffic which we were two generations blotting out. Even such a reform as that prohibiting Chimney Sweeps, brought into being an illicit traffic in climbing boys, smuggled by women into the great houses of England. It took 32 years after the first law was passed, to build up sentiment for a supplementary law that was strong enough to stop this smuggling of little Chimney Sweeps into the castles of England.

Give us a Government that will put Prohibition Enforcement in charge of its friends and we can get reasonable enforcement not in a generation but in a decade. Let every club and church pass a resolution offering to co-operate with President Coolidge in a demand for genuine enforcement.

DON'T FORGET THE HOME

In the basement under the corridor connecting the two homes of the Home for Aged People an ample cold storage room has been installed fitted up with bins and shelves. To any who have raised vegetables or fruit in excess of their needs, the invitation is extended to send such excess to the Home.

Inasmuch as the tastes of the residents of the Home were formed at a time when vegetables were a substantial part of the family diet, it will be readily appreciated how such contributions will be welcomed by them.

This invitation is extended also to those who not being farmers or producers are obliged to secure by purchase their necessities in this line.

The Fire Department had only one run on the holiday, a still alarm calling the ancient Packard at 10.15 in the morning to the residence of Mr. "Ted" Connors on Cross street where a rubbish fire had gotten beyond control and had set fire to some outbuildings on the premises. There was little damage.

Wellesley School Program

The program of the Wellesley School of Politics is as follows:

Oct. 28, 2 p. m.—"Making the Constitution," Prof. Edward Ely Curtis; 3 p. m.—"The Supreme Law of the Land," Prof. Everett Kimball; 8 p. m.—"Growth of Constitution Resulting from Supreme Court Decisions," Ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge; Oct. 29, 10.30 a. m.—"The Unwritten Constitution of the United States," Prof. William M. Munro; 11.30 A. M.—"Dangers of Federal Centralization," Prof. Robert D. Leigh invited; 2.30 p. m.—"What Changes I Think We Ought to Make in the Federal Government," Robert Lincoln O'Brien; 3.30 p. m.—"Symposium, Federal Government and Public Welfare"; 8 p. m.—"Federal Government and Law Enforcement," Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

More opportunity for real conference is allowed for than usual, and material helps will be furnished in printed form.

"Who Is Who" on the Program

Edward Ely Curtis, Ph. D., is assistant professor of history at Wellesley College, giving the courses on the History of Colonial America, of the United States, and the course on American Foreign Relations. He is favorably known to us through his part in the success of the first school at Wellesley.

Albert J. Beveridge was United States Senator from Indiana, 1889-1911. He is a student of American Government and has won universal recognition by means of his Life of John Marshall, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court during the critical days of America's political history. No one is better equipped to discuss the subject of Court interpretations, and, added to his knowledge, Ex-Senator Beveridge is a charming speaker and a delightful person.

Robert Lincoln O'Brien is the Editor of the Boston Herald. His long journalistic career in Washington brought him into intimate relations with statesmen and politicians. His interpretations of Washington to the rest of the world added to his scholarly habit, his close contact with present-day political leaders, his outlook from the editorial conning tower, make what he thinks about the Constitution of deep interest.

A windy sunset sky and out of the sun gliding down to the Air Port landing, a radiant figure is how I first saw Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who is the first woman to fill the position of Assistant Attorney General of the Federal Government. She is a Californian and was appointed by the late President Harding. A lawyer by profession, a speaker of unusual brilliance a clear-cut-pleasing personality she is an outstanding figure in the early days of women's enfranchisement. Her work is in the division of Law Enforcement. The story she will tell the School will not be theoretic.

"WHITE CARGO" AT MALDEN AUDITORIUM

For the first time by any group of resident players in this country, "White Cargo", the tremendous dramatic success will be presented by the Malden Players all next week. As everyone who follows the theatre knows, "White Cargo" played Boston only last season, had a long run there and was probably the most talked of play that has been in the "Hub" in recent years. "White Cargo" is a tale of sun-baked Africa told in a frank forceful manner; it calls a spade a spade and some of its scenes are tensely dramatic. The plot of the play revolves around a native girl, "Tondeleyo" by name, who holds a tremendous fascination for the opposite sex. This role is one of the classics of American drama and to play the part Manager "Eddie" Hayden of the Players has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Miss Dagmar Vola, who was with the original production of "White Cargo" during its Chicago and Philadelphia run and to whom the part is no stranger. Miss Vola's interpretation of "Tondeleyo" is a work of art and her work while with the Malden Players as guest-star is bound to prove sensational. The usual scale of prices will prevail during "White Cargo's week's stay and the matinee days will be Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson spent the week-end in Vermont.

POLICE GET AUTO THIEVES

William Beaudreau of Woburn, Thomas J. McCall of Winchester, and Charles McBrearty of Medford were sentenced in the District Court at Woburn last Saturday morning to serve a year in the House of Correction for the theft of a Ford touring car which was taken from where it was parked in front of the Methodist Church on the evening of Sunday, Oct. 4.

The Winchester police were notified by the owner, Walter E. Bickford of 20 Glenwood avenue, and immediately started work on the case. Last Thursday afternoon the car was found in Woburn completely stripped and on Friday the three men mentioned above were taken into custody by Sergts. Cassidy and Rogers and officer Charles Harrold. Beaudreau was arrested in the morning, McCall and McBrearty, in the evening. All pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing Bickford's car when arraigned in court. They have already begun the serving of their sentence.

Better a Few Days' Delay Than Months of Bitter Disappointment

If you are disposed to be impatient because every new 90-degree Cadillac is snapped up the day it is delivered to the dealer—learn from your friends who are reveling in the new car the delights you will lose by not waiting a few days.

Choice of some other car has always meant the sacrifice of satisfaction—but never before has the invigorating dash, difference and distinctiveness of Cadillac been so immediately apparent.

Cadillac increased its magnificent factory equipment by more than $2,500,000 in new tools, dies and machinery for the perfection of this new car.

Money enough to equip an ordinary motor car plant—to insure a Cadillac performance so certain and so brilliant that the most indifferent motorist must awaken to new enthusiasm.

That is why this spontaneous demand is blanketing forty-eight states—that is why any fortunate owner of a new 90-degree Cadillac will urge you with earnest enthusiasm to consider no other car.

Prices range from $2995 for the Brougham to $4485 for the Custom Imperial. F. O. B. Detroit. Tax to be added

General Motors' own time payment plan (GMAC) furnishes purchasers with the most economical way of buying a Cadillac on time.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Burton C. Caldwell, Jr., of said Winchester, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Winchester, bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by land of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being the Woburn Parkway, 226.18 feet; Southeasterly by said Parkway and Pond Street, 24.67 feet; Southeasterly again by said Pond Street, 80 feet; Southwesterly by land now or formerly of owners unknown, 199.14 feet; and Northwesterly by land now or formerly of owners unknown, 182.90 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the second day of November A. D. 1925, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, CHARLES THORNTON DAVIS, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of October in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-five.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

WILLIAM M. BUTLER
United States Senator From Massachusetts

SENATOR BUTLER TO SPEAK IN WINCHESTER

Many Winchester Republicans are anticipating the pleasure of meeting Senator William M. Butler at an informal reception to be given in his honor by the Women's Republican Club, Monday evening, November 2, at the Winchester Country Club.

Mr. Butler was selected as personal representative to direct the campaign for the nomination of Calvin Coolidge as President, and then chosen as chairman of the Republican National Committee to conduct the campaign for the election of the presidential nominees in 1924. He was appointed on November 26, 1924 by the Governor as United States Senator from Massachusetts for the term expiring in 1926.

Following the reception there will be addresses by Senator Butler and by Hon. Theodore G. Risley of the Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Hon. Francis Prescott, chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Mrs. James D. Tillinghast, director of women's work, will speak briefly. The State committee will also be represented by Mrs. Howard J. Chidley and Mr. William Adriance of Winchester, and the Republican town committee by the chairman, Rep. Thomas R. Bateman.

Mrs. John Jacob Rogers, Congressman from the 5th District, and Congressman Harry I. Thayer will be present if possible.

Refreshments will be served by the Social Committee of the club.

CITIZENS MAY SEE RESERVOIRS

Annual Inspection to be Held Saturday, Oct. 31

The Winchester Water Board announces this week that the annual inspection of the Reservoirs will be held this year on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 31, from 2 to 5 o'clock.

This custom, inaugurated several years ago by Mr. Charles E. Kendall of the Board, affords every resident of our town opportunity to drive through the Fells and around our Reservoirs, and inspect our fine water supply.

The entrance for the cars into the Fells is by way of Mt. Vernon street and the Parkway. All roads in the Fells will be plainly marked and officials will be on hand to direct and give any information desired.

This year's inspection will hold considerable interest in that the reforestation work which has been carried on extensively for a number of years has now attained such propertions that its plan and growth may be noted.

WALLACE—MOULTON

Dr. John R. Wallace of this town was married on Friday evening at the Universalist Church at Salem to Miss Doris Moulton, daughter of Mr. Joseph D. Moulton, a well known Salem druggist. Dr. Wallace, who is a well known Winchester dentist, is a graduate of the Woburn schools and of the Harvard Dental School. He is the son of Mrs. Mary J. Wallace, formerly of Woburn and now of Brookline, well known here through her activity in the local lodge of the Eastern Star. His bride is a graduate of the schools of Salem and the Kindergarten School.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George A. Nichols. Miss Ruth A. Moulton, sister of the bride was bridesmaid and Dr. Trevor of Melrose Highlands, a classmate of the groom, was best man. The bride wore a dress of brown velvet trimmed with lace, with hat to match and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid wore French blue Elizabeth crepe with lace and hat to match, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The ceremony was attended only by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The couple will make their home at 10 Winthrop street, this town.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

Sunday night Box 37 was found open by Officer Noonan and last night Box 38 was found in the same condition by officer Dempsey. The parties responsible for this work ,if caught, will be dealt with severely as there has been entirely too many false alarms pulled the past year.

CROWLEY—HALLORAN

One of the many October weddings took place Sunday when Miss Anna Halloran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Halloran of 68 Harrison avenue, Woburn, was married to Mr. Edward Crowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Crowley of 19 Cedar street, this town. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 at St. Charles Rectory, Woburn, by the Rev. Patrick J. Quill.

The couple were attended by Miss Catherine Halloran, sister of the bride as bridesmaid, and Mr. Walter Crowley, brother of the groom, as best man. The bride was attired in a gown of white brocaded velvet with a veil of tulle caught up with lillies of the valley and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses with a shower of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was charming in yellow canton crepe with a black satin and velvet picture hat. She carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds.

After the ceremony a reception was tendered to about 250 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

A catered supper was served and an orchestra furnished the music during the evening. The house was very attractively decorated with autumnal decorations in honor of the occasion. Guests were present from Boston, Dorchester, Haverhill, Malden, Cambridge, Somerville, Medford, Woburn and Winchester.

After an automobile trip to Montreal Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will reside at 68 Harrison avenue, Woburn.

ENGAGEMENT TEA

A tea was given at the Winchester Country Club on Tuesday, Oct. 20, by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gay Hyde Fitch of Winchester to announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katharine Hyde Fitch to Mr. William Babson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Babson of Gloucester. Miss Fitch graduated from the Buckingham School in Cambridge after which she attended the May School. She is also a provisional member of the Junior League. Mr. Babson is of the class of 1925, Harvard, having prepared at Kent. He is a member of the Institute 1770, also the Hasty Pudding and Styx Clubs.

The tea was followed by a supper party and dance for the intimate friends of Miss Fitch and Mr. Babson, and those who assisted at the tea were the Misses Harriet Babson, Barbara Forbes, Cynthia Poinier, Barbara Fairfield, Frances Love, Alice Sutton, Lucile Close, Nancy Clark, Martha Ginn, Margery Ordway, Nathalie Thumim, Frances Comins, and Mrs. Howard Tibbets and Mrs. Arthur Mudge, Jr. The decorations were autumn foliage and chrysanthemums.

TRUCK ROBBED AFTER ALL

After reporting to the Winchester Police that he feared that men who were following him in a Ford sedan had intentions of robbing him, a driver for the Boston trucking firm of A. Fowle was later robbed of considerable merchandise north of Woburn Saturday morning.

The driver stopped at the police station at 5 a. m. He said he was being followed by a Ford sedan and he feared that its occupants intended robbing him of part of his load. He said he had been subject to previous thefts. Later in the day the Woburn police reported that somewhere north of Woburn he had been robbed of six cases of rubber heels and one case of shoe findings. Some of the goods was found scattered along the road.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT CEDAR HILL—IMPORTANT

The Cedar Hill Auxiliary is to hold a Harvest Festival at Cedar Hill on Saturday, Oct. 31, from 11 to 4 o'clock. The time is very short and we need a great deal of help. The Auxiliary asks you to co-operate with them as much as you can. Articles for the following booths are needed: canned goods, jellies, jams, cake, candy, vegetables, fruit, greens for winter bouquets, articles for white elephant table, pumpkin and squash pies, articles not over 25 cents for a parcel post table.

There will be Hallowe'en stunts and movies for the Scouts and folk dancing. Tea will be served in the farm house.

All Winchester Scouts are invited. Please come.

Miss Rosamond Lefavour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lefavour of Herrick street, is one of 26 greater Boston girls on the dean's honor list at Smith College. Miss Lefavour is a member of the Senior Class and a graduate of Winchester High School.

LAUNDRY SHOW

Annual Affair Presented With Usual Success

The annual show of the Mutual Benefit Association of the Winchester Laundries was presented in the Town Hall last night before a crowded house, the audience embracing guests from practically every surrounding city and town. As usual, the show was a decided success; attractive and entertaining, and well presented in every feature.

Entitled "What Could be Slicker," the production comprised a musical revue in three acts, designed and directed by Langdon Matthews, with Ives' orchestra, directed by D. A. Ives furnishing the instrumental music. The numbers with one exception were musical and dancing, and the laundry boys and girls certainly demonstrated their ability in these departments.

The soloists were T. Parker Clarke, who rendered two selections to encores, and Miss Verna MacArthur, who sang a Chinese lullaby and responded at the request of the audience with two other Chinese songs. Both soloists were features of the performance. A "Sylvian Ballet," with Miss Ruth Brooks and Miss Dorris Tupper was an especially good feature, Miss Tupper especially winning favor by her graceful dancing. Miss Brooks, appearing with Mr. Leo Finnegan in "Tea for Two," created another hit, and the couple were repeatedly recalled by the delighted audience.

The most attractive chorus number was the "Collegiate," danced and sung by two girls. This number brought down the house, and the audience could not get enough of it. Other features were the Hawaiian Singers, with Percy Bent as soloist and "Hard-Hearted Hannah," with John Fitzgerald as soloist. These were both entertaining numbers and well sung and danced.

A short comedy, "Charlotte's Ruse," was presented by Miss Pearl Dearborn, Miss Ruth McElhinney, Mr. Raymond Young and Mr. Charles P. Downer, which was also much enjoyed.

The music for the specialties was played by Miss Florence S. Jones, pianist.

The affair was in charge of a committee of the association with Mr. Roscoe C. Wallace, manager, assisted by Miss Clara E. MacDonald and Miss Grace Van Buskirk. The staff included Mr. John R. Gutierrez, Miss Kathryn MacCormack, Miss Idella A. Wallace, Miss Florence M. Jewett and Miss Alice A. Fenton.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The club house will be closed for the season Oct. 31. Members are advised to remove effects from lockers, especially pillows or any eatables which rats or other rodents are liable to carry away.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS ENTERTAINED

Those who attended the first meeting of the season last Monday afternoon were amply repaid for their effort. The drive over High street and the newly constructed Ridge street when the autumn beauties were at their height was one to be remembered.

Mrs. Francis Henderson and Mrs. W. L. Thompson entertained about 60 members. Tea was served in Mrs. Henderson's beautiful home, the highest point in Middlesex County. Everyone enjoyed from her western windows the distant views tinted with autumn gold and bronzes and the more deeply colored foliage nearby.

After tea, the entire company crossed the street to the home of the president, Mrs. W. L. Thompson. Mrs. Thompson's home is most interesting, not only for its ideal situation but for its historical associations and antiques of genuine merit. In her house, which is more than 150 years old, bullets were made for the Battle of Lexington: the wooden moulds in which these bullets were cast were on exhibition. Interesting documents relating to the early Johnson and Wyman families were to be seen; grocery bills incurred by the family as early as 1750; so many gallons of rum accompanying each order. Presumably this rum was used for the making of switchel for the farm hands.

Miss Delia Whitney rendered most delightfully some piano selections. The members of the League are most grateful to Mrs. Henderson and to Mrs. Thompson for a very delightful afternoon spent in their homes on Ridge street.

Rosslyn Farm, Ridge street, the summer home of Francis R. Henderson of Cambridge, was the scene of a somewhat pathetic gathering, although a happy one, on Friday. Mrs. Henderson, who is chairman of the Welfare Committee of the Federation of Churches in Cambridge, entertained large group of the "Shut-ins" of that city, at luncheon. Cambridge friends placed their automobiles at the disposal of the hostess and it was a pathetic sight to see the blind and lame assisted from the cars. A bountiful luncheon was served and those who had the precious gift of sight, helped those who had not. A splendid day as to weather, a red letter day to the "shut-ins."

WINCHESTER VISITING NURSE AND HOSPITAL NOTES

Through the generous courtesy of one of our citizens, Mr. Allen H. Wood, of Putnam & Wood Co. we are to have assistance in our publicity for the association and hospital. Watch out for the articles and read them with car if you would be kept informed of our growth and importance.

This past week has been an unusually busy one in the operating suite, as it has been in almost constant use, by night as well as by day. Miss Hayter, the nurse in charge of this department has returned after a short leave of absence on account of the death of her mother.

Miss Mackaye is in attendance at the American Hospital Association Convention in Loujsville, Ky, where she will gain inspiration for her work, meet other superintendents, and through personal contact with many of those in authority on these subjects will learn the best modern methods of solving the problems of the small community hospital.

The furnishing committee is in close touch with the building committee, and report the ordering of furniture for the new nurses' home. Very soon the 16 new rooms for the nurses will be ready for occupancy. The comfort of feeling settled will be deeply appreciated after the inconveniences of the past months.

One of the most successful dancing parties of the season was held at the Winchester Boat Club Oct. 17, by a committee composed of Misses Evelyn Toppan, Ethel Drinkwater, Marguerite McFadden, Edith Johnson, Mary Langan, Marion Ladd, Ethel Hersey, and Mrs. Dorothy Butterfield. Music was furnished by "Reg" Sackett's orchestra. Over 40 couples attended.

A PROGRAM OF ROLAND HAYES CONTAINS ALL THAT HAS MADE HIM FAMOUS

The recital which Roland Hayes will give in the Town Hall on Nov. 13, will contain precisely what has set Europe and America wondering and admiring in the last few seasons.

This is Roland Hayes' third tour of America and Winchester will hear him in the first concert of that town. Last summer he completed his fifth tour of Europe. When he sings in London or Paris or Berlin or Vienna, when he appears in any of our larger cities, from New York to San Francisco, the announcement of his name will fill auditorium and stage, again and again.

He is singled out by the first critics of Europe, given columns of praise in our metropolitan or western newspapers, editorials, magazine articles. He has been asked to sing before the royal families of Europe. He is sought as soloist with the leading symphony orchestras of both continents.

And not many years ago Roland Hayes was taking domestic and factory jobs, in the effort to educate himself while supporting his family on their small Georgia farm holding.

The magic by which Roland Hayes has wrought this change from the most humble to the very top of fame, is a tenor voice of silken texture, a perfect vocal mastery which even now has not ceased to surprise, and an unbelievable faculty of identification with the emotion of a song.

Roland Hayes feels and imparts the exaltation of the negro spirituals; the charm of his eighteenth century interpretations is indescribable; his sympathy with the particular moods of the German "Lieder" and the songs of France is a marvel for the critics and audiences of these nations. Roland Hayes will be heard in each of these styles of sing in his program here.

The concert is to be given under the joint auspices of the Pop Concert Committee and the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church. The tickets are being handled by Dr. Mary T. Maynard, 80 Church street, tel. Win. 0313-M.

CALDWELL—HAY

Miss Dora Revere Hay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miner L. Hay of Stoneham and Mr. John E. Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Caldwell of Central street, this town, were married on Saturday evening at Hay Homestead, the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry L. Secrist, pastor of the Stoneham Unitarian Church, at 8 o'clock in the presence of members of the families and intimate friends. The residence was beautifully decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums, asparagus fern and palms.

Mr. Wellington L. Caldwell of this town, brother of the groom, as best man and Mrs. Donald Whitney MacLean of Washington, D. C., and Lowell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The ushers for the ceremony and following reception were Mr. Curtis H. Caldwell of New York, and Mr. Richard K. Caldwell of this town, both brothers of the groom.

The bride wore for her wedding dress a creation of georgette and lace, with her veil arranged with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried roses and lillies of the valley. The matron of honor wore turquoise blue georgette and carried tea roses.

A reception followed the ceremony from 8:30 to 10 o'clock, largely attended by many friends of the couple, and at its close, they left on a wedding trip through the White Mountains. They will make their home on their return at 1409 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton.

MRS. FRANK E. CRAWFORD

Mrs. Winnifred Lucy Crawford, wife of Mr. Frank E. Crawford of Wildwood street, died at her home on Wednesday after an illness of six months. She was widely known among Winchester people, having made her home here for the past 15 years.

Mrs. Crawford was a native of Emlenton, Pa., the daughter of T. C. and Anna Porterfield Middleton. She married Mr. Crawford 26 years ago and came to Winchester to make her home in 1910. During her residence here she was active in the affairs of the Winchester M. E. Church, and it was through her interest and generosity that the Ladies' Aid room in the new church was furnished. She was a member of the Fortnightly and active in the Auxiliary of the Morgan Memorial.

Mrs. Crawford is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Burdette K. Poland of Philadelphia, and a brother and sister, both of Pennsylvania.

The funeral services are to be held at Emlenton this Saturday, and the interment will be at that place.

JOHN O'CONNOR

John O'Connor, a resident of this town for the past 55 years, passed away Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Power, of 149 Swanton street after an illness of five weeks. He was a native of Ireland and was born in County Sligo 84 years ago.

He was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Woburn. He leaves a brother, Patrick, a daughter, Mrs. Josephine Power and three grandchildren all of this town.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the home of his daughter, 149 Swanton street.

"FALL FROLIC"

The Winchester Teachers' Club held its regular get-to-gether party last evening in the Wyman School Hall with a large attendance of members and guests. The affair, termed the "Fall Frolic," proved a decided success and thoroughly fulfilled its purpose of introducing the teachers of the various grades to other members of the staff, officials and some parents. The entertainment included a minstrel show, a radio stunt by Mr. Dwight B. Hill, refreshments and dancing. The committee in charge included Miss Mary H. Barr, chairman, of the Wadleigh School, Mr. Arthur E. Butters of the High School, Miss Barbara McAdams of the Lincoln School, Miss Mildred A. Holbrook of the Mystic School, Miss Clara Antin of the Noonan School and Miss Gertrude E. Hayward of the Wyman School.

BIG CANOE MEET AT LAKE GEORGE

Announcement was made this week through the representatives of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association that the national board of governors of the American Canoe Association had decided to hold the national camp and meet of the association at Turtle Island, Lake George, the last three weeks of August, 1926. This news has created a big stir in the A. C. A. membership circles. This move to hold the camp and meet in the United States after 23 years, following with Sugar Island, in the St. Lawrence River, Canada, as the location was learned. There is much enthusiasm all through New England and along the Atlantic Coast and also in inland districts where canoe and boat clubs flourish. It means much to these devotees, as they have found it difficult to attend camp gatherings, owing to the distance to Canada and inconveniences encountered going to Sugar Island.

CHARM PRESENTED TO CHAIRMAN

At the regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks Tuesday evening, Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, chairman of the Community and Social Welfare Committee, was presented with a handsome gold charm bearing the Elks' insignia and beautifully engraved. The gift was presented on behalf of the lodge by Exalted Ruler Maurice Dinneen in recognition of Mr. Nichols' untiring and faithful work as head of the organization's charitable committee ,now recognized as the Town's foremost relief in caring for this work.

The meeting was largely attended. The speaker of the evening was Exalter Ruler Francis McGrath of Woburn Lodge, and during the evening a vaudeville program was given by Messrs. Fairchild and Jester of Wakefield.

SPOKE ON OLD IRONSIDES

Various members of Winchester Lodge of Elks visited the schools of the town last week and spoke on the campaign now being conducted by the Elks all over the country to raise funds for the preservation of the famous old frigate Old Ironsides. The contributions being received in this town are very encouraging, and it is hoped that Winchester will raise its quota without difficulty.

During the week Messrs. George T. Davidson and Fred H. Scholl spoke before the scholars at the Wyman, Noonan and Washington Schools; Messrs. Fred D. Clement and John McNally at the Wadleigh, Highand and Mystic Schools, and Charles J. Harrold and James J. Fitzgerald at the High, Lincoln and Parochial Schools.

THE ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The entertainment committee has planned a Hallowe'en Party to be held at Metcalf Hall at 8 o'clock on Wednesday, Oct. 28. Special features, in addition to the customary Hallowe'en stunts, appropriate refreshments, and an orchestra to furnish the music for dancing, all indicate a very enjoyable evening. Members are invited to bring guests.

The affair of the season, the Elks' Charity Ball, Nov. 19.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Mr. Edward M. Messenger of Washington street, 84 years of age and a resident of this town of many year's standing, was struck by an automobile truck last Saturday morning and painfully shocked and injured. The accident occurred at the corner of Ridgeway and Washington streets as a Reo speed wagon, driven by Timothy E. Walsh of Woburn was being driven out of Ridgeway. Mr. Messenger was knocked down by the truck.

It was at once seen that his condition was serious, and Walsh, assisted by Lawrence McElhiney, took him to his home, where he was attended by Dr. Simon. He was found to be suffering from severe body bruises, particularly on his head and knee, and also suffering from the shock. Latest reports are that he is resting comfortably and his condition shows improvement.

OPENING DINNER SATURDAY NIGHT

The annual opening dinner of the Calumet Club will be held this Saturday night at the club house, starting at 6:30 o'clock. There is to be a vaudeville show during the dinner, followed by special matches in billiards, pool, bridge and bowling.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A Hallowe'en Party is to be held at the Calumet Club next week Friday evening with a special program appropriate to the season.

PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT

A public meeting at the small town hall is to be held next Friday evening under the auspices of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the meeting, to which all citizens of Winchester are invited, is to hear an explanation and hold a debate on the two important questions of recent increases in telephone rates and the matter of assessing and valuation of our town.

To this end the guests and speakers of the evening will include Mr. C. F. Shaw, general manager of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, who will speak on the telephone rates ,and Mr. D. W. Creelman of the department of Corporation and Taxation of the State House. Our own Board of Assessors will be present to speak upon the valuation and assessing of our town.

The evening will open at 8 o'clock with a regular business meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, at which time new applications for membership will be received and committee reports made.

A concert will be given during the evening by the High School orchestra.

WOMAN DISAPPEARED

Mrs. Mary Bradley, about 65 years of age disappeared from her home on Baldwin street about four weeks ago and has not been heard from since. At the request of neighbors, who feared that harm might have come to her alone in the house, the police went through the place Monday, but beyond finding the bodies of two cats who had starved to death, there was no evidence that she had been there.

Mrs. Bradley had made her home in Winchester for a long time. She was housekeeper for the late Capt. Sullivan who died early in the fall, and is said to be the possessor of considerable property. She has a son in Los Angeles.

About four weeks ago she shut up the house and told her neighbors that she was going away for three days. Since then no word has been received from her and efforts are being made to locate her.

MRS. PATTERSON SPEAKS UNDER AUSPICES OF INTER-CHURCH COUNCIL

Mrs. Ethel E. Patterson of Los Angeles spoke at the first forum meeting Sunday afternoon at the First Congregational Church, under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council on "The Practice of the Presence of God." Rev. Howard J. Chidley presided. A series of five union services under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council were held this week as follows: Monday, First Baptist Church; Tuesday, Second Congregational Church; Wednesday, Methodist Episcopal Church; Thursday night, First Unitarian Church; Friday, Church of the Epiphany.

WATERTOWN TAKES LEAGUE TILT

Safety in Opening Quarter Fatal to Winchester's Chances

A bad pass toward the end of the first quarter forced Winchester to make a safety which enabled Watertown High to triumph in a Mystic League football game on Manchester Field last Saturday afternoon by the close score of 8 to 6.

It was a close battle and hard fought all the way with Watertown having a slight edge due to a clear advantage in weight. As in all previous games Winchester's propensity to fumble and get offside, especially while on the defensive, proved a heavy handicap, and gave its opponents many unearned yards.

The visitors gained almost all of their ground in the early part of the game on a tackle-back play in which their big star Captain Packard left his place in the line to run with the ball between tackle and end behind a four-man interference. Both the Watertown touchdown and the locals safety came as a result of the yardage gained on this formation. As the game progressed the Winchester line presented a stronger defense for this play and its opponents abandoned its use.

Coach Mansfield's boys had a tough time getting their running game under way against the big Watertown forwards, and whenever it did look as though they might get started, a fumble or a bad pass would crop out to gum the works. Winchester might have gained much ground on the splendid punting of Knowlton, but in nearly every instance his lengthy boots, one of which went 65 yards from scrimmage, were nullified by offside play.

This offside stuff paved the way for the winning two points in the opening quarter. After Knowlton had kicked off and both teams had failed to get their offense under way, Winchester recovered a Watertown fumble on its own four-yard line. A poor pass cost the locals five yards, and after two end runs had produced nothing Knowlton punted short and high to midfield where the Watertown back was downed without gain.

The ball, however, was brought back as a Winchester lineman was offside, and was given to the visitors on the locals' 30-yard line. Immediately the locals were detected offside again and the ball went another five yards nearer their goal line. From this point Watertown rushed to the Winchester two-yard line where the home team braced. On second down Watertown was offside, and the resulting penalty and the locals stiff defense gave Winchester the ball on its own two-yard line.

Knowlton fell back to punt, but a poor pass went over his head and he was obliged to fall on the ball for a safety beyond the end zone. The ball was put in play at the 30-yard mark, and the period ended with Knowlton making 15 yards through the visiting line.

Shortly after the opening of the second quarter an exchange of punts gave Watertown the ball on Winchester's 45-yard line. Here the visitors started a real march up the field. They were halted momentarily on the 26-yard stripe, but big Packard crashed off tackle for a first down on the 16-yard line and from this point Watertown plugged along to within the five-yard marker. Winchester now braced perceptably and three rushes by Packard left the ball a scant foot from the local goal line. On fourth down Garret just barely made the distance through center. The trial at goal failed.

The half ended shortly after, and the third period found both teams battling on even terms in the center of the field. Knowlton got off one beautiful punt to the Watertown 15-yard line where "Spike" O'Donnell nailed Capricio in his tracks only to have an offside decision bring the ball back to the Winchester 45-yard line. The period ended with ball in Winchester's possession at mid-field.

Shortly after the start of the fourth quarter Knownton punted to Watertown's 35-yard line. A bad pass lost the visitors 15 yards, but Winchester was penalized five yards for failure to report a substitute. Watertown kicked and Knowlton ran the ball back to their 37-yard line. A poor pass lost five yards here and on the next play Knowlton heaved a long forward to "Bernie" Murphy. The play was completed on Watertown's 25-yard line, Murphy getting over the line at the extreme right hand corner of the field. He was aided in his dash by some nice cleaning out by Cassidy and O'Donnell. Rolli failed to kick the goal, and Winchester kicked off, the ball being run to midfield.

From this point the visitors stalled noticeably for time, being allowed to get away with it by the officials who hadn't made much of a hit with the crowd from the opening whistle. Near the close of the period the visitors recovered a punt at the Winchester 15-yard stripe, and had advanced the ball to the eight-yard line where the locals took it on downs as the game ended.

CALUMET BOWLING

Excellent Scores Showing Up on Local Alleys

Excellent scores were the rule in the week's bowling at the Calumet Club and close figures resulted in the early matches rolled this week. Team 2, in taking three points from team 20, won the first roll-off and after losing the second by three, won the third by one, thus winning the totals by two. Team 3 won all four from 15 and team 1 all four from 19. Higgins rolled the honor string and total in these matches with 133 and 365.

Among the high scores were the following:

WINCHESTER GIRLS SHUT OUT SWAMPSCOTT

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team got away to a good start in the Northern Division of the Interscholastic league when it defeated Swampscott, 3 to 0, on Manchester Field last Friday afternoon. The locals outclassed their opponents during most of the game and clearly earned their victory.

The visitors started well and looked like winners in the first quarter, keeping the ball in Winchester's territory much of the time. The good work of the local defense players, however, prevented any scoring, and as time progressed, the ball was gradually pushed back to midfield.

In the second quarter the Winchester girls seemed to find themselves and launched an offensive which took the ball right down to the visitors' sticks where "Kay" Valleley scored the first point on a nice shot from scrimmage. After the face-off Winchester again pressed Swampscott back until "Kay" Carlisle hooked the ball out of the bunch and shot the second goal.

No score resulted from the play of the third quarter, though Swampscott was kept constantly on the defensive.

Shortly after the start of the final period Winchester rushed to the Swampscott goal and Carlisle scored the last point of the game. The visitors rallied here and succeeded in getting to within striking distance of the Winchester sticks several times, being prevented from scoring by the locals' air tight defense. "Kay" Valleley, Winchester's center forward, who had been going along nicely was forced to retire from the game toward the end of the second quarter when she was struck in the face by a viciously lofted ball from the club of one of the visiting fullbacks. It was a nasty crack, but an examination by a physician to whom she was taken revealed nothing serious, and it is hoped that she will not be long out of the line-up. Her place at center forward was taken by Christine Higgins, Ruth Cleary jumping into the latter's berth at right inside.

"PEG O' MY HEART" FOR MALDEN AUDITORIUM

"Peg O' My Heart," Laurette Taylers' supreme starring vehicle and the play that has charmed theatre-goers of both the Eastern and Western hemispheres is announced as the attraction for next week for the Malden Players at the Auditorium.

Fame and fortune have followed closely upon the heels of this wonderful play, brimful of comedy and pathos.

The role of "Peg" which was originally played by Laurette Taylor will be enacted next week by Miss Hazel Shannon who begins her engagement as leading lady with the Players. Manager Hayden also announces the musical comedy "Little Jessie James" to follow "Peg."

UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

The Men's Club of the Unitarian Church will hold its regular meeting on Friday, Nov. 6, at 6:30 in the church vestry. "Bill" Wood and his efficient committee of culinary experts will serve a dinner which will enhance their already enviable reputation. The speaker of the evening will be Dr. William F. Boos, the famous specialist on poisons and their effects. He will draw from his wealth of experience as an expert witness in many famous murder trials. It is hoped and expected that a very large gathering will attend this meeting.

SOCCER NEWS

A very interesting soccer game is to be played on Saturday, Oct. 24, at 3 o'clock sharp on Manchester Field. The Winchester Juniors will play the St. John's. The locals have won every game this season so far, and is on top in the league, so we expect to see a fast and lively game, as the boys are in good trim for the game.

16TH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE MASS. PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

Of interest to the many Winchester members of the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher Association is the annual convention to be held in Springfield, Oct. 28, 29 and 30.

The Hotel Kimball will be headquarters and meetings will be held at the hotel and at the Mahogany Room, Municipal Building. The general theme will be: "One Hundred Per Cent Citizens in Home, School, Community."

A leaders' institute, conducted by Ruth A. Bottomly is scheduled for the first day. There will be a memorial service for the late Mrs. Milton P. Higgins who for 10 years was president of the state association, and for three years, of the national association.

There will be round table conferences on all sorts of child welfare subjects, an informal get-together dinner, a luncheon for local presidents who will debate: "Resolved That the Child of Today Is Better Trained Than the Child of a Generation Ago," and a play hour after one of the evening meetings.

Two of the important addresses will be: "Play as Education," by Mrs. Cornelia James Cannon; and "The Making of Character" by Dr. Henry Neuman. Meetings are open to all interested.

FOUR DAYS COLLECTING TAX ENOUGH FOR HIM; QUITS

Stockbridge, Oct. 20 — After four days as tax coleletor, George R. Hall has decided he doesn't want the job. He has given his resignation to Town Clerk Schilling. Friends says he didn't like the responisibility. During his four-day term he collected and turned over between $3000 and $4000 in taxes. He succeeded Michael Flynn, second alleged defaulting collector.

Mrs. Philip Jones (Joan Newell) of Shelton, Conn., is spending a week in town visiting her brother, Mr. Charles F. Newell.

Messrs. George F. Arnold and Charles E. Kendall of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, who petitioned the Selectmen on behalf of the Chamber to install directing signs about town, furnishing a list of desired locations therefore, have been requested to confer with the Town Engineer regarding such locations before the Board takes action.

Mr. Robert A. Spong, who petitioned for an automobile paint shop on Hemingway street, has been refused the permit following a hearing held the first of the week. The location coming within the zoning restrictions, it has been deemed inadvisable to over-ride the law in view of the objections of numerous residents in the neighborhood.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

One ungrateful man does an injury to all who are in need of aid.

A good forgetory is often more valuable than a good memory.

We hear men say that they try to drown their troubles, but why do they drown them by way of their stomach?

Let the heart sing while the hands toil to get 100 per cent value.

I heard of a man who kept his wife in bed a full month after she was well so the neighbors would continue sending in good things to eat.

CAMPAIGN TO SAVE BABIES

The State Department of Public Health blames artificial feeding for a very large per cent of infant deaths. For this reason the department is asking the physicians and nurses all over the State to lay special stress on breast-feeding. A breast-feeding campaign is being launched in six cities and towns in Massachusetts, to obtain actual figures as to the value of breast-feeding. In every case the physicians of the city or town are the backbone of the campaign. Under their supervision the nursing organization is visiting the mother of every new born baby, and encouraging the mother either by a personal visit or through the mail until the child is six months of age. In this way it is hoped that the number of babies receiving the advantages of breast-feeding will be increased.

K. OF C. NOTES

A program of activities that will eclipse any ever undertaken by the members of Winchester Council, K. of C. is now being formulated by the officers of the council. This program which will include every branch of fraternal activities will be fostered by several committees, each working independently in part but with a goal of cooperative results as their objectives.

The recent successful autumn festival conducted by the council did much to revive interest in council matters among the members. The suggestion that committees be appointed to handle the work of the council under a prescribed plan was received with much enthusiasm.

The scope of the committee work will be general although details that in the past have been overlooked or allowed to pass as insignificant will be dealt with to a more minute degree.

The committees have been appointed and will begin to function for the first time when a series of five whist parties will be conducted. The date for the opening party has not yet been determined. In the meantime a party will be conducted in aid of the council funds by Miss Elizabeth Shinnick, Thursday evening, Oct. 29.

Those who comprise the committees and their designations are:

Membership — Frank E. Rogers, chairman; George Young, Henry Longfield, D. F. Dinneen, Luke P. Glendon.

Lapsation—Luke P. Glendon, chairman; Michael C. Ambrose, Arthur King, John M. Lynch, E. P. Sullivan.

Finance — Arthur King, chairman; Henry Murphy, William Hevey, Frank E. Rogers, Luke P. Glendon.

Sick—D. Frank Dinneen, chairman; Harry Ferrullo, P. J. Kenneally, Daniel Reardon.

Entertainment — Harry Ferrullo, chairman; George Sullivan, John Fitzgerald, Arthur Day, Fred Boyle.

Publicity — Francis R. Murphy, chairman; Michael C. Ambrose, Edward Cullen.

Athletic — Arthur Day, chairman; Edward McMahon, Thomas Kileoyne.

Relief—Terrence D. Cullen chairman; Eugene P. Sullivan, Edward Goggin.

At the Oct. 19 meeting of the council, Deputy Grand Knight D. F. Dinneen presided in the absence of Grand Knight Terrence Cullen. A partial report of the festival results was heard and proved that the affair was very successful.

It was announced that the valuable ring inscribed with the insignia of the order which is to be awarded the winner of the contest of chances now being conduced, will be awarded at the first of the series of whist parties. This ring which could be duplicated only at considerable cost continues to be an attraction for members and their friends.

Information Bulletin Concerning the World Court—History

A 600 Year Old Ideal

For more than 600 years the ideal of a court of international justice has been stirring in the minds of men. As long ago as 1305 a Frenchman, Pierre Dubois, suggested it and numerous schemes were advanced during the intervening centuries, but none of them led to the establishment of such a tribunal.

The Present Idea of a World Court Distinctly American

The present day idea of a court of international justice, however, may be claimed as distinctly American. When the United States established the Supreme Court, it introduced a new factor into the development of democratic government. Within that court it is possible for one state to sue another state, or for one state or several states to sue all the other states.

In the forties and fifties Elihu Burritt, being greatly impressed with this excellent substitute of law for war, made several trips to Europe, interviewing various governments and always visiting every peace congress, where he advocated an international court which should do for Europe and the world what our Supreme Court was doing for our federation of states. He contended that if Rhode Island could sue Massachusetts, France could sue England, or Germany sue France, instead of going to war.

First Hague Conference, 1899

When in 1899, representatives of 26 countries met at the Hague under the call of the Russian Czar, Mr. John Hay, then Secretary of State, instructed the American delegation to propose a permanent international tribunal. About the only thing resulting from that Conference was action upon this American proposal and the Permanent Court of Arbitration at the Hague was created. This Court has arbitrated satisfactorily several questions, although its form has never been accepted by the best lawyers as a genuine court of law.

Second Hague Conference, 1907

In 1907, the United States urged another Hague Conference which was held. Mr. Elihu Root, then Secretary of State, instructed the American delegation to propose a permanent court which should be practically a replica of the Supreme Court of the United States. The American delegation, headed by Mr. Joseph H. Choate, carried out the instructions with the result that a draft convention for the establishment of such a court was adopted. The delegations, however, came to disagreement over the method of appointing the judges. The old question of whether small states should be equal to great nations in the power of the election of the judges was the contention which prevented the court's being actually established. The project, however, was continued in discussion and those who were its strongest advocates believed that it would soon be organized when the World War came and postponed all international movements.

Article XIV of the League Covenant

The project, however, almost completely American in origin and effort, was finally included in the Covenant of the League of Nations as one of the things to be achieved. Article XIV reads as follows:

> The Council shall formulate and submit to the members of the League for adoption plans for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice. The Court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The Court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The Court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question referred to it by the Council or by the Assembly.

Drafting of the World Court Statute

As a result, the Council of the League of Nations in 1920 invited a committee of jurists to draft a plan for a world court. The committee was composed of 11 very eminent international lawyers among them the Honorable Elihu Root, formerly Secretary of State of the United States; Baron Phillimore, member of the Privy Council of Great Britain; and Bernard Loder of the Supreme Court of the Netherlands who later became the first president of the World Court. Numerous suggestions were laid before the committee of jurists and after five week's deliberation, a draft scheme was drawn up and presented to the Council of the League. This scheme was considered and amended by the Council and submitted by it to the League Assembly at its first meeting in December, 1920. The Assembly adopted the plan with one additional amendment.

Establishment of the Court

When the Second Assembly met in September 1921, a majority of the members of the League had joined the Court and thus its existence was assured and the Assembly and Council proceeded with the election of the judges. The plan for the election of the judges had been proposed by Mr. Elihu Root. Under the plan, nominations are made by the national groups composing the Permanent Court of Arbitration, each group nominating four persons, not more than two of them to be of the group's own nationality. The Assembly and the Council of the League of Nations, acting separately, select 11 judges and four deputies from these nominees and no election is declared until the candidate has received a majority vote of both houses. This was accomplished satisfactorily and on Jan. 30, 1922, the World Court met for the first time at the Hague.

Among the approaching weddings of interest to Winchester people are those of Mr. Charles Bernard Mahoney of Salem and Miss Martha Louise Russell of Cambridge street, and Mr. Dell Wayland Blood of Yale street and Miss Katherine Freeman of Fredonia, N. Y.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Wyman School

The first meeting of the Wyman Chapter of the Junior Red Cross was held on Tuesday, Oct. 20. The officers elected were:

President—Betty Fowle
Secretary—Priscilla Chamberlain
Treasurer—Russell Billman

Committees were appointed to collect and help pack the Christmas boxes. Four original stories were read by different children. The entertainment was furnished by the Fourth Grade.

Frances Poinier

Friday, Oct. 16, Grade 6-A went to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to study Greek architecture. A docent gave them an hour's instruction. Since they returned they have planned a lecture for Grade 6-B using sketches made by one of the boys.

Anita M. Wilson

Mystic School

Red Cross Officers have been chosen as follows:

President—Daniel West
Vice-President—Janet Mullin
Secretary—Ann Claflin
Treasurer—Gladys Woodford
Executive Board—Barbara Chidley, Grade 6; Albert Lynch, Grade 5; Marjorie Dutch, Grade 4; Ellen Rivinius, Grade 3; David Howard, Grade 2; Jean Fowler, Barbara Bond, Grade 1; Caroline Maudlin, Kindergarten.

The third grade has been making an intensive study of Indians the past three weeks. For assembly Thursday, this grade gave an Indian program which consisted of an Indian Lullaby sung by seven girls in costume and a dramatic reading of the story of Pocahontas and John Smith. Both selections were much enjoyed by pupils and parents. The head-bands worn in the play were made by the children in drawing, the feathers being enameled in bright colors while the band was made of brown paper with the Indian symbols of the sun, moon, stars and animals designed upon it. Friday afternoon the children were taken to the Peabody Museum to see the Indian exhibit there.

The School Department is co-operating with the Mothers' Association in a program to be given at the High School Assembly Hall on Nov. 3. The parents of the children in the public schools are cordially invited.

The evening schools will open at the Lincoln School on Monday evening, Nov. 2. Classes will be held three evenings a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Classes in Americanization will be held for beginners, for intermediate pupils and for advanced pupils. Another class will be held for people desiring to improve themselves in the usual school subjects. The classes will be held from 7.30 to 9 o'clock each evening.

Co-operation With the Middlesex County Extension Service

During the summer, classes in canning were held in the High School in co-operation with the Middlesex County Extension Service. An exhibition of the work of the pupils during the summer may be seen in one of the windows at Richardson's Market.

During the next few months the home demonstration agent of Middlsex County will give a series of talks on "Clothing" under the auspices of the Mothers' Chapter of the Washington School.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

The next social of the Club will be held on Wednesday night, Oct. 28, when it is confidently predicted, Lyceum Hall will be crowded with merry-makers of the female sex at the Hallowe'en Party scheduled for that night. Fancy costume will be in order and the "ghost" will walk and cut capers in proper style.

The affair will open with a mock-marriage, in which many of the clever impersonators of the Club will appear and give a weird version of the nuptial ceremony. Any prospective bride who misses this performance will be minus a lot of useful and illuminative information as to trousseau and bridal procedure in general. The wedding music for this occasion will be supplied by Mrs. Anna W. Lochman.

A feature of the evening's entertainment will be a demonstration of the terpsichorean art by a group of country maids and their swains, with music performed under the direction of Mrs. Beatrice Lord.

The Old Plantation Sketch featuring Old Black Joe and his minstrel band, includes many well-known and popular soloists: Mrs. Mary McGrath, Mrs. Clara Morrison, Mrs. May Harrold Sullivan and Miss Elna Larson. Special song and dance numbers will be given by the Misses Mary and Helen McGrath, and by Miss Elna Larson and Mrs. Mabel Larson, with impersonations by Mrs. Frances Sullivan, Mrs. Susan Quigley and others. The orchestration for this production will be under the supervision of Mrs. Harriet C. Cleary and the scenic effects by Mrs. May Harrold Sullivan.

A grand march in which everyone present is expected to join, is an established custom of these parties. Whether a member of the Club or not, anyone may compete for the prizes offered for the prettiest, the most original and the funniest costumes. Many vaudeville numbers have been booked for this night. Little Miss Doris Moffett Fitzgerald will dance. Master Francis Morse will sing accompanied by his sister Marjorie. There will be solos by Mrs. Edna Bean and fancy dances by Mary Hamilton.

"Something doing every minute" is the slogan for this big night and refreshments are included in the admission fee.

Yesterday forenoon a Maxwell touring car was reported stolen from Woburn, and later, when the car was recovered in Medford, the man in it stated that he had been given a ride by the driver, who stated that he resided in Winchester and was on his way to Rockland, Me. A good description of the driver was obtained and the Winchester police are on the look-out for him.

Thirteen lights of glass were broken in the cottage on Bacon street owned by Mr. George Harrington this week. Another light was broken in a garage near the Wyman school; and pears were thrown over an automobile. Air rifles appear to be responsible for the broken windows, and the boys responsible are reported in conference as to ways and means of raising the wind for repairs.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The police were notified this week by Miss Alice Twombly, proprietor of the Mistress Mary Tea Garden on Cambridge street that thieves had stolen the lanterns and other fixtures at her resort.

Needham High lost to Winchester 1 to 0 in the field hockey game played Tuesday on its own field.

A Maximum Loan for Home Building

In helping people finance home building, we often lend a higher percentage of the property value than any other recognized financial institution will lend.

We can do this safely since our plan requires regular monthly payments on both principal and interest, while in addition to property valuation we give close attention to the standing of the borrower.

When the traffic signs in the center are changed and the new ones installed, this practice of some drivers of scooting around and passing over the open side of the railroad crossing will be stopped. There will be no excuse then, for they will have to round posts set in the street at Church and at Mt. Vernon streets. A number of the "knowing" drivers have caused considerable complaint by this practice, their unexpected left turns being dangerous and confusing.

Early Use of Mica

Mica was well known in prehistoric America, and traces of its use are widespread. It was in general use by the Indians east of the Great plains and was mined in many parts of the Appalachian highlands. It was used for making personal ornaments and also for ceremonials. Sheets of mica were often placed over the dead in burial.

75TH ANNIVERSARY AT COUNTRY CLUB

Dr. Daniel C. Dennett was chairman of the committee in charge of the 75th anniversary observance of the Middlesex East District Medical Society, held at the Winchester Country Club on Wednesday. There was a large attendance, about 90 members with their wives and guests being present, including most of the seventeen Winchester members.

A social and musical program was followed, with addresses by Dr. Dennett and Dr. James S. Stone, president of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and Dr. Ernest S. Jack, who were the invited speakers. Dr. Jack gave a prepared paper upon the history of the district society.

Golf and tennis were enjoyed during the forenoon, with dinner at 1:30. During the dinner a musical program was rendered by the Belle Canto quartette.

Johnny's Good Record

Johnny was a little vague in his ideas of mathematics, and his merchant father was concerned that he should show progress in the subject. He questioned his son daily as to how he had succeeded in his lessons. "How many sums did you have wrong today?" he asked. "Only one, father." "Good; how many were there?" "Twelve." "Splendid! And the other eleven were correct?" "Oh, no, father, I didn't do them."

Tabby's Rival the Owl

Owls are great mousers. A barn owl is literally worth its weight in gold to the farmer, will consume hundreds of rats and mice during the season, and do no harm at all. Among the owls there is almost no enemy to man, although the great horned owl may occasionally raid the henhouse, which depredations are more than balanced by their destruction of rodent pests.

Nothing Good Dies

There is nothing—no, nothing—innocent or good, that dies and is forgotten; let us hold to that faith or none. An infant, a prattling child, dying in the cradle, will live again in the better thoughts of those that loved it and play its part through them in the redeeming actions of the world, though its body be burned to ashes or drowned in the deep sea.—Charles Dickens.

Man of Integrity

There is nothing so delightful as the hearing or the speaking of truth, says Plato. For this reason there is no conversation so agreeable as that of the man of integrity who hears without any intention to betray and speaks without any intention to deceive.

Blackberry Winter

Blackberry winter is a cool spell which is supposed to come every year when blackberries bloom. It is a very old belief and how it got started is unknown.

AN INTERESTING WELFARE WORK

The Needlework Guild of America is 40 years old and is proud of it. It had a big birthday party last May and was made very happy by a birthday gift of $33,000, a thank offering from its many members in this country. This money will be used in National extension work, so we may expect to see the Needlework Guild grow.

A certain woman, superintendent of a hospital in Pennsylvania has this to say about the helpfulness of this Guild, which last year distributed over a million new garments among the hospitals institutions, organized charities and homes of the United States:

One Point of View

A few years ago I visited a prisoner awaiting trial. He was so forlorn and friendless that I asked his counsel if there was anything I could do for him. "Yes," he replied; "get him a clean shirt and a shave that he may make a good impression on the jury." And I was surprised when, a few days later, I saw him in the court room, to see what a difference the shave and the shirt had made.

And that is what the Needlework Guild is doing—giving the clean shirt which favorably impresses the jury; have seen hundreds of people, discouraged and depressed by illness and poverty, made braver and happier by the gift of suitable clothes, with which they were better able to face the world. All the clothes received from the Guild were put into a large cupboard, known as the "Needlework Guild Closet," to which I kept the key, and all the head nurses knew that in any case of need they were to ask for clothes. It was a great pleasure to give out just the things most needed; and as most of the applicants owned nothing but rags, it wasn't difficult to choose. Two suits of underclothes were always given, and such other clothes as were required.

Among the poor, the illness of almost any member of the family is a financial strain, even when the patient is on a free bed in a hospital. And it is all too often the bread-winner, over-worked, underfed, insufficiently clad, exposed to bad weather, who falls ill, and many a hard battle is fought to keep the home from being broken up. If the illness is a long one, clothes cannot be bought; old, worn and thin, they must be patched and endured as the rent and food are more pressing needs. The new outfit for the convalescent is a very great addition, not only to his physical comfort, but to that of the whole family.

The woman too poor to clothe her baby, often unwelcome for the want of means to support it, will take heart when given the new wardrobe she could not buy herself. The man badly hurt in the mill or on the street will generally have to have his clothes cut off, and what was perhaps his only suit is destroyed.

The Winchester Branch of this guild will soon hold its annual meeting—in fact it will celebrate Armistice Day, Nov. 11, by a meeting held at the parish house of the Church of the Epiphany at 10 a. m., Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, president, in the chair. It is expected that about 500 new garments or articles of household goods will be assembled and distributed. Any one interested in the work is cordially invited to attend this meeting.

The following welfare societies were remembered last year:

Sailors' Haven.
Social Worker.
Hindman School, Kentucky.
Mission Work in South Carolina.
Mothers' Rest, Revere.
Tuberculosis Sanitarium, Reading.
Home for Aged People.
Ladies' Aid Society (Methodist).

Winchester, Mass.
October 19, 1925

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Survey of the Town of Winchester, Mass., will give a public hearing in the Selectmen's Room in the Town Hall Building on Monday, the 2nd day of November 1925 at 8 o'clock P. M. upon the petition of Edward H. Bonelli, Fred Holdsworth and Robert D. Farrington, Trustees, for approval of a certain plan, filed with said petition, of certain private ways as follows:—a way, beginning at High Street at a point opposite Arlington Street and extending northeasterly to Westland Avenue; a way, beginning at High Street about two hundred and sixty feet, westerly from Indian Hill Road, and extending northerly and parallel to said Indian Hill Road, to the first mentioned way; a way, beginning at a point on Indian Hill Road and opposite Sachem Road, and extending westerly to High Street; a way, beginning at the last mentioned way and extending northeasterly to Emerson Road; a way, beginning at a passageway leading to land of the Town of Winchester, and extending easterly and northeasterly to Emerson Road, which the petitioner proposes to open for public use.

After which hearing the Board may alter said plan and may determine where such way shall be located and the width and grades thereof.

Prior to the hearing the plan may be examined at the office of the Town Engineer.

By order of the Board of Survey, this 19th day of October, 1925.

Mrs. Ashley Hayden, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, reports an important piece of legislation during the next few months—The Civil Service Bill (Senate Bill No. 16).

This bill was introduced into the legislature last year, but only one point was achieved. The Civic League introducers of the bill, is seeking signatures to an initiative petition to change the Veterans' Preference Law to conform to the preference given veterans in the Federal system, which is 5 per cent to disabled veterans and 10 per cent to able-bodied veterans. The present law permits a 35 per cent preference, which is excessive for efficient Government service.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

"BOB" MOFFETTE WINS WM. S. DAVIS CUP

For over three hours last Saturday afternoon at the Winchester Boat Club tennis court Ralph Purrington and "Bob" Moffette displayed all of their skill and speed to determine which of them should possess the William S. Davis singles trophy. Both "Bob" and Ralph were on their toes all the time playing fast and hard. Every game and set was close. They were so evenly matched that through all the games it was impossible to judge what the final outcome would be. In the last set every game went to deuce and at one point they volleyed 12 times without either losing. The games were played so hard and fierce that a 10-minute rest was taken after every two sets. It took 22 games to decide the fifth and final set. By Robert Moffette's winning the singles cup, the "runner-up" trophy was captured by Ralph Purrington.

The scores for the sets were as follows: 6—3, 4—6, 6—3, 4—6, 12—10.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

THAT OTHER HIRED GIRL

SUPPOSE a "hired" girl looking for employment should come to you and say:

"I want to get busy right away. I won't need a separate room in your house. I won't be in anybody's way. I never eat. I refuse to take a single afternoon off—I work both day and night. So far as temperament is concerned I haven't any—I'm always ready to help you. And you needn't worry about my health. I never get sick. I never get tired. As for my wages, you will find them to be one of the smallest items in your household budget."

Too good to be true, you would say. Certainly, but you refer to hired girls. Your modern gas service does all these things for you, and many more besides. It is one of the most useful, dependable and economical helps you have. Did you ever think of it that way?

New CADILLAC Is More, Gives More, Does More

The new Cadillac is lower—superbly graceful, with the air of fleetness and agility that is more than equaled by its brilliant performance.

The chassis is lighter by 250 pounds, and more simple. Power is increased and flexibility and responsiveness augmented. Acceleration is remarkable, and sustained speed is, of course, available in extraordinary degree and for any length of time.

Product of Years

The new Cadillac, throughout, bears the hall mark of supremacy. Squarely in line with the most advanced tendencies, is this new Cadillac. It is not a change in Cadillac's fundamental principles of V-type eight-cylinder design. It is, rather, a development, a perfection of the application of those principles, due to a quick sense of the responsibility that is upon Cadillac. Cadillac, today, as always, can be trusted to maintain its position as the standard of the world.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

The first meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held at the Unitarian Church on Oct. 15. Mrs. George W. Apsey, the new president, presiding.

During a short business meeting, the members were reminded of the coming bazaar to be held Nov. 17 and 18, at the Copley Plaza Hotel. This year Mrs. Louise B. Mitchell will be in charge of the Winchester toy table. On Nov. 1st, previous to the bazaar, there will be an exhibition of the toys at one of the homes in Winchester, the place to be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Apsey told the Circle that the new Florence Crittenton Home has been completed and will be dedicated some time the latter part of this month.

After the business meeting Mrs. W. H. Gilpatric sang three musical numbers in her very charming manner.

The speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Henry H. Crane, Pastor of the Methodist Church of Malden who was intensely interesting. He prefaced his remarks by saying that convention plays a large part in our lives; we even think in conventional form. He thinks it is the unconventional that leads to the realization of our real problems and tells us how to solve them. He then spoke about truth and lies—how it is very easy to utter a true statement but takes a very clever person to tell a lie. Sometimes by telling only part of the truth so that it gives a wrong impression is to lie. As a matter of fact, one of the most deceptive lies is that the Christian way is a narrow way. It is the truth but it is only part of the truth. The whole truth is that a narrow way leads to a broad life and a broad way leads to a narrow life. Dr. Crane took this as the text of his talk for the afternoon. We hear scientific statements about the laws of life and we sometimes come to think that they are arbitrary laws superimposed upon us by some arbitrary deity and if we are skillful enough we can break these laws with impunity. About the first thing a boy or girl must learn is that these great cosmic laws are not arbitrary regulations superimposed upon us. These laws are written into the heart of our existence. They are a part of our being. The laws of morality are the same: we cannot break them with impunity. A judicious adhering to these laws is the only way to be successful in the art of living. So by theoretically following a narrow path, we can come to a broad life—if we follow the broad way, we necessarily come to a narrow life on account of troubles which come upon us. Dr. Crane gave several very interesting illustrations to bring out his point. Our problem is to teach this generation and our own generation by the example of our living the narrow way. Dr. Crane thoroughly believes that the younger generation of today is far better than the generation before—he believes there is an essential healthiness, a fine moral normalcy that we just don't quite understand.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court by Burton C. Caldwell, Jr., of said Winchester, to register and confirm his title in the following described land:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situate in said Winchester, bounded and described as follows:

Easterly by land of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, being the Woburn Parkway, 226.18 feet; Southeasterly by said Parkway and Pond Street, 21.67 feet; Southeasterly again by said Pond Street, 80 feet; Southwesterly by land now or formerly of owners unknown, 199.14 feet; and Northwesterly by land now or formerly of owners unknown, 182.50 feet.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the second day of November A. D. 1925, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, CHARLES THORNTON DAVIS, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of October in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-five.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

ELKS' CHARITY BALL NOV. 19

"Born of, and animated by the principles of the American Constitution, the avowed purpose of Elkdom is to assist by precept, example and contribution in the betterment of our National life."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is beholden neither to Jew nor Gentile, Protestant nor Catholic. It is distinctly American in character and its principles of Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Patriotism, are exemplified in many ways.

The true genius of the Elk spirit is manifest in the quiet seeking out of those in need of assistance and the generous giving of aid, without cognizance of class, creed or color.

And charity of Elkdom means practical Christian charity, bestowed without ostentation and hope of reward.

One has but to scan the pages of the official organ of Elkdom to gain a realization of the sterling work being performed by this great American fraternity.

A modest news item tells of "Krippled Kiddies' Day" held by Trenton, N. J. Lodge,—brief paragraphs speak their volumes in relating of Omaha, Neb. Elks who gave an outing and picnic to 7000 of the city's neglected boys between six and 16, and that Sharon, Pa. delighted 6000 of the children of that place with an outing destined to live long in their memories.

These are but a few simple examples of the wonderful work Elkdom is doing for the little folks, and when it is further considered that real Christian Charity is dispensed in numerous other directions to young and old alike, unbeknown to any save the Elks' committee and the grateful recipient a better conception may be had of the manner in which this great virtue of charity is interpreted in good deeds by the Elks.

Winchester Elks do not believe in deferring their works of charity simply because the lodge is still young and their opportunities for enriching their treasury have been limited.

It is planned, therefore, to hold a Charity Ball in the Town Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 19, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to the Elks' charity fund. Every penny of that fund will be used for charitable purposes and the response of the townspeople will determine to a large degree just how much Winchester Elks will be able to assist the needy during the coming winter.

"An Elks' time is always a good time."

Aside from lending a helping hand to a deserving cause through the purchase of tickets, all those who will be in attendance are certain to enjoy themselves to the utmost.

The Aleppo Shriners' Band composed of leading musicians will furnish music for the occasion. An attractive concert program featuring several leading artists is being prepared for those townsfolk who are not interested in dancing and will particularly appreciate this phase of the affair.

A ticket admitting a gentleman and lady, is but $1.50 and may be obtained from any member of Winchester Lodge or at the Star office.

You will read and hear much of the Elks' Charity Ball during the next few weeks and your assistance in helping to make it an unprecedented success in the annals of social affairs of our town will bring reward in the knowledge within yourself that you have done your little bit to gladden the holiday season for the needy and unfortunate.

Thursday evening, Nov. 19, is the date to bear in mind and the Winchester Town Hall is the place to be on that date.

Help the Elks help Winchester. The Elks' Hope Chest will be given away that evening. Tickets at the Winchester Star office.

MAHONEY—RUSSELL

The marriage of Miss Martha Louise Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell of Cambridge street, and Charles Bernard Mahoney of Salem, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Mahoney, was solemnized Monday morning with a nuptial mass in St. Mary's Church. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock by the Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Esther Russell McCarthy of this town, as maid of honor. The former wore a wedding gown of white satin with lace veil and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Her maid of honor wore brown satin with hat to match and carried pink roses. James E. Paige of Peabody was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, the young couple being assisted in receiving by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell of Winchester and Mrs. Elizabeth Mahoney of Salem. The ushers both at the church and house were James Ward and Frederick Full, both of Salem. Decorations were palms and cut flowers. Out of town guests were present from Salem, Peabody, New York and Boston. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney will be at home to their friends at 329 Upham street, Melrose.

The bride is a graduate of the Winchester schools and of the College of Mt. St. Vincent in New York city. Mr. Mahoney garduated from Salem High School, and served during the World War as a lieutenant in the army.

EVOLUTION

A collection of books, some new, some old, on this timely and important subject is on exhibition at the Winchester Public Library.

WINCHESTER AND WINTHROP GIRLS TIE IN LEAGUE BATTLE

The Winchester and Winthrop High School girls' field hockey teams battled through four thrilling periods of shinney on Manchester Field yesterday afternoon to finish in a tie. 1—1. The game was a league contest and a large crowd was on hand to witness the hardest fought engagement of the year.

The first half found neither team showing to any particular advantage over its opponent. "Kay" Valleley scored the first goal for Winchester in the opening quarter after "Kay" Carlisle had taken the ball up the field and into scrimmage in front of the Winthrop uprights. Bernice Bruce scored for Winthrop from scrimmage in the second quarter.

After the half time Winchester forged to the front and kept Winthrop almost entirely on the defensive. During most of the last quarter the ball was kept near the visitors' goal posts, but though the locals continually threatened, they were unable to break through the Winthrop last line of defense. L. Taylor, the visiting "Goalie" was not able to start, after being struck on the head during practice before the game.

PETER THOMPSON HORN

Peter Thompson Horn, for the past 50 years a resident of Winchester, died early last Saturday morning at the Winchester Hospital after an illness of several months. He was 69 years old and a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, the son of John and Margaret Lowe Horn. When a boy of 14 he came to this country, and previous to coming to Winchester had made his home in Charlestown. He retired from active business several years ago.

Mr. Horn was a widower and is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Sharon, and by four sons, Henry, Albert, James, and Gordo, all of Winchester.

Funeral services were held at the home of his daughter on Webster street Monday afternoon and were conducted by the Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the Church of the Epiphany of which the deceased had been a member. The bearers included Messrs. Fred Larsen of Winchester, John Debona of Woburn, J. Albert Horn and Alexander Quigley of Winchester, and Joseph B. Algeo and Carl M. Davis of Concord. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. A. D. NICHOLAS

Mrs. Nellie A. Nicholas, wife of Mr. Alonzo D. Nicholas of 59 Yale street, died yesterday after an extended illness. She was a native of Greenland, Mich., and had made her home in Winchester for the past four years. Her parents were William and Jane (Jenkins) Dawe.

Mrs. Nicholas was an active member of the Winchester Methodist Church and of the Fortnightly. Besides her husband she leaves twin children, Alonzo D. Jr., and Lorna G. Three sisters and two brothers also survive her.

The funeral services will be held at the residence on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. Alliston B. Gifford of East Saugus, former pastor of the Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. H. William Hook, the present pastor. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

MAY VISIT RESERVOIRS TOMORROW

Tomorrow, Saturday, Oct. 31, Winchester residents and friends will have their annual opportunity to view their reservoirs in the Middlesex Fells. As announced last week by the Water Board, the roads about the three bodies of water will be opened to automobiles between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m.

The Fells at this time of the year are just losing their autumn beauty and are well worth a visit. Many of our people have not yet seen where their pure and abundant water comes from, and will profit greatly to look over the reservoirs. Of especial interest also is the growth of the thousands of small trees set out on the shores of the reservoirs to conserve and add to the supply of water draining into this magnificent water shed.

The entrance to the reservoirs will be through the gateway off Mt. Vernon street at the head of the Mystic Valley Parkway. The route has been laid out and posted, which all cars travel in one direction and with capable officials directing the traffic and posted to answer questions of the sightseers.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carbino are the parents of a son, Michael, Jr., born on Oct. 23, at their residence, 116 Swanton street.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rolli of 7 Holland street are the parents of a daughter, Elena Concetta, born Oct. 26 at their home.

The Winchester schools were closed all day today, the teachers being in attendance at their annual convention.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Mystic School

The assembly program on Oct. 22 was given by the Second Grade. It consisted of three dramatizations:—a song, a story and a poem.

The song, "Little Miss Muffet" was sung by several children while two children played the parts of the Little Miss Moffet and the Spider.

The story dramatization of "Tom the Piper's Son" was given by 12 children.

The poem, "Come Little Leaves" was recited by one child while several children with maple leaf crowns made in Art Class represented the leaves, one child the wind and another the snow.

Lincoln School

The Lincoln School mothers were entertained at a social hour, given by the teachers, on Monday, Oct. 26, from 3:30 to 4:30.

About 10 mothers attended. The entertainment consisted of a violin selection by four boys, pupils of Grade 6. A group of girls sang, "Sweet and Low," "Santa Lucia" and "Keep on Hoping."

Miss Hunt of the Diary and Food Council of Boston entertained with a very instructive talk, illustrated by lantern slides.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served

Evening Schools

The evening schools will open at the Lincoln School on Monday evening, Nov. 2. Classes will be held three evenings a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Classes in Americanization will be held for beginners, for intermediate pupils and for advanced pupils. Another class will be held for people desiring to improve themselves in the usual school subjects. The classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 o'clock each evening.

Visit of the Superintendents of the Merrimack Valley Superintendents' Association to the Winchester Schools

It has been the custom for esveral years for the members of the Merrimack Valley Superintendents' Association to visit in a body some school system supervised by one of their members. The day is given over to actual observation of the work in the schools followed at the close of the day by a round table discussion which is always stimulating and mutually helpful.

Last Friday the School Department had as their guests the superintendents of the Merrimack Valley Superintendents' Association. About 22 superintendents and one Normal School principal inspected the school buildings and witnessed actual classroom teaching.

They witnessed the following work in the schools in addition to the inspection of the new school buildings:

1. An assembly period conducted by pupils.
2. A class in poetry in the second grade.
3. A sixth grade oral language lesson in which pupils told of their visit to the Boston Art Museum.
4. Kindergarten teaching.
5. History teaching in the High School.
6. A class in teaching pupils in the first grade to read by a more modern method.
7. Instruction in the opportunity classes.
8. A French class in our intermediate school.
9. A language lesson in our intermediate school.
10. Miscellaneous groups of classes in their inspection of the various buildings.

It seemed to the local department that the day was well worth while.

STATE HEALTH BOARD ACTS

Public Hearing Called on State of Aberjona River

Notice is printed in this week's issue of the STAR of a public hearing to be held by the State Department of Public Health to all persons interested relative to the discharge of sewage and industrial waste into the Aberjona River and its tributaries and as to the abatement of any public nuisance that may exist in the river or its tributaries.

This hearing is held under the General Laws and THE ADVISABILITY OF REPEALING CHAPTER 291 OF THE ACTS OF THE YEAR 1911, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH IN THE VICINITY OF THE TOWNS OF WINCHESTER AND STONEHAM AND THE CITY OF WOBURN."

The hearing will be held at room 448, State House, Boston, on Nov. 10, at 12 o'clock.

VIOLA MARIA WHITE

Viola Maria White, long a resident of Winchester and well known especially in the Highlands District, passed away Wednesday morning after an illness of six weeks. She was 75 years of age.

Miss White was a native of Nashua, N. H., the daughter of George Lampson and Harriet (Richardson) White. When 14 years old she moved to Rhode Island where she remained until coming to Winchester in 1878. She was graduated from the Rhode Island State Normal School in Providence. For 35 years she taught in the Normal School at Gorham, Me., retiring in 1920. Surviving are a sister, Miss Kate A. White of this town and a brother, Rev. Charles L. White, D. D., of New York.

Private funeral services were held at the late residence 120 Forest street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock and were conducted by the Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, pastor of th First Baptist Church of which the deceased had been a member. Interment was in Wildwood cemetery.

Efforts are being made to make the opening meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association the biggest affair of the kind ever held here. The committee are hard at work to secure a prominent speaker to come here and address this meeting. If arrangements can be made there will be musical novelties.

A LECTURE ON Christian Science

By

Dr. Walton Hubbard, C. S. B.

of Los Angeles, California

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

An appreciative audience filled the Town Hall last Friday evening and enjoyed the splendid lecture on Christian Science by Dr. Walton Hubbard, C.S.B.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Alfred H. Morton, Jr., First Reader of the Christian Science Church of Winchester, who spoke as follows:

Most of us in coming here this evening have been animated by one common purpose, to learn more of God and of man as made in His image and likeness. Mary Baker Eddy in her text-book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, makes plain to us the fact that God is not a being afar off, but that He is ever-present, ever-ready to meet our every need if we will but call upon Him.

The more we study the Bible and the more we study this text-book, which unlocks for us the treasures of the Bible, the more clearly do we realize man's oneness with God. As we turn from the material belief of things to the spiritual, we realize that this new understanding we are gaining, tends to eradicate everything of an inharmonious nature and brings into our lives joy and sunshine.

We are grateful to Mrs. Eddy for having established a Board of Lectureship. This Board is one of the avenues for the spreading of the truths of Christian Science. We have with us tonight a member of this Board who will speak to us on the subject of Christian Science. Permit me to introduce Dr. Walton Hubbard, C.S.B., of Los Angeles, Cal.

The Lecturer then addressed the audience as follows:

There comes a time in the experience of most of us when material methods and remedies fail to heal us of our sicknesses and distresses of mind and body and when material philosophy fails to satisfy us. It is in this extremity that we are led to wonder if God can heal us and by what means we may hope so to approach Him as to receive the divine blessing. From beginning to end of the Bible there are repeated assertions of God's power and willingness to heal, and the inspired writers who made these statements must have experienced the healing to have thus written of it. Yet, so little faith has been placed in God as a healer that most Christians have turned to matter first, and to God last, in their effort to be healed.

Christian Science comes with the assurance that there is a law of God which heals and saves; that this law is revealed in the teachings of Christian Science, and that the comforting assurances of healing and peace declared to us in the Bible are realized through the prayer which Christian Science teaches us to offer.

NEILEY—HALLIDAY

Winchester's younger set was much interested in the wedding on last Saturday in St. John's Church, Yonkers, N. Y., of Miss Margaret Halliday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Halliday of Yonkers, and Richard Bowdoin Neiley of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Neiley of Myopia Hill. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. I. B. Larned.

The bride wore a conventional wedding gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley. She was attended by her three sisters, Mrs. Alexander P. Dann of Buffalo, Miss Ellen Halliday and Miss Elizabeth Halliday of Yonkers, and by Miss Anna K. Childs, Miss Louise M. Totten, and Miss Phyllis Totten of Pittsburg; Miss Elizabeth Boddington of Yonkers and Miss Mary R. Butler of New York. The bridesmaids were all gowned alike in apricot velvet with lace picture hats, and carried huge bouquets of autumn tinted chrysanthemums. Mr. Neiley had as his best man, Chester Ellis Wright of Dedham.

Ushers for the ceremony and reception were Stephen Neiley and Edward A. Neiley of this town, brothers of the groom, Laurence M. Lombard of Winchester, Waldo E. Pratt of Wellesley, Derby Weston of Marblehead, Henry D. Whitcomb of Worcester, Robert S. Beach of Saginaw, Mich., Leonard M. Prince of Chicago, and Robert Munroe, 3rd of Pittsburgh.

The wedding reception was held in the Halliday home on Palisades avenue, Yonkers. The bride is popular in New York social circles, is a graduate of Farmington School in Connecticut and is a member of the New York Junior League. Mr. Neiley is well known here. He is a graduate of the Winchester schools and attended Phillips Academy at Andover and Amherst College where he was a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity. During the war he served in the Navy with the rank of ensign, commanding a sub-chaser both in American waters and over seas at the Gibraltar base in the Mediterranean. He is a member of the Winchester Country Club and is associated with his father in the Boston insurance firm of Field & Cowles.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Neiley will make their home in Cambridge on Chauncey street.

Last night at the corner of Church and Cambridge streets, a Ford sedan traveling towards Arlington struck an electric car. The automobile received the worst of it. Bernard J. Daly of Lowell, who was driving it escaped injury.

ORGAN RECITAL AND DEDICATION OF ORGAN

First Congregational Church Sunday Afternoon at 4 O'Clock

The new three-manual organ at the First Congregational Church, which was recently installed by Hook and Hastings, will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon with an organ recital by Mr. John Bates, organist of the Second Congregational Church of West Newton. Mr. Bates, one of the foremost organists of Greater Boston, advised with the committee when the organ was installed. The organ is one of the finest in this section of the country.

The chimes were made by the Deagin Chimes Company of Chicago. They are Class A graduated cathedral chimes, 20 tones, chromatic, and the scientific proportioning of the chimes makes them far and away the finest manufactured. They were given by Mr. Charles A. Lane in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Louise Lane, long a faithful and devoted member of the First Church.

The organ harp-celeste is the finest quality and largest size obtainable. It has a complete register of five full octaves, C to C, 61 tones chromatic. The bars are of the finest quality of special alloy steel, and are mounted on beveled felt which on account of the narrow surface coming in contact with the bars, allows the greatest possible freedom of vibration. The harp was given by Daniel Kelley and Miss Bertha Kelley in memory of Mrs. Daniel Kelley. Mrs. Kelley was for many years active in the Western Missionary Society and a loyal worker in the church.

The beautiful organ case was given by Mrs. Handel Pond, in memory of her husband, and enriches the beauty of the chancel, harmonizing with the other furnishings of silver-grey split oak.

Mr. Bates' program is as follows:

Hosannah	Th. Dubois
Cantilene Nuptial	Th. Dubois
Suite Gothique	Boellman
Evening Bells and Cradle Song	Will Macfarlane
"Nuptial Song"	Rudolf Friml
"Norwegian Dance"	Edward Grieg
Grand Choeur in D	Albert Renaud

Mr. Chidley will speak briefly on "Interpreting the Chancel," laying special emphasis on its meaning in public worship. The chancel choir will assist in the service.

The public is invited to these dedication exercises, and music lovers, especially, will welcome this opportunity to hear this fine instrument which is a worthy addition to the cultural accessories of the community.

EMBLEM CLUB COSTUME PARTY

The Hallowe'en party in Lyceum Hall last Wednesday night called out the entire membership of the Club, besides over 100 friends of the fair sex, all of whom vied with one another to make the evening the jolliest social night ever given by the Club. Prizes for the best costumes in the grand march were awarded to Miss Alice Sullivan as America; and Mrs. Emma M. Cullen as Uncle Sam; Mrs. Doris Fitzgerald and her little daughter; Miss Doris Lawson, dancing girl; Mrs. Margaret Hanlon and Mrs. Helen Dewar.

The entertainment program consisted of several sketches with the following members taking part: marriage sketch, with Mrs. Anna W. Lochman as organist; Mrs. Mary F. Laraway, Mrs. Zella Kempton, Mrs. Clara Morrison, Mrs. Valerie O'Connor, Mrs. Eva Johnson, Mrs. Bernice Gorman, Miss Frances Dinneen, Mrs. E. M. Scholl, Mrs. A. M. Hanlon, Mrs. Edna Gilchrest, Alice Morrison, Catherine Morrison, Mrs. Katherine Fallon. Mrs. Allie E. Davidson, President of the Club was guest of honor at the ceremony. Mrs. Frances T. Dinneen represented the Law and Mrs. Beatrice J. Lord the Fire Department.

The Old Plantation Sketch written and staged by Mrs. Frances Sullivan, with scenic effects by Mrs. May Harrold Sullivan, included the following numbers:

"Kingdom Coming" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia", Mrs. Mary F. McGrath; "Alabamy Bound" and "Rock-a-Bye-Baby", Miss Elna Larson; "Dixie", Mrs. Mabel Larson and Susan Quigley; "Yes Sir, She's Ma Baby" and "I Miss My Swiss" and "Missouri Waltz", Misses Mary and Helen McGrath; "Nellie Gray" and "My Old Kentucky Home", Mrs. May Harrold Sullivan; "Swanee River", Mrs. Clara Morrison; Impersonation "Old Black Joe" and "Uncle Ned" by Mrs. Frances Sullivan.

The orchestration for this production was under the direction of Mrs. Harriet C. Cleary with violin accompaniments by Miss Ruth Cleary.

The vaudeville numbers included, a solo dance by little Doris Moffett Fitzgerald; songs by Master Francis Morse accompanied by Miss Marjorie Morse; songs by Mrs. Edna Bean. The finale was a country dance in which the following took part: Mrs. Susan Quigley, Mrs. Lilla B. Green, Mrs. May Little, Mrs. Mary Fenton, Mrs. Ordelia Osborne, Mrs. Ella Halligan, Mrs. Caroline Coakley, Mrs. Emma M. Cullen, Mrs. Ethel Horn, Mrs. Nellie Moffett. Mrs. Beatrice J. Lord supplied the music for this numbers, for the grand march and for the dancing after.

Members are urged to attend the matinee whist, Nov. 5, at the home of Mrs. W. B. Lord, 16 Hancock street at 2.15 p. m. The proceeds will be used by the sick committee of which Mrs. Valerie T. O'Connor is chairman.

Yesterday the police recovered the bicycle owned by Robert Warren which was stolen from the basement of the Wadleigh School last week. The wheel had been pawned in Boston by a man who is thought to make a practice of stealing bicycles in suburban Boston.

TRUCK AND LIMOUSINE COLLIDE ON WASHINGTON STREET

Mr. George R. Nowell, local truckman of 11 Thompson street, reported to the Winchester police Tuesday evening that while he was driving his Ford truck northerly along Washington street, his machine was struck by a limousine owned by George Kerrigan of Governor's avenue and being driven along Washington street toward the center by Morton Fancie of Myrtle street. Mr. Nowell reported that his truck was somewhat damaged by the collision and that his helper, John Coleman of Thompson street, was knocked through its windshield, receiving cuts and abrasions for which he was treated by Dr. Milton J. Quinn. Mr. Nowell stated that a street car was leaving Swanton street for Stoneham and one of the town's trucks was coming out of the same roadway at the time of the accident.

A pane of glass was broken in the meat market on Washington street near Swanton street last Sunday.

K. OF C. NOTES

Members of the membership, lapsation and finance committees of the council met Monday night and discussed plans for the future promulgation of the ideas that originated the committees.

A well attended whist party conducted under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Shinnick was held at the clubhouse Thursday night, with some excellent prizes awarded. The beautiful bridge lamp was also given away at this party.

The valuable K. of C. ring which is to be awarded on chances will be given to the winner at the next whist party the date of which is to be announced later.

A picture of John Boyle O'Reilly the famous Irish poet, and a beautifully upholstered morris chair have been presented the council by a member who requested that his name be withheld.

At the last meeting of the council it was voted to grant the free use of the clubhouse to any woman's society doing charitable sewing on any day of the week other than Saturday, Sunday or holidays between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m.

PROTEST AGAINST RECKLESS TRUCK DRIVING

A meeting of citizens of the town residing on or in the vicinity of Holton street was held last Friday to discuss the problem of reckless truck driving through that neighborhood. At its conclusion two participants went to the local Station House and took the matter up with the police.

According to the two gentlemen the big trucks which daily pass over Holton street to and from the plant of the Winchester Rock and Brick Co. are driven in so reckless a manner as to be positively dangerous to the people residing in the district. Frequently, it was alleged, the drivers drive their machines up over the grass plots between the sidewalk and street while a further complaint was registered against the scattering of broken and crushed stone in the roadway.

The police have promised the citizens their co-operation in straightening matters out.

WINCHESTER BOY LEADS THE FRESHMAN GRID TEAM AT HARVARD

Arthur French of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. French of Highland avenue, has been elected to captain the freshman football team at Harvard, being the unanimous choice of his team mates for this honor.

"Art" has had a notable career in athletics, being a splendid performer both on the gridiron and track. He began to star as a football players while a member of "Rufe" Bond's Mystic Valley championship team of 1922, his long runs as number three back featuring many of the games upon that undefeated outfit's schedule. From high school "Art" went to Worcester Academy where he continued his success with the pigskin, being an outstanding schoolboy half-back during his two years at the school. It was at Worcester that he realized the success in track and field sports of which he gave promise while at high school, becoming a star sprinter, broad jumper and weight man, captaining his team during his senior year.

Since matriculating at Harvard "Art" has been playing regularly at left halfback on the freshman eleven, and has been a consistent ground gainer for the Crimson cubs. He is five feet 11 inches tall and weighs 165 pounds. His college home is in Shepard Hall, one of the freshman dormitories.

ASSAULTED AND ROBBED ON BORDER ROAD

Patrick White of 21 Pinkney street, Somerville, was assaulted and robbed by two unknown men on Border road at about 8:15 o'clock last Saturday morning.

Mr. White, a member of the night shift at the Central Garage on Converse place and well known to many of Winchester's motorists, was on his way home from work and was driving his machine through Border road in the Middlesex Fells when he was bothered with engine trouble.

He had alighted to investigate and was busy with his repairs when he was accosted by two men who offered to aid him. Instead of doing so they set upon Mr White, throwing him to the ground, beating him and tearing his clothes, as well as stealing $20 which he had in his possession.

As soon as possible Mr. White reported the matter at the Winchester Police Station the local authorities immediately getting in touch with the Metropolitan District Police. The two men were described as being apparently of American birth and about 30 years of age. They were dressed in workingmen's brown overalls and jumpers and were wearing brown caps. Both the Metropolitan and Winchester police are investigating.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The October meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Forsaith, Morningside. A large number of ladies enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess and 18 comfort bags were made and filled to be sent to the U. S. Veterans' Hospital in Northampton.

In the afternoon reports of the State Convention recently held in Pittsfield, were given by the delegates, Miss Eugenia M. Elliott and Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton. Many notable speakers were heard at the convention, but the one whose message was received with the greatest attention was Dr. Gifford Gordon of Australia. Dr. Gordon has been in America 18 months investigating the vital question of prohibition. He said "When I consider the tremendous grip that the liquor traffic had upon this nation in politics, in commerce, and in labor circles, I feel that the 18th Amendment is one of the greatest miracles of the century."

He enumerated many obstacles which we have to overcome in enforcing the law, chief among them being rum-running and what it means; crooked judges who deliberately refuse to commit bootleggers in spite of hard and fast evidence against them; juries who are unscrupulous in discharge of duty, and politicians who appoint "wet" men on the staffs of prohibition officials. To the newspapers he attributed a large share of the campaign against prohibition. He said he found a few glorious exceptions, but the rank and file of influential newspapers were disloyal.

But in spite of all these obstacles he finds that prohibition is a great benefit to our country. He stated that Dr. Neal of Los Angeles once owned 68 alcoholic institutions, and during the 12 years prior to prohibition 125,000 patients passed through these hospitals, but according to his own statement prohibition has put him out of business. Dr. Gordon found in Dwight, Ill. the famous Keeley cure building, largest of its kind in the world, had been sold to the U. S. Government two years after prohibition. Dr. Keeley still operates, but in a small cottage. In New York city there were 2061 deaths from alcoholic poisoning during the last four "wet years." Whereas during the first four "dry" years only 835 died from this cause.

In regard to the rumors of terrible "crime waves" spring from prohibition the doctor said that people hear so much of it consciously as unconsciously they come to believe that prohibition has increased crime, and they accept it without thinking it through. Among outstanding instances to the contrary Dr. Gordon said he had had an interview with John Anderson Leach first deputy commissioner of New York, who said: "From personal observation and experience, notwithstanding claims to the contrary from whatever source, prohibition in New York, has lessened crime and drunkenness." Bridewell Prison in Chicago housed 8000 fewer persons in 1922 than in 1917. Such facts should serve for serious thought, to those who believe that prohibition increases crime.

TWO OVER WEEK-END

Only two motor mishaps were reported in town over the past week-end, and in neither one was there excessive damage to the machines involved nor was any one injured.

The first accident occurred Saturday morning at 8:55 o'clock. David A. Hastings of 14 Odell avenue Beverly, while driving a Buick touring car southwest on the Parkway at the intersection of Washington street, was in collision with an Essex touring car, bound north on Washington street and operated by Albert Horne of 31 Loring avenue. Both cars were damaged but no one was injured. The street light at the southwesterly corner of the Parkway was broken off during the smashup.

The second accident took place at 7:50 Sunday evening on Washington street near Westley street. Thomas McNulty of 48 Wendall Street was driving his Ford touring car south along Washington street and was in the act of turning his machine around when he was bumped by a Ford coupe, owned and operated by Michael Bain who was headed in the same direction. The damage to both cars was slight, and no one was injured.

MUST PAY TAXES BEFORE NOV. 1

As the first day of November, 1925, falls on a Sunday the question is raised as to what is the last day in 1925, under the provisions of Section 57, Chapter 59, General Laws, that taxes may be paid without interest.

An opinion from Jay R. Benton, Attorney General of the Commonwealth, under date of Oct. 8, 1925, relative to this question, is to the effect that interest should be collected on taxes paid Monday, Nov. 2, 1925. This makes it necessary for the taxpayer, in order to avoid interest, to make payment on or before Oct. 31, 1925.

Very truly yours,
Henry F. Long, Commissioner

WINCHESTER GIRL LONGWOOD WINNER

Miss Louise Packer, a sophomore and No. two player on the Winchester High School girls' tennis team was the winner, paired with Arthur Noble, No. two on the Newton High team of the mixed doubles tournament for juniors which was concluded on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill last Saturday afternoon. Matches were played in boys' and girls' singles as well as mixed doubles in the course of the tournament.

Louise and her team mate won their title by defeating Mianne Palfrey and Nat Niles Jr., 6—3, a notable feat when one stops to consider that Mianne has been the State Junior Singles champion for the past two years and that Niles is rated one of the real good younger players at Longwood. The final match in mixed doubles came very nearly being an all Winchester event since Mary Louise Carpenter and Charlie Wadsworth were close to winning from Mianne and Niles in the 4th round, being beaten only after a tough fight, 6—5.

Winchester's youthful tennis enthusiasts are fast making a place for themselves among the junior players of the district. In the past three years the only public school girls to win in Longwood tournaments have been from the Wadleigh and High Schools of this town. Janet Smith has been returned a winner in singles while Caroline Jansen and Louise Packer have won in mixed doubles. The other local winners were Bara Baugher and Janet Goddard whose title was annexed in girls' doubles play. When one considers that the standard of play at Longwood is probably superior to any east of California it becomes apparent that the local players are making good in fast company. While the local boys have not done so well as the girls in outside tournament play there are nevertheless several very promising racquet wielders to be found in their ranks and with a bit more experience they should begin to rival the record of their sister players.

In this most recent of Longwood's Junior tourneys there were several good Winchester performances in addition to those already spoken of. Frances Pettingell played good enough tennis to put Barbara Frost out of the running in the girls' singles play dispite the fact that Barbara is a joint holder of the State doubles championship in the younger girls' class. Jimmy Donlan made the best record among the local boys, advancing to the 4th round of the boys singles before losing his match to the runner up in the finals. Charlotte Snyder won one match and Mary Louise Carpenter, two matches in girls' singles while Bill Black and Nancy Bradlee won two matches in mixed doubles. Virginia Merrill and Herbert Wallis also did well in both singles and mixed doubles.

Other members of the Winchester party who showed their wares at Longwood were Catherine Boyden, Donald Bates, Charlotte Snyder, Frank Carleton, Helen Bidwell, Mary Armstrong, Bradford Godfrey, Earl Waters, Henry Brown, William Baugher, Mirabelle Vinson, Lawrence Keepers, Henry Fitts and Allen Wilson.

WINCHESTER TRIPS WOBURN

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team won a hard fought league game from the Woburn girls last Friday afternoon on Flemming Field in that city by the close score of 2 to 1.

Little "Dot" Mackenzie, Winchester's speedy right wing, was the hero of the battle when she shot the final goal of the afternoon a few seconds before the closing whistle to break the tie which had existed since the first half of the game.

The teams were on the whole very evenly matched, though the local girls were able to keep the ball in Woburn's territory during most of the game. The Orange and Black scored first in the opening minutes of play on a nice shot by Bessie Darling, its right inside.

Winchester tied it up before half time when its ace, "Kay" Carlisle, finally broke away to tally after the locals had rushed the ball down the field.

Following intermission the local girls proceeded at once to force matters and only the stubborn defensive game of their opponents kept the score down. Throughout the third period play was almost entirely in Woburn's territory, and the same was true of the last quarter, though Captain Mary Kelley of the Orange and Black did manage to break loose once for an individual dash to the Winchester last line of defense, where she was finally stopped without a tally.

Winchester was trying hard to win, and was keeping the ball in a threatening position right along The Woburn players however were offering stubborn opposition, and it began to look like an overtime session when "Dot" Mackenzie hooked the ball out of a fierce scrimmage in front of the home team's sticks and shot the winning goal almost before any one realized it. The referee's whistle halted the game a few seconds afterward.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Much Interest Among All Teams in Fall Rolling

There is much interest in this year's bowling at the Calumet Club, and all of the 20 teams engaged in the winter tournament are striving hard to keep their organization in the front ranks. The first re-rating will be out within a short time and this feature will even up the teams still more and keep competition at top notch. Monday evening's matches were all fough: out from start to finish, and although there was but one close string, a tie between 13 and 19, the figures do not tell the whole story, for team 4 alone rolled a total amounting to 1504. Team 19, by winning the roll-off, won all four points from 13, team 4 took three from 17 and 20 a like number from 5. The individual scores were good in the aggregate.

Among the bowlers who rolled up were the following:

OPENING DINNER HELD

The annual fall dinner, opening the season's social activities at the Calumet Club, was held on Saturday evening with an attendance of about 150 members. An excellent dinner was served by caterer Fitzpatrick, with instrumental music, singing and a vaudeville entertainment. The evening was otherwise given over to special tournaments in bowling, billiards, pool and cards.

A special bowling match between two picked teams resulted in a win for the five captained by Fred Parshley, Earl Goldsmith's team losing three of the four points. The feature of the match was the bowling by Kenneth Caldwell, who piled up a total of 380, with 158 for his best single.

Excellent scores were made in the match, the figures being as follows:

Team 1 vs 2

WINCHESTER WINS SOCCER GAME FROM ST. JOHN'S

The soccer team from St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers was defeated last Saturday afternoon, 7 to 2, by the Winchester Juniors in the first formal game of soccer ever to be played on Manchester Field. The locals, undefeated thus far this season and in first place in their league, rather outclassed their opponents, and were never in danger. Bernstrom and Eklund scored five of Winchester's seven goals. Granlund, as usual, played a strong defensive game.

The score:

WINCHESTER—Pullberg, g; J. Lunden, rb; Granlund, lb; Leo, rh; Eklund, ch; Nieman, lh; Bernstrom, rof; Delhman, rif; Carlson, cf; T. Linden, lif; Spencer, lof.

ST. JOHN'S PREP—McQuillen, g; McAvoy, lb; Abbes, rb; Reiser, lh; Fitzgerald, ch; Hensen, rh; Mercier, lof; Keefe, lif; Hehigan, cf; Herendy, rif; Baker, rof.

Score, Winchester 7; St. John's Prep 2. Goals, Eklund 2, Bernstrom 3, T. Linden, Carlson, Keefe, Mehigan. Referee, L Freeman, East Boston. Linesmen, J. Lunden, Winchester and J. Kelliher, Danvers. Time, two 45m periods.

O'HARA LOW IN COUNTRY CLUB HANDICAP

Eighteen-hole medal play, full handicap, was the golf at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon with the honors going to W. W. O'Hara on a card of 85-71. This proved the best gross as well as net score, T. R. Bateman having a 72 with handicap, while A. M. Bond had a gross of 86.

The scores:

W. W. O'Hara	85	71
T. R. Bateman	92	72
E. B. Smalley	98	75

WINCHESTER GIRLS SHUT OUT READING

Winchester High School Girls' Field Hockey team had an easy time defeating Reading High on Manchester Field Tuesday afternoon, 4 to 0, scoring a goal in each period.

"Kay" Carlisle made the opening tally in the first few minutes of play, taking the ball from the Winchester side of middle field and rushing it by the entire Reading team to score. She also put the second goal through the visitors' uprights in the second quarter, hooking the ball out of scrimmage for the shot.

"Dot" Mackenzie, the locals' diminutive right wing scored the third goal from scrimmage in the third period, and also added the final point of the game in the last few minutes of play. Taking the ball at midfield she carried it to within striking distance of the Reading goal where finding her way blocked she passed in to a team mate, only to shoot the goal herself from the resulting scrimmage.

Reading never seriously threatened the Winchester girls, its offense at no time getting nearer the scoring stage than the local fullbacks. "Goalie" Bond had little to do except shiver.

The summary:

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH
State House, Boston
October 27, 1925

Notice is hereby given that the Department of Public Health will give a hearing to all persons interested in the subject matter contained in the second paragraph of Chapter 16 of the Resolves of the year 1925, relative to the discharge of sewage and industrial waste into the Aberjona River and its tributaries and as to the abatement of any public nuisance that may exist in said river or its tributaries. The Department is also required to consider the practicability of abating such nuisance under the General Laws and the advisability of repealing Chapter 291 of the Acts of the year 1911, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Protection of the Public Health in the Vicinity of the Towns of Winchester and Stoneham and the City of Woburn." The hearing will be held at Room 448, State House, Boston, on November 10, 1925, at 12 o'clock.

By order of the Department of Public Health.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Great men can do their greatest work no better than just so.

Our business in life is not to get ahead of other people, but to get ahead of ourselves.

Any man who will try faithfully and manfully to be right will grow more and more right every day.

The cares of today are seldom the cares of tomorrow.

The man who sits at the foot of the stairway waiting for the H. C. of living to come down has a steady job.

Do your duty today, avoid looking forward to things you cannot see or understand.

TREMENDOUS TASK ACCOMPLISHED

When the Pop Concert Committee and the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church decided in the face of much adverse advice, to engage the services of Roland Hayes for a concert in the Town Hall, they believed that a tremendous task confronted them. They knew that even to pay expenses (for Hayes is an expensive artist) they must sell at least two thirds of the hall. They felt that every member of the committees would have to dispose of many seats through personal solicitation. Hayes' management insisted that Hayes would sell himself. They were right.

Today, having depended only on the advertising in the Star, with the generous help of its editor, the Town Hall is practically sold out and the concert still two weeks away. A few scattering seats, not more than a hundred in number, remain unsold and those in charge are now forced to plan for extra seats on the platform.

The assured success of this concert belongs to no other than Roland Hayes himself, because everywhere he sings in his series of 65 concerts throughout the land, the cry is always the same, "Sold Out."

One man, who had the privilege of speaking about Hayes before the Woburn Rotary Club said, "If you think you do not enjoy what is commonly called 'high brow' music, close your ears while Hayes sings his songs from the great masters of music. But open them to hear the negro spirituals and you will feel not only amply repaid, but you will go away spiritually refreshed and musically enlightened."

Such tickets as remain may be obtained from Dr. Mary T. Maynard, 80 Church street, tel. 0313-M. Those who have already ordered tickets reserved but have not paid for them are reminded that on account of the great demand, no tickets not paid for will be held after Wednesday, Nov. 3.

ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY ENTERTAINED

The Alice F. Symmes Society of the Winchester Unitarian Church were hosts at a most enjoyable Hallowe'en party and dance in Metcalf Hall on Wednesday evening. In spite of the unpleasant weather there was a large attendance, the members of the Metcalf Union of the same church being the special guests of the occasion.

The hall was most attractive in Hallowe'en decorations of orange and black with a spider web at the main doorway and the traditional witch lady in a far corner, both cunningly contrived by Miss Marjorie Bradford as added attractions.

Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, music being furnished by a three piece orchestra. A feature of the dancing was the sudden stopping of the music and the consequent catching of certain of the participants upon what were known as "unlucky" spots of the floor. Those so caught were obliged to perform impromptu stunts, a solo dance by Dean Symmes and Miss Dorothy Kerrison, and a whistling specialty by Francis Moross, among others being much appreciated.

Interspersing the dance numbers Hallowe'en games were indulged in while radio selections were drawn from the air by Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne. Refreshments typical of the season and including cider, apples and doughnuts were served upon the gaily decorated stage.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the evening included the Misses Helen Bowe, Mary Roberts, Eleanor Hudson, Miriam Emery, Kenneth Pratt and Harry Roberts.

SOMETHING NEW!

New low prices on cleansing, dyeing, repairing and pressing, etc. made possible by the newly organized firm of The Winchester Cleansing Co., of 546 Main street, Winchester. Fine workmanship, reliable service and lower prices. Goods called for and delivered. Tel. 1593-J. o23-2t

A Ford sedan owned by Marie Burns of Stoneham and operated by George Burns of the same address was in collision last night at the corner of Swanton and Washington streets with a Ford coupe owned by Mr. Benjamin F. Mathews and operated by his son Joe. The sedan was coming out of Swanton street and Mr. Mathews and his father were going north on Washington street. Both cars were damaged.

CLUB WORK EXHIBITED

The exhibit of canned goods shown in the window of Richardson's market is a definite demonstration of the value of the work being done by the Middlesex County Extension Service through 4-H club work for the town of Winchester.

The products were canned by 4-H club members whose ages range from 10 to 16. These girls were members of clubs organized by the Middlesex County Extension Service and led by Miss May Russell of Jamaica Plain and Miss Mildred Benson of 488 Washington street, Winchester.

The club members were enrolled last April and since that time have been meeting in groups to get instruction from their leaders. Each girl was required to can at least 24 jars of fruit and vegetables by the cold-pack method, the amount varying with the year of work. The jars on exhibition represented only a very small portion of the actual work done. The following list of names includes those of all of the members who exhibited:

Carmella Chefalo, Margaret Mulranen, Melina Penta, Lucy Colussi, Louise Maffeo, Bertha Beatron, Doris Lawson, Janet Dewar, Regina Luongo, Olga Slack, Nettie Bryer, Margaret O'Connor, Ruth Delorey, Edna Granlund and Mildred Benson.

Winchester is honored in having numbered among its club members Mildred Benson, who is for the second time, candidate for state championship. This girl joined the club when she was 10 years old and has been enrolling each summer for six consecutive years. Although she has been a local prize winner ever since the first year it was not until two years ago that she received high honors in club work. At this time she was chosen county champion and as a reward, was invited to attend the champion's camp at the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst for a week during Aug. 1924. She came back filled with ambition for winning the State championship. All last summer she canned ,until finally the end of the season found her with 1090 jars to her credit. Her jars won many prizes at the various fairs including Acton, Brockton and Groton. The surplus products, which the family did not require for their needs were sold to local customers. Through the kindness of members of the Fortnightly Club, Mildred was able to have a sale at one of the meetings.

However, in spite of all the hard work she lost the championship to a girl in Hampden County who had all of the qualifications that she had, but, in addition, had been a local leader instead of being discouraged, this enthusiastic worker wrote a letter of congratulation to the winner and began to make plans for competing again this summer. She organized a group of girls in her neighborhood and invited them to her home each week for a club meeting where they received instruction and did part of their canning. She also spent a day each week assisting Miss Russell with a second club at the high school laboratory. This took much of her time but she was able nevertheless to beat her last year's record and has canned over 1600 jars of all kinds of products, including 69 varieties. These products are on sale at her home. Miss Benson is anxiously awaiting the decision of the judges but in the meantime has not let her work stop. Only yesterday, she sent a display to the New England Fruit Show at Horticultural Hall, Boston. Whether or not she wins the State championship, she is grateful to 4-H club work and writes in her story that she hopes to be able to "can" her way through college.

Sale of Canning Products

Miss Mildred Benson, who has had such an unusual record canning fruits and vegetables, will hold a sale of her products in the Fortnightly room over Randall's store early in November. The exact date will be announced later.

It looks now as if Miss Benson will be announced State champion. Winchester should take great pride in this. The proceeds of the sale will be utilized to help pay her college expenses at Simmons as she plans to enter Simmons College next fall.

STRUCK BOY, SPED AWAY

Gabriel Vesprucci, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donato Vesprucci of 72 Florence street was painfully injured when he was struck by an automobile as he was pushing his little cart in a notherly direction along Washington street at the junction of Prince avenue on Wednesday afternoon shortly after five o'clock.

The motorist, immediately after striking the little fellow, extinguished his lights and made all speed away from the spot, vanishing in the the direction of Stoneham before witnesses of the accident could get his registration or an accurate description of the sort of car he drove.

Gabriel was picked up by Fred L. Aseltine of Cabot street and Clarence Bryne of Irving street, and was taken to the Winchester Hospital in the former's machine. He was attended by Dr. Harold F. Simon, and was found to have sustained a broken nose and a cut over his left eye as well as a general shaking up.

The Winchester Police were notified of the accident and were on the scene soon after it occurred. An investigation of the affair is being conducted, but the officers have very little upon which to work.

MOTOR THIEF FRUSTRATED

Wednesday evening at 5:45 as Mr. Herbert J. Saabye of Washington street was approaching the garage on Park avenue which he shares with Mr. Charles R. Marshall of that street he noticed that the lights on Mr. Marshall's Hudson coach were lighted. As he got nearer the building he saw a young man jump from the open door of the machine and running from the garage disappear in the rear of the neighboring dwellings. He was described as about 18 or 20 years of age and was clothed in a dark suit and cap.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The few remaining seats for the Roland Hayes Concert in the Town Hall, Nov. 13 may be obtained from Dr. Mary T. Maynard, 80 Church street, tel. 0313-M. Seats on the stage will be $1.50 and standing room tickets $1.

Dana Cady of Wilmington died Sunday at the Winchester Hospital of burns sustained while working about a motor car in a Wilmington garage last week. It is thought some matches which he had in his pocket in some way became ignited, causing the car to take fire. Cady was 23 years old and single. The funeral was held in Wilmington Wednesday and the interment was in that place.

The Winchester police were notified Monday that a Maxwell touring car had been left standing on Cross street all day, Sunday, through the night, and was apparently still abandoned. Investigation disclosed the fact that the machine was the property of Arthur A. King of 227 Broadway, Arlington, and had been left in Winchester when it became disabled. It was removed Monday evening.

Miss Mary Leahey of Grove street is reported as recovering nicely from a minor operation which she recently underwent at the Choate Hospital in Woburn.

It is reported that Mr. Patrick Kennedy of Middlesex street, a member of the Winchester Highway Department, had a thrilling experience while motoring with his family last Sunday. According to the report he was driving home in his Chevrolet touring car after visiting friends in Woburn. With him were his wife and his five-year-old twin daughters. As luck would have it he happened to be driving through Woburn square just as the whirlwind arrived. Onlookers stated that his machine seemed to shudder all over from the force of the gale which struck it, and for several moments wobbled wildly. Suddenly the winter top with which it was equipped was lifted by the wind entirely off the machine and whirled through a tree top some 50 yards away. Mr. Kennedy, so the story goes, stopped not to discover the whereabouts of his top, neither did he stand upon the order of his going. In the vernacular of the motorist he "stepped on it" and headed for home at once, doubtless feeling extremely fortunate that neither he nor any of his family had suffered injury in the affair.

It is reported that this year's banquet of the local Post, American Legion, will eclipse anything which the legionaires have hitherto enjoyed in this line. A hustling committee headed by Mr. Daniel E. Lynch has been hard at work on the details and promise all who attend a real time. The banquet is to be held on the evening of Nov. 12, at 7 o'clock in the Legion home.

Two Winchester men, Messrs. Frank A. Black of Rangeley and Thomas Dreier of Curtis Circle, were members of the committee in charge of the Mail Advertising Mens' Convention which opened in Boston Wednesday of this week.

"Art" French must have enjoyed a pleasant afternoon last Saturday while running wild for the Harvard Freshman football team against his old school and team mates at Worcester Academy. French seems to be one of the best backs on the yearling squad at Cambridge.

Two Winchester boys were elected to the highest offices in the Sophomore Class at Norwich University, William H. Bowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowe of the Parkway, having been elected president, and Roger Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Sherman of Everett avenue, vice president, in the recent elections. Both are members of the varsity football and baseball teams while Sherman is also a letter man in basketball.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin J. Lane and young son have returned to their home in Buffalo, N. Y., after spending the summer with their parents in Winchester.

Big "Jim" Fitzgerald, playing at tackle for the Tufts Freshman football team against the Freshmen of M. I. T. Saturday kicked three goals after touchdowns in as many tries. He seems to have lost none of his old knack in this department and reports have him putting up a strong game on the rushline.

Miss Mildred Gutterson and Mrs. Bertram Pennard addressed the Medford League of Women Voters at its meeting last Saturday.

WINCHESTER PLAYS AT MELROSE

Winchester High School's football team, which last week defeated Wakefield 21—0, will get a real test tomorrow afternoon when it goes to Melrose for a Mystic Valley League engagement with the Melrose High eleven.

Last year the locals were badly beaten by Melrose led by the gigantic "Tiny" Shaw, but this year the Red and White, minus their big fullback and the fleet-footed McGinley are not rated so strong as a year ago while Winchester is admitted better than for the past two seasons.

Coach Mansfield's boys against Wakefield showed an offense which came in for plenty of praise and if they can hold onto the ball tomorrow and at the same time while on defensive refrain from handing their opponents too many unearned yards as a result of offside play in the line Melrose will have to hustle every minute.

On the basis of comparative scores Melrose has the edge. Coach Bullin's lads defeated Watertown last Saturday, 7—0 and "Johnnie" Macdonald's boys were good enough to beat a poor looking Winchester team, 8—6, on the previous week-end. Comparative scores, however, mean very little in schoolboy football specially when the difference is so slight as those mentioned and Winchester is stepping over to Melrose tomorrow convinced that it can win.

The team will take the field with some changes in the starting lineup. "Don" McCarthy, who did so well against Wakefield, will be at center and Captain "Bud" Robinson will be back at left end. "Jimmy" Halwartz who has been unable to practice much this week, due to absence from town, may not start at fullback, in which case "Ronie" Simonds will get the assignment. "Hank" Prue is sure to get into action at either half or fullback before the final whistle. The remainder of the team will be the same as against Wakefield with "Spike" O'Donnell playing the other end; Charlie Cassidy and Hight the tackles and Harriman and either Walker or "Fat" Johnson the guards. "Nickie" Fitzgerald will bark the signals with "Hennie" Knowlton and "Wop" Rolli the other backs. Game will start at 2.30 p. m.

AUCTION SALE BUILDING LOTS

'HOME SITES AT LORING PARK

Hard by Beggs & Cobb Factory on Swanton St., Winchester

To Be Sold One At A Time

That it is folly for you longer to pay rent is evident from the constant increase in rents. There is hardly an available rent for a working man. As the demand for houses increases, rents will be raised more and more, and you must pay higher rent though you earn no more money than before. If you buy a lot of us—pay for it in small monthly installments, put a cellar on it—then go to the bank and borrow money enough to build a house, for which you pay what you would pay in rent towards owning it, you will in a few years own this house. The rent can't be raised on you. You are independent. You can look any man in the face and say "Be Hanged!"

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Among the approaching marriages is that of Miss Mabel Winslow Vaughn of 537 High street, Medford, and Elvin Parks Deal of 36 Calumet road.

The condition of Mr. Robert M. Armstrong of Highland avenue, who is seriously ill at his home, remains about the same.

Last Sunday's terrific wind storm which did so much damage in surrounding cities and towns, notably in Woburn where parts of the city were entirely wrecked was not reported as having done much harm in Winchester, though the extreme force of the gale was noticeable for several minutes especially throughout the higher districts of the town. Two poles were blown down on Stratford road, and another on Everett avenue, causing much of the West side to be without lights during the evening. A chimney was blown from the residence of Mr. T. J. Harkins on Eaton street, and considerable damage was reported done to trees in many parts of the town.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

A costume and Hallowe'en party will be held on next Thursday evening, Nov. 5 at Lyceum Hall in aid of the Court's Charity fund. Hallowe'en games, dancing and a very interesting program of some very high-class talent will perform. One of the features of the evening will be the grand march which will start promptly at 9 o'clock so start right away to get your costume ready and also your partner be on time. Many prizes have been donated for this party; so all come in costume and you may be one of the lucky prize winners. The committee in charge are Mrs. Nellie Moffett, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, Mrs. Francis Conlon, Miss Mabel Coty, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Katherine O'Connor, Mrs. Elizabeth Powers, Mrs. Hannah Rafters, Mrs. Jessie Kirk, Mrs. Mary Fenton, Mrs. Annie Hanlon, Mrs. Jane King.

The Decorations are in charge of Mrs. Mary Smith, Mary Martin, Mary O'Melia and Dorothy Kean.

The refeshments will be in charge of Mrs. Nora O'Melia, Mrs. Stastia Skerry, Miss B. Young, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. Alice Daley, Miss Julia Meskill, Mrs. M. McGowan, Mrs. B. Brown and Miss May O'eLary.

The Sick Committee with Mrs. Nora O'Melia as chairman certainly must be commented upon for the successful party they held last week for a good sum of money was realized at this party which will enable this committee to continue with their good work.

We are now approaching the holiday season and especially at this time of the season we try to do a little extra for the sick who may be reported to us. So in order to do that we have to continue running parties of some sort either whist parties or entertainment of some kind to raise the required funds to carry on our good work.

Don't forget the Hallowe'en party All members be sure and come and have your friends come. Make this party go over big and stand back of your committee who are working hard to reach their goal.

Sisters Mary Mawn, Catherine Smith and Mary O'Neil who were on the sick list are much improved and expect to be out again soon.

WINCHESTER OUTCLASSES WAKEFIELD IN MYSTIC LEAGUE TILT

A rejuvenated Winchester High School football team showed its best game of the season last Saturday afternoon when it defeated Wakefield High in a Mystic Valley League football game at Wakefield, 21 to 0, scoring three touchdowns, a goal and a safety.

Displaying an offense which for the most part swept their opponents off their feet Coach Mansfield's boys gave its supporters their first peek at the brand of football of which they are capable. The fumbling which had so marred their chances in other games was almost entirely overcome, and several new formations were tried out which looked very, very good. On defensive the team looked much better than against Watertown and Lexington, and though it still was prone to offside play on the rushline, its tackling was much surer and sharper than heretofore.

A couple of shifts were tried out in the lineup and bid fair to become permanent. "Don" McCarthy, speedy halfback was tried out at center after an injury to McCauley and his work was the best which we have seen at the pivot post this fall. Especially was his passing a big improvement over what has been shown and a lot of Winchester's offensive smoothness was doubtless due to the backs getting the ball where they wanted it.

"Jimmy" Halwartz returned to the fullback position which he filled so acceptably last year and the big boy played a nice game, backing up his forwards effectively while hitting the line hard when running with the ball. "Fat" Johnson was back at his guard position for the first time this season but was unable to finish the game because of injury. Hight started at Halwartz's tackle berth.

The first quarter was pretty much all Wakefield, though Winchester had no trouble in keeping its goal line out of danger. Knowlton kicked off for the locals ,and employing several criss-cross plays and triple passes Wakefield rushed well in its own territory to the Winchester 35-yard line where their offense went to pieces.

The second quarter found Winchester in possession of the ball at midfield with about four minutes left to play. Here Knowlton dropped back and shot out a pretty forward pass to "Spike" O'Donnell on the Wakefield 20-yard line. Winchester's right end running to Wakefield's 10-yard line before being snowed. On the very first play "Hennie" Knowlton sliced off tackle behind "Charlie" Cassidy and dragging a couple of enemy tacklers plowed across the goal line for the touchdown. Rolli failed to kick the goal.

The half ended shortly afterward, and after intermission the local boys seemed literally "rarin' to go." Winchester kicked off and Wakefield ran the ball to its own 30-yard line. Here the locals defense got going in earnest and three rushes lost the home team seven yards. Presper punted almost straight into the air, and Winchester got the ball on the 35-yard line. The locals swung into action at once, pushing the ball to their opponents 5-yard line where they were held for downs. Wakefield tried to kick out of danger but a bad pass got away from Presper and he was forced to fall on the ball for a safety, adding two points to Winchester's total. The ball was put in play at the 30-yard line. Wakefield failed to gain and kicked to mid-field where "Won" Rolli ran the ball back to their 35-yard line. This time the locals' offense would not be denied, and with Knowlton and Halwartz ripping off consistent gains through the line the ball was rushed to the Wakefield 15-yard stripe. Here on a delayed pass which completely fooled the home team, Prue ran untouched across the Wakefield goal line for the score. The try at goal failed again.

The last quarter found a team of subs on the field for Winchester yet the effectiveness of its eleven seemed to suffer but little. About half way through the period Coach Mansfield's boys came into possession of the ball at mid-field and started a march up the field which gave the fans visions of the steam-roller of 1922. With little "Sport" Kendrick running wild the locals went steadily along, their cause being materially aided by a couple of sweet passes from "Arbie" Taylor to that same Kendrick kid. With the ball on Wakefield's two-yard mark "Ronnie" Simonds bust his way through the line for the touchdown. Here Coach Mansfield sprung a little big league stuff, rushing Captain "Bud" Robinson into the fray to make the try for goal, a la Karl Pfaffman of Harvard. Long Karl couldn't have done a bit better than stubby "Bud" who booted the ball squarely between the uprights for the extra point and immediately retired to the sidelines amid much lusty yelling.

This ended the scoring and gave the locals a clear 21-point edge which is the best total a Winchester team has run up since the Halcyon days of "Dufo" Bond and his famous rough riders.

FINE SERVICE BY EDISON COMPANY

Hardly had the last gust of Woburn's young hurricane of Sunday struck the town before the work of restoring order from chaos began.

Even as the wires fell, men from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston were on the job. Mr. Geo. McNeil of the Woburn Station recognized in the first devastating blow that tremendous work was at hand. Immediately, all light and power circuits were closed, and by this bit of work many lives were saved and the safety of the townspeople assured. In less time than one could imagine possible, the call had gone out and from Lexington and from Somerville came men to help the Edison force. In many cases the men so called were not at home and this necessitated concentrated effort on the part of both the Edison Company and their families to reach them. Lexington furnished two truck loads of men and so did the adjacent town of Somerville. The men so summoned worked like Trojans, in many cases doing the work of two or three times as many men. From the time of the storm, which broke at about 3.15, to the early morning hours, these men performed their task in order that when the next morning's sun shone, the Community's work could go on uninterrupted. In a short space of three hours, these men, totalling over 30, had brought light and safety to the town. The Edison Company, in assembling such a group of workers in such a short time, brought out of confusion, order and safety.

While, of course, it was known that Woburn was the hardest hit during the storm, other towns were to a lesser degree, disturbed. The Edison vigilante kept a sharp lookout for any trouble and in this way anticipated any emergency.

The enormous amount of work accomplished and the speedy way in which the men handled the situation, was a great factor in the public's safety.

The falling steeple of the Unitarian Church at Winn street, Woburn, paralized the major lines of the City. Again on Pleasant street, trees falling like thunderbolts wiped out still another avenue of service.

By 6 o'clock the greater part of the work had been finished and by noon of Monday, the poles, many lying flat, were reset and new wires put into place in order that commercial and home and public lightings could be continued. In less than four hours, the light service was restored—in less than 24 hours from the first wind, the entire light service of Woburn was functioning properly.

There is still a certain amount of routine cleaning up to be done; trees that are cracked and dangerous to the public must be torn down. New poles are being set, old ones strengthened and where necessary, wires are being mended. As far as the public is concerned the Edison service, however, will continue undisturbed.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON

The new home of the Florence Crittenton League at Oak Square, Brighton, has been completed and dedicated. The home will be open for the inspection of its friends and well-wishers all next week, beginning Nov. 2, during the hours of 3 to 5 in the afternoon. The different circles in the vicinity of Boston will assist in welcoming visitors during the week. On Wednesday, Nov. 4, the hostesses for the day will be the Winchester and Medford Circles.

Mrs. Apsey, the president of the Winchester Circle, would be especially pleased if the members would show their interest in this worthy work by making up automobile parties and inspecting the new home some afternoon during the week. Guides will be on hand every afternoon. The Social Committee of the Winchester Circle will be there on Wednesday, Nov. 4 and hopes to see many Winchester members at that time.

WILL GIVE LADIES A DINNER

The Men's Club of Epiphany Church will give a dinner to the ladies of the parish Monday evening, Nov. 16, at 6:45.

The ladies of Epiphany Church have been so generous in providing hospitality at the regular meetings of the Men's Club that last year the men attempted for the first time a complimentary dinner to the ladies in which they prepared and served the dinner and provided entertainment with such evident success that it has become a confirmed habit and the coming November meeting will be a special feature in the nature of a Thanksgiving Dinner with new entertainment and good music followed by informal dancing.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

A most successful whist party was conducted in the K. of C. Hall on last Thursday evening. The affair was in charge of a committee under the direction of Sisters Ann Kennedy, Katherine Callahan and Mary Golden. The proceeds will be a considerable help with the numerous charitable calls we try to meet during the coming holiday season.

It is expected this party is just a forerunner of many more such parties.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE OF THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

An all-day sewing meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 5, at the First Baptist Church. All women of the church are needed for this sewing meeting. Luncheon will be served at 12:15. Please bring second hand clothing to be sent to the Mather School also jelly to be given to the Morgan Memorial.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Getty of Warren street, who have been spending the summer at the Russell Cottages, Kearsarge, N. H., are leaving Saturday from New York for Bermuda. They plan to be away for the next six months, stopping at The Beaches, Somerset.

[illegible]GTON CHAPTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

At a recent meeting of the Washington Chapter of the Mothers' Association, the members and friends were most fortunate to have obtained as lecturer Miss Beatrice Billings, who comes from the Middlesex County Extension Service. Miss Billings gave a most interesting and instructive talk on food and nutrition. Each person present was given a score card on which were listed foods important to bodily welfare. Percentage values were given these foods depending on the frequency of their use. It was possible to obtain 100 per cent if the diet were properly balanced and meal habits regular.

Miss Billings brought out strongly the importance of milk in the diet, because of its calcium content, which goes for the building of teeth and bones. She further told that in leafy vegetables are found more mineral matter and vitamines than in other foods. Orange, tomato and raw cabbage contain an important vitamine, known as Vitamine C, found in few foods. She also said that the diet often contains too few of the foods with cellulose content—fruits, root vegetables, and whole grain flour and cereals.

She urged the more frequent use of a most important and much neglected element in the diet water.

A detailed discussion of "body builders," "energy givers," and "regulators" gave great help and much information to everyone present.

Miss Billings is to give three more lectures to the Washington Chapter and people interested. Those who came to the first are eagerly looking forward to the other lectures. Recipes go with each lecture, besides which it is said that many women have found the suggestions on the score cards of great help in planning meals.

It is the hope of the Extension Service that women who come to these lectures will pass on what they learn to others.

WINCHESTER MAN INSTALLING OFFICER AT CAMBRIDGE

At the public installation of officers of Fr. Coughlin Court, 195, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, which was held at Cambridge on Tuesday evening, Deputy High Chief Ranger, Thomas F. Fallon of this town was installing officer. The floor work was performed creditably by St. John's degree team of Hyde Park.

Seated on the platform were the following guests and speakers: Rev. Dr. J. Shanahan and Rev. G. F. Gunn, Chaplain, both of Mt. Auburn Court; High Chief Ranger, John F. O'Hara; Mayor Edward F. Quinn of Cambridge; Ex-Mayor Sullivan of Worcester; Past High Chief Ranger John F. Sullivan; Chief Ranger John F. McCarron of Winchester Court, 225, and Past Chief Ranger, Mrs. Isabel McKenzie, also of Winchester Court.

About 50 royal rooters accompanied the Deputy and his Staff to Cambridge where a wonderful entertainment was furnished by the Entertainment Committee. A seven piece orchestra furnished music for the dancing which followed the installation. Before departing for home the out-of-town guests voted the evening one of "the best ever."

MUSICAL COMEDY AT MALDEN AUDITORIUM

Next Monday night the theatregoers of Malden and vicinity will have the opportunity of witnessing "Little Jessie James" the musical comedy hit which played Broadway for one solid year and which was in Boston only last season.

"Little Jessie James" gave to a music-loving world "I Love You" the greatest song hit in the past 10 years; a song which has now sold over 3,000,000 copies, a record never before attained by any other song. There are other catchy tunes in the show as well, such as "Come On," "My Home Town in Kansas," "Dancing," "Suppose I Had Never Met You," "Such Is Life in a Love Song," "The Blue Bird," and others.

"Jessie James" is for next week only and the box office at the Auditorium is swamped with requests for seats as the regular patrons of the players are looking forward to see their favorites dance and to hear them sing. Manager "Eddie" Hayden promises a dancing chorus that will surpass anything ever before seen in Malden.

10 YEARS FOR HOLDING UP MR. HAYDEN

George E. Williams, 21, was given a sentence of 10 years in the Rhode Island State Prison, and his companion, Fred A. Martin, three years, when arraigned before Judge Hahn in Superior Court at Providence Monday, on two indictments charging them with driving off an automobile and larceny from the person.

Mr. Albert C. Hayden motored through this city on the night of Aug. 2 in order to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Hayden of Glengarry, this town. On leaving Providence he was accosted by Williams and Martin who desired a ride to Boston. Being well dressed and of good appearance Mr. Hayden acquiesced.

In Cumberland they set upon Mr. Hayden and beat him, leaving him in the road unconscious after taking his gold watch and about $70. They drove away in his car, which they abandoned in Central Falls, R. I.

SAVE THIS DATE

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the High School Assembly Hall, the Winchester Mothers' Association will hold its Annual Fathers' and Mothers' Night and reception to the teachers of our schools.

The School Department under the able direction of the superintendent, Mr. Quinn, is co-operating with the association in arranging a special program showing some of the present teaching methods used in the schools.

Projects will be worked out by pupils from the three divisions of the schools, Elementary, Intermediate and Secondary.

This program should be of great interest to parents and the children will be much disappointed if there is not a large attendance.

The Fortnightly Ladies' quartet will contribute several songs and the program will be followed by an informal reception to the teachers to be held in the gymnasium. There will be music and refreshments.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Whenever there's trouble in the coal industry, attention is centered on the gas business. This is only natural because gas service is now a stronger competitor of solid fuel than ever before.

Think of five thousand separate uses for gas—with more being developed every day! People everywhere are casting their heating burdens on the gas companies, secure in the knowledge that gas service is always on tap — clean, efficient and, best of all, economical.

When a home is fully piped for gas service, fuel worries depart forever, and so do ashes, smoke, soot and dirt. These facts are becoming known to thousands who have never thought about them before, and the results are seen in better cooking, more efficient heating of rooms and homes, and running hot water at every faucet.

Mr. Hugh O'Doherty, well known resident of Canal street, suffered the loss of his mother, Mrs. Kathleen M. O'Doherty, who passed away Sunday night at her home on Garfield avenue in Woburn after an illness of several months. Mrs. O'Doherty was 60 years of age and a native of Ireland. Coming to this country when very young much of her life had been spent in Woburn where she was well known, especially in the Mt. Pleasant District. In addition to Mr. O'Doherty of this town the deceased is survived by her husband, three sons, and three daughters.

Foreman Thomas McGowan of the Town's highway department is enjoying a two weeks' vacation after a strenuous season.

Mrs. Rupert Jones of Mystic avenue has been elected a member of the Executive Committee of the Boston Northfield Club.

Cadillac Custom 7-Passenger Touring Car

Four Advantages of The New CADILLAC Radiator

While the new Cadillac radiator, with its thermostatic shutters, is very much worth while for its appearance alone, it is, in fact, a distinct engineering improvement with a direct bearing on economy and efficiency—in these four ways:

1. The entire engine is quickly warmed to the temperature of operating efficiency.
2. The carburetor and air entering being directly heated—perfect vaporization is assured and power consequently increased. During winter the Cadillac thus starts with a minimum use of the choke.
3. Crankcase and cylinder blocks are also quickly heated to normal operating temperature which, with Cadillac crankcase ventilation, prevents oil dilution.
4. More energy is used as power, and less wasted as mere heat.

These shutters, furthermore, are integral with the radiator, not a mere accessory for winter. They function in summer as well as winter.

From a background of 23 years of continuous success, the new Cadillac emerges as the masterpiece in the fine car field. It is the ultra-modern version of motor car perfection. It is complete verification and vindication of Cadillac's leadership.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

It is, then, a peculiar pleasure that is mine in being privileged to tell you of Christian Science, the greatest discovery since the time of Jesus of Nazareth, for it re-establishes primitive Christian healing, repeating the wonders accomplished by Jesus and his followers and proving that the Comforter, the Spirit of truth, has been made available to us.

Christian Science proves beyond peradventure that God is Love and that He loves us in a way which our highest human sense of love can appreciate as love. It proves that God is omnipotent and available by setting aside what were presumed to be unchanging material laws of sickness and discord, giving us those blessings of health and harmony which we would rightfully expect of a human parent, had he the power to bestow them.

ITS DISCOVERER AND FOUNDER

Christian Science was discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy. Anyone who makes even the most casual study of Mrs. Eddy's life cannot but be impressed by the wonderful characteristics which she manifested. She was a deep student and went to the very root of any subject which she investigated. Moreover, she was more than what might be termed a religious woman, for she was deeply spiritual. Even the poems and writings of her childhood, many of which were printed in New England publications, almost invariably have in them some reverent thought of God.

Possessed of what the world would call a frail body, she kept up her studies at home when, on account of ill health, she was unable to attend school, and later on, in spite of her lack of ruggedness, she demonstrated a tremendous capacity for work and investigation. After investigating various material systems of healing, she turned her attention to the Bible in an effort to discover how primitive Christian healing had been brought about and her faithful search was finally rewarded. In speaking of the result of this search she says, on page 25 of her book Retrospection and Introspection, "The Scriptures had to me a new meaning, a new tongue. Their spiritual signification appeared; and I apprehended for the first time, in their spiritual meaning, Jesus' teachings and demonstration, and the Principle and rule of Spiritual Science and metaphysical healing,—in a word, Christian Science."

Mrs. Eddy tells us further that she submitted her discovery to the broadest possible tests. That is, she not only discovered, through her deep Biblical study, the rules for healing as Jesus healed, but she proved the correctness of these rules in actually healing all manner of diseases. Her book "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" contains not only the rules for the application of Christian Science; but the admonitions of the one who through experience knew the things to be avoided. This book is a veritable well-spring of spiritual truth and those who have studied it for years find it ever new. It is not a book to be casually read but one to be studied and pondered. Not a line of it can be passed over lightly. "But," one might say, "if the Bible contains the rules for spiritual healing as Mrs. Eddy declares, why not study the Bible alone, instead of studying the Christian Science textbook as well as the Bible?"

SPIRITUAL UNDERSTANDING ESSENTIAL

All the study of the Bible by students and scholars for hundreds of years has failed to discover this law of healing. Unless we have the spiritual insight which Mrs. Eddy had we too would fail. It is evident that we must have this law of healing pointed out and explained to us as Mrs. Eddy has done in her writings so that we too may understand the spiritual meaning of the Scriptures and find the lost treasure of divine healing.

Now, in order that we may understand God it is not only necessary that we should understand His qualities and characteristics but we must discard those beliefs that have kept us from recognizing them. It was impossible to conceive and bring forth the radio until its discoverer discarded the belief that a wire was essential to the transmission of messages. So, in undertaking to understand God we must dare to discard every belief that is contrary to His nature. It is necessary to refuse to believe anything that is not according to divine logic, even though it may seem to be true to human sense.

To understand that God is the only healer, the Comforter, the source of all peace and joy, we must also see that matter is not a healer, that it cannot comfort, and that it has never been the source of peace and joy.

MATERIAL METHODS FAIL

My own experience in the practise of medicine may help us to see that we have no reason to trust matter instead of God to heal us. From the very beginning of my practice of medicine I was disappointed in the results following the use of drugs. Sometimes the results seemed to be most marked and again there was absolutely no result, and my experience was no different from that of thousands of other physicians. It was my conscientious desire to become an expert in medicine; but I found that the result was so haphazard that past experience was of no help and tended rather to produce a constantly increasing conviction that drugs had no effect. I watched the cases very closely trying to determine what factors were operating in disease. I was impressed with the mental factor which was so often apparent and which many physicians admit to be almost invariably present in disease. I determined to try to find out by close observation just how large the mental factor was in each case that came to me. At first, I could only see it occasionally; but finally it became more and more apparent and in the end I came to see that all disease is mental. It then became quite evident why drugs could not and did not heal. When they seemed to heal it was only because the faith in the drug entertained by the doctor, the nurse and the world in general was sufficient to replace the belief in disease and so to bring to human consciousness a sense of health. I began to see how little reason there is to trust in drugs and material measures for healing. I saw that the reasoning about these things is altogether faulty.

Take what is known as counter irritation, the use of an irritating plaster or poultice externally in order to alleviate irritation internally. The idea back of the mustard plaster and similar counter irritants is that the body will stop being irritated in one place if it is intentionally irritated in another. If the body is material and disease a material manifestation, then an irritation on the skin could not possibly stop a deeper irritation. But if the body is mental, a state of mortal mind, and disease a mental manifestation, as Christian Science declares it to be, then it is plain to be seen that the human mind might be made to forget one irritation, if it were sufficiently occupied with another, especially if it were made to believe that the measure employed was quite sure to have a beneficial effect. Indeed medical literature has pointed out that chronic eruptions of the skin in children will disappear during the time the child is suffering from an acute eruptive disease only to reappear on the subsidence of the acute eruption.

Unable to recognize that disease is a mental manifestation, the product of wrong thinking, medical investigators are constantly searching in matter for the cause of disease and for remedies with which to combat it. The history of medicine is one of constant change. Drugs which at first seemed successful are later discarded because the good results which at first seemed to follow their use no longer appear. As soon as the accompanying belief in the efficacy of the drug is destroyed there are no further results following its administration. It is proverbial that the patient must have faith in the doctor. The physician himself almost invariably admits that without the element of belief his drugs and his measures will have no effect. Recently a physician told a young man that what he needed was exercise. But the young man said, "I walk nearly all day in carrying on by business." The doctor replied, "That kind of exercise does you no good because it is taken in the course of your business. You must exercise for the sake of exercise." In other words, the thing that makes it beneficial is the thought that it is exercise. The germ theory and other established medical beliefs will all, in process of time, be discarded.

Old beliefs give way to new theories and these in turn are discarded for others and this will continue until the human mind comes to see that the body is but an expression of thought and all disease a mental manifestation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE VS. MENTAL SUGGESTION

I could go on quite indefinitely telling you of various things which would indicate that the body is mental and that disease is altogether a thing of material thought. I came to see this clearly through watching disease processes over a period of nine years of medical practice. Now it is obvious that if disease is mental the treatment should be mental. I therefore determined to become a mental specialist and with this in view I began to read various books on the subject of mental healing.

Among the books brought to my attention was the Christian Science textbook. I did not believe that Christian Science was either Science or religion. It was my belief that Mrs. Eddy had appropriated the material law of suggestion and had built about it a system of religious worship and that by studying her book along with the other writings on mental healing I might glean something additional about the mental treatment of disease. However, as I read Science and Health I discovered that it was not like the rest and it finally became apparent to me that Mrs. Eddy had indeed discovered the law of spiritual healing, for the healing was brought about by the recognition of certain spiritual truths about God and man's relationship to Him and not by any power inherent in the human mind. I saw clearly that the person employing suggestion undertook to heal sicknesses, which are always mental beliefs, by the use of an opposite mental belief; but that the Christian Scientist appropriated the power of God, the spiritual fact, the truth, and brought this truth into human consciousness, thus destroying disease. So-called suggestive treatment is dangerous for it is impossible to build up the belief that one is well or that one is better by repeatedly asserting it, without at the same time admitting that repeated assertions that one is sick can make one sick, and thus endowing our sick thoughts with additional power to harm us. It is logically evident and my own experience and that of thousands of others bears out the fact that spiritual healing is the only dependable method of healing discordant conditions. I finally arrived at the point where I could no longer conscientiously practice medicine and I became a Christian Science practitioner.

BONDAGE TO MATERIAL BELIEFS

No doubt there are many who are kept from turning to God for healing by their bondage to medical beliefs. But if we are to know more of God we must have the courage to deny that the pronouncements of the doctor are to be feared and reverenced. How many of us are there who have more faith in the doctor's statement that our sickness is grave or incurable than we have in the Master's declaration "And these signs shall follow them that believe, * * they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover," Mark 16:17, 18. These medical beliefs which we so worship have often been inculcated in childhood and entertained for years; yet a lie gains no strength with age and it is high time that we discarded every belief which keeps us from understanding God. Let us, then, remember that in order to understand God we must give up our faith in matter and trust God fully.

In like manner have the religious beliefs of a God of love and hate, of fiery punishment and eternal damnation, kept us from understanding God and appropriating His healing. If we are to make use of the law of healing we must earnestly desire to know God and in addition we must be willing to give up every material belief which keeps us from understanding Him. The majority of the beliefs that keep us in darkness are either medical or religious. Now we all earnestly desire to be healed and must all be willing to try to understand God in order that this desire may be fulfilled. How then shall we proceed?

In the second paragraph of the preface to the Christian Science textbook Mrs. Eddy writes, "The time for thinkers has come. Truth, independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, is knocking at the portal of humanity. Contentment with the past and the cold conventionality of materialism is crumbling away. Ignorance is no longer the stepping stone to faith. The only guarantee of obedience is a right apprehension of Him whom to know aright is Life eternal."

We are going to have to think about God, since "the time for thinkers has come." Truth is knocking at your door and mine for admittance, and, as we admit Truth, this understanding of God destroys the sicknesses and discords which distress us.

CORRECT CONCEPT OF GOD

In thinking about God let us take some spiritual fact that we are all agreed upon. No doubt we are all fairly well agreed that God expresses wisdom, infinite intelligence. The magnitude and grandeur of the starry firmament is evidence of the intelligence that is nothing short of infinite. Now let us see where this admission leads us. We shall have to admit that God is Life for who can conceive of dead intelligence? We shall have to admit that God is Truth because infinite intelligence could not have within it untrue or non-intelligent thought without ceasing to be infinite, and so ceasing to be God. We shall have to admit that God is Mind because we have already admitted that God expresses infinite intelligence, and infinite intelligence is simply the expression of infinite Mind. We shall have to admit that God is Spirit, because, according to Webster's Dictionary, spirit and mind are one. And later on we shall have to admit that God is Love. We have not as yet discussed the nature and character of God's creation but when this is done it will be seen that God showers infinite goodness upon His creation, that He protects, guides, and cares for all that He has made, and that no less a term than infinite Love can properly express His nature. In these terms for God we have a basis from which to learn of Him.

So far, in our contemplation of God, we have not included any thought about God's universe. Reverting again to our first thought about God, we started out with the admission that God expresses infinite intelligence and that He is therefore divine Mind. Divine Mind is omnipresent and filled with ideas. Mind manifests intelligence which is expressed in ideas or thoughts. These thoughts or ideas are the activity of Mind. It is impossible to conceive of Mind without ideas, for Mind in order to be Mind must be filled with ideas.

Here, then, is the spiritual creation, divine Mind everywhere present filled with spiritual ideas. Mrs. Eddy declares that God's ideas "range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God." (S. & H. 503:3) God's creation exists in divine Mind, is never separated from it, and never ceases to be the direct effect or activity of it. It follows that man, the expression of divine Mind, has no volition of his own, but forever expresses the health and perfection of infinite Mind whose idea he is.

Admitting that there is nothing wrong with the argument as to the nature and character of God and of man's perfection because of his inseparability from God, we are immediately confronted by the fact that this conclusion is contrary to the evidence of the material senses that man is material and that he is imperfect and mortal, subject to sin, sickness and death. If we accept the evidence of the material senses as to the nature and character of man we are right where we started and will remain there. Our argument as to the nature of God and His perfect idea becomes a mere excursion into philosophical thinking with no direct application and no result.

UNREALITY OF MATTER

It is necessary that we should not only recognize the truth about God and man but that we should see the untruth of everything contrary thereto. Now Christian Science teaches that the material man and the material universe are expressions of beliefs or thoughts which are the opposites or counterfeits of true ideas, the creations of Mind. On page 60 of Misc. Writings Mrs. Eddy declares that "Evil in the beginning claimed the power, wisdom, and utility of good; and every creation or idea of Spirit has its counterfeit in some matter belief. Every material belief hints the existence of spiritual reality and if mortals are instructed in spiritual things, it will be seen that material belief in all its manifestations reversed, will be found the type and representative of verities priceless, eternal, and just at hand." The trend of modern material philosophy is to admit matter to be mental, the expression of what is termed law or thought, but what these materialists do not see is that the law or thought of which matter is the expression is not really law, but a counterfeit of God's law. We need to recognize that matter is mental, the expression of beliefs which Mrs. Eddy tells us she has named mortal mind, for want of a better term. While matter, to material sense may not seem to be mental, it is a significant fact that physicist and chemist alike maintain that it is. The Christian Scientist is daily proving that matter is but a mental manifestation, an expression of beliefs that are contrary to God's law. Jesus' appearance in the room with the disciples when the door was shut is definite proof that matter is mental. When the disciples said, "It is a Spirit," Jesus simply said, "Handle me and see. A spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have." Jesus brought his flesh and blood body into the room when the door was closed, which could only have been done by his clear recognition that man is spiritual and that the so-called material man is altogether mental, a product of belief. My experience in the practise of medicine convinced me absolutely that all disease is mental, and if a diseased body is mental then a healthy one is mental and all that is required to experience health is to exclude sick thoughts by entertaining only God's thought of health.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE UNFOLDS SCRIPTURES

It is probable that the majority of us, having been brought up in a Christian nation, have certain fundamental beliefs of creed and dogma, and whether we recognize them or not we approach Christian Science with the prejudice of whatever beliefs we are entertaining. Even those who think that they have no religious beliefs because they have never been identified with any particular church are almost certain to entertain the general religious thoughts which pervade the current literature of a Christian people so that in spite of their thought to the contrary they do entertain certain credal beliefs.

It is then important that we should understand what Christian Science teaches about those fundamentals of religious belief which almost every one entertains. What does it teach about prayer, salvation, the divinity of the Christ, the virgin birth and the miracles? To begin with it can be said that Christian Science answers all these questions logically. The Scriptures speak of the "Mystery of Godliness"; and we may have been led to think, from such utterances, and from the oft repeated statement that certain things in the Bible were not for us to understand, that Godliness is difficult to understand. It seems that at the time the New Testament was written there were many secret societies each having its secret work or mysteries, which were perfectly understood by those who were initiated; so that the use of the phrase mystery of Godliness did not infer that it was unreasonable or difficult to understand. Mrs. Eddy declares that "God is to be understood, adored and demonstrated." (S. & H. 472:2) It is certain that as we understand God we do adore Him because we find Him altogether lovely and through the understanding of Christian Science we are able to demonstrate our sonship with Him.

PRAYER

What is the prayer of healing? We have established as a basis for our reasoning that God is Mind and that the reflection, Mind's ideas, constitutes man and the universe, that the spiritual man, God's idea, lives and moves and has his being in divine Mind. We have also found that the so-called material man is a false concept or belief, a counterfeit of the real man. Now as counterfeits, as mortals, we are suffering according to our beliefs, from sickness and discord. Our faith in medicine and other material measures has not been strong enough to replace the belief of sickness, or having replaced it for a short time, the troublesome belief has again asserted itself and the sufferer finally in desperation turns to God for relief. What must our communion be? How are we to pray aright? We cannot beg God to make us well for His idea is already perfect. It is evident that our prayer, our communing with God, must be in the way of asserting that which we have seen to be logically true of God's man. We can be grateful to God that we are His children, that as such we are inseparable from Him, that His children are as perfect as He is perfect, that they are the constant objects of His loving care and protection, that no evil can come or ever has come nigh them and that they exist forever perfect in divine Mind. We must also recognize that the discordant conditions from which we have been suffering are wrong thoughts entertained in the human mind which disappear as we appropriate the truth about man in God's image and likeness. When through such a prayer as this healing comes to us there comes with it a wonderful sense of nearness to God and of His loving care for us. It is then that we are able to declare from actual experience that God is Love. The human mind, through the leavening of spiritual truth, becomes a better belief, more nearly like the divine model, and this process will go on until mortality is swallowed up of Life.

The Christian Scientist's God is not personal in the sense of being a big man with a body, but it is certain that Christian Scientists do appreciate the nearness and dearness of God as they never did before. Mrs. Eddy declares in her book Unity of Good: "Now this selfsame God is our helper. He pities us, He has mercy upon us, and guides every event of our careers. He is near to them who adore Him. To understand Him, without a single taint of our mortal finite sense of sin, sickness and death, is to approach Him and become like Him."

Is there anything distant or cold or unapproachable about such a concept of God? And then there is the answer to the prayer, the fact that this communion with God, this entertaining of God's thought, heals the difficulties which have led us to approach Him in prayer.

SALVATION

A great deal has been said about God's plan of salvation. Salvation has usually been considered to mean the avoidance of punishment for sin after death. Now what would you and I wish to be saved from and when would we want that salvation to appear? Is it not our desire to be saved at this moment from sickness, from sin, from discord, from lack, and every condition which keeps us from the health and joy and peace that are rightfully ours as the children of God? The way of salvation is through the Christianly scientific prayer of realization of God's goodness and love. Each one of us can be conscious today of something of God's salvation, and in this evidence of salvation today we will find abundant assurance of final salvation from everything unlike God. If then, we are to appropriate salvation through our own understanding of God, following the Biblical injunction to "work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," what was accomplished by Jesus' atonement and what relation does it bear to our salvation?

Let us recall again, as a basis for our reasoning, that God is Mind, and that man is Mind's idea, and that to be rid of the discordant beliefs which beset us it is necessary to lay hold on this spiritual fact and through this righteous prayer, to destroy every discordant condition until at last, in our progressive demonstration, we shall have destroyed sickness, sin and death. If we must, through our own efforts, under the guidance of Truth, be rid of these errors, it certainly was not intended that we should depend on the vicarious effort of another to do so. But Jesus showed us the way. Mrs. Eddy points out that "His consummate example was for the salvation of us all, but only through doing the works which He did and taught others to do." (S. & H. 51:19-21) Jesus' atonement, his demonstration of unity or at-one-ment with God, becomes more important to us than ever, since we have learned that it is through striving that we are to be rid of sin, sickness and death, and that through the destruction of all error he has become our way-shower, "the first-born among many brethren" as the Bible declares.

THE CHRIST

Reverting again to the fact that God is Mind and that man is His perfect idea, as a fundamental fact of Christian Science teaching, one might ask, "Just where and how does the Christ come in?"

The word Christos is a Greek word which means anointed. The Christ is spoken of in the Old Testament as the Messiah. When we turn to God for help and undertake to recognize that man is Mind's idea, God's image and likeness, the divine consciousness that comes to us is the Christ, Truth. Now, Jesus was anointed with the Christ, the Spirit of truth, so fully that he was justly called Jesus, the Christ. The writer of the Book of Hebrews points out that Melchizadeck was the Christ consciousness which came to Abraham, and also tells us that Moses was conscious of the Christ in some degree, for he declares that Moses esteemed "the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt, for he had respect unto the recompense of the reward." He knew that what he gained through his consciousness of the Christ, even though, on this account, he received the world's reproach, far outweighed anything that the world had to offer. David speaks of his consciousness of the Christ, Isaiah tells of the Christ, how this divine idea unfolds in human consciousness, and what it does. Jesus taught his followers the truth which he understood, and to the degree that they appropriated his teachings were they in possession of the Christ-Mind which animated him.

Mrs. Eddy points out that the word Christ as it was used in the New Testament meant "the divine manifestation of God which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error" (S. & H. 583:10). Today, as in Bible times, the Christ comes to us when we turn to God and earnestly strive to become conscious of our true selfhood in Him.

The appropriation of the Christ is an individual problem, but we have always before us the perfect and complete demonstration of the Christ which Jesus left as an example and an inspiration to help us on. The Christ is divine and if, through the understanding of Truth as taught in Christian Science, we are accomplishing healings, we are proving that we are in possession of the Christ consciousness in some degree.

Christian Science teaches that Jesus was born of a virgin. In fact, there is no truth within the Bible that does not confirm and support the teachings of Christian Science. In speaking of the virgin birth, Mrs. Eddy declares that "The illumination of Mary's spiritual sense put to silence material law and its order of generation, and brought forth her child by the revelation of Truth, demonstrating God as the Father of men." (S. & H. 29:20) She also says, "The Science of creation, so conspicuous in the birth of Jesus, inspired his wisest and least-understood sayings, and was the basis of his marvellous demonstrations" (S. & H. 539:30). This divine consciousness which Jesus possessed in so large degree enabled him to vanquish every error. He overcame temptation in himself and destroyed sin, sickness and death in others and finally overcame death for himself.

What does Christian Science teach of baptism and communion? Let me quote from page 35 of the Christian Science textbook: "Our baptism is a purification from all error. Our church is built on the divine Principle, Love. We can unite with this church only as we are newborn of Spirit, as we reach the Life which is Truth and the Truth which is Life by bringing forth the fruits of Love,—casting out error and healing the sick. Our Eucharist is spiritual communion with the one God. Our bread, 'which cometh down from heaven,' is Truth. Our cup is the cross. Our wine the inspiration of Love, the draught our Master drank and commended to his followers."

JESUS' COMMAND

When Jesus sent the twelve apostles forth, as related in the tenth chapter of the Gospel according to Matthew, he commanded them saying, "And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give." They were not only to preach that the kingdom of heaven is at hand, but they were to prove it. Christian Science is again declaring that the kingdom of heaven is at hand and offering constant proofs of the availability of the divine law to heal. James said, "Show me thy faith without thy works and I will show thee my faith by my works." Spiritual understanding is always accompanied by results.

Now, many healings brought about through the application of Christian Science are instantaneous or practically so. Other healings take some time and others, to human sense, are tedious. I recall a case in my own experience where eight months of treatment were required to bring about a healing, yet the healing was, in my opinion, an excellent one, for according to medical belief, it might have been years before this man could have resumed his normal business activity.

We are all desirous of quick healings. The healings which the Master accomplished were almost invariably instantaneous healings, or at least if the record fails to state that the healing was immediate, no statement is made as to the length of time required for the complete manifestation of health to appear. Two of Jesus' healings as recorded in the Bible seem not to have been instantaneous, and in my own effort to heal the sick there has been a certain measure of comfort, when healing has not been instantaneous, in the fact that even with Jesus spiritual understanding some of his works took a little time for their completion.

The healing of the nobleman's son, as described in the fourth chapter of the Gospel according to John, is one of these instances. This healing was brought about through what Christian Scientists would call absent treatment. Jesus was in Cana, and the nobleman's son in Capernaum about fifteen miles away at the time the father entreated Jesus to heal him. On the nobleman's return he met his servants who had come to tell him of his son's recovery, and according to the Scripture "then enquired he of Winchester, Mass.

October 19, 1925

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Survey of the Town of Winchester, Mass., will give a public hearing in the Selectmen's Room in the Town Hall Building on Monday, the 2nd day of November 1925 at 8 o'clock P. M. upon the petition of Edward H. Bonelli, Fred Holdsworth and Robert D. Farrington, Trustees, for approval of a certain plan, filed with said petition, of certain private ways as follows:—a way, beginning at High Street at a point opposite Arlington Street and extending northeasterly to Westland Avenue; a way, beginning at High Street about two hundred and sixty feet, westerly from Indian Hill Road, and extending northerly and parallel to said Indian Hill Road, to the first mentioned way; a way, beginning at a point on Indian Hill Road and opposite Sachem Road, and extending westerly to High Street; a way, beginning at the last mentioned way and extending northeasterly to Emerson Road; a way, beginning at a passageway leading to land of the Town of Winchester, and extending easterly and northeasterly to Emerson Road, which the petitioner proposes to open for public use.

After which hearing the Board may alter said plan and may determine where such way shall be located and the width and grades thereof.

Prior to the hearing the plan may be examined at the office of the Town Engineer.

By order of the Board of Survey, this 19th day of October, 1925.

them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him." They did not declare that he was instantaneously healed, but the Scripture infers that the fever left him and he began to amend at the time Jesus declared "Thy son liveth."

The other instance is a healing of an entirely different character, and is related in the twenty-second chapter of Luke's Gospel. Jesus said to Peter, "Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen the brethren." It is evident from the wording, that while Jesus had no doubt of the effectiveness of his prayer for Peter's healing from the error that was assailing him, the healing was not apparent and did not become evident until after Peter had denied Jesus thrice. Christian Scientists are grateful for the instantaneous healings, and for those that are not instantaneous, for they are all evidences of spiritual power.

CHRISTIAN REQUISITES

Throughout the Epistles the adherents of the early church were frequently enjoined to have patience. Now where healing is instantaneous, no patience is acquired. It might be reasonably inferred that the healing accomplished in the early days of the primitive Christian church was, in many instances, not instantaneous. The principal thing is to get the healing whether it be instantaneous or not, and thus prove our relationship to God and our understanding of Him. One who had turned to Christian Science for healing said, "Why is it that with all the instantaneous healings related in the Christian Science periodicals, I must read and study in order to get my healing?" I replied, "The only reason I know why you have to read and study in order to get your healing is because you did not get an instantaneous healing." God's child, the divine idea, is patient and expectant, and loving. When we find that we are entertaining impatient, hopeless and unloving thoughts, let us undertake to demonstrate patience, expectancy, and love, for they are divine qualities needed in the healing. Through our daily study of Christian Science, we are increasingly confident of the fact that Christian Science heals and that each day brings an added realization of the infinite power of that truth which we declare.

Let us watch our thinking and so far as we are able, let us cast out those thoughts which are detrimental. "Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." Phil. 4:8.

God's blessings are for us all, and God's children are all as the Bible declares, "joint heirs with Christ." Let us be faithful to that degree of spiritual understanding which we possess and it will continue to grow in human consciousness, proving its presence in the healing of our sicknesses and sins and we shall be worthy of the benediction, "Well done, good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things. I will make thee ruler over many."

Nature's Limitations

A whale can "get away" with an immense body, because the water buoys up most of it. The indefinite increase in whale meat that one whale can accumulate is, however, stopped by another thing, the limitations of his digestive tract. He simply can't catch and digest enough food to fill up the ocean with one animal. Insects meet their Waterloo in the growth competition because their breathing apparatus is faulty. They have no system of forced draft breathing, like vertebrates, but must depend on the diffusion or drifting of air into the simple tubes that open into their bodies. Hence even the gigantic insects of past geological ages, with wings a foot long, could not grow bodies thicker than a lead pencil.

Rich Fishing Ground

The bureau of fisheries says that the fish fauna off the New England coast is one of the richest and most varied in American waters. About 180 species have been recorded from this area and the host of commercial species includes representatives of the most important world fishes, such as the cod, haddock, hake, pollock and related species; the sea herring, mackerel, swordfish, halibut, flounders, salmon, etc. The outlying bank fisheries extending to the northeast represent the most important fishing area in the Americas. American fishing vessels alone annually catch about 200,000,000 pounds of sea foods from this area.

Definition of Building

"Building," like many common nouns, is incapable of specific definition. It is hard to tell when a structure is a building and when it isn't. In common law anything erected by art, fastened to the soil and designed for permanent use was a building. Even a post, by that definition, was a building. Thus the great mosque at Mecca, which is really only a large inclosure, would be a building in the eyes of the common law. In common parlance, however, a building is presumed to have a roof, unless it is incomplete.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Spanish Armada

The Spanish armada, the great fleet sent by Philip II of Spain against England in 1588, consisted of at least 129 vessels, which carrried 19,295 soldiers and 8,460 sailors, in command of the duke of Medina Sidonia.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Fortnightly opened its 45th season on Monday of this week, with a brilliant gathering of members and guests.

Presidents and secretaries of other federated clubs were present in large numbers. They were heartily welcomed at the door by Mrs. H. W. Ash and her efficient hospitality committee. Each guest was presented with a single rose-bud and escorted to seats which had been reserved in the center of the hall.

The guests of honor, on this occasion, were Mrs. Frederick G. Smith, the president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, the director of the Eighth District, to which the Fortnightly belongs.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. W. S. Emerson, who welcomed the members and guests most graciously. She recalled a few of the things which the Club has accomplished for the civic betterment since its organization and told of some of the activities in which it is engaged at present.

Two very full reports of the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs were read by the reporting delegates, Mrs. C. W. Tarbell and Mrs. E. Pauline Buckley.

It was with pleasure and great pride that the members listened while Mrs. H. W. Hildreth spoke about the work of the Federation, calling attention to the Conservation Conference to be held on Nov. 19, at 687 Boylston street, to the Soldiers' Welfare Work and to the Federation Topics. It is Mrs. Hildreth's duty to keep the 17 clubs of this eighth district in touch with the work of the Massachusetts Federation.

Mrs. F. G. Smith, the "Mother" of the Massachusetts club women, spoke of the fall meeting of the Federation to be held in Springfield on Nov. 12, which she said would be well worth the effort which the delegates would have to make to take the early train from Boston. Mrs. Smith laid especial emphasis on the fact that the biennial is to be held in Atlantic City next summer, and what a wonderful opportunity it will be for the Massachusetts club women to enjoy and benefit by those inspiring meetings. She said that it is none too early to make plans for this event. She has secured, with great difficulty, 50 very choice rooms for the Massachusetts delegates, which she expects will be engaged almost immediately.

Following a brief intermission, Mr. G. Roberts Lunger sang a varied group of songs by Schubert, Salvatore, Rosa and Debussy, followed by the story "The Gift of God" which was read with much feeling by Miss Helen Hudson.

Mr. Lunger then sang two groups of songs—the first from the Hindo and the final one three Negro spirituals, arranged by Burleigh.

Mr. Lunger has a rich baritone voice, whose wide range was shown to advantage by his choice of selections, particularly so in the "Serenade" and in the familiar melody "Deep River."

Mrs. Anna W. Lochman's sympathetic accompaniment on the piano added much to the beauty of the music.

Miss Hudson concluded the program by reading one of the dainty Irish fairy stories written by Yeats entitled "The Land of Heart's Desire."

An informal reception was held, the President and guests of honor in the receiving line. Delicious salad and fruit punch were served by the social committee under the direction of Mrs. Katherine A. Myott who filled the place of chairman at a very short notice.

The beautifully decorated tables were presided over by Mrs. Philip Hammond, Mrs. J. H. Miley and two young matrons, Mrs. John Salyer and Mrs. Chandler Symmes.

The literature committee will hold its first meeting with Miss Hodge, 17 Edgehill road, on Monday, Nov. 2, at 2:30. Mrs. W. W. Hill will speak on current literary topics. A program centering around the early American short story is in charge of Mrs. F. W. Carrier and Mrs. Eugene McDonald. Club members are invited to attend.

Exhibition of early lighting things showing the types of lighting devices in use from early Colonial times up to the advent of kerosene and gas, will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Watkins, 2 Ridgefield road, on Tuesday, Nov. 3. The exhibit will be open from 2 to 6 in the afternoon and from 8 to 10 in the evening. At the same hours ticket holders may visit the home of Mrs. J. O. DeWolf, 5 Edgehill road. Mrs. DeWolf's house is lighted throughout with antique lamps, ingeniously fitted for modern use. An interesting collection of pewter and other antiques may also be seen there.

Walnut Cultivation

Commercial success in growing English walnut is found only in southern California. In the eastern states, so far as present data show, it may be said that the Persian walnut flourishes on all soils upon which the black walnut is found, and under favorable conditions on some others. Sandy loams, clay loams and gravely loams, if not too open, are suitable for the growth of this tree.

Jewish Festivals

The "Feast of Weeks" commemorated the giving of the law of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai to the Jewish people and also is observed as a harvest festival. Shabouth, or the Feast of Weeks, comes seven weeks after the Passover; the one is at the beginning of the barley harvest, then through the seven weeks during which the various grains ripen and are harvested, ending with the wheat harvest which terminates the festival.

Origin of Word "Nubia"

The name of Nubia, the land from which the Egyptians obtained their gold, is derived from "nub," the Egyptian word for gold.

RED CROSS YEAR A RELIEF RECORD

Huge Relief Work After Midwest Tornado the Greatest in American Annals.

DISASTERS DROP IN 1925

Ranged From Fire to Earthquake and Covered Wide Area at Home and Abroad.

Virtual completion of the largest peace-time project of post-disaster rehabilitation ever known has been accomplished by the American Red Cross in less than a year, as a part of its relief work in the more than 90 disasters in which it served in the past year.

This great program was undertaken following the tornado which struck five mid-western States last spring, killing 796 people, injuring 2,239 more, and causing inestimable property loss. It left a huge area of devastation in its wake, presenting a real problem. The Red Cross, however, went to work on the heels of the storm, caring for the injured, sheltering and feeding whole communities, and helping every individual sufferer from the destruction back to normal.

The magnitude of the problem is indicated by comparison of its huge casualty list with that of the entire preceding year, whose combined losses were 735 dead and not quite 2,000 injured, as a result of the record number of 192 catastrophies.

The story of the Red Cross service in the past year, recounted by the report, ranges from fires heading the list of destructive forces with 29 disasters, to mine explosions, tornadoes, typhoons, floods and earthquakes.

The Santa Barbara earthquake was among the outstanding events recorded in the report. The Red Cross had completed its relief organization on the scene within a few hours of the disaster, and in addition had launched a program designed to permanently restore every person affected by it, to his former status once more.

The Red Cross service in the period following the wreck of the Navy airship "Shenandoah" was typical of its promptness and effectiveness. Service in this instance was afforded by Red Cross chapters in the vicinity of the wreck, and by representatives of the national organization. It demonstrates graphically the value of each of the more than 3,000 chapters of the society which are at work in virtually every part of the country, in the facility they afford the national organization in emergencies.

There were 61 domestic disaster operations reported in which the Red Cross rendered service either through chapter or national staff personnel during the year. In 34 of these the national organization appropriated a total of $3,047,256.49, the greater portion of which was received as direct contributions for the relief of specified disasters. The relief operations following the northern Ohio tornado of June, 1924, were brought to a close in May, 1925, after an arrangement had been made with the Lorain chapter to provide expert services to the families of any tornado sufferers who required such assistance in the next two years. In this single disaster the relief work, as finally accounted, reached a total of $1,019,751.23.

The mid-western tornado of this year, covering a strip of territory 400 miles long involved an expenditure up to June 30 of $774,000, while the total amount turned in to the fund through the agency of the Red Cross was $2,645,000. In addition to this sum specifically collected for the purpose, the Red Cross had expended from its regular reserves $124,000.

In all these disasters, Red Cross workers have been impressed by the spirit of determination and hopefulness shown by the people. Once they recovered from their grief and bewilderment, they began at once to rebuild, materially and otherwise, and always on a better scale where possible. Another significant feature of these occurrences, as noted in the report of the Red Cross, was the promptness with which the local chapters organized emergency relief before help could be received from outside sources. A direct effect of their example has been to stimulate disaster relief preparedness among chapters all over the country.

The services of the American Red Cross are performed invariably in the name of the American people. On the effectiveness of this representation during the past year, it will launch the ninth annual roll call this year on November 11, to continue until Thanksgiving, November 26, during which support through membership will be invited for 1926.

What Becomes of Red Cross Sweaters

What becomes of the sweaters which the American Red Cross has asked for? In the first place, they are needed for the 30,000 disabled veterans still in hospitals this winter, the garments being in great demand. The surplus left from the war has been exhausted since the Armistice, hence the new call for the sweater-knitters to resume their needles, a call already being met.

The American Red Cross serves in your name; you can make it more effective by adding your name to its membership during the Roll Call Nov. 11-26.

MOUNTAIN TOP BOUGHT BY PRIVATE CAPITAL FOR STATE

New England Federation of Bird Clubs Acquires 100 Acres on Mt. Watatic

Mt. Watatic has been purchased by private capital and will be presented to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for a permanent bird sanctuary. The purchaser is the New England Federation of Bird Clubs which already has presented several tracts of land, and several islands to the State.

Its latest contribution, Mt. Watatic, is almost the only remaining important forest area of red spruce in Massachusetts. It is located in Ashburnham and Ashby. About 100 acres on top of the mountain were bought by the federation when it was discovered that this virgin forest was about to be invaded by the axe. Negotiations were already in progress for the sale of it to a lumber concern when Laurence B. Fletcher, Charles B. Floyd and Charles L. Whittle came to its rescue and tied it up for the Federation of Bird Clubs which has approved the purchase and in due course will execute a deed giving the property to the State.

"Word came to us," said Mr. Fletcher, "that this wonderful tract of land was to be sold to a lumber company which would cut down the spruce, and after visiting the property with Mr. Floyd and Mr. Whittle we decided to purchase it and thus save the day for it. There is an Appalachian Mountain trail running through the center of the tract to the top where there is a fire observation tower erected by the State Forestry Department. The officers of the Federation will present the land to the Commonwealth to be used as a reservation and breeding place, making the first inland sanctuary to be presented to the State."

Massachusetts is practically denuded of red spruce forests. This lot is said to be the largest still remaining. The mountain top is thickly covered with large trees, some of them two feet in diameter. As a forest it has attracted a great deal of attention among autoists because it is visible from the State road which runs along the southern face of the mountain. The mountain top commands a fine view of southern New Hampshire, of Vermont and the Berkshire hills, it being only about two miles from the New Hampshire line. What has saved it from the axe up to this time is partly its inaccessibility for lumbering operations, yet it was about doomed to go when the Federation of Bird Clubs learned of its availability. The price paid for it was far beyond what the State could pay for it under the law which permits the purchase of forestry land with public money, but under the latest legislation the Commonwealth is authorized to accept such gifts. The Appalachian Mountain Club has appreciated its scenic value by the building of a trail through the tract and the Forestry Department has taken advantage of its strategic value as a point of observation in its fire protection system.

President Edward Howe Forbush, State ornithologist, who is president of the Federation, has for a long time regarded it as a most important resort for birds to whose perpetual protection and care it is to be dedicated.

For a long time this forest has been used by the State as a source of information in connection with the new book which the Department of Conservation is to publish on Massachusetts birds. John A. Farley, assistant State ornithologist, who has been helping Mr. Forbush in gathering information for the forthcoming bird book has made numerous visits to Mt. Watatic in quest of bird data. There bird life has remained largely undisturbed. Mr. Farley has found abundant evidence of the pileated woodpecker. The golden crested kinglet, almost the smallest bird in North America, next to the humming bird, has been found to breed there. Various Canadian faunal warblers, such as the Magnolia and the Myrtle warblers, have been observed, and the white throated sparrows are common, as well as the common snow bird. Of course there are many other forms of wild life there.

CHRISTCHURCH AND DUNEDIN: CITIES OF NEW ZEALAND'S SOUTH

Christchurch and Dunedin, cities of the South Island of New Zealand, where sailors from units of the American fleet have been visiting, are the subjects of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Christchurch lies in Canterbury Plains on the River Avon.

England in Miniature

These three names alone would give one a good inkling of what Christchurch is like and something of its history. It was founded just 75 years ago almost directly as a project of the Church of England, and the community was meant to be an England in miniature. An Archbishop of the Church of England headed the settlers, most of whom were staunch churchmen, cultured and reasonably well to do. An imposing Cathedral was built to be the hub of the town both physically and spiritually, and it dominates the city in both realms today.

In its 75 years Christchurch and its suburbs have acquired a population of about 95,000. The city spreads over a considerable area, almost wholly flat, and has wide, tree-shaded streets, uncrowded dwellings, ample parks.

Center of Grain, Sheep and Dairy Industries

Canterbury Plains, on the edge of which Christchurch lies, have an area of about 4000 square miles and constitute the largest unbroken tract of agricultural land, and the richest in the two islands. Here is the center of New Zealand's grain, sheep and dairy industries. Canterbury plainsmen are prosperous and the roads of their large level region invite motoring—facts which have contributed to make automobiles as numerous in Christchurch as in almost any American city of similar size.

One of the most charming features of Christchurch is the Avon, a limpid little stream which winds its way through the heart of the city. Its gently sloping, grassy banks are overhung by weeping willows whose trailing branches make soft walls of green for every vista of the stream. At several places the Avon widens to enfold little islands on which landscape gardeners have massed graceful shrubs and flowers.

Behind Hills From Sea

Christchurch is the only one of the four New Zealand cities visited by the American sailors which lies inland. Between it and the sea, seven miles away, lies a range of high, rugged hills. The hills have been pierced by a tunnel for a railway, and near the seaward end of the bore is Port Lytellton, the city's sea gateway. This little port town with its 5000 inhabitants is built along the side of the hills. Most of its streets are steep. Over the hills to Christchurch lead a bridle path and a carriage road for those who spurn the more effete railway and its tunnel.

While Christchurch is colored still by its Church of England origin, Dunedin's atmosphere is that of Scotch Presbyterian. This fourth city of the Dominion, lying near the southern end of South Island, has a population in the neighborhood of 75,000. It was founded in 1848 by settlers from Edinburgh, who, to avoid adding to geographic confusion, gave it the Gaelic name for the Scotch capital. Scotch names predominate in the telephone diretory, on the business signs, and in the designations of the streets, while the massive kirk with its towering steeple stands in place of Christchurch's Cathedral. If the traveler hears inexplicably weird noises around the corner in Dunedin they probably emanate from one of the city's bagpipe bands.

Hill Country Like Scotland's

The back country, a bit rugged and cooler than the rest of New Zealand, is also reminiscent of Scotland. The climate is milder, however, than that of the Caledonian hills, and the region is a great fruit country as well as a rival of Canterbury Plains in dairying and sheep production.

Dunedin has a good, well protected harbor, though it is neither so large nor so deep as the harbors of Auckland and Wellington. From this port in 1881 sailed the first cargo of frozen mutton, an event that marked the beginning of a business that has developed into one of the chief economic bulwarks of the Dominion. Hundreds of thousands of frogen carcasses are shipped out annually now, not only from Dunedin, but from a number of other ports. The mutton carcasses from Dunedin are supplemented now by countless frozen rabbits.

Dunedin nestles among its encircling hills and around its curved harbor like a small scale Wellington. They are greener, less gashed, hills, however, and not so steep.

Dunedin gets its share of pleasure seekers from the warmer, more northern parts of New Zealand. It is the gateway to the southern lake country, a popular New Zealand playground, and to the great Fiordland National Park.

Death Lurks in Bite of Tropical Spider

The "black widow" is a coal-black spider with a scarlet or yellow dot on its stomach, which lurks under stones and sticks and in hollow stumps. According to Alexander Petrunkevitch, professor of zoology at Yale, recognized as one of the leading authorities on spiders, the bite of this particular species of insect is deadly to man. Reports at the Museum of Natural History show that the Indians were aware of the deadly nature of these spiders and used the mashed spiders as poison for their arrows.

The "black widow," known to sc entists as the Latrodectus Mactens, found chiefly in the South and in th West Indies and other tropical coun tries, although it occurs as far nort as Pennsylvania, and specimens hav been found in New Hampshire.—De troit News.

Perfect Tribute

In the old days newspaper reporte covering metropolitan local assignments all wore firemen's badges wit a special inscription, "Admit withi fire lines only." The understandi was that they entered burning build ings at their own risk.

A veteran police and fire reporter much beloved by all the fraternity died suddenly in one of the big cities A cub reporter, delegated to pick ou an appropriate floral tribute, decide to make it a masterpiece. At the f neral the most conspicuous thing wi his enormous floral piece of whit roses which covered the casket. was made in the shape of a fireman' badge and attracted somewhat startle attention. For spelled across it i vivid red roses was the warning:

"Admit within fire lines only."—Everybody's Magazine.

Possible Horsepower

Charles P. Steinmetz calculated o the basis of collecting every raindro that falls in the United States, and s the power it could produce on its wa to the ocean, being developed, tha there could be possible about 300,000,000 horsepower. This represents abou the present annual consumption o coal.

Merchants and storekeepers on South Main street have been up in arms during the past 10 days over the dust nuisance between the Parkway and the centre. The new section of roadway was covered with a thick coating of fine stone dust, which stirred up by the heavy trucks and numerous automobiles, entered the stores and did much damage to goods. The stone dust, being sharp, was much worse than the old street dust.

MIDDLESEX, SS. PROBATE COURT

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of William R. Cowdery late of Winchester in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Hattie E. Cowdery who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the third day of November A. D. 1925, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Winchester Star a newspaper published in Winchester the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JOHN C. LEGGAT, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of October in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

NOTED SPEAKER TO ADDRESS PARENT-TEACHERS OPENING MEETING

Eliott L. Bowker, a Well Known Singer, as "Tony" Will Also be Present

The High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its opening meeting in the Assembly Hall in the High School at 8 o'clock on Tuesday Nov. 17, 1925.

Hon. Frank P. Bennett, Jr., Editor of the United States Investor, and a past State Senator of the Massachusetts Senate will be the speaker of the evening. Mr. Bennett is well known throughout New England and in many of the other eastern states as a very forceful speaker and as an orator of the first rank. His scholarly and fearless articles on banking, legislative and other timely subjects, which appear each week in the United States Investor, are eagerly read by thousands and have won for their author the admiration and appreciation of all those who know him personally, and many of those who are constant readers of his publication.

Although an extremely busy man, Mr. Bennett has found time to take a more or less active part in civic matters. He has been for a number of years Moderator of his own Town, the Town of Saugus, and has been active in the past in its school matters. He will talk on the subject of "Is the Public School Our Only Hope?"

Elliott L. Bowker who will appear as "Tony" will sing a number of Italian sohgs and will enliven the meeting also with a few recitations. Mr. Bowker besides having a strong and beautiful tenor voice is also a very clever entertainer. His fame too is also spreading over New England. Within the last few weeks he has sung before large audiences in two New Hampshire cities and at Portland, Me. He will also lead those present in singing a few community songs.

Short addresses will be made by Mr. Robert M. Stone, Chairman of the School Committee of our Town, and by Mr. Wade L. Grindle, Principal of the Winchester High School.

The meeting is free to all citizens of the Town. It is very much to be desired that all those who have children in the High School and all others who are interested in the work being carried on by our schools will attend this meeting.

Special invitations are being sent out to the heads of our various Town Boards and religious, civic and social organizations and to the Presidents of the Parent-Teacher Association of the nearby Towns.

The reason for giving this meeting so much publicity is because those having the meeting in charge feel that besides offering an especially attractive program, the citizens of Winchester should become better acquainted with the work being carried on by the High School Parent-Teacher Association. Opportunity will also be afforded for meeting the teaching staff of the High School and learning at first-hand more about the work of our High School.

A series of three or four other meetings are being planned by this Association. They will be held sometime during the winter and spring school season. It is very much to be desired too, that the interest and enthusiasm which the committee having the meeting in charge feels will be shown in this first meeting will continue in those to follow.

The High School Assembly Hall will accommodate about 400 persons. Let's fill it to overflowing.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Merle E. Abbott of 250 Winthrop street, Taunton, formerly of Winchester, announced at a luncheon, which they gave last Saturday at their home, the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Ethelyn, to Mr. Lewis A. Maker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Maker of Taunton. Miss Abbott was graduated from Miss Chamberlayne's School in Boston in 1924, and is president of the Chamberlayne Alumni Association. Mr. Maker is a graduate of Boston University, and in his college days was a member of the Scull and the Lock Clubs, both of which are honorarary societies. No date has been set for the wedding.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY OCT. 30 to NOV. 21

Exhibition of Photographs. "Picturesque Architecture of Mexico" loaned by the Library Art Club.

ROLAND HAYES

Roland Hayes, the noted tenor, whose third American tour opens with a concert in our Town Hall next Friday, arrived from Europe yesterday. His accompanist, William Lawrence, returned with him.

His program consisting of four groups of songs includes works from Mozart, Schubert, Wolf, Rachmaninov, Griffes and Powell. He will sing the following negro spirituals:

"Sometime I Feel Like a Motherless Child."
"Little David, Play On Yo' Harp."
"I Don't Feel No-Ways Tired."
"I Got a Robe."

IMPORTANT HEARING ON ABERJONA RIVER

To the Editor of the Star:

In your edition of last week you published the announcement of a Public hearing to be held before the State Board of Health at the State House, Nov. 10 at noon. This hearing is in accordance with the Resolve of the last Legislature which called upon the Commissioners to examine the Act of 1911 governing the control of the waters of the Aberjona River, and to report its findings to the next Legislature.

The whole idea of this resolve was to examine the desirability of retaining this act on the statutes. It was advocated before one of the Committees of the last legislature, by the offender's representative that the present Act was too drastic.

After long and careful study of all legal points, your Committee wish to emphasize the great importance of retaining the Act in its present form.

It is the urgent appeal of the Aberjona Committee that all interested citizens be present and express their desire to keep this act in full force, and to advocate the securing of sufficient appropriations to be expended by the State Board of Health to properly carry out the Provisions of the Act.

It is only by securing drastic action under this Law that the Town of Winchester can secure the cleaning up of the stream.

If you are interested in a cleaner Aberjona River be present at this hearing.

PURRINGTON—THAYER

Miss Hazel imogene Thayer, daughter of Mrs. Sessions, and George F. Purrington of Boston and Winchester, son of Mr. George W. Purrington of this town, were united in marriage last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percival W. Sessions, in Cohassett.

The house was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and southern smilax, and the couple stood under an arch of white chrysanthemums. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Frederick A. Thayer, wore a gown of white satin, with lace sleeves and train, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Rosilla Thayer whose dress was yellow beaded georgette, with a bouquet of Ward roses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Ralph L. Purrington of Winchester, as best man.

Mr. Purrington is well known locally, and is a member of the Calumet Club where he has attained prominence as a bowler in the club tournaments. He is associated with his brother in the well business in Boston.

Following a two-weeks' honeymoon which will be spent on a motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Purrington will make their home in Cohasset on Pleasant street.

A PROGRAM OF NEGRO SPIRITUELS

St. Mark's Male Quartette, First Congregational Church at 4 P. M.

Those who are interested in Spirituels of the Negro race will be delighted to know that at the First Congregational Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, St. Mark's Male Quartette will render the following program:

"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot"
"Steal Away to Jesus"
"Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen"
"Down by the Riverside"
"Going Home"
"I'm so Glad"
"Standing in the Need of Prayer"
"Were you there when they Crucified My Lord?"

Rev. Clifford L. Miller, pastor of St. Mark's Colored Church of Boston, will give a brief address on "The Negro in the North." The offering will be taken for St. Mark's Colored Church.

A program of Negro Spirituels by a male quartette has always drawn a full congregation at the First Church. The program will contain the best loved and most familiar Spirituels, along with some beautiful new ones. The public is cordially invited.

A NEWMAN TRAVEL TALK IN WINCHESTER

Winchester is to witness another worthwhile event next month when on Saturday evening, Dec. 19, Newman, the famous traveler-lecturer, will give a lecture, illustrated with moving pictures and slides of his own taking on, "London, with rambles through England and Scotland." That his standard is a high one is witnessed by the fact that on next Friday and Saturday he begins his 17th season at Symphony Hall, Boston, where each year is bringing him larger audiences.

Mr. Newman is a genuine globe-trotter, who brings the world to his auditors. His pictures are the best ever projected, he himself photographs as he travels, the pictures are developed in his own laboratories in Chicago and they are projected by his own projection man. Mr. Newman's lectures are always remarkably perfect in synchronization.

WINCHESTER PLAYS ARLINGTON

Winchester will play its annual Mystic Valley League football game with Arlington High School tomorrow afternoon on the Spy Pond Athletic Field, Arlington, with the opening kick-off slated for 2.30. The locals chances of winning are not considered bright after their showing at Melrose last Saturday and especially since Arlington is known to have a strong club, rated the best in the League.

Coach Mansfield's boys will take the field with McCarthy at center, Harrimar and either Johnson or Franklin at the guards; Cassidy and either Hight or Amico, tackles; and Robinson and O'Donnell, ends. Fitzgerald will start at quarterback, with Haley, Knowlton and Simonds in the backfield.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE NOTES

The Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League will have an interesting display at the Copley Plaza on Nov. 18 and 19. Mrs. William A. Mitchell as chairman, and Mrs. T. I. Freeburn, sub-chairman.

Mrs. H. A. Goddard and Miss Elizabeth Downs have charge of the grabs in a novel and interesting "Treasure Hunt."

Mrs. William Schrafft and Mrs. Harold Gale will be in charge of a fine china and glass exhibit and sale, and the following members and committee are working in an enthusiastic manner to make the proceeds worthy of record: Mesdames Holbrook Lowell, William E. Clark, William H. Cole, William I. Palmer, T. Grafton Abbott, Howard Chidley, Charles Greco, Roy Palmer, Clarence Ordway, George Goddu, Charles Symmes, Charles Batchelder, J. P. Dabney, R. L. Vinal, Herbert Goff, T. I. Freeburn, J. H. Blaisdell, J. H. Powers, W. E. Priest, Ralph Sawyer, C. F. Winship, Walter Wadsworth, L. K. Snyder, A. K. Comins, E. D. SENATOR BUTLER'S RECEPTION

Never before has Winchester been honored by the presence of so many distinguished Republicans as visited here on the occasion of the Women's Republican Club reception for our senior Senator, William H. Butler, Monday evening, Nov. 2.

Together with the G. O. P. leaders, a notable audience which completely taxed the seating capacity of the Winchester Country Club was composed of members of the Winchester Women's Republican Club and their guests.

The ballroom, with its lighted fireplace and Hallowe'en decorations made a festive setting for the scene.

An informal reception to meet Senator Butler and his colleagues was held just before the speaking. The receiving line was composed of Senator Butler, Honorable Francis G. Prescott, Chairman of the Republican State Committee; Honorable Theodore G. Risley of the Department of Labor and Counsel to the Bureau of Immigration; Mrs. James D. Tillinghast, Director of Women's Work, State Committee; Mrs. Howard J. Chidley, and Mrs. Alonzo Woodside, Chairman of the Winchester Women's Republican Club. The addresses began promptly at eight. For brevity, interest and conciseness they were models. The local chairman, Mrs. Woodside, graciously welcomed and introduced the speakers.

Mrs. Howard J. Chidley, Mr. William Adriance of the State Committee and Representative Thomas R. Bateman, Chairman of the Republican Town Committee, each gave a message. Due to a bad cold, Representative Bateman was not in the receiving line. He was given a warm hand however, as he made a praiseworthy effort to use his voice.

Senator Butler, in addition to being senior United States Senator from Massachusetts, and National Chairman of the Republican party the biggest political organization in the country, is also the close personal friend of the President, whose campaign he managed so successfully last fall. He stressed the need of electing men who would support the President's policies, and registering support by voting at all state elections. He said, happily, he had been glad to accept this invitation to come to Winchester, as it had been the home of two of his old friends, Sam Elder and Sam McCall. Honorable G. Risley analyzed the accomplishments of the administration and paid special tribute to Secretary Mellon. Honorable Francis Prescott also paid high tribute to the administration. Mrs. John Jacob Rogers, Congressman from the 5th District, arriving late made a short speech which was warmly received. Her gracious personality won the hearts of all.

Refreshments and a social time followed. The arrangements were under the able leadership of Mrs. William LeFavour, Chairman of the social committee, composed of Mrs. John Maddocks, Mrs. G. A. Felber, Mrs. Lillian Mason and Mrs. Oren Sanborn. Servers, Mrs. W. H. Gilpatric, Mrs. Lucius Smith, Mrs. Alfred Radley, Mrs. Kingman Cass, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, Mrs. Herbert T. Maynard and Mrs. Eugene McDonald.

The tables most attractively set, were presided over by Mrs. Lewis Parkhurst, Mrs. Thomas Bateman, Mrs. Howard Chidley and Mrs. William Adriance.

The local reception committee were Mrs. George A. Hamilton, Mrs. George Wiley, Mrs. Ernest Keepers and Mrs. Joseph Fessenden.

A friendly, jolly audience that stayed beyond the refreshment period characterized this successful evening.

WINCHESTER BOY STRONG CANDIDATE FOR TECH GRAPPLING TEAM

James Cullen of this town, familiarly known to his many friends as "Fireman," is being mentioned as one of the promising candidates for the varsity wrestling team at M. I. T. Last year Cullen wrestled regularly on the freshman team at the Institute in the 115-pound class, being the outfit's high scorer and the winner of a bronze medal at 115 pounds in the New England Amateur Wrestling tournament in March. Despite the fact that there are five candidates lined up against him for the position, "The Tech," student publication, seems to believe that "Jimmy" has the necessary class to land the varsity assignment. Practice will start on Monday, Nov. 9, and Cullen will have his many Winchester admirers pulling for his success.

M. C. O. F. WHIST

A largely attended whist party was held on Wednesday evening in Lyceum Hall by the charitable committee of the Winchester Court, M. C. O. F.

The prize winners included Mrs. Foley, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. M. Sullivan, Miss Margaret Murray, Mrs. Beaton, Mrs. Foley, Mrs. O'Leary, Mrs. Cullen, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Norstrom, Mrs. Skerry, Mrs. McGuerty, Miss Mary O'Melia, Mrs. Flaherty, Mrs. Doherty, Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Mabel Foley, Miss Nellie Sullivan, Miss Anna Dowd, Miss Mary Donnelly, Miss Marion Flaherty, Mrs. Nagel, Miss Catherine Hogan, Mr. Dolan, Mr. Luke P. Glendon, Mr. Ray Fenton Mr. Kenneth Cullen, Mr. Brageau, Mr. Donnelly, Mr. G. Murphy, and Mr. Owen Murphy.

WINCHESTER JEWELER TO SHOW CIGARETTE CASE OF RASPUTIN

At the New England Jewelers' Exhibition to be held next week in Mechanics Building the cigarette case of Rasputin, the mad monk of Russia, will be on exhibition at the booth of Mr. Arthur S. Kelley of this town.

ROYAL SUMNER CARR

Royal Sumner Carr, a veteran of the Civil War and formerly for many years custodian of the Winchester Town Hall, died Friday night, Oct. 30, at the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea after an illness of several weeks. He was 88 years old and had retired from business several years ago.

Mr. Carr was born at Lowden, N. H., the son of Abraham and Mary (Small) Carr. When a young boy his parents removed to Medford, Mass., and at the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted May 1, 1861, in the 5th Massachusetts Infantry for three months at the age of 23 years. Later, July 1, 1861, he re-enlisted in the 39th Massachusetts for three years, carrying its colors from Lynnfield to the front and back again at the close of the war. He was severely wounded and was taken prisoner at the battle of Weldon Railroad, but was able to escape from prison, July 19, 1854. After his return from the war Mr. Carr was made a First Lieutenant in the Crack Lawrence Light Guards of Medford. After spending some time in the West and Southwest, Mr. Carr returned to Massachusetts in 1875. While in the West he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular army under the Act of July 28, 1866, and was assigned to the 18th Infantry, serving at Fort McPherson, Neb., and at Fort Larimee, Wyo. Later he was commissioned a first lieutenant and was assigned to Company E, 5th Regiment, Regular Infantry, being mustered out with that rank.

In 1884 Mr. Carr started in the service of the Town of Winchester, and when the present Town Hall was built in 1887 he became its first custodian, a position which he held for some 21 years. April 15, 1908, he resigned from the town's service. At the time of his death he was one of the two surviving members of A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R., of this town. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary H. Miller of Winchester.

Funeral services were held on last Sunday afternoon at Mrs. Miller's home on Church street and were conducted by the Rev. Allen Evans Jr., Rector of the Church of the Epiphany. The colors of A. D. Weld Post were taken to the services by John T. Wilson Camp, Sons of Veterans, under the command of Walter B. Lord, the members of which together with a detachment from Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, Nathan Thumim commanding, acted as an escort to the flag draped casket, both at the house and at the grave. The sole surviving member of the local G. A. R. Post, James Dunnell of Governors avenue, Medford, was among those to attend the services. The bearers included J. Leslie Johnston and G. Warren Johnston, Thomas J. McKee and Charles N. Bacon from Winchester Post, A. L.; and Walter B. Lord, Harry Lunt, Frank Holland and Thomas Barrett from John T. Wilson Camp, S. of V. The interment was in the Carr family lot at Oak Grove Cemetery in Medford where three volleys were fired over the grave by a firing squad from the local Legion Post under the command of Stanley W. Mobbs.

"THE CHURCH IN A CHANGING AGE," MR. CHIDLEY'S SUBJECT NEXT SUNDAY MORNING

Next Sunday morning at the regular hour of service at the First Congregational Church, Mr. Chidley will review his Ten Year Pastorate in Winchester and will speak of the currents and cross-currents in thought today, and will try to interpret his ministry at the First Church in the light of these conditions. It is a subject of vital interest to all thoughtful people who are trying to understand the age in which they live and their relation to it. The public is invited.

PAINTING BY WINCHESTER BOY HUNG IN VENDOME

A large canvas depicting a Gloucester fishing schooner, the work of Lee W. Court of this town, has been hung in the main dining room of the Hotel Vendome in Boston. The work, 40 by 48 inches, was painted in oils last fall by Mr. Court who is fast making a reputation for himself among the younger artists of this district.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Many seasonable surprises greeted the guests of Mrs. Charles T. Lawson at her home on Washington street last Friday evening at a Hallowe'en party and dance given by her. There was a large attendance and a most enjoyable evening was experienced by everyone, with the usual seasonable games and fun. During the evening solo dances by Miss Doris and Miss Marjorie Lawson were enjoyed to the extent of several encores. Luncheon amid all the wierdness that only Halowe'en can bring was served at 10 o'clock, after which dancing and seasonable novelties were enjoyed.

Among those who attended were:
Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lawson
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lawson
Mrs. Clara MacKenzie
Mrs. William H. Keeler
Mrs. Howard Razee
Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth
Marjorie Lawson
Dorothy Lawson
Theodore Lawson, Jr.

HALLOWE'EN FROLIC

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henry of Highland avenue gave a delightful Hallowe'en party Saturday evening for their children. About 20 guests were present to enjoy their hospitality. The decorations were very elaborate, being in keeping with the occasion. All the children were in costume and presented a pretty appearance, especially in the dancing, which was held in the billiard room. Dainty refreshments were served with pretty favors in the dining room.

MISSION UNION

The regular meeting of the Mission Union will be held Tuesday, Nov. 10, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The social committee will serve coffee at the box luncheon. Board meeting at 11 o'clock.

The condition of Mrs. James Corey who is ill at her home on the Parkway is reported as about the same.

FIREMEN BUSY OVER WEEK-END

Seven alarms of fire kept the Winchester Fire Department more or less on the jump last Friday and Saturday, though none of the fires involved serious property damage. Strangely enough all of the runs on Saturday were made before six o'clock in spite of the fact that the firemen were primed for a busy evening because of Hallowe'en. No alarm came in during the evening or night.

Friday's three alarms came in at 6:58, 7:35 and 11:10 P. M., all being stills. The first was for a burning fence on Main street at Salem street beside the tracks of the B. & M. Railroad, and the others for fires in the bull-rushes in the rear of Taylor's barn on Main street and in the swamp off Lake street.

Saturday's operations began at 10:55 a. m. with a still alarm for a fire on some meadow land in the rear of the Eastern Felt Co. off Farrow street. At 2:50 and 4:40 there were telephone calls for grass fires, the first off Palmer street and the second at the freight yard at Swanton street. The final alarm was from Box 43 shortly before 6 o'clock for a fire in a shed at the rear of 18 Salem street owned by the John B. Arrell heirs.

ELECTED DIRECTORS

Mrs. Edward C. Mason and Mrs. Edward V. French of this town were elected to the directorate of the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher Association at its annual meeting held in Springfield last week. Mrs. French, in her report as retiring president of the organization, advocated a 100 per cent campaign for health and promised that the association would not rest until it had helped every handicapped child in the state. She called for a better realization of the aims of the organization, trained leadership, reorganization of the county councils, larger functioning of state standing committees and greater attention to playground equipment in summer.

Mrs. Edith J. Moore, popular matron at Winchester's Home For Aged People, who has been seriously ill for some time with bronchial pneumonia, is reported as somewhat improved in health.

"HAPPY IS THE CHILD WITH BOOKS"

"Happy is the child with books" has been the slogan of Children's Book Week for a number of years, and now the Library wishes to bring to the attention of the parents the full meaning of this slogan, and the value of seeing that your children are reading the right books to help them form the character which is unfolding in them. Too many parents regard their children's reading as merely an amusement of no great importance with no object save to entertain the child.

Your children are in no danger if they are attracted by books of a scientific nature. It is in fiction that the danger arises. Just as the best fiction for adults gives them a truer knowledge of human nature, a broader, and more accurate judgment of men and events, so does fiction do the same thing for the smallest child.

Beginning with the easiest books the child commences to see what qualities are splendid and noble. Therefore if a child's reading is not carefully censored he may read books which will gradually rub off the sharp clear cut edge of his ideals and he may begin to think that honesty and high ideals are not so important as he first imagined them.

Lead your child's reading along lines which will keep him in deep sympathy and interest for the nobler qualities, for patience, and perserverance, truth, loyalty, courage, and justice and he will try to imitate the lovable and much admired characters in his books and grow to be the kind of a boy we all love.

Books come next to the influence of home, which always leaves the most telling marks upon character. Recognizing this fact, why is it that in this age, when the Library could fill such a big need in any community, do not more parents co-operate with us in trying to give the children the desirable books which we weed out so carefully from the many undesirable ones?

Children's Book Week this year comes from November 8th to 14th. During this time an attractive exhibition of worth-while books will be held at the Public Library. We are always glad to help the parents who are interested in the big problem of children's reading, and during Book Week lists of books we believe will be found helpful both as suggestions for the home library and gifts, will be distributed. Help us to keep your children "Happy With Books."

Books recommended for the younger children:
Blaisdell—American History Story Books.
Finger—Tales from Silver Land.
Fyleman—Fairies and Chimneys.
Hawthorne—Wonder Book.
Lofting—Dr. Dolittle Books.
Maeterlinck—Children's Blue Bird.
Perkins—Twin Books.
Spyri—Heidi-Vinzi.
Stevenson—Child's Garden of Verses.
Wiggin—Fairy Ring-Twilight Stories.

Children's Book Week, Nov. 8-14. See exhibit at the Public Library.

NEW ORGAN DEDICATED

Notable Service at Congregational Church

The First Congregational Church was filled to its capacity last Sunday afternoon at the service which marked the dedication of the recently installed $25,000, three manual organ installed during the past summer. The instrument, one of the finest in this part of the state, is equipped with Class A cathedral chimes, 20 tones, chromatic and scientifically proportioned, and also an organ harp-celeste having a complete register of five full octaves, C to C, with 61 chromatic tones.

Both were given by members of the parish as memorials, the chimes by Mr. Charles A. Lane in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Louise Lane, and the harp by Mr. Daniel, and Miss Bertha Kelley in memory of Mrs. Daniel Kelley, both Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Kelley having been active during their lifetime in the work of the First Church.

The beautiful organ case which harmonizes with and greatly enhances the appearance of the other chancel appointments is of gray split oak, and was given by Mrs. Handel Pond in memory of her husband.

Rev. Dr. Howard J. Chidley, who completed his 10th year as pastor of the First Church last Sunday, officiated at the dedication service and delivered addresses upon the lives of those in whose memory the chimes and harp-celeste were given. The new chancel choir of 35 voices sang under the direction of G. W. Woodworth, organist and choirmaster.

The organ recital was given by William L. Bates, organist of the Second Congregational Church of Newton, and included the playing of "Hosanna" and "Cantilene Nuptial" by Dubois, "Suite Gothique" by Boellman, "Evening Bells and Cradle Song" by Macfarlane, "Nuptial Song" by Rudelf Friml, Grieg's "Norwegian Dance," and the "Grand Choeur in D" by Albert Renaud. In his mastery of his instrument Mr. Bates showed himself an exceptional artist, and his playing was much enjoyed by the large gathering.

The committee in charge of the purchase of the organ was Charles N. Harris, Joshua W. Phippen, Preston Pond, and T. Grafton Abbott (chairman).

CONGREGATIONAL MEN ENJOYED ANNUAL MEETING AND SUPPER

About 150 members of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church gathered in the Church vestry last Friday evening for their annual meeting. The retiring president, Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, presided at the business session which consisted of balloting for new officers, reports of the treasurer and committees. Mr. Herbert Boynton was elected president of the club for the new term with Mr. Robert E. Fay being re-elected treasurer.

Following an excellent Hallowe'en supper which was served by the ladies of Group 4 of the church the speaker of the evening, Lieut. Robert J. Brown, Jr., first lieutenant in the Army Air Service, and commander of the Boston Air Post, was introduced. Lieutenant Brown furnished his hearers with an excellent address, his subject being, "Our Modern Broom-Stick Riders of the Air." His talk was illustrated with United States Army moving picture films of the recent world flight in which he took part.

MEETING OF WASHINGTON CHAPTER MOTHER'S ASSOCIATION

The Washing Chapter of the Mother's Association will meet at 1.45 p. m., on Wednesday, Nov. 11 at the Second Congregational Church for a short business session.

At 2 o'clock Miss Beatrice Billings will give the second of her series of four lectures on food and nutrition, to which all who are interested are cordially invited.

These talks are full of valuable information and health suggestions and those who can are urged to attend.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The local firemen answered four still alarms on Tuesday afternoon for brush fires in various parts of the town. The first call came in at five minutes after one for a grass fire on Irving street, the second coming at 2 for burning brush behind the Washington School. At 3 o'clock there was a brush fire on Nelson street and the last call came an hour later for brush at the residence of Town Counsel Addison R. Pike on Church street.

The Aleppo Shriners' Dance Band which will play at the Elks' Charity Ball at the Town Hall Nov. 19, will be a feature which no one will want to miss. n6-2t

T. I. Freeburn and R. H. Boutwell	76
A. M. Bond and W. W. O'Hara	80

MELROSE TOO GOOD FOR WINCHESTER

Melrose High School outclassed Winchester in a Mystic Valley League football game on its new athletic field last Saturday afternoon, winning 20 to 6. The locals, minus two of their reliables, Cassidy and Jim Halwartz, did not even faintly resemble the outfit which looked so good against Wakefield on the previous week-end. Cassidy got into the fray for a short time but his bad leg forced his early retirement, and while in there he was not able to show his best form. Much of Winchester's offensive strength has depended for its effectiveness upon "Charlie's" tackle-play, and there can be no questioning the fact that his loss hurt against Melrose. Halwartz's bulk was missed in the backfield especially in backing up the local linemen against the powerful rushing of the Melrose backs.

Winchester very likely could not have won with both boys able to play their best game. The Melrose linemen outplayed the smaller Winchester forwards, and the locals' running game just never was able to get going.

From a local point of view the work of "Hennie" Knowlton, Coach Mansfield's all around star, stood out like a sore thumb. While the sturdy little halfback was never able to get started, due to the failure of his mates to provide any sort of interference for his running, he nevertheless played a sweet defensive game, and his punting was one of the features of the battle. Knowlton has consistently outpunted every opponent which he has met this season, and on a more closely followed high school team his kicking would come in for plenty of notice.

The game opened with Knowlton kicking off to Melrose, and Coach Bullin's charges immediately got going, ripping off several first downs which carried the leather to the Winchester 30-yard line. Here the local cohorts were given one of their few opportunities to cheer when Knowlton intercepted a Melrose pass and set sail for its goal line 70 yards distant. It was nice work on "Hennie's" part, but he never would have scored, had it not been for some superb cleaning out by Captain "Bud" Robinson. A Melrose player was well on the way to cut down the flying Knowlton when he was taken out by Captain "Bud" and when we say taken out we don't mean perhaps. The would-be tackler went down like the well known thousand of brick, and he showed no immediate desire to arise once he was stretched on the greensward. Winchester's try at goal failed, and facing a count of 6 to 0 against its boys, Melrose elected to receive. Shortly after receiving the ball the period ended, and with the resumption of play Melrose rushed to mid-field where Winchester took the ball on downs. For just a few minutes it looked like the local offense was going to get going. Knowlton tossed off a couple of long passes, the first to "Nicky" Fitzgerald and the second to "Wop" Rolli, which took the ball to the Melrose 30-yard line. Here on fourth down McCarthy uncorked a bad pass which sailed over Knowlton's head and bumped and was knocked along to the locals' 20-yard line where Winchester recovered. It was however Melrose's ball on downs, and in two rushes around the ends Sullivan took the ball across for the score. Reardon added the point for goal. The half ended soon afterward and with it Winchester's chances. From this point on it was all Melrose.

McCauley went in at center with the beginning of the third quarter, and Melrose kicked off well into Winchester's territory. Failing to gain at the line Knowlton punted, a sweet boot which carried 55 yards and which was only offset by a dandy runback which gave Melrose a first down on Winchester's 40-yard line. Here the home team swung into action again and with Sullivan doing the brunt of the running the ball was taken down the field and across Winchester's goal line for a second touchdown. The try at goal failed.

Another Melrose score was averted in this period by a splendid individual effort on "Wop" Rolli's part. Reardon, the big Melrose fullback, had sliced through the line and broken away clear for the Winchester goal. Forty-five yards he raced with the Winchester safety back in hot pursuit. At the 25-yard line Rolli left his feet and with a fine tackle brought the big back to earth with a crash which must have shaken every bone in his body. It was a great tackle, and it saved a score as Winchester braced and took the ball on downs at its own 20-yard line, Knowlton subsequently punting out of danger.

Melrose's last score came in the fourth quarter when a Winchester pass was intercepted on the local's 35-yard line and run to the five-yard marker. From this point Delaney went through the line and Muskavitz kicked the goal.

WINCHESTER LOST AT MELROSE

Win Gives Melrose First Place in Northern Division

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team dropped from a top tie in the Northern Division of the Girls' Interscholastic Field Hockey League when it was defeated 1—0, by the Melrose girls Tuesday afternoon at Melrose. The goal came in the last three minutes of play after the two elevens had battled through 33 minutes of thrilling hockey without a score.

The contest was the deciding game of the northern division and a big crowd was on hand for the event. Melrose won, but there really was no choice in the two clubs, and Winchester, though beaten, was by no means disgraced. It would have been hard to find two more evenly matched opponents. This same Melrose team put Winchester out of the championship running with a 1—0 verdict a year ago and the locals tried their hardest to put over a win this year.

There is always more or less luck figuring in a 1—0 hockey win and last Tuesday as a year ago the luck was perched on the Melrose uprights. Throughout the battle play was first in the striking circle before Winchester's goal and then in a like position at the other end of the field. Seldom was the battle in the center of the court.

Both defenses showed up well and Winchester's fullbacks, "Dot" Bond and Cecile de Coriolis, played their best game of the year. Time and again they turned back the rushes of the Melrose forwards and when their opponents did succeed in getting the ball by, "Gertie" Bond at goal was on the job to keep the sticks clear. The winning tally came from a fierce scrimmage directly in front of the uprights, and was shot in by Barbara Burr, the Melrose left wing. The Winchester "Goalie" never had a chance to stop the shot from such a hurly-burly, the ball being past her before she could see it.

It was just one of those things which happen in sports and it turned out poorly for the locals' chances. The score might just as easily have come from one of the mix-ups in front of the Melrose goal, and on what the two teams showed Tuesday Winchester would have been just as fitting a representative for its division as Melrose will be. It was a great game to win and a tough one to lose, the only sort, after all, which are worth the struggle.

WINCHESTER'S HALLOWE'EN QUIET

Hallowe'en came and went in Winchester this year with a remarkable lack of ostentation. In general last Saturday evening was much the same as any other Saturday night, local police and fire officials being unanimous in naming it the quietest Hallowe'en on record.

Not a single false alarm was pulled in during the night, and following a run which the department made at 5:52 in the afternoon in response to an alarm from Box 43 for a fire in a shed at the rear of 18 Salem street, the firemen were left in peace. To be sure boxes which were known to be targets for those whose idea of a good time runs to the pulling in of false alarms were pretty well protected by the police, but it was of course impossible to keep track of all the boxes in the town and it speaks well for our youthful inhabitants that none of this malicious mischief was attempted.

Here and there through the town there were instances of annoyance caused to residents by the sportive spirits of the young. A trip about town on Sunday morning noted cases where piazza chairs, to-let signs, etc. had been rearranged somewhat at variance with the ideas of those who had placed them where they were found by revellers after dark last Saturday. Occasionally one would meet a householder, amused or irate according to his disposition, returning to his premises with certain of his effects spirited away during the night.

Six specific complaints were received at police headquarters during the evening, ranging from cases of mere annoyance to the destruction of shrubbery and fences. Two manholes were found missing on Pond street Sunday morning. Perhaps the worst prank recorded in town was the setting fire to the henhouse of Mr. Morrill K. Barr at 18 Oak street which was investigated by officer James P. Donaghey. Even in this instance the promptness of several neighbors prevented much damage being done.

Most of the formal halowe'en parties and dances were held on Friday evening, notable among them being the dance of the Fideles Club, the annual Calumet Club party, and a supper and entertainment by the Congregational Men's Club.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION NOTES

The Fathers' and Mothers' Night of the Winchester Mothers' Association was held at the High School Assembly Hall, Tuesday evening, Nov. 3.

The hall was filled with parents from all over town, as well as pupils from three Departments who gave demonstrations under their teachers of learning to read, Miss McNiff, Lincoln School; of beginning of French, Miss Freeman, Wadleigh; and of Civics, Mrs. Stacy, High School; each wonderfully interesting.

Two members of the Fortnightly Ladies' Quartette, Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Hughes gave two groups of songs. The Wadleigh Orchestra played in the gymnasium during refreshments in the Social hour.

The teachers grouped according to their Schools received the parents. The meeting was a combination of what would have been three meetings under the former one-every-month. We feel the increase of enthusiasm in meeting less often. It was a rare treat to have all ages meeting together for an evening of instruction and pleasure.

Last Saturday afternoon the Winchester police were informed that boys were setting fires in a vacant lot of land off Hancock street. Sergt. Rogers and officer Donaghey made a trip to the field to investigate. It was not necessary to summon the firemen.

A Ford coupe which was stolen in East Somerville Sunday night from John C. Magnus of 88 Melrose street, Arlington, was recovered by the Winchester Police abandoned on Calumet road Monday morning. It was removed to the station house by Sergt. Cassidy and later turned over to its owner.

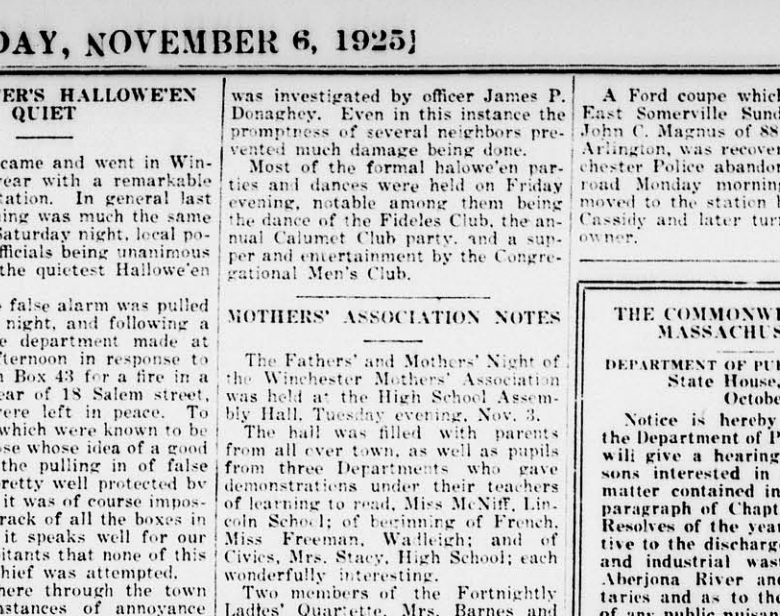

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH
State House, Boston
October 27, 1925

Notice is hereby given that the Department of Public Health will give a hearing to all persons interested in the subject matter contained in the second paragraph of Chapter 16 of the Resolves of the year 1925, relative to the discharge of sewage and industrial waste into the Aberjona River and its tributaries and as to the abatement of any public nuisance that may exist in said river or its tributaries. The Department is also required to consider the practicability of abating such nuisance under the General Laws and the advisability of repealing Chapter 291 of the Acts of the year 1911, entitled "An Act to Provide for the Protection of the Public Health in the Vicinity of the Towns of Winchester and Stoneham and the City of Woburn." The hearing will be held at Room 448, State House, Boston, on November 10, 1925, at 12 o'clock.

By order of the Department of Public Health.

The Housewife's Third Hand

"I just don't seem to have hands enough to do all the things I ought to do!"

How often the homemaker, pressed on every side by housekeeping tasks and the care of children, expresses herself despairingly in these very words. Nobody except Mother herself knows of the endless duties that wait for a mother's two hands.

But the modern homemaker has a third hand—a strong, capable, efficient hand—within grasp for her use if she will accept it. This hand is Gas Service, and it's the real helping hand of the household.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

One grain will not fill the sack, but it will help with others.

Shakespeare said that great men were moulded out of faults, so there is certainly a chance for you.

A good sign for your home front door. Enter without knocking, leave the same way.

Johnnie, said the boys mother, your face is very clean, but how did you get such dirty hands? Johnnie, washin' me face.

If some one moves the ends just as you are ready to make both ends meet—move along with them.

THE WINTER WARDROBE

Many mothers are shocked at the scanty apparel of their daughters. They fear colds and all sorts of illnesses. As a matter of fact, the habit girls have now-a-days of wearing the same sort of under-garments winter as well as summer is not a bad one. Apartment house and office heat would be hard indeed on the individual of the red flannel days. They are the ones who would start sneezing and coughing, as their bodies would be overheated and sensitive to any draft. The girl of now-a-days is all right—indoors—but she should remember that out-of-doors she needs just as warm a coat and just as coldproof shoes and stockings as did the girl of 1800.

AND CRIME STILL RAGES

Slip of Tongue Gives Freedom to Defendant

Washington, Oct. 30—A slip of the tongue brought freedom today to Timothy Williams, a colored man, after a jury in criminal court had found him guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The foreman of the jury reported that Williams had been found not guilty, but quickly corrected the error. Justice Stafford ordered the jury polled. Everyone of the 12 voted "guilty." Williams was remanded for sentence but Justice Stafford afterward held that the "not guilty" slip of the tongue must stand, and ordered his release.—[Boston Herald.

ROBERT MITCHELL ARMSTRONG

Winchester lost another citizen of long standing when Robert Mitchell Armstrong, a resident of the town for more than 50 years, died at his residence, 124 Highland avenue, last Saturday forenoon after an illness of four weeks.

Mr. Armstrong was born in Ireland, the son of Samuel and Ann (Mitchell) Armstrong. At the age of 18 he came to Boston from St. John, N. B., and about 10 years later came to Winchester where he had since claimed a residence, though absent from town from time to time in connction with his work. For a while after coming to Boston he was employed in the composing room of the old Boston Traveler but on Jan. 1, 1883, he entered the service of the Young Men's Christian Association which was to be his life work. From 1883 to 1884 Mr. Armstrong was social secretary in New Bedford, and then became local secretary in Springfield. In 1886 he was made secretary of the association for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, which post he held for many years until his retirement.

Upon his retirement from active Y. M. C. A. work Mr. Armstrong was made Honorary State Secretary, a position created, because of the association's wish that he should not entirely sever his connection with the organization.

Besides his wife, Marilla J. Armstrong, Mr. Armstrong is survived by six children, Mrs. Arthur P. Pratt of Greenfield, Robert W. Armstrong and Russell B. Armstrong of Winchester, F. Douglas Armstrong of Lynn, and Miss Dorothy Armstrong and Miss Elizabeth Armstrong of Winchester. There also are 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the late residence, and were conducted by the Rev. Allis-ton B. Gifford, former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who was assisted by the Rev. H. W. Hooke, present pastor of the church. A male quartet sang "Lead Kindly Light," "Nearer My God to Thee," and "In the Garden." There were many beautiful flowers. The bearers were Edward Hearn and Ernest Gray, representing the Y. M. C. A., both having been formerly associated for many years with Mr. Armstrong, and A. P. Welburne, A. B. Bent, L. E. Crouch and Lasmus Miller of this town. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

WESTON—KAVANAGH

Announcement is made of the wedding in the Methodist Church at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., on last Saturday afternoon of Miss Helen K. Kavanagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kavanagh of Mt. Vernon and Stillman W. Weston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell M. Weston of this town. Mr. and Mrs. Weston will make their home at Marblehead Neck after an extended honeymoon.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Members will hear Dr. Payson Smith, Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Town Hall, who will speak on "Some Present Day Trends in Public Education."

Dr. Smith was Superintendent of Schools in Auburn, Me., then Superintendent of Public Instruction in that State. Has been President of Department of Superintendent's in the National Education Association, and is a Commissioner of Education in Massachusetts. He has a pleasing personality, is witty and has marked ability.

The Music Committee of the Fortnightly Club is fortunate in securing Suzanne Brinkley, lyric soprano to sing for them on Monday, Nov. 9. Miss Brinkley is a woman of rare personal charm and she has chosen for her program a group of exquisite ballads admirably suited to the rich and tender quality of her unusual voice. Her accompaniments will be played by Charles R. Hester on the violin and Mrs. Lefavour at the piano.

Mrs. Ashley Hayden, chairman of Legislative Committee, announces that during the business meeting Mrs. Wesona Osborne Pinkham, from the Massachuetts Civic League, will explain the Initiative Petition to reduce the veterans' preference in the civil service amendment, dealing with the third clause in this comprehensive measure. The petition requires 20,000 signatures and must be filed before the first of December. Club members will be asked to sign.

Don't forget Friday evening, Dec. 4, when "The Second Puncture," a comedy in three acts by Carolyn Draper Gilpatric, will be presented by the Dramatic Committee. This will be given by a carefully selected cast of young men and women under the direction of Mr. Frank E. Fowle. There will be dancing after the performance.

Fridays at 9:30 in The Fortnightly room there will be a class in Lamp Shade making, under the direction of the Home Economics Committee. For further information telephone the chairman, Mrs. F. C. Sargent, Winchester 1734.

Parliamentary Law Class opens on Nov. 16, at 10 a. m., at the Fortnightly room with Mrs. Electa M. Sherman as instructor. This course consists of eight weekly lessons at a very reasonably price. For further information apply to Legislative Chairman, telephone Win. 0864-W.

The Literature Committee opened its series of meetings Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Mary L. Hodge, Edgehill road. Miss Marjorie N. Weeks, as chairman, greeted the guests of the committee, prefacing her welcome with a short poem by Emily Dickinson. Mrs. W. W. Hill, whose literary current event talks have given so much pleasure at previous meetings, summed up the happenings of the past season, referring to new memorials and recent awards and prizes, and commemorating certain writers who have recently died, notably Herbert Quick, Amy Lowell and Edith Thomas. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. F. W. Carrier ,and Mrs. Eugene McDonald a program was then presented, centering about the early American short story. After an excellent discussion of the principles of the short story by Mrs. Carrier, illustrative stories from Poe, Hawthorne Bret Harte and Stockton were read by Miss Hodge, Mrs. F. S. Hatch, Mrs. McDonald, and Mrs. W. C. Sachs. Tea was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Winifred Bent, Mrs. Vincent Clark, and Mrs. George A. Kuyper. About 40 club members enjoyed the literary program and the sociability of the afternoon.

NEW PUMP ARRIVES AT CENTRAL STATION

The new Ahrens-Fox fire pump which the town voted to buy at the last March Town Meeting to replace the ancient Packard arrived at the Central Fire Station Tuesday afternoon from Cincinnati.

It is of the same general design as the new ladder truck and is a handsome piece of apparatus. The plan under discussion at the Central Station has been to use the new pump in place of the old Knox combination relegating the latter to use as an auxiliary piece, and retiring the Packard. This will obviate the use of the larger pump which will be taken out only for the most serious fires.

The new machine seems all which its makers said it was. It has a guaranteed capacity of 750 gallons per minute, yet when tried out on the causeway in the fells Wednesday afternoon it ran 833 gallons to the minute, and continued the pace for about half an hour. The test was conducted under the watchful eye of Chief David H. DeCourcy of the local fire department who was accompanied by Chairman Walter H. Dotten of the Board of Selectmen and Superintendent Harry W. Dotten of the Water Department. Since its arrival at the Central Station the new pump has been the object of all eyes, and many have called to view the latest addition to the town's fire fighting apparatus.

K. OF C. NOTES

Monday, Nov. 2 the regular meeting of the Council was held at 8.30 p. m. Reports of Committees were read and showed that the members of the different committees are giving a great deal of time and thought to the welfare of the Council. A drive for new members is under way and promises abundant fruit.

Our Worthy Lecturer has promised a very interesting winter program for our meetings at which refreshments will also be served. A Turkey Whist is to be conducted under the direction of a committee comprised of the Officers of the Council at which the K. of C. ring will be given away. Date of party to be Tuesday evening, Nov. 21. The K. of C. Hall is becoming one of the most popular halls in town for whist parties and dances judging by the number of advance dates already booked for the winter season.

Capen Abbott of this town has been elected a member of the Mandolin Club at Amherst College.

VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION AND HOSPITAL NOTES

The November directors' meeting was held at the Health Center, Tuesday evening, the third, with almost the entire board present.

Miss MacKay's account of the American Hospital Association Convention which she has recently attended in Louisville, Ky., was most enlightening, and of very vital interest. There was a large number of delegates this year, about 3000 from all parts of this country and Canada, crowding every hotel and clubhouse. Only a very brief summary of Miss MacKay's paper can be given here. The American Hospital Association came into being 27 years ago, and embraces practically the whole continent of America, its influence reaching over 8000 hospitals. President Gilmore says: "The American Hospital Association represents vast interests. Thousands of lives are constantly in its hands and the value of its property is estimated in billions of dollars. Over a million dollars a day are spent for new buildings and equipment alone. Each year a billion dollars are spent in the care of 12,000,000 people who come to our hospitals. In addition to these are many more who come to our dispensaries and attend our social service departments and clinics. Furthermore the hospitals are educational centers. In these training schools more young women are studying nursing than are enrolled in all the universities and colleges." Most of the problems under discussion were pertinent to our hospital work; and answered many questions from the viewpoint of large and varied experience with which we, in our smaller way, had struggled. The standardizing of hospital furnishings and the equipment for clinical, scientific and laboratory work for the small hospital will be of especial help when our own hospital is enlarged. A curriculum has been prepared for the training of hospital executives, and the importance of university training was stressed. Special training, and summer courses for superintendents are being arranged at Marquette University, Wisconsin. The Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C. is planning to provide a permanent exhibition of hospital activities, to be provided through the American Hospital Association. This will take the form of pictures illustrative of highly standardized hospital service in all its branches, and of human interest, which would inculcate confidence and faith in the desirability and safety of recourse to a hospital. As at other conventions, the large drill hall of the armory contained a wonderful display of hospital equipment of every kind and of the latest designs, and offered helpful suggestions at a glance.

The Hospital Finance Committee reported a total of $1017 from Envelope day, and as an indirect result several sustaining members have been added to our list. The Membership Committee for the Visiting Nurse Association had 12 new members for October.

The Visiting Nurse Committee reported 309 calls on 55 patients, 195 of these being Metropolitan calls. The Public Health Nurse had made 174 calls, had held five T. B. clinics with an attendance of 16, and four baby conferences with attendance of 89.

The Hospital Training School Committee gave the following figures: patients admitted 101, surgical 51, medical 8, obstetrical 23, infants 19, major operations 15, minor operations 26, operating room fees $395, out-patients 3, total hospital days 1073½. Total patients for X-ray 23, 21 of these were out-patients. Total receipts from patients $4590.39.

The State Meeting of Directors of Public Health Organizations will be held Nov. 11 in Pilgrim Hall, both morning and afternoon. Further information may be obtained from the secretary.

TO OLD FORSTER SCHOOL PUPILS

To the Editor of the Star:

Among your readers must be many graduates of the old Forster School of Somerville during the mastership of Fred C. Baldwin. I wonder if they recall the candy sales in the old ward room, and the public days when the panels were thrown up between the two rooms on the third floor, rooms which we had decorated with flags from the neighbors and flowers from everywhere? Perhaps they recall the Art Club and the pictures bought; or the big long-nosed piano and the sings around it after school hours; or the music days with Mr. Hadley; or the march to the Morse or the Edgerly to prepare for graduation; or the journey to East Somerville for class pictures; or some other pleasant occasions of those days.

It seems not long since we saw Mr. Baldwin playing games with the little girls at recess time, or walking up the street hand in hand with the children beside him.

He was a hard worker, wide awake, ever on the alert to find something better, and always among the first to introduce a new progressive method.

It is really years that he has been bed-ridden and totally blind, but cared for by a faithful wife and a thoughtful daughter, who have patiently shouldered the burden and uncomplainingly plodded on. This daughter is now an instructor in the Leland Powers School of Expression, and is to give an entertainment in the hall of Somerville High School on Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, at 8 o'clock. In order to express our esteem for her father ,our appreciation of his services in the Somerville schools, and our sympathy for him in his present condition, we are most anxious to dispose of all tickets and to greet her with a full house.

The tickets are 50 cents each ,and can be obtained from E. H. Fisher of Fisher's Business College, Winter Hill. Will you help us?

Mary E. Bunton

FIRST SOD TURNED FOR BUILDING NEW CHURCH

Members and friends of the Second Congregational Church enacted a very important chapter in the progressive history of the church last Sunday afternoon, when the first sod was turned for the erection of the new church.

At 3:30 p. m. the people gathered at the chapel on Cross street and marched in a body to the new church site at the corner of Washington street and Kenwin road.

The service was conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. John E. Whitley who took charge of the devotional part of the service and gave a short address telling of the good work already accomplished by the church and the opportunity for greater service in the future in the new church. Rev. Mr. Whitley made special mention of the debt of gratitude the church owes to the late Mr. George E. Henry, who by his very generous gift of money and his confidence in the project added such faith and encouragement to the building campaign.

A splendid address was made by Miss Mary McElhiney on the work done by the women of the past. Miss McElhiney has been actively interested in the work of the church in the highlands since its foundation and was well qualified to pay tribute to the workers of the past. Miss McElhiney told of the organization of the Bethany Society back in Jan. 1882, the charter members being Mrs. H. Richardson. Miss Viola Richardson, Mrs. Bowtelle, Mrs. Martha Rice, Mrs. M. Bodge, Mrs. Henry Smalley and Mrs. Eva Smalley, and how that organization grew until in Sept. 1887 the present chapel on Cross street was dedicated and the society later incorporated as the Second Congregational Church, under its first pastor, Rev. Charles Dwight. Mention was also made of the good work of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lawrence Barnard, Mrs. John Park, Mrs. Elizabeth Hinds, and many others, also of the assistance given by the good women of the center, Mrs. Harrison Parker, Sr., Mrs. Moses Herrick, and others.

At the close of her address, Miss McElhiney was given the honor of turning the first sod of the new church.

The work of the present building committee was spoken of briefly by Mr. F. Buckmaster, chairman of the committee, how the building fund has grown during the past two years, by the united efforts of the church people, from gifts from friends interested outside of this particular parish, and largely due to the leadership of a sincere and hard working pastor, Rev. John E. Whitley.

Hymn signing by the congregation present, and by the children of the Sunday School added to the service which was a service to be remembered for some time to come in the Highlands.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

A special meeting was held in the Ladies' Parlor of the K. of C. Home on Tuesday evening. Much business of special importance was transacted. Intense plans were now under way for a turkey whist to be held on Dec. 1 in K. of C. Hall. A large committee under the supervision of Mrs. T. Fallon has the affair in charge and it promises to be the best ever. A rather unique social has been planned to follow the business program of our next regular meeting which will be held in K. of C. Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 12. Let all the sisters make an effort to be present and be in on the fun.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

On last Thursday afternoon and evening, the Art Committee of the Fortnightly provided an interesting and unusual exhibition of early lighting devices. Mrs. Charles H. Watkins of 2 Ridgefield road, the chairman and Mrs. John O. DeWolf of 5 Edgehill road, a member of the committee, opened their homes for the occasion.

At Mrs. Watkins', the exhibit was largely of a loan character, nearly 400 examples of antique lamps being displayed, largely through the courtesy of several well known collectors. Mr. Arthur H. Hayward, the author of "Colonial Lighting" and the accepted authority on early lamps, sent many from his notable collection. Mr. C. L. Woodside of Malden, whose collection of small lamps is the envy of many an enthusiast in antiques, loaned nearly 100 varieties. Mr. F. A. Woodhead of Arlington, for years a student of lighting and a collector of repute, brought over about 40 specimens, showing examples from the very earliest form of lighting up to the period of glass lamps.

Mrs. F. L. Marion, whose splendid collection is well known to Winchester people, loaned many lights of rare character.

So generous was the response of those people in the town who collect antiques that it would be impossible to list all here. Suffice it to say that the committee is very grateful to all who made these loans.

At Mrs. DeWolf's home it was the ticket holders' privilege to see Colonial lighting practically applied. Here the old lamps fitted with modern electrical equipment are most ingeniously and beautifully used. Not only is the house notable for its lighting, but also for its antique furniture and pewter of the choicest variety, most of which has come down through many generations in the same family.

Rarely have lovers of things antique had such a privilege as was theirs on Tuesday last.

MANY ATTEND BAZAAR AT TOWN HALL

The Women's Guild of the First Congregational Church opened its second annual fall bazaar yesterday morning in the Town Hall. The bazaar which has been characterized as the biggest and best which Winchester has seen for some time has had a splendid patronage which is expected to continue through this evening.

Last year's effort by the guild produced an exceptionally well stocked collection of booths and this year with four entirely new tables opportunity for gratifying one's desires is better than ever. The new booths include those displaying dolls, sport clothes and lingerie, Christmas wrappings, cards and twine and novelty jewelry. A feature of the doll table is a doll 115 years old which is on display and which was loaned for the Bazaar by Mrs. W. L. Thompson.

Many took advantage of the delicious buffet supper which was served last night under the direction of Mrs. A. D. Speedie, the waitresses and servers being young matrons of the parish. The supper will be served this evening and the same music, furnished by the well known Lincoln Players Club Orchestra, Walter H. Rice, director, will again be a feature.

The bazaar is being run under the general supervision of the president of the Women's Guild, Mrs. Cutler B. Downer, who is being assisted by the two vice presidents of the guild, Mrs. George H. Hamilton and Mrs. Maurice F. Brown.

The tables and their chairmen are as follows:

Grabs—Mrs. H. S. Parsons
Fancy—Mrs. R. L. Palmer
Flowers—Mrs. W. S. Palmer
Food—Mrs. C. F. Winship
Bags—Mrs. M. A. Willey

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A motor coach service between Boston and Manchester, N. H., with four trips a day in each direction, will be established next Monday by the Boston and Maine Transportation Company, it was announced today. The line will operate in interstate business only. In letters to the Mayors of Boston, Cambridge, Woburn, Lowell, Nasua and Manchester and to the Selectmen of towns, the plans to operate through those places are made known by President H. F. Fritch of the Transportation Company, although it is stated that no local or state sanction is required for such exclusively interstate service. It is explained that the letters are being sent to that City and Town governments may have authoritative information, with assurance that the operations will be conducted in full compliance with local ordinances and with state laws. The new motor coach line, using the North Station as its Boston terminal, will stop in Winchester, Woburn and Lowell to take passengers for New Hampshire points.

The Winchester police have been notified by Mrs. Charles Brayley of 117 Spring street, Stoneham, that she sustained injuries to her shoulder when the car of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company in which she was riding on Oct. 26 was in collision with a Cadillac sedan, the property of Kelley & Hawes, which was being driven by Loring G. Hawes of Stoneham. The accident occurred at the junction of Church and Wildwood streets and, according to Mr. Hawes' report, was the result of his machine being struck by the electric as the former was swinging out of Wildwood street onto Church. The electric was in charge of Conductor T. A. Flynn of Marble street Stoneham, and was headed north on Church street.

PUBLIC MEETING

Interesting Matters Discussed at Chamber of Commerce Gathering

An interesting meeting and discussion of important town matters occured at the small Town Hall on Friday evening, when the Winchester Chamber of Commerce held its first open session of this season. There was a good-sized audience present and the remarks of the various speakers were listened to with a great deal of interest.

Mr. George F. Arnold, President, called the meeting to order and greeted all present, urging every lady and gentleman to join. The Winchester Chamber of Commerce is not a political organization but whose sole object is to better conditions in Winchester.

Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, Secretary, then read the records of the previous meetings of the Chamber of Commerce, and also of the Directors, including a letter from the Winchester Hospital enclosing a list of the stores in Town with which the hospital traded.

Traffic Signs

Mr. Charles E. Kendall, Vice-President, addressed the meeting as follows:

"A meeting was held at which the Board of Selectmen, a member of the Planning Board and Mr. Arthur Dean, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department met with the President and Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce. As a result the speaker was asked to visit the State Highway Department at their office in the State House. The authorities stated that the Town of Winchester is the first town in the Commonwealth to approach them asking for assistance in having a universal style of sign to be used throughout this State, and they were willing to assist the town in every way.

"Two men of that department came to Winchester and with the Chairman of Selectmen and Superintendent of Streets, looked over the general situation of the highways of our town. The result was that the State Department suggested that they would give us sketches of two different styles of signs, single and double, which were being used. They proposed to put up 10 or 12 signs about town of their own, costing from $35 to $50 apiece. The proposition appealed to many, as it would direct traffic away from the center of the town; the people from Symmes corner to go up Highland avenue and the people from Arlington bound north would go up Cambridge street. Another proposal was made that we discontinue having posts in the center of the town and suspend these signs in the air."

Telephone Rates

Mr. Shaw, local manager of the Winchester Telephone Exchange, spoke on the increase in telephone rates. He said, "they were given wide publicity in the press, and that no increase had been made for 10 years. It was a question of having costs met by income. He said there were employed in the central office at Winchester, 41 young ladies, 80 per cent of whom were residents of Winchester; young ladies who were educated in Winchester and have every interest here.

"Twenty-three thousand calls were handled in a day, 15,000 of which go out of Winchester or to points in Winchester, 7000 of which are incoming calls from other cities and from 800 to 1000 toll calls from points outside of our local district. There are about 3000 telephones in Winchester; 10 per cent are business telephones and 90 per cent residence telephones.

"All that any public utility wants or it can get, is reasonable return for the service it is giving, and so far as Winchester is concerned it is felt that the new rates are not an excessive charge from the former rates."

The Assessing of Taxes

Mr. David Creelman said:

"When the Winchester Chamber of Commerce asked me to come here tonight I rather felt they were giving me a dangerous assignment because I imagined you have received tax bills recently. However, as you all know our taxes are levied as of April 1, each year. That is the taxes relative to real estate and tangible property in your town. Of course being levied as of April 1 each year that is the one feature which controls the situation. For example a man may have a house and land as of April 1 and it makes no difference what happens after that day, he must pay the taxes. He must pay if he owns an automobile on April 1.

"Those taxes as you know are levied by your Board of Assessors and under their oath of office they are supposed to value that property at a full and fair cash value. That does not mean 65 or 80 per cent, it means 100 per cent. It is the judgment of the Assessors which controls the situation.

"Before the Assessors start in their work assessing they are obliged to post a notice. This is the only notice they are obliged to give to the citizens of the Town, and it is astonishing that 90 per cent of the tax payers never know anything about this notice. This notice calls upon the citizens (tax payers) to file with the Assessors a schedule of their taxable property.

"Carefully reading Section 29 and 61, you will note that it calls for a list of property but does not call for value. Consequently the Assessors are not obliged to follow the valuation. The filing of this list has two purposes. One in behalf of the Assessors, and the other, it protects the tax payer. It gives to the Assessors an opportunity to know what the tax payer has in the way of property. It is a protection to the tax payer because if the list contains valuations and the Assessors see fit to ignore those valuations the tax payer has the right to appeal from the Assessors.

"If those lists are not filed by the tay payers the duty falls on the Assessors to guess. If they have not a list which will indicate the amount of property any tax payer has, they must estimate and the law provides that it should be entered upon valuation books and it is conclusive upon the tax payer. When filing this list, it must be done within a time called for by the Assessors' notice, and people seem to think that the filing of the list is something that they can do or not if they see fit. It is their own protection in many cases, particularly in the case of an over valuation. We have many instances where a piece of property was intended to be assessed at a certain figure but through clerical error an extra cipher was added, and of course the tax payer had to suffer.

"Before any tax can be adjusted by the Assessors on account of overvaluation the tax payer then must file the list. The Assessors are absolutely forbidden by law to grant any abatement until they have a list from the tax payer who felt aggrieved.

"In relation to the personal property, if the individual has not filed the list called for within the time, there is a 50 per cent penalty added which is a penalty for not seasonably filing with the Assessors.

"Every duty which the Assessors perform is governed by a statute, and they are not going to stand the jail sentence. The Assessors' duty is one of the most important duties which falls upon any town officer. They deserve your support and not your criticism.

"The tax payers will go into town meeting and vote thousands of dollars, and then they simply pass the buck to the Assessors. These Assessors have to appropriate this money."

Board of Assessors

Mr. Harry W. Winn, Chairman of the Board of Assessors said he wished to emphasize Mr. Creelman's remarks about the importance of filing a statement of personal property. He wished that the law was more emphatic so that citizens would be obliged to file such a statement. He also said that in his opinion three men who are residents of the Town can make more correct valuation than an expert at a higher salary who might visit the town for the first time.

The question has been asked:

"Can an expert giving his whole time value or arrive at a more correct valuation than a Board of Assessors duly elected?"

"It has been suggested that we engage an expert to make a thorough study of the town. Some thought if we had such a man we might iron out some of the inequalities. The Board of Assessors do not feel that an expert can do it any better. In the first place where can you find such an expert? If you find such a man you would have to pay him a high salary. We feel that three men are capable of valuing this town. There are some things I admit, that an expert is good on, but we feel, knowing the work as we do, that an expert could not arrive at any truer valuation than we do.

"Another question is, 'How much actual time do the Board of Assessors give to the work?'

"I want to say that we put in what you might say 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. We start the first day of April. The first work is to put values on the new buildings. We get a list of the new buildings in town from Mr. Dinneen's office. We give one or two months in getting new buildings garages, etc., on the books. We do not divide this work into three parts. We feel we should give very careful consideration on every valuation that we make, and look at it from all angles. We have to take into consideration the cost of the building, the location, use the building is to be put to, the surroundings, and we try to arrive at a true valuation in that way.

"After that is done we have to put in a lot of time revaluing. We have a system whereby we divide the town in three parts, doing one-third each year and ironing out any inequalities which may have occurred. We see that the value on that section is what it should be. We have all statements to look over. There are quite a number of those statements filed; four or five hundred. Every figure has to be checked up. We have to pass on that. We are very busy from the first of April until the first of July or a little after, on the books, which have to be written up. This year we had an extra copy for the State House. Every year we have two copies, one for the Assessors, one for Mr. Nichols, Collector; and every third year a third complete set for the State House. As soon as the bills go out we have abatement meetings every Thursday night and the last few weeks we have had quite a busy time. We plan as a rule after the abatements are settled to hold these meetings throughout the winter season. We have meetings through the week besides letters to be acted on. We are called on the telephone continually.

"Still another question asked is 'Are the Board of Assessors supposed to put full value on property or only two-thirds?' Mr. Creelman has answered that. He said 100 per cent.

Would it not be better to have a low valuation and high tax rate and by so doing lessen the amount of our State tax?

"In the first place we cannot have a lower valuation. A great many people think if we keep the valuation low the State tax would not be so much. That does not affect it. If we put our valuation too low the authorities in the State House would come out and put the valuation on. They did that very thing in the Town of Andover. We have got to keep the valuation where it belongs. If we want a low tax rate it is up to the citizens to be careful how they vote money in town meeting.

"I doubt if you find any town where the work is being done any better than in this town. Another thing, I think we have a very efficient tax collector. He has accomplished wonders. The taxes are being collected in fine shape, and I am glad of the opportunity of coming here and trying the best I know to tell what things we are up against and some of the things we are trying to do."

Mr. John F. Cassidy, Asesssor then spoke of the revaluation. He stated that the work was begun April 1, 1924. It began at the centre working west. In 1925 it was continued working on the east side. This next year we expect to continue the program and take in all the outlying streets of the town.

In 1924 the valuation was increased $1,161,900 and in 1925 it was increased $1,326,450.

FOUR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS OVER PAST WEEK-END

No one was seriously injured in the four automobile accidents which occurred in Winchester during the past week-end.

The first took place at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning when the Ford coupe of Bernard J. McCall of 14 Dale street, East Woburn, was bumped in the rear while going North on Washington street and upon turning to enter Irving street by an electric car operated by Conductor William E. Gray. McCall's machine was not badly damaged, according to reports, and he was uninjured.

At 5:10 o'clock Saturday afternoon a Peerless sedan operated by Marie J. Morrisey of 193 Winthrop street, Medford, and a Buick sedan, driven by Mrs. Morris Kerr of 105 Cambridge street, Winchester, were in collision at the junction of Bacon and Central streets. The Peerless was headed east on Bacon street, the Buick coming out of Central street. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Sunday morning the Overland sedan of George Foreman of Nelson street was badly damaged as the result of striking a large tree while turning from Washington into Swanton street. The cause of the accident in not known, Mr. Foreman's machine swerving sharply to the left without warning.

The last of the four accidents occurred shortly after 2:30 on Sunday afternoon when two Fords, a touring car owned by James F. Sullivan of 316 Central avenue, Milton, operated by Patrick F. Tully of same address and a coupe owned and operated by Benjamin F. DeWolfe of 15 Burlington street, Woburn, were in collision at the corner of Church and Fletcher streets. Tully was headed north on Church street when he collided with the coupe which had come out of Fletcher street and was crossing Church to enter Bacon street. He had with him as passengers four women, one of whom sustained a slight cut on the hand when his machine was overturned by the force of the collision. In the coupe with DeWolfe was H. A. Andrews of Woburn. Neither he nor the driver was injured. Tully's machine was badly damaged and was towed to the Metropolitan Garage. The coupe had its right side bent in. Tully had no certificate of registration with him.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

THE JOLLY BAKERS

When anyone mentions a French sa'on, we have visions of a press of fashional people viewing famous portraits in some private gallery, or meeting celebrities in a receiving line and chatting in witty epigrams.

But here's a new kind of French Salon—held by bakers of Paris, if you please. Wedding cakes as tall as the bride; pastries like all the flowers in the garden and rolls by the baker's dozen in variety, were among the exhibits.

Thus, again, cooking presses its claim to be included among the fine arts. Cooking is getting better, there's no doubt of it, and nothing has helped it more than the clean, easily regulated and efficient gas range.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. "NEW BROOMS" COMING TO MALDEN AUDITORIUM

"New Brooms," the latest and greatest play written by rank Craven, the author of "The First Year" and other notable successes will be the attraction next week at the Auditorium by the Malden Players.

"New Brooms" is an amusing comedy of American life wherein the positions of father and son are reversed. Thomas Bates, Sr., is an old grouch because he has to give so much time to his broom business. His son preaches optimism and a theory of being nice to people. His father tells him he is all wrong, and in order to prove his point turns over the broom factory for the boy to run. After six months the young man has cultivated a cranky disposition, while the father for the first time in his life faces the world with a smile. Ernest Woodward, leading man with the Players will enact the role of the son while William Webb will play the part of the father. There are also excellent parts for all the remaining members of the company particularly for Miss Hazel Shannon, the new leading lady of the Players as "Jerry" the pretty young housekeeper.

About 50 automobiles toured through the Fells Saturday afternoon in the inspection of the Winchester reservoirs and the town's water system. It is estimated that between 200 and 250 persons made the trip. The roads through the Fells were set aside for the cars, and the entire route was policed by employees of the Water Department. While rather late in the season, there was still much in the woods to attract the visitors, and the reservoirs were seen to their full advantage.

The Winchester police were notified about noontime on Tuesday by a resident of Fletcher street, who was apparently keeping bachelor's hall at the time, that he had gone to his business in Boston and to the best of his belief had neglected to turn off the current from an electric iron which he had been using. Acting upon request, Officers Cassidy and Kelley repaired to the gentleman's home and forcing a window climbed in to investigate. They found plenty of foundation for the householder's fears The current had indeed been left on and the red hot iron had eaten its way partly through the ironing board upon which it had been left. It is very probable that a fire would have started had the outfit been allowed to stand a while longer. The officers disconnected the electric cord and left everything shipshape, notifying the anxious owner to that effect.

A New Charge Service of Ten Weekly Payments

Ten Pay Plan

Encourages Thrift

It points the way to the economical purchase of men's and boy's apparel

There is nothing about The Benoit Ten Pay Plan that leads to extravagance. Through its application to the purchase of high-grade, dependable merchandise it rather tends to encourage thrift. Benoit's Ten Pay Plan promotes the knowledge that your money invested in apparel of known quality brings in return a full measure of service and satisfaction. It proves the old adage---"the best is always cheaper in the end"---and more than all else it makes the best in men's and boy's apparel easily obtainable.

Briefly This Is The Plan

Purchase whatever you desire at the regular marked cash price. Your payment at the time of purchase may be as little as one-fourth. The balance will then be divided into ten weekly payments—a budget arrangement easy to meet.

Suit $35.00	Pay ¼ at time of purchase $13.00
2 Shirts $2.50 each 5.00	Balance 39.00
2 pair Hose $1.00 each 2.00
Shoes 10.00	Balance is divided into ten weekly payments of $3.90 each.
Total $52.00

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bradford Badger of 12 Prospect street, old and well-known residents of Winchester, celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding on Tuesday last, at their home. They received informally their friends and were recipients of many congratulations on the occasion. Two of their sons, Mr. Erastus B. and Mr. Walter I. of this town, with their families were present at the reception and a third son, Mr. Paul B. of Paris, France and his family were unable to be present, but cabled their congratulations. During the afternoon a delegation from E. B. Badger & Sons Co. of which Mr. Badger is the president called and presented the couple with a silver service. They also received other gifts and many bouquets and floral tributes from friends near and far.

Mrs. Badger before her marriage was Miss Lizzie F. Pearson of Concord, N. H. while Mr. Badger was born in Boston. They were married in Boston in 1875 by Rev. Rollin H. Neale, D.D., in what was the old First Baptist Church on Somerset street, now the Elks' headquarters.

Mr. Badger has been actively engaged in business since 1866 when he started in the coppersmithing business with his father. Under his direction and guidance the E. B. Badger & Sons Co. has taken its place as the foremost Chemical Distillation Engineering organization in the country.

Mr. Badger is a member of the William Parkman Lodge of Masons, the Shriners, Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., Master Builders' Association of which he is a past president, the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association of which he was president for eight years and of many other similar organizations.

Mr. Badger has served the town in numerous capacities during his long residence here.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Badger are enjoying good health and their many friends wish them a great many years of continued happiness.

ELKS TO HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Members of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E., are to hold a memorial service in Lyceum Hall on the first Sunday in December to pay tribute to the memory of the seven members of the lodge who have passed to the great beyond. The speaker will be the Hon. Joseph Warner, former Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives and at present Assistant Attorney General of the Commonwealth. Fitting music will be rendered by an orchestra.

WINCHESTER AND WOBURN TOMORROW

Winchester High and its ancient enemy, Woburn, will clash in a Mystic Valley League football game tomorrow afternoon on Manchester Field at 2:30. Neither team has enjoyed a particularly successful season from the angle of games won, and both will try their hardest to glean some little satisfaction from a victory in the contest tomorrow. There is no denying that Woburn would rather "take" Winchester than almost any other team on its schedule, and the same point of view toward the "tanners" is entertained by Coach Mansfield's lads.

On the basis of comparative scores there is little choice in the two clubs. Both have been beaten by Arlington, Woburn 19 to 0, and Winchester 27 to 0. On the other hand Watertown, which barely nosed out the locals, 8 to 6, was able to shut out Woburn, 13 to 0.

There is little doubt but that Winchester knows more football than do the Woburn lads who will probably enjoy a slight physical advantage over the locals. The tanning city lads have played much the harder schedule of the two, and should profit somewhat from this experience.

Winchester expects to win and will have its full strength for the game. It will line up with McCarthy at center, Harriman and either Walker or Johnson at the guards. Cassidy and Hight, tackles, and O'Donnell and Capt. Robinson, ends. Fitzgerald will play quarterback and the starting backfield will include halfbacks Knowlton and Simonds, and fullback, Halwartz.

FISHERMEN'S SUNDAY

The annual Fishermen's Sunday, in which all fishermen of the various Lane fishing parties in Maine are invited to participate, will be observed at the First Congregational Church, Sunday morning, Nov. 22. It is expected that between 30 and 40 fishermen will occupy seats together at the service. Full announcement later.

POSTER CONTEST

A prize of five dollars is offered for the best poster for the play, "The Second Puncture," which is to be given Friday evening, Dec. 4, at the Town Hall, under the auspices of the dramatic committee of the Fortnightly.

For further particulars inquire of Mrs. W. H. Gilpatric.

James Cullen of Clark street captained the winning sophomore tug-of-war team at the M. I. T. Field Day last Friday afternoon.

ARRESTS LOOKED FOR SOON IN MURDER CASE

Work is progressing satisfactorily in connection with the case arising out of the murder of Vito Favrizza, 31, of 4 Snelling place, Boston, whose body was found at 1:30 last Saturday afternoon in some shrubbery on the Lacker estate off Highland avenue by surveyors Parker J. Holbrook, John S. Sharon, and Theodore W. Lawson of the town's engineering department who were engaged in making a survey of the district.

The body was identified by citizenship papers and letters as that of Favrizza who had been a pianist in the Palace Theatre, Court street, Boston. Immediately upon its discovery Lawson hastened to Police Headquarters to report, returning in the surveyors' car with Sergt. Thomas Cassidy and officer James Farrell of the Winchester police.

The condition of the grass and shrubbery at the place where the body was found led the police to believe that the murder was committed upon the spot, and this opinion was shared by Medical Examiner Stewart and State Detectives Sherlock and O'Neil and by Asst. District Attorney Ralph W. Stearns of Middlesex County when they arrived soon after the local authorities.

The body was badly battered about the head and chest, and one wrist was broken. Medical Examiner Stewart after an examination gave as his opinion that Favrizza had died of a fractured skull, and estimated that the man had been dead about 10 hours. Apparently the doomed man had put up a struggle for his life as the grass and shrubbery about the place were crushed and beaten down. Near where the body was discovered a search disclosed a piece of automobile shafting about 15 inches long and nearly two inches in diameter stained with blood and to which little clots of hair still clung. A blood stained soft felt hat was also found near the body. The suggestion that a woman may have figured in the affair was indicated by the finding near the body of a woman's handbag containing a lipstick, a powderpuff, and five tickets to the Boston Food Fair. Too much weight is not given to this latter find as the police are of the opinion that the bag may have been thrown into the shrubbery some time before the crime.

It is thought that the murdered man may have been lured to his death and either set upon suddenly from ambush or by some one whom he had gone to meet in the woods.

Following Medical Examiner Stewart's preliminary examination he ordered the body removed to the Northern Mortuary in Boston by the local undertaking firm of Kelley & Hawes while local and State police officials commenced a thorough investigation of the case.

Little was known of Favrizza at the Palace Theatre where he had been employed as a pianist for the past three weeks except that he was married and had two children. Upon being interviewed Mrs. Favrizza could shed no light on the affair, stating that her husband had left for the theatre as usual on Friday and had told her that he might not return until late.

The slain man was known to have been somewhat of the Lothario and the names of many women with whom he had been on parties are known to the police. The theory has been advanced that he may have been killed through jealous revenge, and that his death may have been witnessed by the women in the case.

Several clues on which the police have been working have turned out to be worthless, chief among them being the discovery of an abandoned automobile not far from the spot where the crime was committed. At first it was attempted to link the machine with the murder but subsequent information led to the abandonment of this idea.

Most of the work which has been done on the case this week has been done outside of Winchester, and at police headquarters last night it was expected that something definite might be announced at any time. While the affair is not primarily a Winchester case, Sergt. Thomas Cassidy of the Winchester Police has been assigned to its prosecution with State Detectives O'Neil, Sherlock and Ferrari, and the Metropolitan authorities. The microscopic examination of the automobile shafting with which the murdered man is thought to have been killed which was conducted by State Fingerprint Expert Capt. Charles L. Van Amburgh failed to disclose anything of value in the prosecution of the case.

LEGIONAIRES DINED LAST NIGHT

About 100 members of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion sat down last night to their annual banquet in the Legion Home on Washington street. It was the first affair to be staged in the home since ints renovation this summer, the new decorations and homey atmosphere adding much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The approach of the Thanksgiving season was suggested by the menu which had as its price de resistance roast turkey and fixin's. During the serving of the dinner selections were played by a 15 piece orchestra picked from the band of the Emmet J. O'Brien Post of Hyde Park, prize winners at the recent National Legion Convention at Omaha.

The guest of honor was State Commander Goode of the Massachusetts Department, A. L. Commander Goode was introduced by Post Commander Nathan Thumim, and brought a message to the local Legionaires which was of much value. An entertainment program of high class was provided by the orchestra and a musical trio of professional entertainers from Keith's circuit including a pianist, a ginsy violinist, and a vocalist.

The committee in charge of the entire affair was headed as chairman by Daniel E. Lynch and included Louis Price, secretary, and Kenneth Hall, treasurer.

Mr. William W. McLean has purchased the interest in the Winchester News Company formerly owned by Mr. Perry A. Bridges, and will conduct the business alone. Messrs. McLean and Bridges have conducted this company for a number of years and have a host of friends in town. Mr. Bridges has moved with his family to Florida, where he has a most advantageous opening.

Even the children know what R C means

A STORY is going the rounds of a ten year old radio fan who asked his father: "Say, dad, why don't they use R C instead of S O S as a call for help?"

"Why R C?" said his father.

"Say, dad, don't you know that the Red Cross gets into everything that needs help?"

The Red Cross does just that. It was quick to respond with food, money, medicines and shelter when a tornado swept five midwestern states this year. 9,000 people were killed; 3,000 injured and 6,000 families made homeless. It has aided in 90 catastrophes during the past ten months!

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

Rev. Charles R. Joy of Dedham, at the meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society on Tuesday, Nov. 10, gave a most interesting talk upon the Isles of Shoals. Each summer, Unitarians hold many conferences at Star Island, one of the Isles, and all who have the privilege of attending these conferences are deeply impressed with the beauty and charm of the islands, which lie about 10 miles off the New England coast, near Portsmouth, N. H.

Mr. Joy gave a bit of the early history and tradition of the Isles, and showed by stereopticon pictures, many scenes of historical interest, as well as many of the beauty spots in which the islands abound.

Mrs. Theodore W. Smith, violinist, with Mrs. A. H. Abbott at the piano, gave "Told at Twilight," "Enchanted Hour," and "Adieu," contributing greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Following the meeting, the members gathered in the church parlor, for a social hour around the tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. John P. Dabney, 2d. Tea was served by the tea committee of which Mrs. I. E. Gamage and Mrs. E. B. Haynes are chairmen.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

Last evening a most enjoyable Funny Hat Social was enjoyed by a great many of the members. All present appeared in a funny hat, some of which were old-fashioned and others were just comical. Refreshments were served and a real get-together for members was enjoyed.

The members and their friends are now centering all their attention on what promises to be one of the most successful whists ever conducted by the local branch. This whist will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 1, in the K. of C. Hall under a committee of whom Sister Mrs. Katherine Fallon is chairman. Already many prizes have been donated and there will no doubt be a great attraction for whist fans.

John N. Watters of this town, Harvard's famous "Soapy" ex-Intercollegiate half-mile champion is to be one of the ushers at the dance to be held in the Copley Plaza Ball room the night before the Harvard-Yale game.

OBSERVED TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Fallon observed the 10th anniversary of their marriage Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, at their home, 14 Highland avenue.

Fifty relatives and friends of the popular couple from Winchester and surrounding cities and towns sat down to an elaborate dinner which was served by a caterer. The evening passed pleasantly with instrumental and vocal selections by talented members of the gathering interspersed with dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Fallon were the recipients of many beautiful gifts as well as the congratulations and best wishes of their host of friends.

K. OF C. NOTES

Regular meeting on Monday, Nov. 16. Our worthy lecturer promises a treat at this meeting in the way of entertainment. Refreshments will be served. A large attendance is looked for.

Tickets are out for the turkey whist on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24. The whist committee are working hard and expect this to be one of the largest parties ever conducted by the council. Many valuable prizes have already been donated in addition to the turkeys that will be up for prizes. This is the party that the K. of C. ring will be given away.

CHIRSTMAS SALE

On Thursday, Dec. 3, there will be a Christmas sale of household articles, fancy work, wrappings for Christmas gifts, toys, home cooked food and candy at the First Baptist Church. Buffet lunch will be served at noon and a supper at night. It is hoped that the people of the town will avail themselves of the opportunity to buy Christmas gifts, get a good supper and incidently help the building fund of the church.

WYMAN CHAPTER OF THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The members of the board of the Wyman Chapter of the Mothers' Association very pleasantly entertained the teachers of the Wyman School Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Young. After the tea hour a business meeting was held.

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY CHAPTER, D. A. R., OF WINCHESTER

Mrs. Russell W. Magna, vice-president General National Society, D. A. R. will be the principal speaker at the November meeting of the chapter, Mrs. Frank F. Hotchkiss, Regent. The meeting will be held in the ball room of Buckman Tavern, Lexington, on Wednesday the 18th at 2 p. m. At 12:30 dinner will be served in the tavern by the hostesses, Mrs. Charles S. Beaudry of Lexington, Mrs. George M. Bryne and Mrs. John Cleworth of Winchester, Mrs. Frederick A. Bruce of Somerville and Mrs. Frances Bridgham of Arlington.

It is a privilege and honor to have our Vice-President General address us, therefore, an invitation to attend is extended to members of other chapters, also those who are eligible to membership.

Mrs. Magna will speak on the new dormitory at International College, Springfield, recently erected by the D. A. R. of Massachusetts at a cost of $60,000.

At the close of the meeting an opportunity will be given to inspect the tavern which has been restored to its condition at the time of the Revolution.

BROOKS ESTATE NOT TO BE USED

Announcement was made Wednesday that the committee which is investigating the proposed sites for the Veterans Hospital, so-called, has definitely rejected the Brooks estate as a possible location for this institution. Strong opposition developed immediately upon the proposal of this site some time ago, and Brig.-Gen. Hines is reported to have now stated that this place is now removed from consideration. From present reports the hospital will go to Bedford or the Federal Government will take over the State hospital at Norfolk, which is reported to have been offered at a very reasonable figure and to be well suited for the requirements.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE NOTES

The first sewing meeting of the Florence Crittenton League will be held at the First Congregational Church on Thursday, Nov 19, at 10 a. m. There will be a box luncheon at 12:30. Members are urgently requested to aid in this sewing.

Do not forget the annual benefit bazaar of the League to be held at the Copley Plaza Hotel on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18 and 19. The Winchester Circle has the toy table and treasure hunt.

Trooper John F. Dempsey of the State Patrol is enjoying his vacation During the summer he acted as a motorcycle guard to President Coolidge at White Court. He expects to spend part of his vacation hunting on the Cape.

NO COMEBACK IN POULTRY DEAL

The Winchester police are constantly in receipt of appeals for assistance from citizens of the town in difficulty of various sorts On Wednesday they received a complaint from an irate resident of Cross street who wished to be extricated from a financial deal in which she had been involved with a poultryman, one Mr. Cohen, whom she accused of having cheated her in the matter of price charged for several hens which she had purchased.

It seems that the whole matter based upon the well known prerogative which is every woman's of changing her mind at any time and for no particular reason. The lady in question after purchasing the biddies and upon giving the transaction mature reflection arrived at the conclusion that she had paid altogether too much for the birds, and seeking out Mr. Cohen, demanded her money back. The latter refused to comply with her request, and despite her pleas remained obdurate.

So to the police the lady went hoping for satisfaction, but, alas, she was told that in her particular case the authorities were powerless to act. The deal, so far as the police could see, was perfectly legitimate, and nothing could be done for the complainant except to advise her that the time to decide upon the fairness of a price is distinctly before one's money changes hands.

RECEPTION

A largely attended reception, with about 250 guests from Winchester and surrounding towns and cities, was held on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Preston Pond, Prospect street, given by Mrs. Pond and her daughters-inlaw, Mrs. Gardner B. Pond and Mrs. Kenneth P. Pond. The residence was beautifully decorated with flowers for the occasion.

The ladies were assisted in pouring and serving at the tea tables by a large group of friends, the pourers including Mrs Charles T. Main, Mrs. William Belcher, Mrs. E. Henry Stone, Mrs. Allen Wood, Mrs. Frank M. White, Mrs. J. Shepard Pond, Mrs. Handel Pond, Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway and Mrs. F. Manley Ives. Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Alexander S. MacDonald, Mrs. Marcus Beebe, Mrs. Ernest Stockwell, Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, Mrs. Joseph Butler, Mrs. C. Freeman Olsen, Mrs. William L. Hall, Mrs. Richard Hull, Mrs. Harry S. Parsons, Mrs. Alfred D. Radley, Mrs. James F. Dwinell, Miss Elise Belcher, Mrs. Marshall England, Mrs. Charles R. Main, Mrs. John Tarbell, Miss Marguerite Barr, Miss Marion Pond, Miss Helen Munroe, Mrs. Clifford Mason, Miss Katherine F. Pond.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The November missionary meeting of the Woman's League of the First Baptist Church will be held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Berry, 5 Stratford road, at 3 o'clock Tuesday, Nov. 17. Missionary work among the Indians will be discussed. Mrs. E. A. MacKinnon and Mrs. J. L. Lutes will sing. This is the meeting that was planned to be held at the home of Mrs. Richard S. Taylor.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Albert D. Dowd of 45 Milford street, Boston, was found guilty in the District Court at Woburn Thursday morning of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, of operating after his license had been suspended and of drunkenness, on complaint of officer Archie O'Connell of the Winchester police. Officer O'Connell arrested Dowd at 3 o'clock Thursday morning on North Main street opposite Canal street, the latter operating a Dodge touring car. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in the house of correction on the drunken driving charge with an additional 10 days for operating after his license had been suspended. The drunkenness charge was filed.

Eat Candy Because It's Good for You
As children—and as grown ups, too—we shy away from things that are good for us. One piece of advice that won't be hard to follow, though, is this: "Eat candy because it's good for you." Take for instance, our molasses kisses, with their full, rich flavor of new molasses. They're good for you, too.

DEDICATION OF NEW CHANCEL

First Congregational Church Sunday Morning at 10:30

The new chancel of the First Congregational Church will be dedicated next Sunday morning. The chancel was recently completed at a cost of $70,000. The architects were Allen & Collens of Boston. A new three-manual organ has been installed by Hook & Hastings. In connection with the dedication of the chancel there will also be dedicated three stained glass windows, executed by Reynolds, Francis & Rohnstock of Boston. They are in memory of Harrison Parker, 20 years deacon of the church, the founders of the church and Eugenia Parker Palmer.

The iconographical scheme of subjects embraces the cycle of Christ's life. Those in the left hand lancet are devoted to the childhood of Christ and include the Annunciation, the Nativity, and the Adoration of the Magi. These subjects are in the form of medallions, that is, they are enclosed within geometrical shapes, or quatrefoils. The medallions are in turn placed on a geometrical background composed of circles and interlacing strapwork. The figures in full color and white are silhouetted against a ground of blue. The resulting effect of this type of design is a simple, easily comprehended pattern which is effective at a distance.

The subjects in the right hand lancet are important incidents in the ministry of Christ—the Baptism, the First Miracle, and the Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem.

The subjects in the central lancet are devoted to the Passion of Christ, namely, Gethsemane, the Crucifixion, and the Ascension. These windows are among the best stained glass ever made in America.

The exercises tomorrow will be in charge of Dr. Chidley and Rev. Asa Merrick Parker of Bridgewater. The chancel choir of 40 voices, under the direction of Mr. G. Wallace Woodworth, will assist in the service. The public is cordially invited.

Many memorial gifts in the chancel will also be dedicated Sunday. The raredos is given by Mrs. Allen H. Wood in memory of her father and mother, Mr. Theodore K. Miller and Mary Lou Miller; Mr. Preston Pond gives the communion table, which is of caen stone and sienna marble, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Susan Shepard Pond. Mrs. Bertha S. Hefflon gives the alms basin in memory of Mr. Joseph H. Hefflon. The Celtic cross on the communion table was given by Mr. and Mrs. William I. Palmer in memory of Mr. Irving Stevens Palmer. The pulpit was given in memory of Mr. Samuel J. Elder by his children. Other gifts which are not memorials were the hymn boards by Mr. C. Freeman Olsen; the communion vases by Miss Alice A. Main; the reading desk by Mrs. Cutler B. Downer and the silver collection plates by the Western Missionary Society. Mrs. Harrison Parker also gave some of the chancel furnishings in memory of Harrison Parker, 1st.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The second meeting this fall of the Fortnightly took place in the Town Hall, Nov. 9. The entertainer for the afternoon was Dr. Payson Smith, educator.

Musical selections were rendered very delightfully by Miss Susanne Brinkley, accompanied by Mr. Charles R. Hester, violinist, and Mrs. Lefavour, pianist.

Dr. Payson Smith believes in individual child progress for children and not mass or collective education. He believes that each child should be studied as individually as possible, and that teachers should love the children of the grade in which they teach, otherwise they should not teach. Children should be taught to love good books, and enjoy reading them.

In connection with the present morals of school children, Dr. Smith says, "Universally they have as high ideals as in the times of our grandparents but life is now more complex and it is harder now for youth to stay good." He thinks no child under 16 years of age should attend the movies as they are presented at the present day.

Women and girls are urged not to lower their standards by present day customs, as in dress and in smoking.

Above all—he asks the American women in the home and in the clubs to carry the ideal high so that the youth can go forth into the world with a strong purpose of the right and be well prepared to make good American citizens.

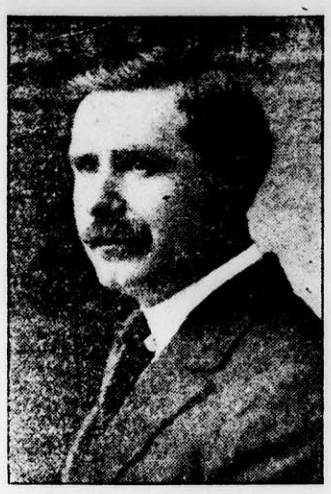

Mrs. G. R. Bancroft, member of the Soldier and Sailor Welfare Committee, reported that the Fortnightly were caring for the men in Ward B, at the West Roxbury Hospital. A basket is to be in the rear of the hall after all meetings before Xmas and any and all who may drop in a gift will brighten the day for some ex-soldier boy.

Miss Cora A. Quimby spoke emphasizing Children's Book Week. She had an attractive collection of worthwhile books on the platform which was part of the exhibition held at the Public Library. She urged the parents to superintend the child's reading, to know what the better books were, and to read to the children.

A brief history of the Winchester Home for Aged People was told by Mr. Preston Pond, who urged all present to interest themselves in the home and if possible to become either a contributing or a sustaining member.

Members please keep in mind that the class in Lamp-Shade making meets every Friday at 9.30 a. m., in the Fortnightly Room, and Parliamentary Law Class opens on Monday, Nov. 16, at 10 a. m., in the Fortnightly Room.

Nov. 23—Branson De Cou's new "Dream Pictures." Over 200 marvelous slides, colored by Miss Augusta Heyder, possibly the foremost artist in the world in this delicate art, parts of over a dozen phonograph records, and eight complete selections re-enacted by great artists on the reproducing piano will illustrate this unique lecture.

"HELP THE ELKS HELP WINCHESTER"

Elks' Charity Ball Thursday Evening, Nov. 19, at Town Hall

The social activities of Winchester folks for next week will not be complete without preparation for attendance at the Charity Ball of Winchester Lodge, No. 1445, B. P. O. E. This is the fourth affair of its kind held by the local lodge since its inception and Chairman Fred H. Scholl and his committee have left nothing undone to ensure its success.

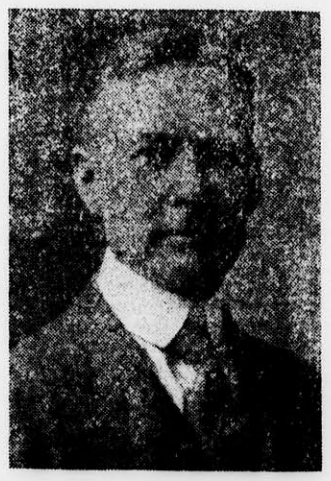

The concert program arranged by George H. Lochman and his associates of the Concert Committee is bound to be appreciated by those who enjoy the efforts of a "refreshingly different" musical organization.

FRED H. SCHOLL, E. L. K.
Chairman Charity Ball Committee

The Poietro Mordelia Trio headed by the celebrated Poietro who has earned considerable renown in the theatrical world, will furnish the audience with a musical treat that will make the occasion well worth while for those not particularly interested in dancing.

The trio which for the past 15 years has been one of the most popular musical combinations on the platform, is composed of Pietro Mondelia, famous accordion player; Jane Golding, violinist and singer; and Christine Wismer pianist.

Higgins Photo
GEORGE H. LOCHMAN, E. L. K.
Treasurer Charity Ball Committee

Pietro Mordelia is known the world around as "the premier accordionist." Mordelia first learned to play the accordion by experimenting with the instruments made by his father who was an expert at this trade. Pietro showed such obvious ability that his parents provided every musical advantage for him and he soon gained fame for his remarkable accordion music. The entire trio are real artists, trained in the finest traditions of the musical world.

Charles Gallaghet, of radio fame, will appear in songs and stories, and "The Great Mysterioso," in eccentric and fancy dances.

The grand march will be conducted immediately upon completion of the entertainment, following which dancing will be enjoyed until 1 a. m.

The music will be furnished by the Aleppo Shriners Band Orchestra.

Dress may be either formal or informal and no matter what your preference may be you are assured of a cordial welcome and a most pleasant evening.

It seems well to again dwell briefly on the object of this affair. It is to raise money for charitable purposes and all funds received in excess of running the ball will be devoted to helping the needy of this town.

The famous Elks' 11 o'clock toast will be delivered by H. Westley Curtis, of Arlington, district deputy of Massachusetts Central Lodge, following which the handsome hope chest on display in the Star window, will be given away. Have you got your tickets?

Once again we urge you to "Help the Elks help Winchester" and remind you that in so doing you are helping yourself to an evening of pleasure that will live long in your memory.

Tickets may be obtained at the Star office and also at the box office, Nov. 19.

WHAT THE WINCHESTER RED CROSS HAS BEEN DOING

Once a year Red Cross workers throughout the country take the time from their usual tasks to tell what they have been doing in the 12 preceding months. Their reason for doing so is that the people whose support through annual membership is sought may understand the work they are helping to carry on. Winchester residents will be pleased, indeed, at the report of accomplishment made for the local branch by Mrs. Lilla J. Ryan.

Assisting as usual in the big causes Winchester did its share this year toward offering emergency relief and rehabilitation to the tornado sufferers of the Middle West.

Our Home Service Committee assists many disabled war veterans and their families. In our public health nursing the Red Cross volunteers cooperate with the Welfare Board, the school nurse, the Visiting Nurse Association, the Fortnightly in its soldier welfare work at the West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital, and the Veterans' Bureau. The cases where the local branch has offered much-needed help right here in town are many. Because they are so close to us, however, we believe it better not to cite any particular cases where the Red Cross proved most conclusively that it has its place here.

The Junior Red Cross of Winchester has been called the finest in the state by a member of the national organization. All of the elementary schools, including all grades up to the eighth, have a 100 per cent membership in it, and there is an active club in the High School. Eight of the girls of the club have passed the Junior life saving test and two have passed the senior test. Another class of candidates for the test is now taking instructions for it at the Cambridge swimming tank under the direction of Miss Helen Bronson, a teacher in the Winchester schools.

The members of our Motor Corps who work under Mrs. Bowen Tufts as chairman have never failed to answer all requests for their assistance. They have proved themselves untiring in their willingness to be of service.

One of the accomplishments of which the Winchester Red Cross has reason to be particularly proud is the work of Miss Lillian Horne. Miss Horne has transcribed into Braille for the use of the Washington Library for Blind Soldiers two entire books, "The Life of Calvin Coolidge" and "The Passing of the Torch" by Mary Shipman Andrews.

The following list of articles prepared and shipped during the summer alone will give some definite idea of what the local branch has been doing. To the Canal Zone Chapter of the American Red Cross at Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, 25 dresses, five layettes and five pajamas were sent. To the Field Director of the Boston and New England Area at Boston went 10 convalescent robes. The director of the Red Cross Service at the U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 89 at Rutland, Mass., needed and received 10 sleeveless sweaters. Thirty Christmas bags were sent to New York, destined for the Canal Zone Branch and 86 Christmas boxes were prepared for children abroad.

Certainly no one of us can hesitate long in deciding that the work that is being done by our neighbors who volunteer for service in the Winchester Branch of the Red Cross is worthy of our support. Mrs. Ryan's report is one that each and every one of us will welcome. All we need to do to prove our appreciation real, is to see that our names are included in the Red Cross membership list for 1926. The ninth annual roll call that opened on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, to last through Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26 invites your co-operation.

Will You Be Comfortable

Again the scientific observers of atmospheric conditions predict a bitter winter—longer and colder by far than last winter, which broke records everywhere.
Vigorous days are coming when your furnace will demand help. If the rooms are to be kept comfortable and the family in health, you'll need a gas heater for auxiliary warmth.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A little opportunity is a fine chance for any man to do his best.

Impossibilities are merely the half-hearted efforts of quitters.

Keep quiet, keep sweet, keep going, and above all keep your head.

It is just as easy to lift as to lean, to be kind as mean, to praise as to scorn, to be glad as to mourn.

If a man makes a really bad bargain, he should hug it very tightly.

Don't despair—the sun has a sinking spell every night, but it comes back strong in the morning.

As a supplement to this issue of the Star is included a special section setting forth in pictorial form the activities of the American National Red Cross. All of our readers are doubtless familiar with the great work of the organization during the war, but the peace time activities of the Red Cross are perhaps not as widely known. We, therefore, urge all our readers to devote a moment to the study of this picture record of the present Red Cross program.

The Red Cross is the great national and international disaster relief organization. Last year it gave relief and rehabilitation to the sufferers in over 90 disasters—the largest single operation being in connection with the mid-west tornado of last March where nearly $3,000,000 was contributed and placed at the disposal of trained disaster workers. The Red Cross responsibility to the service and ex-service man is a continuing one—constant changes in legislation affecting ex-service men, make this task more difficult and complex even though the actual number of cases has diminished. The Red Cross has an organized reserve of 42,000 nurses, has nearly 1000 public health nurses on duty in the field, and has trained thousands of men and women in First Aid and Life Saving, Home Nursing and Nutrition. Over 5,000,000 school children have taken the pledge of service and are enrolled in the Junior Red Cross.

Our local Winchester Chapter is actively carrying on the work for service and ex-service men, and has been most fortunate in securing the cooperation of a committee of Fortnightly members who have done a great deal to make life brighter for the men in nearby government hospitals. The chapter has made or supplied many articles of clothing for these men and for disaster sufferers. Instruction in Life Saving has been given to many of our High School students; the Junior Red Cross is organized 100 per cent in our school system—it is considered one of the finest junior organizations in the State; and our Motor Corps has rendered a wonderfully helpful service in transporting workers and patients to hospitals in and about Boston.

Your opportunity to support this work comes in the Roll Call which is held annually from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Remember that this is not a campaign or a drive for funds—it is an opportunity for all to renew their membership in an organization recognized in 54 nations as "The Greatest Mother in the World," and, by so doing, give to its work their sympathy and aid.

WHEN DO WE EAT?

Eating should be a regular performance not a continuous one. So says the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. People who are too fat get fatter on the in-between meal bites. People who are too thin spoil their appetites for regular meals by continuous between-meal nibbling.

Regularity in health habits is an important factor often overlooked. The body works most efficiently with system. There is a regular rhythm to the functioning of the digestive tract. This rhythm allows time to prepare the food for use by the body, and to dispose of waste material. This rhythm is disturbed by helter-skelter eating.

HOT LUNCHES FOR SCHOOL KIDDIES

Why are so many of our school children "skinny?" Partly because they don't eat enough to supply energy for their activity. Many children are excited in the morning and hustle to school without breakfast. The growing child should be having fruit, cereal and milk, and an egg for breakfast. Many a child who refuses to take time to eat breakfast in the morning would drink a glass of egg and milk without a murmur.

Then what are the kiddies doing about lunch? Spending their few pennies for candy or cake? The schools should try to prevent this. A nourishing hot dish should be available at the lowest possible cost. The child can carry sandwiches and fruit from home, but it should be possible for him to buy something hot to drink or eat at school. This "something hot" not only gives energy to build the growing body, but it sharpens the child's appetite and makes him more alert mentally.

Telling the World

"Oh, I've had my shot at this public-speaking stuff," remarked Antwerp Andy, who has done just about everything in this world. "When I was a kid I used to call up my girl over a rural telephone."—Hamilton Royal Gaboon.

WINCHESTER'S INADEQUATE POST OFFICE

Receipts $16,015.27
Salary of Postmaster $2400
3 clerks, 6 carriers, no parcel post, no C. O. D., no insured mail, population 4248.

1925
Receipts $40,000
Salary of Postmaster $3000
4 clerks, 10 carriers, 1 parcel postman, 1 rural carrier, parcel post 200 to 300 packages a day, C. O. D. and insurance, population 11,665.

Whole building is unsanitary and a fire trap. No chance for "cages" for stamps, money orders, registered mail, etc.

No proper place for storing stock. About one-half of envelope stock has to be piled on open floor.

Safe is not large enough to store surplus stamp stock and money. No place to sort parcel post. Everything is out in the open.

Carriers and clerks tumbling over each other during rush hours.

Toilet facilities are inadequate and unsanitary.

Basement which has to be used for storage of papers and for parcel post during Christmas rush, is without heating facilities, cold and damp. Every year after working there, men are laid up with lumbago, severe colds, etc.

Not enough lock boxes, and no room for more. Boxes are out of repair, and have been fixed so many times, no screws or nails will hold.

We are continually fighting rats and vermin.

Basement is frequently one or two inches deep in water.

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce realizing the need of a new post office at the earliest possible moment have been at work for some months trying to get results.

Every prominent government official has been written to, and now it seems possible to get the appropriation this December. Every organization civic and social in Winchester is requested to co-operate. The following statement gives some facts that everyone should consider. The plan shown above speaks for itself.

Nathaniel M. Nichols,
Secretary Winchester Chamber of Commerce

Favors $165,000,000 in Six Years For Public Buildings

Washington, Nov. 9—Expenditure of $165,000,000 over a six-year period for construction of new Government buildings is favored by Chairman Madden of the House Appropriations Committee, who conferred with President Coolidge today on the subject. Of the total, he would use $15,000,000 to raise the cost limit of 120 buildings authorized in 1913, but held up because of increased construction costs.—[Associated Press.

Land of Bimini

ADMISSION TO DANCING FOLLOWING THE PERFORMANCE 25c

C. D. OF A. NOTES

On next Saturday evening at Knights of Columbus Home Building, 199 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, the Massachusetts Courts of the Catholic Daughters of America will tender a reception and banquet to their state officers: Rev. William B. Finnegan of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston, State Chaplain; Mrs. John J. Salmon of Cambridge, State Regent; Miss Marionne Collins of Beachmont, State Secretary; Mrs. John V. Ballard of East Milton, State Treasurer; Miss Lillian Clark of Jamaica Plain, State Advocate; Mrs. James Tierney of Brighton, State Monitor. The reception will take place at 7 o'clock, immediately followed by a banquet. The invited guests are Gov. and Mrs. A. T. Fuller; Supreme K. of C. Director, Mr. William C. Prout and Mrs. Prout; K. of C. Deputy, Mr. Edward Brandon and Mrs. Brandon; National Advocate, C. D. of A., Miss Marie Easley Smith, Miss Mary McKeough, State Regent of Vermont; Miss Mary O'Connell territorial deputy of Rhode Island and Miss Helen Breen of St. Albans, Vt.

A pleasing program has been arranged for the entertainment of members and guests. Grand Regent Mary C. Rafferty of Stoneham, Chairman of the reception Committee; Grand Regent Annie E. Vayo, Assistant Chairman. The Catholic Daughters of America is one of the largest organizations of Catholic women in the United States and has courts of the order in every state in the union, Porto Rico, Panama and Canada. The Massachusetts membership is about 10,000 and during the past two years $47,857.67 has been expended for charitable purposes.

There will be no meeting on next Thursday evening, Nov. 19 as on that evening the Elks' Charity Concert and Ball will be held in the Town Hall. As our meetings are on the first and third Thursday of the month and Nov. 19 being our meeting night Grand Regent Annie E. Vayo decided that we postpone the November meeting and our next regular business meeting will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 3, at which time the election of officers will take place. There will be a special meeting called before our next regular meeting and cards will be sent to all members.

The Hallowe'en party held last Thursday evening in Lyceum Hall for our Charity Fund was a grand success both socially and financially under the capable Chairmanship of Mrs. Nellie Moffett. Our decorating committee proved themselves wonderful artists as the decorations were the best yet. Mrs. Mary Smith, Chairman of that Committee certainly was a born artist, assisted by Mary Martin, Dorothy Kean and Mary O'Melia.

The Refreshment Committee with Mrs. Nora O'Melia as Chairman certainly got her share of compliments from all parts of the hall. She was a busy lady assisted by Miss B. Young Mrs. Statia Skerry, Mrs. Mary McGrath, Miss Julia Meskell, Mrs. Mary Fenton, Mrs. Hannah Rafter, Mrs. Jessie Quirk, Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Annie Hanlon proved the best serving staff yet.

You know what that means girls so be preparing for our next.

The prizes were awarded as follows: 1st prize, prettiest—Mrs. Ralph Bullard; 2nd. Miss Beatrice Long;

Funniest—Mrs. Annie Scott, first; Mrs. J. McCarthy, second. Most original—Mrs. Doris Fitzgerald, first; Miss Doris Fitzgerald, second. Most old fashioned—Miss Elizabeth Powers, first; Miss Kathleen Powers, second. Best male costume—Miss Margaret Bennett. Child costume—Grace Vayo. The judges were Mrs. Mary Rafferty, G. R. of Stoneham; Mrs. Mae Sullivan, Mrs. G. Ayer, Miss Nellie Connolly, Woburn; Miss Retta McDonald, Woburn.

Qual Personality

When we choose between two lines of conduct, between a mean action and a noble one, we choose also between two persons, both bearing your name, the one representing what is best in us, the other embodying what is worst. When we vacillate and alternate between them, we veer, as the man in Robert Louis Stevenson's story veered, between Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. —Henry Van Dyke.

Lebanon Popular Name

The name Lebanon has frequently been given to towns in the United States. The states of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, New Hampshire, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Tennessee all have towns of that name.

THE LEAGUE AT WORK

A comprehensive survey of the work of the League of Nations since its organization is given in the 1925 Yearbook of the League of Nations, recently issued by the World Peace Foundation. The Yearbook includes a description of the organization of the League, its work, its duties under the treaties, organizations associated with the League, the text of the Covenant and of the Geneva Protocol, and the list of national representatives at Geneva.

The work of the "technical organizations" for the study of special fields of international relations has resulted in 27 international conventions which are already in force and 17 which have been ratified by some countries but still await the signatures of others. These treaties cover a wide variety of subjects from the World Court protocol to identify certificates for Armenian and Russian refugees. Nine draft conventions drawn up by the technical organizations or their experts have also been recommended to the League of Nations for action.

The work of the League may be classified under four heads: direct and voluntary relations with states; duties under the Covenant; the cooperation of states under the Covenant, and duties under treaties. An important part of the League's work in dealing directly with states is the peaceable settlement of disputes.

Among the disputes brought before it are the Swedish-Finnish dispute over the Aaland Islands, the boundary dispute between Poland and Lithuania, the administration of Upper Silesia, the Albanian-Jugoslav boundary dispute, the question of Czecho-Slovak-Polish frontier, the Greco-Italian dispute which led to the Italian occupation at Corfu, the administration of the territory of Memel, the question of autonomy for the Finns of Eastern Carelia, the frontier between Iraq and Turkey. In most of these cases the decision of the Council of the League was accepted. The Greco-Italian dispute was settled through the Conference of Ambassadors instead of the Council of the League. The Iraq question is not yet settled. Another part of the League's work in direct relation with individual states is the registration of treaties entered into by members of the League of Nations. These are also published in a Treaty Series, which has now reached 32 volumes.

The work of the League of Nations in regard to disarmament has resulted in the appointment of several committees to study special aspects of the problem; the convention (not yet in force) for the control of international trade in armaments; the protocol forbidding chemical and bacterial warfare which was adopted by the Conference on International Trade in Arms, Munitions and Implements of War; the investigation of the extent to which Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Hungary have disarmed according to the peace treaties; and the Geneva Protocol.

The Permanent Mandates Commission has studied closely the work of the mandatory powers in relation to a wide variety of questions. Its meetings are described as "increasingly searching inquisitions" into the administration of the mandates.

Special organizations of the League of Nations discuss public health questions which are of inter-national interest, international financial problems, questions of communication and transit between states, intellectual co-operation, white slave traffic, narcotics, etc. Among the subjects specially studied by the Health Organization are epidemics in Eastern Europe, the standardization of serological and biological products, cancer, public health training, tropical diseases, quarantine clearance of ships, comparability of vital statistics, etc.

In addition to working on the financial reconstruction of Austria and Hungary, and the problems of Greek refugee settlement, the Economic and Financial Commission has studied the financial position of the Free City of Danzig, the financial situation of Esthonia, the problem of double taxation and evasion, customs, statistics, trade prohibition, equitable treatment of foreign nationals, economic crisis, etc. The work of the Committee on Communications and Transit has resulted in the adoption of a number of conventions relating to the simplification of passports between a number of states, the study of maritime ports, inland navigation, electric questions, roads, etc.

The protection of minorities in various countries is also entrusted to the League of Nations. In this connection a number of treaties have been adopted. The League also administers the Saar Basin (except the mines) and the Free City of Danzig.

LARGE USES OF STEEL IN SMALL WAYS

In the midst of an open field, a mile or two out of the little town of Winchester, Mass., stands a well built two and three-story brick manufacturing plant without a sign or other visible means of identification. Few people, therefore, know what this plant does, but it is constantly busy and recently has been working overtime. Furthermore, a large addition has just been completed. This plant, owned by the Winn Watch Hand Co., is the only exclusive watch hand manufacturer in the United States, and in this plant 75 or 80 per cent or more of all watch hands used in the country are made. Large watch manufacturers who make all other parts nearly all turn to the Winn Watch Hand Co. for their hands.

A watch hand is a seemingly insignificant article, yet in the aggregate the nation's consumption is an appreciable item. The Winn factory turns out 30-odd million of these tiny hands in a year. Eighty-five per cent are of steel and the remainder of brass, aluminum, and nickel silver. The steel used for the most part is a high carbon ribbon or strip steel running from 0.75 to 0.80 per cent carbon. A strip is selected slightly wider than the widest part of the hand which is to be made. This strip is then run through a series of small automatic stamping machines. The first operation usually punches in the strip a small hole which a little later is to form the hole at the base of the hand, but which is stamped primarily for the purpose of spacing on the metal succeeding operations.

Watch hands are not simply flat punchings as popularly supposed. Each hand, even though minute in size, is crowned or cupped, or otherwise relieved of its strictly flat form. Some, such as hour hands within the base of which the hub of a minute hand revolves, are cupped and ferruled. After two or more preliminary stamping operations the ribbon passes through a final operation which stamps out the completed forms. These drop into a container and the strip in the shape of skeleton scrap passes down through a pipe back of the press and into the basement. The whole stamping process, including three, four and sometimes five operations on separate presses, is continuous and automatic, each press being timed to work at the same rate as the others, thus keeping the slack in the strip between the machines approximately constant. One girl watches four or five machines, and has little to do to keep them operating. The forms which leave the machines are by no means finished. They must be tempered, polished and blued, and usually must have a brass bushing pressed into the base. These brass bushings, some of which are about the size of the shank of a common pin in outside diameter, are made on automatic screw machines. The second hands are placed by hand on an oil soaked leather pad which has a soft enough surface to prevent movement of the hand once it is in place. These leather pads containing thousands of tiny hands are then held against revolving steel discs with a carefully prepared abrasive agent introduced between the two. Another method is to place the hands in a row on a form with a clamp across 1/16-inch of one end to hold them. An abrasive wheel revolving away from the clamp polishes half of the hand surface. The operation and clamp are reversed for the other half.

The quantity of steel used in the United States in the manufacture of watch hands is estimated at 16 to 20 tons a year.—[Iron Trade Review.

Beauty in Cheerfulness

Cheerfulness is almost as necessary as air, food and water. It stirs hearts as a pebble thrown into a lake sends ripples to every shore—returning again and again to you—making the heavy load lighter and the dark road brighter for all.—Grit.

Setback for Tunnel Project.

The scheme for the building of the submarine tunnel between England and France is now encountering a new discouragement in the extensive and constantly growing airplane traffic between the two countries.

DR. CHIDLEY'S ANNIVERSARY SERMON

The Church in a Changing Age—An Interpretation of Ten Year's Ministry

Acts 10:29. "I ask you, therefore, for what intent you sent for me?" The text grew out of the request of the Jews at Caesara that Peter visit them. Naturally Peter asked himself why these Jews had sent for him. It is a question every serious minister asks himself when a call comes, and not only when a call comes, but many times afterward. Why did his Church send for him? It is a good thing to take stock occasionally, so at this time, at the end of 10 years' ministry it is an opportune time to review our history together and to take soundings as to where we are.

The first question every man must ask himself as he goes into ministry, is whether he has a sense of a mission? In the old days it was known as "a call." Without it his preaching is merely a beating of the air; with it, he has a buoyant sense of the companionship of God in his work, of God's help where human power fails. What mocks his puny fingers by day bends groaning to the Almighty grasp. He knows that it is "Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit" that things are done. Not only that, there is also a sense of authentic power in the pulpit. He is an ambassador of God, and therefore lifted above the desire to tickle the fancy of his hearers, or the mean fear which would make him preach a Gospel that would truckle to the selfishness of men.

And, again, this sense of a mission gives a minister a sense of authority. He is God's man. He has been trained for his task. He is an expert in his field, as the physician and lawyer are in their's. He knows, or ought to know, more about his subject than any layman in the pew. He has listened to the voice of God and sought the guidance of the Holy Spirit. He may make mistakes of judgment, but let him once lose the sense that God is with him, and his day is done. For this reason he must listen to the voice of God, and not to that of men. The Hebrew prophet was a man of towering dignity, because he felt that his God had sent him to proclaim the truth to his nation. You could not imagine him letting either the laymen in the pew or the King on his throne tell him what he ought to preach.

I have always been glad that I have had this sense of a mission. Preaching is in the biological stream that flows in my veins. Pushing back into my heredity I find a preacher by the name of Chidley in London in the 17th Century. I did not want to preach. I fought against it for five years, but the call was too urgent and insistent to resist longer. I might truly say with the prophet of old, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel." And to perceive this purpose in one's life growing clearer with the years, to find one's keenest exercise and one's chief joy in fulfilling that purpose, has been one of the greatest blessings of my life.

But after a preacher has a sense of a mission, he must then keep untarnished his inner sense of mental and moral integrity. That is to say, no honest man can preach what to him is not true, or he will go intellectually and spiritually bankrupt. "There is no sense in preaching unless one shall deal with reality." God help the preacher if his sense of the critical responsibility to his Congregation in this serious business of religion does not keep him from swerving a hair's breadth from the bedrock of reality. If he does, his Congregation will discover it by a sort of sixth sense, and will forgive him almost anything but that.

He cannot preach beyond his experience. But if he keep his feet on the bed-rock of what is real to himself, his congregation will be lenient, and hope for better things as he grows. His message may be small in mass, but if it is charged with the vitality of a personal experience from which it mainly comes and is sincerely held and uttered, it will be bread to the hungry and water to the thirsty soul. "The cry that the pulpit has lost its power is old and idle. Faith as a grain of mustard seed, moral idealism even in meagre form, spiritual passion and the breadth of humanity in the preacher will raise from the dead any pulpit in the land."

After the preacher has his mission and the content of his message, he must determine his style of presentation. The cry of the day is for originality in the pulpit. That is a word which should be used carefully and sparingly. As Dr. Gordon said of President Eliot, "There is indeed little of absolute originality among men. But whoever gives an idea greater depth, vitality, scope, availability, and effective power must stand forth as an original mind and character." I would add on this subject of originality in preaching that, as a usual thing, what is true is not new, and what is new is not true.

Only one word more as to pulpit style. My temptation always has been to preach without notes. It is a temptation of the devil, as far as I'm concerned. It takes less out of one in the pulpit, and saves one from the laborious work of writing out one's sermon, word for word, a slave's task, and yet I have done it these 15 years in the interest of conciseness, and because I'm afraid of my own tongue! I take great comfort in Phillips Brook's comment on his own preaching. "When I am interesting (i. e. ex tempore) then I am vague; when I am definite I am dull." So be it. Every man must find his own way to get his message home.

Now comes the minister's greatest problem—what of his message? The minister must, of course, relate himself to the thought-life of his times. A message may be a good message in itself, but if it is born too late or too early in relation to the times, it will be useless. To say that we are living in a changing age is to utter a commonplace. Everyone knows that. But the age in which my ministry is cast is an age of peculiar anarchy in philosophy, theology, ethics and Biblical interpretation. All the old thought-forms are broken up, tradition has been set aside. Humanity is on the march in all these fields. Or, to change the figure, it has cut loose from the old moorings. Any effective Gospel today will therefore be not a static Gospel, but a Gospel for men on the march to new fields of thought. It may be a Gospel that is permanently true, but if it lacks vision and practical emphasis it will get no hearing from this generation. The minister may regret all this, and lament that his ministry did not fall in the old, static days of clear definitions and distinguishable boundaries, or in the better days ahead, when these days of anarchy are past, but that will do no good. He must reach humanity where it is. Speaking for myself, I am profoundly grateful my ministry has fallen in this age of upheaval. Pulpit leadership today is not easy, but it is a thrilling adventure to be permitted to take a small section of humanity in this molten state and try to remould it to more vital forms of thought and life.

But this does not answer the question. What shall be the content of a minister's message to this age? When I began my ministry 26 years ago we were just emerging from the Higher Critical Movement as to the Bible. Many of the young men of that day felt that their first pulpit duty was to instruct the people. The result was a great many sermons on Jonah and the Whale, chiefly to show that the human mind had at last been emancipated from such fish stories. There were many learned discussions, and windy wars in the pulpit on such themes. Some food was doubtless accomplished, but it was about as nourishing to the pew as Abraham Lincoln's famous bee seeking honey on a dead bull thistle. To use Milton's phrase: "The hungry sheep looked up and were not fed."

Then came the days of what was known as the "Social Gospel," that is, the application of the principles of Jesus to the social, political and economic problems of the day. This new Gospel came in under the pressure of socialism, which told us that we were paying too much attention to what went on in the New Jerusalem beyond the grave, instead of trying to build up a city of God where we are. This Gospel was a protest against New England Calvinism and its metaphysical interest, and the other—worldly religion which followed it.

It was a valid and just protest. But the social Gospel broke down at two points. First: it staked all on a good environment as a means of social redemption, and forget the individual. You may pave a pig-sty with marble but it will still house a hog. You cannot get a good cosmos out of rotten atoms.

We have'nt got beyond the need of individual conversion yet. In the second place the social Gospel in its bitter protest against capitalism and in its hope to capture the working-man, who had become alienated from the church, did not win the workingman, and it made the church a partisan in the strife, and so lost to her, her place as an arbiter between capital and labor. Witness the social creed just adopted at the Congregational National Council Meeting in Washington. As Rev. Fletcher Parker once said, "it is not essentially a struggle of capital against labor, but of greed versus greed in both."

But many ministers were carried away with this new Gospel and emptied their churches by forever harping on social justice to people who had come to hear about God, who wanted something on Sunday they could not get six other days a week. Fourteen of my class of 44 in Union Seminary were swept off their feet by this new Gospel and never entered the ministry at all. Some became out and out socialists, others are mug-wumps, neither in one camp nor the other, and therefore effective nowhere.

From what I have been saying you can easily see how carefully any thoughtful preacher in my day must define for himself what his message is to be. I frankly confess that in the early days of my ministry I fluttered about the idea of a merely teaching Gospel, and later about the social Gospel, like a moth around a candle. But I came to believe that there was a Gospel bigger than either of these, inclusive of both, and of immediate help to a generation on the march. I therefore came to the firm conviction that my duty as a preacher in this generation was to preach a Gospel that would simply help my congregation in the difficult task of living and suffering from week to week.

To do that I believed that there were three fundamental facts of our Gospel that must be kept in the foreground of my preaching, namely, the existence of a God of love who is at our side as the Great Companion, the fact of human immortality, and the adequacy of Christ as our guide, and the only adequate Guide through life. If you give men a vivid reality of a sufficient God, who is interested in them, they can weather all the ills of life. Dr. Richard C. Cabot says he has met few skeptics and fewer atheists in his professional work, but he has met many people to whom God does not occur until they are in a strait, facing death, for instance. Then they ask "What am I to do?" For people in such straits it is a terrible thing if they have no God to cling to.

Second, the assurance of immortality is a national necessity. If men have no belief in a future tribunal, where all the inequalities of earth are compensated for, we shall have a war of haves against have-nots here, for all our hazards lie on this side of time, and society will break up into warring fragments. Second, as an individual possession in facing the last great adventure, death, both for dying and those left.

Third, the adequacy of Christ as our Guide, and the only adequate Guide. Life is hard for us all. The God of Theology is a dim reality. Conscience is no sufficient light. But give men Christ, God in the flesh, let them feel His heart-beat and hear His words, and they can walk sure-footedly, feeling He will bring them safely home.

Now a Gospel such as that requires very little theology, but it takes a lot of believing and a lot of living to preach it effectively. I have been very little interested in the theological side of preaching. I have been neither pro-Liberal nor pro-Fundamentalist, nor anti-Liberal nor anti-Fundamentalist. I have found good Christian people in both camps, and besides, I have been too busy trying to preach a Gospel of help for human need week by week, to spend much time on either. I have been accused of being both a Liberal and a Conservative, which reminds me of the old chaplain in Scott's story who said "Grace," at a public dinner. Some said it was too short; others too long, "which," says Scott, " would indicate that it was about right length."

If I were forced into either camp, it would most certainly be the Liberal. I read with great interest a year ago Dr. Conrad's book, "Jesus Christ at the Crossroads", an unfortunate title, to begin with, for although men may be at the crossroads concerning Christ, Christ is never there Himself. That aside, reading Dr. Conrad's book was like a spiritual journey back to my boyhood. It was the faith in which I was brought up, but which, like my old boyhood home, has been outgrown and no longer habitable. But what I started out to say is that I have been more interested in life than theology, consequently there has been a minimum of theology in my preaching. I believe that in a changing age like this I have taken the right course. There was very little theology in Christ's Gospel. That has been added later. There was, however, a searching analysis of the motives and actions of men.

Let me quote four great leaders in religion on this point, leaders not only in the denomination itself, but in the religious life of the United States, leaders too, who are poles apart in theological outlook but who all agree that the religion of Christ is not theology but life.

I take first a conservative like Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, Author of "In His Steps" in an article in the October "Atlantic", "Can Religion Be Taught?"

"If we are going to be able to answer the question, "Can religion be taught?" we must first of all find out what Jesus told His disciples to teach? When we bring it all together we are amazed to find that the greatest of all religious teachers did not teach any system of theology. All He taught was life as it ought to be lived. That to Him, was religion. It was all condensed into two articles of one creed: supreme love of God, and love of one's neighbor.

Of course this creed had some detail. We find on expanding this teaching that it includes every item of human behavior. This simple thing known as religion means purity, meekness, mercy, peacemaking, justice, kindness, righteousness, brotherhood, forgiveness, faith, redemption, God, future, hope, love—the basic virtues of mankind, about which there can be no doctrinal dispute.

But what has the human race done to this teaching? It has woven into His basic teaching about human behavior the most intricate tangle of philosophy and metaphysics. It has made certain creedal statements necessary to salvation. It has divided the Christian world into sects and denominations, some of which have violently denied to others the right to call themselves true Christians. It has magnified the importance of certain words and theories about which Jesus Himself never uttered a word. It has involved the basic matter of human behavior toward God and the neighbor with nonessential and trivial discussions over doctrines that have nothing to do with the way a man behaves."

Now let me quote Harry Emerson Fosdick in an article in Harper's for October. "A letter lies before me from an essentially religious man who cannot believe one of the highly philosophical doctrines on which he understands the churches to insist; hence he thinks he must stay outside the church. The doctrine which constitutes his difficulty did not even emerge until centuries after Jesus lived.

This case, typical of more people than one likes to think, illustrates the peril which vital religion faces.

Christianity began in a great adventure. Discipleship to Jesus, in those first days when the Master was presenting His way of living to the acceptance of those who had vision and courage enough to try it, was a costly spiritual exploit. The life to which Jesus summoned men required bravery to undertake and fortitude to continue. In those days who could have dreamed that it ever would become in the eyes of multitudes a stiff and finished system to be passively received?

This development from vitality to rigidity is clearly reflected in the changed meanings of the word "faith." Christianity was the most influential uprush of spiritual power in human history, and all the participants in it would have ascribed their inspiration to their faith. But it was not faith in formal creeds, for no creeds had yet been written; it was not faith in the New Testament, for the New Testament was not yet in existence; it was not faith in the church, for the church was as yet inchoate and unorganized. That primary faith which launched the Christian movement was a personal relationship with Christ and what He stood for. It had not yet been formalized. It was vital and dynamic."

Now let me quote Dr. Charles R. Brown in an address before the recent National Council in Washington on " The Vital and Trivial in Religion." " We have too much intellectual and spiritual excess baggage. We have too many foolish questions, like Peter who when he "wist not what to say" opened his mouth and talked, "What shall this man do?"

"Thirty years ago the questions were, "Where did Cain get his wife?" "Was Jonah not digested?" "How about the Gadarene swine?" They are buried. A new crop has arisen, Creation versus Evolution, the Virgin Birth, a Personal Devil, and the Second Coming of Christ. "What is that to thee? Follow thou me," says the Master as he did to Peter.

There is the dogmatism of Modernist and Fundamentalist about this first chapter of Genesis. They have decided that the creation took place B. C. 4004, Oct. 28 at 9 A. M. It was in the fall because apples were ripe. Genesis is not a scientific dogma but a religious poem, with the theme that behind all is God.

The Lord called you and me to take hold of the small end of the problem. Newton approached gravitation through an apple, Franklin, electricity through a kite, and Darwin, science through earthworms and bumble bees. So you are to take hold of questions like prayer through the small end, the end near you. We do not know the final issue, any more than the man in the trenches knew Marshal Foch's purpose and plans, but he fought just the same.

Lastly, let me quote Dr. George Gordon in his recent autobiography. Dr. Gordon says: "The primary mission of the preacher of the Christian Gospel is to make Christian character by the grace and power of Christian ideas." He then goes on to tell of two instances in his ministerial career in which theological hair-splitting obscured this great fact. The first was at the Installation Council when he came to Old South Church in 1844. He says: "On the question of the Being of God, the Person of Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit, the Value of the Bible, the eternal distinctness of the righteous and the unrighteous life, and the purpose of the minister to endeavor to save souls, and to lead them in a hope of an new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness, there was no trouble about my views. The Gospel of Jesus Christ might be affirmed, but that did not count, because it could not take care of itself; it was impotent without the guardianship of New England Calvinism."

Eighteen out of 66 delegates voted against installing him. Dr. Webb, the Moderator, who was on the program to offer the installing prayer, declined to do so. Years after, however, on his deathbed he asked Dr. Gordon to pray with him. The second instance was when the American Board met at Springfield in 1887 to decide the question "Shall young men, however spiritual they may be, be allowed to go forth as missionaries of the American Board, who hold that for the dead who never had a chance to believe in Christ in this world, there will be an opportunity in the world to come?" Dr. Gordon says: "To me the whole question was so preposterous, such a matter of mere miserable detail, that I could not be serious over the great meeting." And yet there are those today who would wreck a church over such theological questions as these because they do not agree with their minister on some doctrinal point, even though the ministry of that church is vitally ministering to hungry souls and teaching manhood and youth how to live.

Mr. Clarence R. Preston received last week the following letter from the young women in the New Florence Crittenton Home: "Because we are grateful and indebted to you, we wish to acknowledge our appreciation for this beautiful home, built for our comfort with such care and earnestness. Because we know that, through your great understanding of our needs we will always be happy; and because we feel the prevailing spirit and great underlying principle of love expressed by the many Circles and you, we shall strive to carry this principle out with us to help others, and thus enable our lives and raise them to a higher standard of usefulness." I would rather receive a letter like that on the result of my ministry than to be known as an eloquent preacher or a brilliant dialectician on abstruse theological points that have no relation to human life.

I am thankful that this church has been wise and generous-minded enough to make as its basis of membership not a creed i. e. a statement of belief, but a covenant i. e. a platform of purpose, and in that covenant there is only one theological requirement, belief in the Divinity of our Lord—which, of course, it lawfully asks. On that covenant Jews and Catholics, Unitarians and Universalists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Lutherans and Methodists are all working here in this church harmoniously together, and I must confess that I can see no distinction between them in their loyality to the Kingdom of God and their devotion to Jesus Christ.

I should like to add, parentheticallly, that during these ten years we have also tried so to prepare our young people in their mental outlook that when they went to college they would not be alienated from their old home Church, as their intellectual horizons broadened. Dr. Gilkey in his address on Youth before the National Council said: "The opportunities today among young people for the Christian message are illustrated by incidents from a Pennsylvania college. A young woman wrote, "Our college is a place where we have perfectly respectable ideals and belive heartily in social service, but Christ is almost unknown and a definite personal religion does not exist. The fact of the matter is, we all want to believe something, but we don't know what it is and nobody seems able to help us." These young people want to know whether in the light of our new knowledge we can still believe that God actually helps us in our struggle of life.

Evidently we have buttressed the faith of our own young people, for they are coming home from college to teach in the Sunday School and to take their place in other church activities. The Question Box Meeting which the Pastor holds with our young people once a month has been a great help in straightening out difficulties for these youths. Here are three questions at random from the meeting last Sunday evening. "If a person does a wrong and asks God for forgiveness, is it granted? What happens if they repeat some offense, and again ask forgiveness and strength to do right?" "Where, when and why did the Congregational Church originate?" "If all mankind is descended from Adam and Eve, how do you account for the various races? In any event what is your opinion of their origin?" This question opens up the entire question of Evolution or special creation.

My time is gone. I wish I could have spoken adequately of my profound gratitude for your generous courtesy and forbearance through these years, to have spoken of the wise councillors I have had in Church and Prudential Committees, of the men and women who have officered our Sunday School, and of the devotion of the women of this Church. You have been wise in your counsel, generous in your praise, kind in your criticism and staunch in your support. I have been lifted upon your shoulders. Without you I could have done nothing. I am proud to be the minister of this Church, which has fulfilled the injunction of Paul to another church when he sent Timotheus to become its pastor: "If Timotheus come, let him minister among you without fear."

CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK

Children's Book Week is being observed this week, Nov. 8 to 14, at the Winchester Library where special exhibits of books particularly calculated to interest young people are being shown both in the children's room and on the main floor. Especially in the children's room the books have been arranged with separate shelves for fathers, teachers and mothers. The first named contains a collection of books which father enjoyed when he was a boy, and which are recommended as being suitable to be read to his children. On the teachers' shelf are gathered together volumes which educators find helpful in supplementing their orthodox classroom work, while on the mothers' shelf are books dealing with child training, books to be read to children, and others containing ideas for children's entertainment.

The following suggestions from Librarian Cora M. Quimby will prove of interest to those in search of books for children from 12 to 16 years of age. All are time worn favorites and include Alcott's "Little Women" and "Little Men," Aldrich's "Story of a Bad Boy," Burnett's "Secret Garden," Curtes' "Little Maid Series," Hawe's "Great Quest," Kipling's "Captains Courageous," Pyle's "Men of Iron," Seton-Thompson's Animal Story books, Terhune's "Lad, a Dog," and Wiggin's "Mother Carey's Chickens" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

This by no means exhausts the list. In browsing around among the books we noticed these familiar titles, many in new and attractive editions: Lanier's "Boy's King Arthur," "A Tale of Two Cities" by Dickens, "Hans Brinker" by Dodge, Sewell's "Black Beauty," Washington Irving's "Rip Van Winkle," "The New Arabian Nights," and many others which have had the faculty of delighting youth for years. Particularly interesting are two handsome picture books with illustrations by the famous painters, Howard Pyle and Maxfield Parrish; the first Pyle's own "Book of Pirates," and the other entitled "The Knave of Hearts" by Louise Saunders.

Children's Book Week was originated in 1919 by the American Booksellers Association, the American Library Association, the Boy Scouts of American, and associated publishers. It has become, in six years, a national annual campaign which thousands of communities use to stimulate interest in boys' and girls' books. Throughout the year Book Week inspires a growing consciousness of the importance of chilren's books, of their influence in character development and in the building of citizenship, and of the contribution they can make to the happiness of the individual throughout life.

WINCHESTER UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

The regular November meeting was held in Metcalf Hall last Friday. It was preceded by a supper.

Dr. William F. Boos, specialist on poisons, was the speaker. Dr. Boos who was associated with Medical Examiner McGrath, told about his experience in murder cases. His descriptions were not only interesting but weird and the audience was held in suspense most of the time. His talk gave an insight into the many difficulties which our medical examiners are placed in trying to prove cases on circumstantial evidence.

The club is giving a concert tonight jointly with the Pop Concert Committees at the Town Hall, with Roland Hayes, the celebrated tenor, as chief artist. The "all sold" sign has been hung out for some days and the committee regrets that they could not supply all requests for seats. When the matter of a Roland Hayes concert was first broached, it was thought that a big undertaking was at hand to fill the Town Hall and meet the necessary expense in connection with the service of such a noted artist, but the committee of both the Men's Club and the Pop Concert immediately got busy and, with the help of newspaper space, their efforts have been well rewarded. It speaks much for the artistic make-up of Winchester people. It is honed that more concerts along this line will run.

B. & M. TO OPERATE BUSSES THROUGH WINCHESTER

The Selectmen have received a letter from the Boston & Maine Railroad informing them that it plans to establish an exclusive interstate coach service between Boston and Manchester, N. H., which will pass through the western part of Winchester. The coaches will accept only interstate passengers or those leaving Massachusetts for points in New Hampshire and vice versa. No State or local licenses are required for interstate service, but the Boston & Maine intends to run its line in strict compliance with the laws of the State, and of each city and town through which its coaches pass.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

RAW MEAT?—Never

"Ladies, feed your husbands raw meat and see how husky they get.. It may not improve their gentle natures, but prize fighters earn good money."

This is what Professor Richert of the French Academy of Science might be expected to advise solicitous young wives. Professor Richert inclines to the theory that raw meat is man's ideal food, and we agree that it probably was in the stone ages. With the knowledge of fire building, came the practice of holding the cut of meat on a stick over the flame, and later it was simmered in an open vessel.

There's nothing very tempting about a sirloin steak when it's raw and cold and flabby. But broil that steak under the gas flame, dust with salt and pepper, let a chunk of melting butter mingle with the savory juices and it's food "fit for man or god."

No siree, while we've got a good gas range in the kitchen, we'll take our meat browned to a turn.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Considerable excitement was caused on last Friday when two little girls and a boy, four years of age, residents of Ware road, were reported to the Winchester police as missing from their home since 10 in the morning, the phone call coming in to police headquarters at 1:30 in the afternoon. The story was that the kiddies had wandered into the Fells, and Sergt. Cassidy and officer Donaghey repaired thither. They found upon investigation that mounted officer O'Toole of the M. D. C. had found the children, and the small wanderers were returned to their home none the worse for their experience.

Tuesday morning a dog whose ownership was not discovered was run over and killed by a truck on Cambridge street.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

WINCHESTER WELL REPRESENTED

Winchester was well represented at the hearing held Tuesday at the State House before the State Public Health Commission upon the repeal of the act providing "for the protection of the public health in the vicinity of the towns of Winchester and Stoneham and the City of Woburn, or in other words the matter of the pollution of the Aberjona River." The repeal of the act was advocated by the City of Woburn, which is held responsible for housing the factories which are claimed to cause the pollution. The pollution of the water is said to result from the waste thrown in from tanneries and other plants.

Winchester citizens far outnumbered representatives from other communities, and a number of them spoke upon the subject and voiced their viewpoint of the Town in no uncertain terms.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, state commissioner of public health, presided at the hearing. The proceedings were under a resolve passed by the Legislature at the last session, providing for an investigation with a view to determining what steps should be taken to abate a nuisance, and whether the act passed in 1911 directing the health department to take special measures to clean up the river should be repealed or extended to other parts of the state.

Spokesmen from Woburn declared the largest tannery on the river is located in Winchester. Winchester representatives opposed the repeal of the act and resented the implication that the pollution was caused by any tannery in the confines of this municipality.

The matter was taken under advisement.

A WINCHESTER PRIZE-WINNER

The river Avon flows close by the walls of Warwick Castle which stands in a picturesque position on a rocky eminence above the river. Below the castle the river, with its wooded banks, affords one of the lovliest views of river scenery in all England. There are white peacocks in the castle grounds and pheasants and other interesting birds and beautiful gardens. The assistant gardener to the Earl of Warwick as he worked in the ground of that famous, historic castle a few years ago, little dreamed that some day he would be head gardener on the finest estate in Winchester, Mass. Fortune has brought him here, however ,and last week at the fine exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society in Boston, his employer, Mr. Jere A. Downs, won a bronze medal and several prizes in the floral exhibits. Mr. Harry Eaton, Mr. Downs' gardener, won the coveted cultural certificate awarded for excellence in floral culture. Mr. Downs won first prize for the best six plants in the begoia exhibit. He was awardned second prize and a bronze medal in the best single specimen begonia contest and second prize in the chrysanthemum exhibit for a vase of 10 long-stem white flowers of the Louisa Pockett variety. Some of his chrysanthemums this year had stems seven feet long and flowers 10 inches in diameter. His Begonias, Exquisite and Emilyclibram were prize winners, being awarded first and second prizes respectively at the flower show last week. So it has come about that the assistant gardener to the Earl of Warwick is now prize-winning gardener to Mr. Jere A. Downs of Winchester.

MEDAL PLAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

An 18-hole medal play turkey tournament for members was conducted for members by the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon, the fine weather and special prizes contributing to make the play especially interesting. The turkey for best net went to G. E. Stokes who turned in a card of 91—61, with R. F. Whiting taking second with 97—67. The prize for low gross went to J. A. Wheeler with 83. R. S. Dunbar and P. L. Goodale tied for second gross, each having an 86.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

School Committee Meetings

The School Committee meets regularly the first and third Mondays of each month. They are glad to meet any citzens at these meetings on any matter of general educational import.

Use of School Buildings

The School Committee are glad to have the school buildings used for general community purposes. Applications for such use must be in the hands of the Superintendent of Schools on the Saturday preceding the first and third Mondays of each month.

The School Committee in a body gave their entire day on Tuesday, Nov. 3, to make an official inspection of the schools. This has rarely been done anywhere and is most commendable.

School Savings

The school savings system has now been in operation in the schools for one year with very fine results. The total amount of money now on deposit is $10,379.91.

Winchester is one of 111 municipalities scattered throughout the United States using the same banking system and who are grouped in the same class. For the school year 1924-1925 Winchester ranked 13th in a list of these 111 communities. The average percentage of depositors for the year was 84.7. The schools are very proud of this record.

Washington School

A meeting of the Junior Red Cross was held Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 3. The program was presented by the members of the first and second grades. The subject was "Service at Home." The meeting was opened by the singing of America and the Salute to the Flag by the whole school. The report of the secretary, Virginia French, was read and approved. The Executive Board, consisting of Lucille Pratt, William Galloway, Elizabeth Proctor and Charles Armstrong reporter what the members of the different rooms had done for the Red Cross. Running errands, washing dishes, making beds, bringing in the wood, taking care of the baby were among the activities listed. The following program was then given:

Things We Have Done to Help Our Mothers—Winnifred Kelly, Harriett Pilkington, William Dewsnap, Nancy Robinson, Elmer Josephson, Charles Armstrong, Edmund Lassen, James Scanlon, Doris Carlson.
Poem—Who Loved Mother Best?—William Dewsnap, Charles Armstrong, Harriett Pilkington, Doris Carlson, Winnifred Kelly.
Poem—In the Morning Grades 1 and 2
Little Housekeepers—Joan Harding, Nancy Robinson, Virginia Farnham, Doris Carlson.
Singing by the School—America the Beautiful

STARTING YOUNG

Two State wards, Constantino Linskey, 10, and William Dame, six, who temporarily had been making their home in Winchester, were arrested by the Medford police at about 1:30 last Sunday morning, after having broken into three stores on Main street in that city.

When first seen by officer Lawrence Hurley of the Medford police the two boys, who had previously run away from their Winchester home, were carrying a large horse blanket in which was their loot, including boxes of cake, crackers and chocolates, a pair of handcuffs, a harnessmaker's knife, postage stamps and a small amount of money.

Upon seeing the officer one of the boys ran away, leaving his companion and the blanket wrapped treasure behind. The latter was taken to police headquarters and a search was immediately instituted for the fugitive. He was discovered at Main and Royal streets and taken into custody.

At the station house the two boys confessed to Lieut. Charles H. Elwell of the Medford department that they had broken into three stores on Main street and had just left the last place entered when they were discovered by officer Hurley. The harness knife and blankt were acquired at a harness and leather shop a bare 100 yards away from police headquarters, the eatables were taken from a nearby chain store, while a furniture shop furnished the handcuffs, stamps and money.

The Winchester police were notified by the Medford authorities of the boys' arrest just before 8:30 Sunday morning, the people with whom the boys had been stopping being in turn told by them.

EXPENSIVE PARTY

Monday afternoon Lieut. Harrold and Sergt. Rogers of the Winchester Police brought from Medford to the local station house a man who claimed to be a Turk and who was in custody of the Medford authorities on a drunkenness charge. According to the man's story he had been on a party with three Italians which had involved the imbibing of strong waters. Their revels brought on a sound sleep, at least to the son of Turkey who awoke to find his Italian friends gone and with them his money. The friends he could get along without, but the money he missed considerably. In view of the fact that the man believed that the party had taken place in Winchester the local authorities brought him to town in the hopes that he might point out the place or identify his companions, but he was able to do neither, and after being questioned he was returned to Medford.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Winchester women will do well to wait for Mildred Benson, the canning expert's sale to be held in the new Fortnightly room over Randall's store at an early date.

Miss Benson has canned 687 cans of different products, including 69 varieties. There will be mince meat for Thanksgiving, pies, jellies and jams for the company dinner, meat, vegetables, relishes, pickles, even to the boiled dinner for everyday use. Everything is home canned and priced much lower than goods can be bought elsewhere.

TOWN REALIZES ON UNPAID TAXES

Collector of Taxes Nathaniel M. Nichols announced this week that all of the land held by the Town of Winchester for unpaid taxes has been sold. About $430 has been realized. This will largely re-emburse the Town for the money lost through the holding of this property for taxes due.

In all ten parcels of land were sold. The purchasers were Mrs. Mary J. Finnimore, Mr. John Cassidy, Mr. Ralph L. Sylvester and Miss Mary Leahy. Some of the parcels had been held for the past 15 years for unpaid taxes.

MILK WAS LOWER!

Bacon street, or at least part of it, was a milky way on Monday morning when a milk truck, the property of John J. Mulkern of 75 Arlington street, West Medford, and operated by John McDermott of 265 Boston avenue, Medford, and a Pierce Arrow automobile owned and operated by Edwin A. Baker of 55 Fletcher street, Winchester, were in collision at the junction of the Parkway and Fenwick road.

The milk truck, a Ford, was going from the Parkway across Bacon street and into Fenwick road when it was bumped, according to its driver, by the "Pierce." The former was badly smashed and its contents liberally spread upon the street and sidewalk. Baker's machine was somewhat damaged as a result of the smashup. No one was reported injured.

Mr. C. F. Shaw of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, who has been district manager for this section for some time, has received a well deserved promotion, and has joined the commercial division office staff at Boston. He has made many staunch friends in Winchester through his prompt and courteous treatment of company customers. Mr. W. M. Crotty will take Mr. Shaw's position, with headquarters at 6 Pleasant street, Malden.

INSURANCE MAN TRAIN VICTIM NEAR WINCHESTER LINE

The first fatal accident to occur on the local railroad in some little time took place last Friday morning at about 9:15 o'clock when Samuel J. Kaplan, 41, of 40 Magnolia street, Malden, was struck by the Montreal express out of Boston near a curve in the rails of the Boston & Maine tracks at a point about 250 feet north of the Grove street bridge at West Medford near the Winchester line.

How the accident occurred is not known. Kaplan had come from the Malden office of the Prudential Insurance Company, and had gone to Medford to make some calls. Whether he was walking along the tracks or merely crossing them at the time of the accident could not be ascertained.

The train which was going at a high rate of speed struck Kaplan with great force, hurling his body some distance from the tracks and horribly mangling it. Engineer F. K. Woodward of Westboro, N. H., brought the train which was in charge of Conductor Leonard L. Heath of 161 South State street, Concord, N. H., to a stop some distance from the place of the accident and a train man was left in charge of the body and upon his arrival at Winchester, Conductor Heath requested Station Agent Frank McGrath to notify the police of the tragedy.

Medical Examiner Dr. Thomas M. Durrell of Somerville viewed the body after which it was removed to the undertaking rooms on High street by the Medford police.

Kaplan, who was married, was well known to many in Winchester through his activities as an insurance agent. He had been conected with the Prudential Company for six years.

CHILDREN PLAYING IN CART STRUCK BY AUTO

Donald and Phylis Fenton, small son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Fenton of 160 Swanton street, had a narrow escape from serious injury last Sunday afternoon when the small cart in which they were riding on Swanton street near Lynch's Market was struck by a Hudson coach driven by Emilio Luongo of 23 Irving street.

According to one account of the accident the children who were playing with their little cart became confused at the approach of the automobile, and were unable to get out of its path in time to escape being struck.

In swerving to avoid them the rear end of Luongo's machine struck the cart, smashing it badly and throwing the two children out onto the ground.

They were at once taken to their home where they were attended by Dr. Milton J. Quinn. Phylis was found to have sustained the more severe injuries, having received a bad gash on the leg, above the knee as well as multiple cuts and bruises about the head and face. Donald sustained a deep gash on the leg. Neither was thought to have been hurt internally.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The police have been notified that several windows have been broken in the Little residence on Everett avenue and in the former Tuck home on Winthrop street. The doors of the Little house were found unlocked.

Last Saturday Sergt. Cassidy of the Winchester police recovered a 50-foot garden hose taken from the residence of Mr. George Heintz on Everett avenue last Hallowe'en night.

A cake of lead, a piece of lead pipe and two trowels were taken from the machine of Mr. Patrick Foley sometime during last Friday night while it was parked in front of his home at 778 Main street. The registration of a machine which had been parked near Foley's was obtained and turned over to the police.

Dr. George A. Barron was an invited guest at the meeting of the Engineers' Club last Friday.

ABANDONED CAR STOLEN LAST JUNE

Mr. Vincent Boyle of Oak street reported to the Winchester police at 6:30 last Saturday morning that there was a Buick coupe parked about 200 feet off lower Main street on the pipe line land owned by the town near Russell's farm.

Officer Henry Dempsey was sent to investigate and found that all means of identification had been scrupulously removed from the machine, even to the filing of the engine number from the casting. Nothing remained on which to work except the initial "A" which appeared upon the motormeter. Officer Dempsey removed the car to police headquarters and it was stored in the Central Garage.

On Monday morning the Winchester police were able to learn through the co-operation of the Board of Automobile Underwriters that the machine was the property of Beatrice Ansin of 333 Washington street, Boston, and had been stolen from in front of a restaurant at Coolidge corner, Brookline on the 16th of last June. The Fidelity Insurance Company at once put in a claim for the car in lieu of $1450 theft insurance which it claimed to have paid on the car. Several theories were rife at local headquarters concerning the machine, one linking it with the murder in the Fells, and the other connecting it with the nefarious practice of rumrunning, with the odds favoring the latter idea.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY

While it generally is considered poor form to sound the trumpet in self praise there are times when it may be excusable to indulge in a faint toot or two.

We are often asked by would-be advertisers concerning the results which they might reasonably expect from their advertising in the Star.

Last week we were pleased to have two advertisers voluntarily inform us that they disposed of the articles which they advertised for sale in our columns on the very evening of the day the ads appeared. Not only did they sell the particular thing which they marked for disposal, but they reported that they could have gotten rid of several more of the same had they but had them to offer. One had 12 phone calls, the other, 15.

In addition we were able to return to its owner by mid-afternoon an article advertised as lost last Friday morning. We appreciate knowing when we have been of service to our advertisers.

NEWMAN TRAVELTALK — 17th season in Boston, first visit to Winchester. "London, England, Scotland." Saturday evening, Dec. 19. Tickets 75c, $1, $1.50 (plus tax), Star office.

Mr. George F. Arnold, well known local florist, notified the Winchester police Monday morning that while he was driving his automobile on Washington street near Mt. Pleasant street his machine was run into by a young girl who was riding a bicycle. The girl was uninjured, but her wheel was badly smashed.

Last Friday in the early afternoon as Harry Dyson of 9 Bridge street was driving a Ford truck toward Woburn on North Main street and was in the act of making a left turn his machine was struck by a Hudson sedan operated by John B. Welch of 15 Prentis street, Cambridge. Both machines were damaged by the collision.

A NOTABLE SUNDAY IN THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The following from the pen of Rev. S. Winchester Adriance reached us too late for publication last week.—"Ed."

Sunday, Nov. 1, was a day long to be remembered by the people of the First Congregational Church of Winchester. A throng of worshippers that completely filled the auditorium at both morning and afternoon services inspired not only the pastor but every one in the audience. The organist, Mr. G. Wallace Woodworth rendered as an organ prelude Widor's Choral, and the large vested choir entered singing as the Processional the fine hymn "Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart." They rendered also, after the invocation Mendelssohn's "How Lovely Are the Messengers" from the oratorio of St. Paul. The Communion address by Dr. Chidley was on "Love's Last Appeal," preceding which the new members were formaly received into the church.

Following the communion hymn, "Break Thou the Bread of Life," the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed, Rev. Lisle B. Swenson and Rev. S. W. Adriance assisting the pastor in serving the Communion.

The reception of the new members brings the net membership of the church up to more than a thousand. When Dr. Chidley began his pastorate here the church had 560 members, 670 have been received into membership during these 10 fruitful years of his ministry. While reference to these 10 years of pastoral service was a large part of the note of thanksgiving in the prayers during the service, the formal observance of this period of service will occur at some later date, a committee having been chosen to make suitable preparation. But the large attendance of people, the appropriate services, the beautiful windows, the completed chancel, the vested choir, the new organ, the solemn communion service all made the occasion in itself a most fitting observance of the completion of this happy period.

In the afternoon, at 4 o'clock, with an audience the second time on that day completely filling the church, occurred the dedication service of the newly installed noble organ. Mr. William Lester Bates, organist of the Second Congregational Church, West Newton, who had rendered invaluable service to the organ committee when they were ordering the new organ, was the organist at this special service. In the organ prelude, he played the chorus "Hosannah" of Th. DuBois, the eminent Parisian organist. This chorus is founded on an old church tune in Gregorian style. The dignity of this composition was finely expressed by those principal formative stops of the organ, the Diapasons. As a Processional hymn the vested choir rendered Addison's splendid hymn of the early eighteenth century, "The Spacious Firmament on High," the music of which is arranged from Havy's oratorio.

Following the Invocation, Mr. Bates rendered Dubois' "Cantilene Nuptial," the beautiful marriage song. This selection uses for its legato melody the soft reeds of the swell and for its accompaniment the flutes of the choir organ.

Following this came the service of Dedication of the Chimes. These chimes are the gift of Mr. Charles A. Lane in memory of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Louise Lane.

Following the service of dedication, Mr. Bates rendered the "Evening Bells and Cradle Song" of Will Macfarlane. The chime motif, the lullaby hummed on the flutes, the full song on the Viol de Gamba, interrupted by the Bells, the return to the cradlesong which fades away gradually as sleep comes to the little child, make up a beautiful tone picture.

Following this selection on the organ, rendered exquisitely by Mr. Bates, came the service of Dedication of the Harp. This was the gift of Mr. Daniel Kelley and Miss Bertha Kelley in memory of Mrs. Daniel Kelley, long a beloved member of the church. The nuptial song of Rudolf Frinic, made possible the effective use of the Harp of the organ as an accompaniment to the melody sung on the Unda Maris of the choir organ.

The Dedicatory Service which followed was fittingly carried out by the responsive reading by preacher and people of the 150th Psalm.

The Dedicatory Prayer followed, after which the organist rendered the Suite Gothique by Leon Boellman This was comnosed of four parts, an introductory chorale, with crashing chords on the great organ, alternating with responses on the Swell organ. The second part was the sprightly Menuet Gothique, followed, as a third part, by a beautiful, quiet prayer, the Priere a Notre Dame, and closing with the Toccata which brought out the work of the pedal organ until the entire resources of the organ are brought into play.

In the Recessional Hymn, the choir rendered Dr. Henry Alford's fine lines, beginning "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand" to the stirring tune written by the composer Dykes. The organ postlude was Albert Renaud's Grand Chorus in D, bringing out again all the resources of the organ.

The beautiful organ case was the gift of Mrs. Amelia H. Pond in memory of her husband, Handel Pond.

Altogether, this service will be remembered as one of the notable events in the history of the First Congregational Church of Winchester.

The entire exercises of the day were a fitting observance to mark the 10 years of Dr. Chidley's happy and successful pastorate, and due praise should be given to the accomplished organist of the church, Mr. G. Wallace Woodworth, whose advice and assistance have counted so much.

ARLINGTON OUTCLASSES WINCHESTER

Locals Minus Two Stars Make Game Fight

Arlington High School's 1925 football jaggernaut, on the way to its second Mystic Valley League championship in succession, rode over Winchester High, 27 to 0, on the Spy Pond athletic field last Saturday afternoon.

The locals never had a chance. Arlington with a big powerful and veteran eleven had been easily head and shoulders above the other outfits in the league all season, and Winchester with "Hennie" Knowlton and "Charlie" Cassidy on the sidelines with injuries could hope for nothing better than to hold its opponents to a low score.

While the figures returned would lead one to suppose that Coach Mansfield's boys were badly outclassed such was not the case. Winchester gave its stronger opponent a hard rub especially throughout the first half which ended with the score 6 to 0 in favor of the Spy Pond lads. Only one of Arlington's four touchdowns came as a result of its own offensive strength. One of the remaining three was scored as the result of a blocked punt and the other two from intercepted forward passes, simply cases where the breaks went to the stronger club.

We don't mean to claim that Arlington was lucky to win or anything like that. There never was any doubt as to the outcome of the battle last Saturday, but Winchester hardly deserved to lose 27 to 0 on the stubborn defense which it showed against its opponents' much vaunted running game. Coach Henricus' lads had very little success in their attempt to plug the local's rushline, most of their worthwhile gains coming on sweeping end rushes by Canty, their sterling left halfback. This same Mr. Canty was a very busy boy throughout the afternoon, being called on nearly every other rush to advance the ball. Winchester gained more yardage through the line than did Arlington, Simonds and Prue doing some very effective plunging. Had Knowlton and Cassidy been in shape to give their best, it is entirely within the bounds of reason that the locals might have put over a tally, and it is sure that the punting of the former would have made Arlington's chances to threaten much harder to obtain.,

Winchester kicked off, and the Arlington offensive was held at bay during the entire first period by the stonewall defense of the Winchester line. Toward the end of the second quarter Arlington received a kick on its own 45-yard line and rushed to midfield where it was forced to kick. Fitzgerald received on Winchester's 30-yard line and here the locals launched an offense which made its supporters have visions of a score. With Simonds and Prue ripping into the Arlington line Winchester plugged along steadily to its opponents 34-yard stripe, and there was no sign of a let-down when an unfortunate fumble gave Arlington the ball. Thus far the locals had looked much more like champions than the Spy Pond outfit, but right here the latter's offense started functioning in real earnest and the ball was rushed down the field to the Winchester goal line, Sumner going over for the score. The try at goal failed, and the half ended soon after.

The third quarter saw Coach Henricus' boys adding 14 big points to their total. The period was not very far along when Stoker, Arlington's right halfback, intercepted a Winchester forward pass on the local's 35-yard line and galloped for a score. Sumner kicked the goal. Near the end of the period Winchester was forced to punt from the shadow of its goal, and for once the Arlington forwards were able to break through to block Prue's kick. Donahue falling on the ball for Arlington and a touchdown. Again Sumner added the extra point.

The last tally came well toward the end of the game when another Winchester forward was intercepted near midfield by an Arlington player who raced to the local's five-yard line before being downed. From this point it was easy for Canty to get across for the final touchdown, and once more Sumner kicked the goal.

In the second period of the game Riley, Arlington's right guard suffered a broken shoulder and had to be removed to the Symmes Hospital.

1925—The Price Reduction Year

NINETEEN Twenty Five will go down in motor car history as the price reduction year.

Packard set the pace on the very first day of the new year and has since had some forty followers.

However, no one has equaled the mark set by the leader in reducing prices nearly twenty five per cent and at the same time retaining original models with important improvements.

For example, the Packard Six Five Passenger Sedan was reduced $790—actually $954.68 considering added equipment and saving in war tax.

WINCHESTER HIGH IN POST SEASON CLASH WITH STONEHAM

Winchester High School's football team, flushed with its 13 to 0 victory over Woburn last Saturday, will lengthen its schedule to include a post season game with Stoneham High on Manchester Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. An attempt had been made to hook up the locals for an intersectional contest with Lawrence High of Long Island, N. Y., but as this plan failed to materialize, Coach Mansfield was glad to sign Stoneham for a return game in Winchester. The popular local mentor has never felt satisfied with the 12 to 6 reverse which his charges were handed in the hockey town earlier in the season while the boys themselves have been fairly spoiling for a chance to prove that Stoneham has no particular license to call itself their master. On the basis of what Winchester showed against Woburn it should take the boys from up north, as the local team is traveling on high right now. It will probably take the field as it did last Saturday with Captain Robinson, O'Donnell, Cassidy, Hight, Harriman, Walker and McCauley on the rushline, and Fitzgerald, Simonds, Knowlton and Halwartz in the backfield.

MISS DON DERO VISITING IN WINCHESTER

Miss Rosina Don Dero of Willimantic, Conn. and Hillsboro, N. H., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Loftus of Rangeley.

Miss Don Dero has recently added to her laurels, as an artist by restoring and decorating the walls of the Governor Pierce House of Hillsboro, N. H. This house, which was the home of Governor Benjamin Pierce and his son Franklin Pierce, 14th President of the United States, is rich in historical associations of Revolutionary days. It has been restored, as faithfully as possible, to its original condition, and has been presented to the State of New Hampshire by Capt. Hayward Kendall of Cleveland as a memorial to his parents.

In tearing off the old paper from the walls, stenciled designs were discovered. It then became manifest that to restore these stencils and refinish the walls, as they were a century ago, would be the correct procedure. Miss Don Dero, who has a summer home at Hillsboro, fortunately was at hand and accepted this difficult task.

She secured information from some very old residents that ordinary paint was not used for this work in those days, but the ground pigment in the desired color was mixed with sour milk. This old formula was used, both for the flat color on the walls and the different colored stenciling. The effect was unique.

Miss Don Dero was also commissioned to copy the portrait of Benjamin Pierce which hangs in the Redwood Library at Newport, R. I. This portrait is now finished and will hang in the original space provided for it in the drawing room of the Pierce mansion. A picture of this room showing the original "Bay of Naples" landscape wall paper appeared in the September issue of "House Beautiful."

Miss Lillian Hardy, clerk of the Board of Assessors began her annual vacation on Monday of this week.

THE COMING ENTERTAINMENT

"London with rambles through England and Scotland" is the alluring title of the Traveltalk E. M. Newman will give at the Town Hall on Dec. 19, under the auspices of the Winchester Teachers' Club.

Mr. Newman tarried long enough in London to find out its more hidden resources and photographed the great metropolis from every angle. In motion picture and colored view you will visit the slums, the foreign quarters where live Italians, Greeks, Russians, Asiatics, Chinese, Jews, Negroes. Many out-of-the-way nooks and corners unknown to the average tourist will be brought before you. The landmarks of Dickens and Thackeray—the grave of Milton—the home of Cromwell—Smithfield with its costers—Petticoat Lane—Westminster Abbey—St. Paul's—the Tower and innumerable historical places. Views of the Wembly exhibition make a veritable trip "around the world in London."

The ramble through England and Scotland leads to many spots of absorbing interest including Canterbury, Warwick, Stratford and the Shakespeare country, Oxford, Gloucester, Chester, the Lake Country, Sulgrave, the ancestral home of George Washington. The Trossachs, Scotland's most beautiful section is included in this journey, with visits to the homes of Burns and Scott.

DOK-EISENBOURG TO PLAY IN MELROSE

Dok-Eisenbourg, one of the best known musicians of the country, has been secured by T-4 Fraternity of Melrose to conduct his orchestra at the "Autumn Dansant" to be held Friday evening, Nov. 27.

Dok-Eisenbourg is a native of Austria and was brought to this country by his parents when he was four years old. He was educated in the Boston schools, graduating from English High School and from Technology, where he completed a course of studies in biology, chemistry and public health. He also attended the graduate school at Harvard and when this country entered the World War, the young man at that time studying medicine, enlisted and was sent to Camp Kearney in San Diego, Cal.

From his early youth Eisenbourg displayed a marked inclination for music, despite the fact that his parents intended he should become a doctor. His first musical engagement took place at the age of 16 as a member of a boy's band. At the close of the great conflict Eisenbourg took charge of the music at the Shepard Colonial restaurant of Boston. From here he went to the Terrace Garden, followed by his long engagement at T. D. Cook's Russian Amber Room. During the past summer he has had a sensationally successful season at the New Ocean House, Swampscott. Mr. Eisenbourg is also well known to radio fans throughout the country and has been for a long time one of the best-liked and strongest attractions of the Edison station WEEI.

Mrs. Paul D. Ponier entertained for her daughter, Miss Cynthia Poinier, with a small luncheon at their home on Calumet road last week Wednesday.

BIG CROWD

Edward Haggerty, Year-Old Triplet, Won Hope Chest

The Hope Chest was won by a year-old boy, Edward Haggerty, one of triplets, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Haggerty of Lockwan street. Evidently his friend who purchased the ticket on his behalf "did better than he knew," for the fine chest with its abundant and beautiful fittings will undoubtedly prove a welcome shower to his family, and as it must be used before the next 20 years are up, Edward will probably share his good fortune with his family.

For the second time within a week the Town Hall was taxed to its capacity, the event being the fourth annual Charity Ball of the Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E.

The Elks' Ball has come to be considered one of the events of the fall social season, and last night's party proved no exception to the general rule. There was the usual large attendance intent not alone in enjoying the good time which the ball provided but in showing their appreciation of the splendid charitable work which the lodge has done since its inception in town.

Every available seat was taken for the concert program which opened the evening's festivities and which was in sole charge of George H. Lochman, E. L. K. A splendid bill was provided by the Pietro Mordelia Trio, composed of Pietro, famous accordion player, Jane Golding, violinist and soprano, and Christine Wismer, pianist ably assisted by Jimmy Gallagher of radio fame who appeared in songs and chatter.

At the conclusion of the concert program the hall was cleared for one of the big events of the evening, the grand march, which was under the able direction of James P. Donaghey and Esquire Benjamin F. Cullen. Heading the column were Exalted Ruler Maurice Dinneen and Mrs. Dinneen, followed by E. L. K. Fred H. Scholl and Mrs. Scholl, E. L. K. George H. Lochman and Mrs. Lochman, E. L. K. Thomas F. Fallon and Mrs. Fallon and the other officers of the lodge. It was a pleasing spectacle, the stately moving of this long line of marchers with the gowns of the brilliantly garbed ladies contrasting sharply with the somber hued evening dress of their partners.

With the breaking up of the grand march general dancing commenced to the splendid music of the Aleppo Shriners' Dance Band. This troup of instrumental syncopators, under the personal direction of Louis A. Harlow, was billed as one of the big features of the ball and they surely lived up to their advance notices. In fact their dance tunes were so well put over that the dancers almost forgot that they were treading the warped boards of the Town Hall floor, a real proof of the band's ability.

TRYING TO FIND MISSING WOMAN

On Saturday, Nov. 7, 1925, Mrs. Magdalene E. Bousefield, of Aldrich road, Wilmington, Mass., disappeared from her home, and has not been seen or heard from since that time. She is 35 years of age, 5 feet, 4 inches tall, 160 pounds, dark wavy hair mixed with grey, brown eyes, inclined to be jovial or sad to extremes. She is left handed, writing almost entirely with her left hand, and dislikes to write with ink, preferring lead pencil whenever possible. She has a deep scar across the knuckle of her right forefinger, where a cord was severed accidentally, causing that finger to be bent quite a little. When she left home she was wearing a woolen dress that resembled khaki cloth in color and material, black pumps with one strap, light tan silk stocking, dark brown hat with gilt trimming, long light brown coat with straight trimming from the shoulder to the bottom of the coat on each side of front (coat bought in Lowell and might bear the trademark of a Lowell shop inside same), and carried a tan leather traveling bag and a black umbrella with a blue ring in the handle of same.

Her husband, Christopher J. Bousefield, is greatly worried over her disappearance, and fears that she has been the victim of an accident or severe illness. They have six children, Roy, Robert, Ernest, Florence, Magdalene and Virginia, the oldest being 16 years of age and the youngest two years of age. The missing woman's mother, Mrs. M. F. Ethier, 43 Wood street, Woburn, Mass. (telephone Woburn 0895-W), is heartbroken, and is very anxious to learn of her daughter's whereabouts.

As far as is known, Mrs. Bousefield had about $60 in cash on her person at the time she left home. She was last seen on Saturday evening, Nov. 7, in Woburn square, by Mrs. Samuel L. Adams, 27 Hawthorne street, Montvale, and at that time Mrs. Bousefield had no baggage or umbrella with her.

The missing woman's husband is almost frantic, and has done everything possible to locate his wife or secure information concerning her. The children sorely miss their mother's love and care, and the whole grief-stricken family is hoping and praying that she will return soon.

A thorough search of the hospitals and lodging houses in and around Boston has failed to produce any information concerning her, and her friends and relatives are at a loss to understand her mysterious disappearance.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Joseph S. Judge of 395 Haverhill street, Lawrence, and Mary Ellen Spillane of 336 Main street.

DEATH OF MRS. MYRA I. HIGGINS

The Town Loses a Beloved and Devoted Citizen

After several months of failing health, Mrs. Myra Inman Higgins, wife of Alfred S. Higgins, passed away at her home, 68 Church street, Monday morning. In her death the parish of the Church of the Epiphany lost one of its most beloved members and the town one of its most devoted and active citizens, as was shown by a throng of friends who completely filled the Church of the Epiphany when funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon.

The unusual gathering was not made up by any means entirely of members of that parish. There were other citizens representing many civic and charitable activities of the town with which Mrs. Higgins had been identified and in which she had been deeply interested.

Preceding the services at the church, there was a very brief and simple service for the family at the home on 68 Church street, which was conducted by Rev. Angus P. Dun, a member of the faculty of the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge.

The services in the church were conducted by Rev. Mr. Dun, who was assisted by Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the church; Rev. William S. Packer of Winchester, and Rev. Murray W. Dewart, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Baltimore and former rector of the Church of the Epiphany.

Under the direction of Organist J. Albert Wilson of the church the boys' vested choir of 30 voices sang these favorite hymns of Mrs. Higgins: "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand," "Fight the Good Fight," "Come, My Soul," and "For All the Saints." The vestrymen of the church of which Mr. Higgins is senior warden, acted as ushers.

Eight young men, fellow classmates of Mrs. Higgins' two sons, John and Richard, were the pallbearers. During their college years at Harvard and since then they had many times been guests at the home of Mrs. Higgins on Church street. These pallbearers were: Myles P. Baker of Cambridge, Bernard S. Cogan of Stoneham, C. Rodgers Burgin of Quincy, Frank W. Crocker of Boston, Robert E. Langdon of Providence, Burnham Lewis of Weston, Francis W. Willett of Norwood and Edward Wait of Winchester.

A profusion of beautiful floral remembrances from church and town organizations besides others from innumerable friends were grouped at the chancel rail.

Mrs. Higgins was born in Dorchester, 62 years ago. She was educated in the Boston Normal School, where later she was an instructor of high rank and unusual talents. She was Married to Mr. Alfred S. Higgins 29 years ago, and since that time they had lived in Winchester.

In all those years she had been one of the most active and earnest workers in the parish of the Epiphany. For 10 years she was superintendent of the church school and then for years afterwards supervisor of instruction in the church school.

She was actively identified with the Women's Guild and the Service League of the church. Besides all the demands that these organizations made on her time she still found more for work in local charities and philanthropies.

One of her absorbing interests in Winchester was the work of the Mothers' Association. Perhaps her greatest civic work was what she did as a member of the special citizens' committee of the town which made a survey of the schools and school building accommodations a few years ago. On that committee she was a tireless and devoted worker, giving her time without reservation that the plan of schoolhouse reconstruction might be for the town's lasting good. As is well known, the deliberations of that committee resulted in four beautiful new schoolhouses that were built to replace the wooden structures that the town had outgrown.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Higgins leaves two sons, John S. Higgins, now of Providence, and Richard R. Higgins of Winchester, and two sisters, Mrs. Carlton P. Mills of Lexington and Mrs. Albert G. Morse of Jamaica Plain.

CHRISTMAS TUBERCULOSIS SEALS

Thanksgiving time will bring to the Winchester household the Christmas Tuberculosis Seals. It is impossible to tell, in detail, all the good that is done with the money received from the sale of these seals.

The town is so carefully watched for cases of tuberculosis and the help needed given so promptly, the townspeople can hardly realize the extent of the work that is being so quietly carried on. Each family with active tuberculosis cases in its household would be a serious menace to the community were it not possible to give the required help to all persons in immediate danger from the infection.

The greater part of our work is in the building up of the children and in keeping them under constant observation. We have fine healthy children in our schools now whom it has taken years of care to make strong and well.

We are giving this same constant care to other little people now.

Buying Tuberculosis Seals will not only make it possible for us in time to stamp out tuberculosis but will until that happy time comes help us to safeguard not only the homes where it is actively present but our own homes as well.

BISHOP WILLIAM F. O'HARE VISITS WINCHESTER

Tuesday afternoon marked a significant occasion in the splendid work of St. Dominic's Circle when a great honor was conferred on the little group in having as its guest the Rt. Rev. William F. O'Hare, S. J., Bishop of Jamaica, B. W. I.

Bishop O'Hare, who has been in the Boston diocese since his return from Rome in June, was kind enough to spend with the Circle an hour from his busy program.

The material aid which the Winchester group of ladies has been able to render the Jesuit mission in Jamaica has won much recognition among the devoted workers in that far-off field.

Mrs. Ella Fleming, president of the Circle, and Mrs. Alice L. Martin, vice-president and treasurer, were largely responsible for the success of the reception, and to Miss Mary Richards, noted for her fine interest in the Jesuit cause, thanks are due for her kindness in giving her automobile to convey the Rev. Bishop from and to the Immaculate Conception parsonage in Boston.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. McDonald, whose turn it was to act as hostess, introduced the Bishop, after giving a short history of the work of the Circle during its two years' existence. His Eminence gave a most enlightening resume of his work in Jamaica where he has been stationed for 20 years, the last six years as Bishop. His account of the earthquake in 1910 was especially interesting as was also the detailed account of the educational work accomplished by the Priests and Sisters in the missions. Henry J. Martin of Pickering street, Winchester, is a teacher in the college for boys at Kingston, the capitol of Jamaica.

This wonderfully inspiring talk made all present resolve to do even better missionary work during the coming year and thus prove worthy of the good things said about the Circle by the Bishop.

After the departure of his Eminence, whist and a social hour were enjoyed by the members and their friends, Miss Marion Sullivan winning the first of the 30 prizes.

Mr. Harry Cox of Wedgemere avenue has installed one of the new Ferguson radio sets, said to be the finest outfit for reception on the market today. L. D. Trefry, who has installed so many fine sets in town during the past two years, put in Mr. Cox's set.

Chief of Police William R. McIntosh who has been confined to his home with illness is reported as recovering rapidly and is expected back at his desk in the local headquarters within a few days. In his absence Lieut. John Harrold has been acting chief of the department.

AN UNUSUAL EVENT

The Third Annual Fisherman Sunday will be Nov. 22 (next Sunday) at the Congregational Church.

The subject of Dr. Chidley's discourse will be "Fisherman's Luck." Dr. Chidley knows the heart of a fisherman, he being one himself.

All will be welcome and especially those interested in fishing. There will be present in a body 35 men who go fishing every spring in Maine with Mr. Charles A. Lane.

It seems very fiting and proper that these men should get together in just this way and show their allegiance to that "Brotherhood of the Out-of-Doors."

Special sittings in the center of the church have been reserved for the men, some of whom will come from New York and Rhode Island.

The floral display will be provided by the Fishermen.

FEB. 22 THE DATE

Winchester residents will be wise in reserving the date of Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22, for one of the best entertainments of the season. At that time there is to be presented in the Winchester Town Hall a program of the highest order which will hold every attraction for young and old. The affair will be the biggest thing of its kind this town has enjoyed in many years, and it is reported will even eclipse the interest recently manifested in the fine concert given by Roland Hayes when the preliminary announcement of its nature and the artists appearing is made. Be sure to reserve the evening of Washington's Birthday for one of the most enjoyable times of the winter.

Friends of Mr. Wallace L. Dow, who has been identified with the real estate business in town for several years past, and more recently known through his association with the Edward T. Harrington Company, will be grieved to learn that he was obliged to have one of his legs amputated this week. Mr. Dow has not been in good health this fall and he was advised to undergo an operation. A week ago he went to his home at Hardwick, Vt., where two of his toes were amputated. Following this operation gangrene set in and it became necessary to remove the leg below the knee. He is reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

AUSPICES INTER-CHURCH COUNCIL FORUM

First Congregational Church Program Direction—Winchester League of Women Voters

Address, Capt. Thomas G. Chamberlain, U. S. A. Assisted by Elizabeth Mazur, Soprano, Nov. 29 at 7 p. m.

Capt. Thomas G. Chamberlain of the United States Army, a soldier fighting at the front during the World War, will address the Forum of Allied Churches of Winchester at the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening, Nov. 29 at 7 o'clock, upon the subject of Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes.

Elizabeth Mazur, Mezzo Soprano, assisting Capt. Chamberlain, is the soprano soloist of Temple Israel, Boston. She will sing "How Amiable are Thy Tabernacles" by William Schroeder and "Ani-Hadal" by L. Sammisky.

CHARMING TEA ON FRIDAY THE THIRTEENTH

Friday the 13th failed in any way to interfere with a charming tea and reception which was given on that date at the home of Mrs. H. A. Goddard, 12 Walcott road, by Mrs. Goddard and Mrs. Edward A. Tucker in honor of Mrs. Wendell M. Weston who has recently returned to make her home in Winchester.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with an abundance of cut flowers including Chrysanthemums, roses and pinks.

Those pouring and assisting were Mrs. C. A. Merrill, Mrs. R. L. Palmer, Mrs. Harold Gale, Miss Elizabeth Downs, Mrs. W. E. Schrafft, Mrs. Herbert Cox, Mrs. Frank Higgins, Mrs. Arthur Lombard, Mrs. W. E. Edlefson, Mrs. J. Churchill Hindes and the Misses Barbara Goddard, Betty Tucker and Betty Sawyer.

William Howard Taft, Ex-President of the United States says of Capt. Thomas G. Chamberlain who will be heard at the Forum to be held under the auspices of the Inter-Church Council at the First Congregational Church on Sunday evening, Nov. 29 at 7 o'clock upon the subject of Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes, "Capt. Chamberlain is a young man of thorough training, of high intelligence, of fine character, a sincere patriot, whose lips have been touched with the gift of eloquence."

"ADAM AND EVA"

The Fall activities of Fr. Fitzgibbons' several organizations of girls and boys, ranging in years from 13 to 23, of St. Mary's Parish, have seen varied and successful.

It is the belief of all, however, that the three act comedy, "Adam and Eva," to be presented Thanksgiving Eve next, by the Dramatic Circle, will surpass any of the recent activities. The 20 young ladies and young men who have pleased all by their stage presence and ability in "The Morning After", "The Time of His Life", and "Thirty Days" are again ready to make "Adam and Eva" under the direction of the Dramatic coach, Mr. Harrold, one that will bring pleasant memories in the years that are to come.

Tom Dolan, Norman Harrold, Vincent Ambrose, together with John Dolan, John Cassidy and John Murphy comprise the male portion of the "dramatis personae" for the show and Hazel McKenzie, Ruth McLaughlin, Barbara Carroll and Winifred Vayo essay the female characters in the extremely amusing production. The Circle regret the inability through illness and football activities of such capable and favorite thespians as Bernard Cullen, Mary A. Boyle, John Davy, Frank McCaulley, Harold Johnson and Joe Callahan from appearance in the cast next Wednesday, yet admirable substitutes have been unearthed and everything points to a high-class performance.

A treat in store for the audience will be the Mandolin Circle which by its musical numbers and execution under Thomas Gigliotti is gaining renown beyond the confines of Winchester. Mr. Gigliotti has composed a specially directed selection which will be heard for the first time between the acts. Other numbers include "At Dawning", "Whispering Leaves", "Mache Nuptiole", "Sometime", "Yes Sir! That's My Baby" and "Brown Eyes, Why are You Blue." Music and fun that will satisfy everyone are the orders of Fr. Fitzgibbons for next Wednesday night at the Town Hall and every boy and girl vitally interested has assured their Director that they will do their utmost to live up to his requirements.

The Fidelis Club members in attractive costumes will act as ushers and hope to have all seated by 8 o'clock sharp as the curtain will rise promptly at the appointed time.

Winchester football fans are glad to note that Myles Lane, halfback on the undefeated Dartmouth eleven is running a close second to "Eddie" Tryon of Colgate for individual scoring honors for the season. Big Myles has amassed 102 points for the season having scored 17 touchdowns for the "Big Green." Tryon leads the Melrose lad by one point. Lane will be remembered as the fleet left fielder on the last two ball clubs fostered by the local Legion Post.

LAST WEEK END BUSY TIME FOR FIREMEN

Members of the Winchester Fire Department had anything but a peaceful time over the past week end, responding to eight calls to put out fires in various parts of the town between 9.15 Friday evening and 7.08 p. m. Sunday.

Activities started with a telephone call at 9.15 p. m. Friday for a fire on the dump at Wedge Pond road, while at 11.47 the same night Box 521 was pulled in for the fatal fire in a manhole at the junction of Everett avenue and Sheffield road caused by the explosion of a gas main. This latter blaze gave the firemen a hard fight which lasted until 2 o'clock Saturday morning, Hose 3 and Ladder 1, Engine 1 and the Chief's car being in attendance.

Five minutes after the last named was subdued the department was aroused by an alarm from Box 23 for a fire discovered by officer John Regan in the basement of Locke's Pharmacy on Main street at the Aberjona River. The fire was apparently caused by rubbish igniting from being piled too near the heater, and the chief damage was that done by smoke.

Somewhat of a respite was granted the firemen during the remainder of Saturday but four minutes after midnight Sunday morning Box 55 sounded for a fire at the residence of Mr. Thomas Dreier on Curtis circle. The blaze which started in the cellar, apparently from an overheated oil burner, did considerable damage, charring some of the cellar timbers badly and necessitating the cutting through the boarding in one place on the first floor. Extensive damage was done throughout the house by the heavy smoke.

At 6:38 Sunday morning two alarms from Box 35 called the department to a fire in the top story of the old Chapin School building on Swanton street now owned by Ralph P. Sylvester. The chief damage was done to the roof of the building, several timbers being charred and a hole burned through at one point. Two and one half hours elapsed while the men were fighting this blaze which from the outside appeared anything but serious.

Two calls came during the afternoon of the Sabbath, the first a telephone which was answered by the Chief's car for a fire in an out-of-town automobile at the junction of Bacon street and Ravenscroft road caused by a short circuit, and the second an alarm from Box 31 pulled in when someone set fire to an awning at the meat market on Washington street near Swanton street, apparently by throwing a lighted cigarette upon the canvas.

The last run of a busy three days came at 7:08 Sunday evening in response to an alarm from Box 44 for a grass fire along the open bank on Hemingway street.

GOOD HUNTING

Fireman Harry Brown returned to duty at the Central Station Monday after a two weeks' vacation. He is looking fit and reports a great time, part of which was spent at Hyannis on the Cape where he indulged in a little duck shooting, bagging 72 birds.

We noted Harry Hegel and Franklin Miner in town over the week-end. The former i sat Bowdoin where he has been a member of the freshman eleven. Miner is attending Middlebury.

Radio Maps—35c, 50c at Wilson's.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Fred Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mafera of 29 Cross street was bitten by a dog belonging in the same neighborhood last Friday. The boy was attended by Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne and the police were notified of the incident.

It is expected that Roger Sherman of this town will be back at his halfback position for Norwich in its Vermont title football game with University of Vermont next Saturday. "Ty" has been out of the going with a bad leg injury for the past five weeks. The local boy is one of the Cadets' most effective backs.

Mr. John Park has returned to his home on Maple road after a trip to Scotland.

WINCHESTER WINS FINAL GAME

Defeats Woburn 13—0 Before Big Crowd on Manchester Field

Showing its best football of the season Winchester High School's eleven defeated Woburn in the final game of its 1925 schedule last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field by the score of 13—0. The score does not entirely tell the story for Coach Mansfield's boys were easily three touchdowns better than their opponents who, except for a short time at the start of the game, were clearly outplayed.

Winchester showed the same stubborn defense which characterized its work against Arlington and against which the Woburn running game was able to make but scant headway. In addition to a defense which refused to crack the locals uncorked an offense last Saturday which looked very very good, especially in the second and third quarters when it had the Woburn lads all but demoralized.

The Orange and Black was a bigger team than Winchester but its sturdier players were outplayed by the locals who were much the better coached outfit. Woburn had little in the way of an offense to offer, and the game individual efforts of its backs went for naught against the hard charging Red and Black forwards. After the first quarter it was seldom that a visiting back was able to get as far as the Winchester secondaries while two of its few attempted forward passes were intercepted.

Coach Mansfield's boys in the main last Saturday played smart football, and showed ability to take advantage of their opportunities. The same sort of play against Lexington, Stoneham and Watertown would have returned them victors with something to spare. .

As usual Winchester was outplayed during the opening quarter, the tanners keeping the ball on the locals' side of midfield throughout. Woburn did not actually threaten the home team's goal line but it had a clean advantage, its backs breaking through with great regularity only to be thrown by the local secondaries. "Jim" Halwartz especially played a strong defensive game during the first period until he was forced out with injuries, getting almost every other tackle.

The locals might have tallied in the second quarter, had they continued to drive ahead instead of spending their time in joint debate as to the ways and means to be employed. This has been a characteristic of the team all season and it proved disasterous against Woburn. Toward the end of the period Winchester came into possession of the ball well within their own territory and started a drive for the opposing goal line which was a corker. With "Nicky" Fitzgerald driving the team at top speed and showing a bewildering array of shift plays employing some pretty delayed passing which had the Woburn forwards completely bewildered, Winchester drove along. Why it was necessary to stop and talk things over after every other rush we cannot say, but Winchester was losing plenty of precious time in this way, and after warning the boys several times the referee penalized the locals with the gall on Woburn's 12 yard line and their offense, which was averaging better than five yards a rush, was stopped with the goal in sight. On the first rush after the penalty Winchester, noticeably over anxious, fumbled and lost the ball. The period ended soon after and a perfectly good touchdown had gone where the well known woodbine twineth.

The third quarter, however, found Winchester crashing through, and this time there was no slip-up. Knowlton kicked off and Woburn, unable to make any yardage, lost the ball just beyond midfield. Here Winchester started and employing the same tactics which had been successful before started up the field. First Knowlton and then Prue would rip into the sagging Woburn line with either Simonds or Rolli furnishing the extra distance to make up the first down. Right to the three yard strip the boys slashed along and from this point "Hennie" Knowlton catapaulted himself off left tackle for the touchdown. Robinson, dispite a poor pass, added the point for goal.

The locals were now rarin' to go and Knowlton again kicked off. Woburn couldn't seem to get going and after its number three back had been smeared for a ten yard loss by "Spike" O'Donnell (who always goes great guns against the tanners), punted, "Ronie" Simonds running the ball back to the Orange and Black 40 yard line. "Rough" Haley, who had gone in for Prue, and Knowlton, in two rushes took the leather to the 20 yard line. Haley broke loose again to the 12 yard mark and "Hennie" got as far as the five yard strip before he was stopped. "Ronie" Simonds crashed through center to the one yard line as the period ended and after the teams had changed goals, Haley knifed off tackle for the score. The try at goal failed.

Winchester again kicked off and after a couple of ineffective rushes Haley intercepted a Woburn pass at midfield, following which "Wop" Rolli ran to the tanners' 35 yard line. Here Winchester was penalized and on the next play a fumble was recovered by a Woburn player who started up the field for the Winchester goal with "Ronie" Simonds in hot pursuit. Simonds brought the fleeing runner to earth with a nice tackle inside the five yard line but the Woburn lad's momentum carried him across the line. The Woburn sympathizers were in an uproar, but their cheers quickly changed to boos when the ball was brought back, the referee's whistle having blown to end play before the ball had been recovered by their player. Winchester was penalized for holding, but Woburn, failing to gain, was forced to kick and Rolli ran the ball back to its 40 yard line. It was the longest individual run of the game, but it failed to help as the ball was brought back and Winchester penalized half the distance to its goal line for clipping. This brought the ball the nearest it had been to the locals' goal line all afternoon, but it was destined to go nearer still when after a couple of rushes McCarthy was detected using his hands illegally, resulting in another half-the-distance penalty.

Standing behind his own goal line Prue got away a short punt in spite of a poor pass which carried to the 25 yard line. It was a great chance for Woburn, but its tired players were not equal to the opportunity and Winchester took the ball on downs on its 20 yard stripe. Here Prue punted to midfield where Winchester recovered the ball as the game ended.

CALUMET TOURNAMENT

Berry Takes Two Records in Bowling Contest

Excellent bowling marked the week's matches in the house tournament at the Calumet Club. Monday evening saw straight wins made by three teams—19, 3 and 1. Teams 16, 4 and 14 were the losers. Team 1, by the phenominal rolling of Marshall Berry, piled up a total of 1694, its best single being 588. Berry was the star of the evening, his string of 171 and his total of 388 being records which will be hard to beat. In fact they are both very liable to stand for the season. His big string was as follows:

X	sp	X	9	X	sp	X	2st	3st	28
10	26	36	45	55	73	83	113	143	171

Other good scores were made, notably Higgins' 366 with a single of 144. Among the high bowlers were the following:

Development of Art

The development of art as it is carried on by individual artists opens always a field of interest to both observer and creator. It is such development that creates tendencies in art, carries on traditions and makes schools of art—using the term "school" in its broadest sense.—Arline De Haas, in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

First Artificial Ice

There is some dispute as to who first made ice by chemical and mechanical means. Prof. A. C. Twining, of New Haven, Conn., was one of the first prominent inventors in this line, but others had made artificial ice before. Artificial ice did not become a commercial success until about 1880.

When Pussy Sings

According to an authority on cats, these animals alone share the distinction with men and birds of being able to sing. Their purr is a primitive kind of song, produced in much the same way as a human being sings. Further, the vocal chords of a cat are more like those of man than are the vocal chords of any other animal.

MELROSE GIRLS WIN TITLE ON MANCHESTER FIELD

The Melrose and Arlington girls' field hockey teams played for the championship of the interscholastic league last Monday afternoon on Manchester Field before a large crowd. The Melrose girls, winners of the northern division title, defeated their southern division rivals 3—0, outclassing the Arlington lassies throughout. The same teams were finalists a year ago and a tie game resulted, this years' battle giving each team with the half point already won a pinto and a half toward the five necessary for permanent possession of the Durrell cup.

Smoke Dust Valuable

Smoke dust that collects in and clogs up chimneys will likely be utilized commercially in the near future, according to Prof. A. G. Christie of Johns Hopkins university. As a filler for the paint, a base for some building material or as a fertilizer, the prospects are encouraging on a commercial scale.

Vocabulary Less Voluble

An adjective doesn't sound old and threadbare to the man in whose complimentary write-ups it appears.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"You can do it Better with GAS"

Very low flame, for slow boiling. Most gas ranges have a special simmering burner that uses very little gas.

The gas range permits any number of degrees of "medium heat." This is the flame most generally used in cooking.

A hot fire when you need it—always ready, no waiting. Not even a match to scratch!

GAS HEAT is more easily regulated

You can cook slowly over a low fire more easily on a gas range than on any other kind of stove. There's no danger of turning the wick too low—bothersome wicks don't exist in the gas range. There's no waiting for the fire to die down—just turn the cock and the fire is low. Then if you want to speed cooking, the turn of the cock each fraction of an inch gives you another degree of heat. Especially in cooking. "You can do it better with Gas."

SENSATIONAL PRICE REDUCTIONS ON 1926 CHANDLER

Striking New Models Announced

The new 1926 Chandler models announced today embody a notable development in closed car body types, far reaching chassis improvements and sensational price reductions on all models.

A handsome new full-sized four door sedan, appropriately, because of its progressive type, named the Twentieth Century Sedan, and listing at $1490, is the feature car.

The Chandler Company has always believed that despite the extraordinary vogue of the coach, based on a price appeal, the closed car which should finally satisfy the most critical demands would embody a four-door construction.

How to incorporate these expensive features and yet get below coach price constituted a problem which called for exceptional designing and manufacturing skill.

The new Twentieth Century Sedan represents the working out of all these policies.

It was the general impression that the new line of bodies, led by the Twentieth Century Sedan at $1490, constitutes the greatest achievement by the Chandler Company since its $1295 touring electrified the industry in 1916.

The Twentieth Century Sedan is finished in durable Duco, and is colored a deep lustrous black for the upper deck, with dustproof, conservatively rich Buckingham gray below. A three-quarter-inch bead goes around the body and hood. A very fine grade of genuine broadcloth is used in trimming throughout. Standard equipment includes full size 33x6 balloon tires, the V. V. one-piece clear vision windshield with windshield wiper, rear vision mirror, and a convenient smoking set in the rear compartment.

The new instrument board, shown for the first time, is a beauty. The various instruments, including a large gasoline gauge, are arranged in perfect symmetry around a center line on the walnut finished panel.

It is illuminated ideally, combining all the advantages of indirect lighting, yet fully and completely illuminating the front compartment.

The position of the driver's seat sets a new comfort standard. Throughout the entire car there is an unusual amount of head clearance both front and rear, though the body is swung extremely low. Glasses on all the doors may be completely lowered and the rear windows may also be lowered.

Other fine closed cars are the two-door five-passenger Brougham, at $1695, finished in Sage-Brush Green Duco, and trimmed in high grade mohair the popular Metropolitan Sedan de Luxe, at $1795, in two-tone Brown Duco, upholstered in high quality mohair, and the greatly enlarged aristocratic Seven-Passenger Sedan at $1895, finished in a conservative Dark Blue Duco, with its trimming in a high quality mohair fabric.

The open cars include the dashing Comrade Roadster in Blue and Buff Duco, at $1695, trimmed in dark gray Spanish leather ,with a roomy rumble seat in the rear deck fo rextra passengers; a five-passenger Sport Touring in Gray-Green Duco at $1495; and a seven-passenger Touring at $1595, also finished in Gray-Green Duco. Both touring cars are upholstered in black long grained, genuine leather.

All the new 1926 models continue the distinctively striking three-paneled nickled radiator shell, patterned after the latest trend in European practice, which was recently adopted by the Chandler Company.

This average speed of 86.9 miles per hour, for such a distance, is a record.

Attention is particularly directed by Mr. Walter H. Dotten, the local Chandler dealer, to the Chandler system of four-wheel brakes. "The action is remarkably smooth at all times, regardless of the amount of pressure. They do not grab on a soft application, nor chatter on a severe one. The braking operation in no way affects the steering, nor does the steering compromise the braking," declared Mr. Dotten.

"Although the Chandler chassis has been refined and improved until it ranks with the best produced by the finest motor car builders in the world, Chandler prices has now been reduced to the lowest point in the company's history," he pointed out in discussing the new models.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

A Message to Winchester From the Man of Tarsus

By Marion Hertha Clarke

In Tarsus, they called him St. Paul, because they loved him. So the world has remembered him—St. Paul of Tarsus, the man who believed in his own home town, believed in it, glorified in it and advertised it.

You recall when he was brought before the Roman judge who asked him from whence he came, St. Paul made reply, "Sir, I am a citizen of no mean town."

Now strictly speaking the town of Tarsus was only great in the hearts of her children. Tarsus had its ups and downs, its poor ,its problems and its public spirited. It wasn't any different as towns go than Winchester. But St. Paul believed in it. He knew the biggest thing that goes into making any town is the "pull-together" spirit.

A group of men and women in the town of Winchester remembering the pride Paul had in Tarsus have united in his spirit of likewise belonging to "no mean town."

As they see it the greatest good they can do for the greatest number is in maintaining the Winchester Hospital. To heal the sick in soul and in body is one of the few gifts of greatness. For a sick people can not prosper. And no one man or woman can prosper long unless the whole shall prosper.

Therefore, in maintaining a community hospital, "of the people, by the people and for the people" they are building a better town for all of us.

A loved one lies ill. Anxiety, care, grief or despair is not going to add to the health or efficiency of others moored to the same slender life-line. Yet because of the Winchester Hospital their ill may be cared for within the reach of home hands, in beautiful surroundings, with clear country air and with sanitary and highly specialized service. They may be visited daily. Instead of moving their sick long distances separated by miles and expense they are able to keep them in their own hospital. They have access to their own X-ray department. Specialists when needed from without may be brought to consult or to operate. In other words the Winchester Hospital makes possible the bringing of the Healer to your sick, instead of carrying your sick to the Healer.

In a hospital the size of Winchester Hospital, the personal touch is ever possible. To the doctors and the nurses each person is a person and a human being, rather than a number or a new case.

Suppose a sudden accident occurs on Main street. It may be a child is run over by a truck,—there is always the possibility that the child may be yours or mine. And that is your concern. Your donation to the Winchester Hospital has made possible a quick emergency and accident assistance. Through the aid of the Winchester Hospital, your hospital remember, you may have saved a limb, perhaps a life.

For only through you is the Winchester Hospital successful. We want you to feel a pride in this—your hospital and its needs. We want you as a citizen of Winchester to know that "it is no mean town." Like Paul you must believe in it and back it with your belief.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday, Nov. 23, at 2.30 o'clock in the Town Hall the regular meeting of the Fortnightly will be held. Mr. Branson DeCou will give his illustrated lecture, "Dream Pictures Around the World" with Ampico accompaniment. "Dream Pictures." Truly, that is the only way to describe them. As one looks at these masternieces of the slide makers-art, as one listens to the music that so completely synchronizes with them, one is carried away as in a dream, to relax, to think, and profoundly enjoy. Surely, Mr. DeCou has conceived a new idea in entertainment, and an idea that is not only new, but soul satisfying. In these days of rush, of the hurried movies, they bring repose and deep, peaceful, lasting enjoyment.

This is to be a public meeting, admission fee for non members.

More and more the people are becoming interested in the "American Home" and the State Federation of Women's Clubs are working to obtain credit for work done in Home Economics ecurses successfully performed by students.

The Fortnightly wishing to help in this movement of the American Home are giving a sale in the small Town Hall on Monday, Nov. 23, from 12 to 2.15 o'clock and after the Fortnightly meeting for Miss Mildred Benson, the canning expert, and a most worthy girl who is trying to earn a college education.

Miss Benson has canned over 1700 jars of different kinds of products including 69 varieties and has just won second prize at the N. E. Fruit Show, Horticultural Hall.

There will be mince meat for the Thanksgiving pies, jellies, jams, chicken, meats, vegetables, relishes, and pickles. Everything home canned and priced much lower than can be bought elsewhere. (Nothing sold during the Fortnightly meeting.)

Mrs. Charles E. Hoey reports for the Soldier and Sailor Welfare Committee—that the men in Ward B of the Veterans' Hospital at West Roxbury will be made happy this Thanksgiving when each one receives a bowl containing bulbs. This gift is made possible by the kindness of Mrs. C. H. Watkins, Mrs. J. O. DeWolf and Mr. Arnold, the florist.

The Christmas basket for the soldiers will be in the rear of the hall at the club meeting on Monday Please remember to bring your gifts for this holiday cheer.

The Second Puncture

Don't forget the "Second Puncture" Friday evening, Dec. 4, in the Town Hall. There will be dancing after the performance.

The poster contest, which has been announced, will close Monday, Nov. 23. A prize of $5 will be awarded. This is open to everyone.

The Conservation Committee of the Fortnightly have plans completed for presenting the Community Christmas Tree to the Town. On Friday, Dec. 11, in the new Fortnightly room the Committee will have a card party, the proceeds of which are to go toward the expense of lighting the Christmas Tree. It is hoped all Fortnightly members will come to the party. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Geo. H. Lochman.

Parliamentary Law Class meets Monday morning at 10 o'clock, in the Fortnightly Room. Join now. Phone the chairman, Mrs. Ashley Hayden, Win. 0864-W for further details.

Class in Lamp-shade making on Fridays, at 9.30 a. m., in the Fortnightly Room.

Join the Health walks conducted by our Conservation Committee every Friday morning at 9.30. Phone Mrs. E. M. Messenger, Win. 0121-M for particulars.

Failure and Success

Failures interest me more, generally, than success. They seem to reveal human nature more truly, and, on the whole, more encouragingly, than anything else in the world. Success encourages the worst qualities in men; failure often brings out the best. Prayer is the fear, if not the voice, of failure.—Laurence Housman.

RED CROSS FINANCES SHOW WIDE SERVICES

Past Year Cost $10,321,679.80; Duty to Ex-Service Men Paramount.

Washington.—The national and international services of the American Red Cross are portrayed graphically in a statement of the Red Cross finances for the past fiscal year ended June 30, 1925. Expenditures by the Red Cross (including both the National Organization and the Chapters) during this period aggregated $10,321,679.80.

The obligation of the American Red Cross to the ex-service and service men is represented in this sum by a total expenditure of $4,225,292.61. In the interests of disabled veterans, the Red Cross expended $3,577,916.42, of which $1,677,916.42 came from the National Organization, and $1,900,000 from the more than 3,000 Chapters and local branches of the society. Red Cross services to the men of the Regular Army and Navy the past year called for $647,376.19, of which the National Organization furnished $310,376.19, and the Chapters, $337,000.

Sharing in importance with this responsibility was the Red Cross work of disaster relief during the year. In these operations there was absorbed a total of $1,922,782.90 up to June 30, this year. This represented $1,622,782.90 of National Organization funds and $300,000 from the Chapters. Relief in foreign disasters amounted to $285,579.35. This sum was appropriated altogether by the National Organization.

Insular and foreign operations of the American Red Cross during the year included relief in foreign disasters, the League of Red Cross Societies, Junion Red Cross Foreign Projects, assistance to insular Chapters and similar functions. Besides its disaster relief, the National Organization financed these other branches of foreign work also, including $110,238.72 for assistance to insular chapters, $177,450 for the League of Red Cross Societies, $84,384.43 for Junior projects abroad, and $80,057.62 for other insular and foreign operations.

In addition to its paramount duty to assist veterans and other service men and their families, and its disaster relief, the Red Cross expended at home through its national and chapter funds, a total of $1,029,616.05 for its Public Health Nursing Service; $154,135.09 for nutrition instruction; $314,422.76 for First Aid and Life Saving; $445,707.34 for Junior Red Cross; $132,759.88 for instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick; and carried on similarly important home duties. Included in the latter were such valuable services as the Enrolled Nurses' Reserve, for which the National Organization expended $45,562.64; while other national operations at home amounted to $302,957.64. The chapters, in addition to the large part they played in all Red Cross activity, spent $678,000 of their own funds on general chapter services.

The broad humanity of the American Red Cross can never be measured by the money it costs, but even in bare terms of dollars and cents, the scope of its work is indicated. A study of these facts also shows the necessity for the largest possible enrollment, since Red Cross service is maintained almost entirely by its membership. The annual invitation to participate in this work through membership in the American Red Cross, is extended from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving, November 26.

Red Cross First Aid Popular in America As Accidents Gain

The rapidly mounting toll from traffic accidents has brought home to the public the necessity of being prepared to render prompt assistance while awaiting the doctor. During the past year 356 chapters of the American Red Cross were instructing classes in First Aid, and in the same period certificates were issued to 20,601 persons qualified by Red Cross experts.

Many cities throughout the United States are showing interest in securing first aid instruction for their police and fire department personnel, and through the work of local chapters, practical results have been obtained in such cities as Washington, D. C.; Toledo, O.; Boston, Mass.; South Bend and Indianapolis, Ind.; Port Arthur, Texas, and other communities. In co-operation with the State authorities, intensive training in first aid and rescue methods has been given to State police and constabulary members at four State training schools.

Instruction in these subjects in public and private schools, colleges and universities has increased during the year. Attention has been given to training teachers at institutes and summer schools.

The Red Cross first aid railroad car has been in continuous operation throughout the year. It covered 10,340 miles, visiting 137 cities, where 1,200 meetings were conducted by the surgeons, with a total of 146,827 people.

Industries particularly have availed themselves of the instruction afforded by the Red Cross. The Western Electric Company, for example, reports a reduction of the accident rate per 1,000 employees.

HATS AND HISTORY IN TURKEY

Hats and history are not coupled in most people's minds, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society anent the recent efforts of Turkish leaders to have the fez replaced by European types of hats, but in Turkey radical changes in types of head coverings have marked important historical developments.

When the Ottoman Turks came down out of Central Asia as rough riding plainsmen they are believed to have worn the high, soft cap of astrakhan wool known as the kalpak—a sort of little brother to the drum-major's fuzzy, towering head piece of today. The turks have shown a tendency to take their reforms by sudden spurts, holding tenaciously to the latest innovatioh between times. Before long after their arrival in Southern Asia they had gone over bodily to the turban of that region, and this remained the characteristic Turkish headgear for many centuries.

Turban Told Rank

The turban became the complex badge of rank and even profession in Turkey at the height of its power. From the snow-white turbans of the Moslem ecclesiastical dignitaries and the huge piles with distinctive stripes and shapes of the grand vizier and lesser political lights, these head coverings ranged down to the dirty cloths wound round the heads of the peasants. Every good Turk during this era had the profoundest contempt for things European and the hat was the badge of the infidel. One of the greatest insults that could be offered to a Turk who had shown too great friendliness toward "Franks" was to nail a hat to his door.

The fez, which has been associated in the minds of the last few generations with all things Turkish, came as one of the sudden Turkish reforms relatively a short time ago. Sultan Mahmoud II, who ruled during the early years of the nineteenth century, wished, like Peter the Great of Russia, to modernize his people and turn their thoughts from Asia. He decreed that his people should abandon the turban and wear the fez, doubtless influenced by the fact that the latter is at once more modish and more convenient. He coupled the fez with the introduction of the frock coat for his courtiers and the well dressed young Turk in general, and was cursed roundly by most of his people as "the infidel sultan." The use of the fez continued, however, to such good advantage that within a generation or so it was looked upon by the outside world, and no doubt by most Turks, as the distinctive age-old Turkish head covering.

Brims Interfered With Prayer

Why Mahmoud settled on the fez as the particular type of head covering to replace the turban is hard to understand. Most of his reforms looked toward Westernization. But something very like the fez was worn by the ancient Assyrians and Hittites, and it is supposed to have come down to modern times through the Byzantines and the Greeks. One thing in its favor, was its lack of a brim. So long as the Turks were devout Moslems, practicing their prostrations at prayer time, brims were not permissible since they interfered with the touching of the forehead to the ground.

After the World War when a revolution became successful in Turkey, the leaders at first turned back to the ancient kalpak of the original Turks. This head covering became popular as signifying a return to the virtues of the old stock and was worn by all people of prominence in the new regime.

Like all the other changes in head coverings, the most recent move in favor of the straw and fedora of western Europe has its significance. The Caliphate has been abolished, the Mohammedan religion has been removed from its place of power in the government, and there is no more reason why a Turk should not wear a brim if he chooses, than an Italian or an Englishman. And the movements that accompany this Europeanization of head coverings is significant. Polygamy has been abolished, women are encouraged to abandon the veil, marriages are to be civil only, and an entirely new code of laws, modeled largely after European systems, is being drafted. The Turk is not only changing his hat, he is making himself over "cap a pie."

Old Tradition

Jack in the Green, a chimney sweep, covered with boughs, and carried in English May processions, is said to represent Melva, a petty king, who lay in wait in ambush to steal King Arthur's wife.

Tramps Have Own Jargon

It isn't every one who can hold intelligible conversation with a tramp, due to the fact that he has a language all his own. To a tramp a bed is a "doss," a "kip," or a "scratcher." His hat is his "cadie" and his shoes are his "daisies." If he speaks of stealing he may refer to "half inch," "snaffle" or "win." To walk is to "hit the grit" or to "frog it."

Bible Tells of First Aid

The Book of Ruth in the Old Testament contains what is probably the first advertisement on record authentically as such. After recording that Boaz went "up to the gate of the city and sat him down there"—the gate of the city being the center of business life—it is recorded that he said: "I thought to advertise thee, saying, 'Buy it before the inhabitants and before the elders of my people.'"

No Mental Progress?

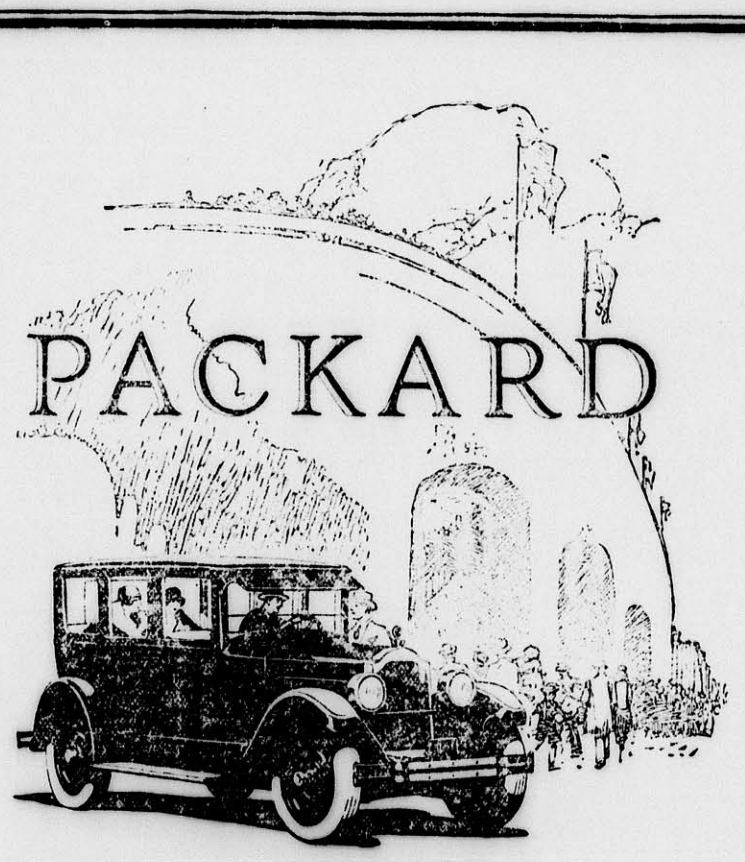

A group of scientists in the University of California, after many years of study and test, have decided that the human race has made no mental progress in 3,000 years, says Popular Science Monthly. They have concluded that we know about as much today as the people who lived in Babylon, and not as much as the Greeks did 2,000 years ago.

How Often Do You Buy a War Tax?

EACH time you buy a motor car you pay for five things in which you never can take a ride:

These are: war tax—freight charge—factory's profit—dealer's profit—salesman's commission.

Once every five years or more is often enough to afford yourself the luxury of such purchases.

Those who buy the Packard Six expect, on the average, to keep their cars more than five years, spending the minimum in war tax and other outside charges.

Packard encourages its owners in keeping their cars, through retaining the beauty of Packard lines and in announcing no yearly models. It is now more than ten years since Packard offered yearly models.

The most recent evidence of Packard's interest in its owners is the chassis lubricator and motor oil rectifier—which together double the life of the car.

100 YEARS OF GASLIGHT

"Every man his own street lighter" was the motto in London in the old days. The first of the "lights O' London" were nothing more than candles or small torches flickering at the doorsteps of each householder. The King decreed that a light should burn in front of each home from sunset until eleven o'clock, thinking in this way to light the dark, narrow, robber-infested streets of the city.

But the evening breezes swayed, as they will in spite of all royal decrees, candles snuffed out, and London streets were as dark and unsafe as ever before. Then oil lamps came in, only to be replaced by gaslight, and London recently celebrated the 100th anniversary of the introduction of gas for street lighting. It is still so used, and London streets are safer today than the brilliantly white lighted avenues of some of our own American cities.

NICE TO HAVE BUT HARD TO PAY FOR

Commissioner Henry F. Long, in his capacity as president of the New England State Tax Officials' Association, told its members, in session at Springfield, that it is doubtful whether many local communities dependent upon their properties as the basis for raising the necessary revenue can continue their extravagance in providing things "which are nice to have but which are hard to pay for."

It is homely phrase in sharp distinction from the kind of language to which we are accustomed in the discussion of matters relating to taxation.

In every-day English, it is "nice" to have the best in school buildings, the best in streets and highways, the best in parks and playgrounds, the best in many other things that are now included in the range of municipal activities but would not have been considered by the fathers as belonging there. It is nice to have all these things, but the recipients of the municipal tax bills recently distributed will agree with Mr. Long that the best and the most are hard to pay for.

But we shall doubtless continue to demand the best. Public opinion will tolerate no lowering of quality in the provision of public improvements. It is rather a case for calling a halt in quantity, in limiting the number of new projects which a community may undertake. There is need for application to public affairs of the rule which the wise man follows in the conduct of his personal concerns. The acquisition of many a thing good in itself and much to be desired is deferred until the time when it may be accomplished without undue strain upon the income, or, if there is resort to buying on the installment plan, care is taken to see that the debt so contracted is one within reason in comparison with the income.

When it comes to the question of deferred payments for municipal improvements, Mr. Long says that debt is often contracted on what appears to be the theory that the dollar of tomorrow will be more easily raised than is the dollar of today. It is a dangerous assumption involving injustice to those who will come after us and will have their own problems to solve. Within reasonable limits, the State and the city are justified in contracting debts to spread the payments over a term of years for that which will long endure, but it is obviously a method of payment that may easily be abused. Clearly the pay-as-you-go policy should be applied to the fullest extent consistent with the public welfare.

But how to make these fundamental truths better understood? It is well that tax officials are themselves seeking the answer to the question, in order to correct the present lack of understanding. As Mr. Long puts it, "the need of knowing the cost of government in order to allow progress only within the means of the people apparently has not as yet made itself sufficiently felt to actuate the people to originate agencies to collect and tabulate for intelligent use the cost of our present unsatiated appetite for governmental activities." Here is evidently another opportunity, and a promising one, for turning on the fierce white light of publicity in order that the tax bill shall not be merely a warning voice crying in the darkness.—[Transcript.

WHAT I THINK OF OIL BURNERS

By Thomas Dreier

Dear Mr. Wilson:

So many Winchester people have telephoned or called to ask Mr. Dreier about the perils of oil heaters since the fire here Sunday morning that he feels you will agree with him that this article answers a very popular question. So many incorrect rumors got abroad that it hardly seems fair to Kimball & Earl, the local representatives of the Kleenheet Oil Burner to suffer from so much negative advertising based on incorrect statements. Mr. Dreier did not mention the name of the heater only because he thought you might consider it too much in the nature of an ad., although there is no reason why this cannot be done.

Sincerely yours,
Frances Lydon, Secretary

11-18-25

When a fellow's house almost goes to glory because an oil heater failed to be perfect, and only through the almost superhuman efforts of the Winchester Fire Department he is kept out of the homeless class, people naturally ask him what he thinks of oil heaters.

My answer is: I think so much of the kind we have had in our house for two winters that we had another one installed just as quickly as the insurance adjusters, under the gentle but efficient direction of Charles Hadley Watkins, got through with their work.

Only an ass condemns a man because that man has made one or two mistakes. A man or a machine must be judged by day by day and month by month performance. No man or no machine functions properly all the time.

Our oil heater wasn't flawless. It gave us trouble once in a while just as our dog does, or our cars, or the machines we use in the office. But day in and day out it was so far ahead of our old heating system in the comfort it gave us that we are unwilling to go back. And this is being written the day after we had a fire at Snug Gables that gave us the scare of our lives.

My hunch is there would have been no fire at all if I had had sense enough to take the advice I am always giving so freely to others and had called for expert help when the gas company cut off the gas.

Every comedian thinks he is a natural Hamlet and every lecturer is sure that writing is an easy trick; so I, having my own asinine moments, sometimes make the mistake of assuming that I have mechanical ability. If, as I said, I had hired a machinist who is an expert in acting as nurse to an oil heater, instead of doing the job myself, the fire department would not have had to turn out at my howl for help last Saturday night.

Machines and men have enough to answer for when they answer for the mistakes they actually make. It is unfair to saddle onto them crimes for which they are guiltless. That is why we still are loyal to the oil heater that has served us well for two winters and would have continued to serve us if it had been given the treatment every good machine deserves—the attention of an expert who knows what it needs and who knows in detail how to give it what it needs.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE BAZAAR

The 12th annual bazaar of the Florence Crittenton League was held Nov. 18 and 19, at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

The opening feature was a whist party given in the foyer on Wednesday afternoon. On Wednesday evening, and Thursday afternoon a fashion show, with members of the Boston Junior League acting as mannikins, was the principal attraction. With the fashion show there was a musical program.

There were many interesting booths with a wide variety of attractive articles. Mrs. William A. Mitchell, chairman, and Mrs. T. I. Freeburn, sub-chairman, were in charge of the Winchester booth, which held many lovely things. There was a toy table with dolls from France ,and many delightful toys to bring joy to a childish heart. An additional feature was the lovely Italian glass and china importations, with Mrs. William E. Schrafft and Mrs. Harold Gale in charge. The Treasure Hunt, representing the Desert of the Sahara was presided over by Mrs. Harry Goddard and Miss Elizabeth S. Downs.

The Brookline ladies served a delicious buffet lunch, and the various circles all combined to make the bazaar a very pleasant and successful event.

WADLEIGH PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

Much interest is attached to the December meeting of the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association which will occur in the High School Hall, Dec. 17, at 8 p. m.

The attraction at this meeting is J. Adams Puffer, the well-known worker with boys, author, and lecturer who will speak on "Fatherhood a Profession." Mr. Puffer is at present on a lecture tour through Arkansas, Pennsylvania and New York and will come to us from Batavia, N. Y.

Those who have read Mr. Puffer's, "The Bad Boy and His Gang" will be eager to see the author and hear him give in a unique and highly interesting manner the gospel of companionship between father and son. Remember the date, Dec. 17, and the place, High School Hall.

Dense Population

The only part of the United States where the population is as dense as in China, India and southern Europe, is in the region within a line drawn from Boston to Buffalo to Pittsburgh to Philadelphia.

GIRL SCOUTS

The third meeting of the daffodil troop was held Nov. 4. We met at the Wadleigh School and then hiked up to Border road of the Fells. We had planned to make a trail and then follow it home but Miss Brown thought that we had better have one patrol make the trail and the other patrol follow.

The two patrol leaders drew lots with two sticks. The Daisy patrol was to follow and the Forget-Me-Not patrol was to make the trail. We gave the Forget-Me-Nots five minutes to make the trail.

The others stayed behind and hunted for different kinds of leaves. At last the five minutes were up and we followed the trail in a hot pursuit, but alas we lost our way and the trail makers had to come and show us the way. We finally came to a nice rock where we held a short meeting which consisted of the roll call and collecting of dues.

Then we went on and followed the trail. A few of the girls ran ahead (I was one) and hid up on a ledge. We gave the others an anxious moment when they couldn't find us. Suddenly we appeared before them.

We decided for the next meeting the Daisy patrol would make some cakes for the Forget-Me-Not patrol. The Forget-Me-Nots very kindly offered to give us an entertainment at the next meeting. Then we did the scout walking and running steps until we reached our destinations. The meeting was over at 5 o'clock.

CHAPTER OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS NON-PARTISAN ASSOCIATION FORMED

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, in the new Wyman School Hall, a representative group of Winchester citizens, already interested in the League of Nations, met to hear an able address by Mr. A. Barr Comstock on the aims and accomplishments of the League to date. Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., acting as temporary chairman, presided.

Mr. Comstock made very clear that the entrance of the United States into the World Court was the most important step immediately before the country, and made an eloquent plea for the articulation of whatever sentiment already exists in favor of larger participation by our country, in international affairs.

Following Mr. Comstock's address, Mrs. Gertrude Leonard, field secretary for Massachusetts of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association, spoke briefly, and it was voted by the group to organize a chapter of the League in Winchester. The following officers were elected, and a chapter formed, in the hope that many other citizens may wish to express their belief in the principles of international co-operation for which the League stands, by adding their names to the membership role: Chairman, Mr. Dunbar Carpenter; Vice-Chairman, Mrs. James W. Russell, Jr.; Secretary, Mrs. James Sidney Allen.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

At the Funny Hat Social on last Thursday evening prizes were awarded Mrs. Anne Kennedy and Mrs. Mary Dineen.

On Wednesday afternoon many of the members attended a matinee whist held in Woburn under the direction of one of our very active members, Mrs. Cecelia Mahern, in aid of the Holy Ghost Hospital.

All interested in the good work of the Guild should keep December 1, in mind, for on that date a whist party will be conducted, proceeds of which will be used in part to enable us to carry on our Christmas charitable work.

Stories of Gigantic Birds Long Popular

The early regard of man for the great birds of prey is reflected in the mythology of many lands. The legend of the roc, or rukh, is widely spread in ancient tales of Arabia, Persia and India. The best known of these tales is found in the story of "Sinbad the Sailor," says the Mentor.

Another incident taken from the "Arabian Nights" relates to the size of the roc's eggs, which voyagers mistook for a dome, "white, shining glistening, more than 100 cubits high."

Though the roc now appears to be purely a myth, Marco Polo reported that Madagascar was the home of the roc, and in his account of his Thirteenth-century journeyings he states that the great khan of the Tatars dispatched two messengers to the island, who brought back with them a large feather, nine spans long and two spans wide. In form, Marco Polo said, the roc resembled the eagle, though "incomparably greater in size, being so strong as to seize an elephant with its talons and to lift it into the air, from whence it lets it fall to the ground, in order that when dead it may prey upon the carcass."

In 1851 two gigantic eggs and some fragments of bird bones were found on the island of Madagascar, and for a time the accounts of monster birds of other days seemed to have verification. Unfortunately, investigation showed that while the remains were undoubtedly those of colossal birds, these birds were related to the ostriches and were incapable of flight.

Evolution of Ring

Earliest seal rings were joints of reed, succeeded about 5,000 years ago by conch shells in a conical shape which were suspended around the neck. About 2,500 years ago the cone was perforated for the finger to pass through.

WATER SPORTS SAFER FOR RED CROSS WORK

Expert Life-Savers and Many Thousand Swimmers Reduce Annual Water Toll.

Water sports in the United States have never been so safe as they are today, a survey of the work done by Life-Saving experts of the American Red Cross in the past year indicates.

Thousands of adults and young people were taught to swim proficiently by these experts during this period. In addition, 5,681 men, 4,187 women, and 13,024 juniors successfully passed the rigid tests of the Life Saving Service of the Red Cross. The total thus trained during the year—22,892—is 5,041 more than last year's results. The total membership of the Life Saving Corps of the Red Cross on June 30 was 72,810 persons.

Meeting the demand for qualified instructors and councillors in these camps, are the college men and women of the country, many devoting whole or part of their annual vacation periods to this field. Meeting the need of standardized instruction in Life-Saving, First-Aid, and kindred subjects, the American Red Cross conducted nine First-Aid and Life-Saving Camp Institutes this year with a total attendance of more than 600, in Maine, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Indiana, Wisconsin, Oregon, and California. Representatives of Red Cross Chapters, summer camps, life guards at municipal pools and beaches, directors of physical education in schools, and others of this calibre made up the student body.

A number of city or regional institutions were conducted also during the winter at indoor pools to develop local experts. The aquatic school conducted by the New York Chapter was especially successful, it is stated. Inspired by this system, many camps, pools, bathing beaches, etc., have adopted in whole or in part, the Red Cross Life Saving and water-safety program. In the New England states alone, more than 180 camps employ councillors trained in these methods. A partial survey indicates more than 80 cities using the Red Cross senior test as a minimum requirement for their municipal life guards. Educational institutions have turned to it with enthusiasm.

This widespread instruction besides creating unprecedented numbers of expert life-savers, is developing a vast body of Americans who are at home in the water. All contributes to safety the year-round, for swimming is a recognized all-year sport today, records show.

The danger from water accidents is ever-present however where proper safeguards are not taken and to broaden this valuable Red Cross Service is one of the reasons why increased membership in the Red Cross is urged. The Annual Roll Call, during which the opportunity to assist all Red Cross work in many lines of endeavor is extended, will be held from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, November 11-26.

Large Volunteer Work of Red Cross

Volunteers under the Red Cross all over the United States are doing constantly for others, among their products being more than 90 per cent of the Braille reading matter for the blind, and a vast production of clothing and surgical dressings.

Too Sick to Care.

Mother, father and Willie were in midchannel. It was rather rough. Father did not feel too well, neither did mother, and mother was also driven to distraction by the mischievous antics of the boy.

Finally she appealed to her husband, saying:

"Father, do speak to Willie?"

And in a faint voice the father said: "How are you, Willie?"

Wood From Insect-Killed Trees.

Recent investigations made by the United States forest product laboratory indicate that timber cut from insect or fire-killed trees is just as good for any structural purpose as that cut from live trees of similar quality, providing the wood has not been subsequently injured by decay or further insect attack.

Dutch Frows Not All "Stay-at-Home Bodies"

Though the crullers and cheese-cakes of the Dutch housewife of Nieu Amsterdam are far famed, it is not generally known that the Dutch women had other capabilities than those of a housewifely character. For they were very successful in trade.

Many of the Dutch frows (women) owned stores in Nieu Amsterdam, Helen Guitar writes in the New York Telegram. The wife of a "dominie" (preacher) of that early day owned a store; and, unlike her reverend husband (needless to say), had an income comparable for those days to the income of a present-day prize fighter.

The Dutch women were also unusually successful traders with the Indians. A record has come down to us of a certain "female trader" of 1679 which serves to show both her sagacity and the disfavor with which it was regarded:

"This woman, although not of openly godless life, is more wise than devout. She is a truly worldly woman, proud and conceited, and sharp in trading with wild people as well as tame ones. . . . She has a husband, who is her second one. He remains at home quietly while she travels over the country to carry on the trading. In fine, she is one of the Dutch female traders who understand the business so well. If these be the persons who are to make Christians of the heathen what will the latter be?"

One's Ideal Residence as Viewed in Dreams

It will be a colonial cottage in the Tudor Gothic style, revealing the French chateau influence and embodying the best features of the English manor, California bungalow and Adirondack lodge, says the Kansas City Star. It will be heated by hot air, hot water, steam, electricity and gas; it will have a tile, slate, shingle, terra cotta, asphalt, asbestos and thatched roof and will be painted in quiet tones of purple, green, red, yellow and pink. The house will contain many bedrooms to encourage one's relatives, and very few to discourage them. The living-room will be long, low, high, wide and narrow, treated in the empire, Italian renaissance and late Flemish manner, with straight lines, a broken frieze and a footless pediment.

Your home will be situated on a wind-swept hilltop on low ground in the midst of dense woods, ten miles from the station and within easy walking distance of your office.

Cornish Bull

Two Cornish miners coveted a cow which belonged to a neighbor and laid plans to steal it. On their chosen night it happened that a traveling player with a trained bear had asked for and obtained lodging at the neighbor's house. The owner put the cow in a shed in order to give the bear the run of the barn. The thieves arrived; one went to secure the cow, while the other watched. A clamor of cries and blows came from the barn. The noise filled the night and the lookout cried: "Hae gotten 'im, Tam?" The horror of the unknown was in Tam's voice as he replied: "Hae gotten 'im? Nay! Ees gotten I!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Mantis' Odd Attitude

What are called in some parts of the world the "Praying Mantis" are insects belonging to the family of Mantidae, somewhat similar to the grasshopper, with large protruding eyes. They are found in many countries and endowed with many supernatural qualities by the credulous. The manti seizes its prey with its fore feet and to devour pulls the prey in front of it with its fore legs assuming an attitude of prayer. In Japan the mantis are sometimes kept in cages and trained to box, being placed on exhibition for this purpose. They are quite common in the southern states.

"Survived Himself"

In France it is idiomatically stated that Flammarion, the great popular astronomer who died recently, "survived himself." This is the French way of saying that the present generation has quite forgotten him and the older generations which clung to his words and delved with him in his form of astronomy had passed on. Flammarion was scarcely known by sight among the younger generation in the village where he died. Curiously enough, just before he passed away he bequeathed his heart to his native village of Montigney de Roi.

Care of Machinery

Two mornings a month should be set aside for one of the most important household duties. On these mornings overhaul all household machinery. Everything that needs oiling, oil, clean all the parts which gather dust, examine all electric cords to be sure that none is wearing out and likely to cause fire. By this means keep your house equipment in the best of condition, avoiding electricians' bills and prolonging the life of the machinery.

Probably So Ordered

The afternoon bridge club was holding its weekly session. "Ladies, ladies," announced the president, "it has been moved and seconded that there shall be no conversation at the card tables. What shall we do with the motion?" "I suggest," said a sprightly young woman, "that we discuss it while we play."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A little opportunity is a fine chance for any man to do his best.

Impossibilities are merely the half-hearted efforts of quitters.

Keep quiet, keep sweet, keep going, and above all keep your head.

It is just as easy to lift as to lean, to be kind as mean, to praise as to scorn, to be glad as to mourn.

If a man makes a really bad bargain, he should hug it very tightly.

Don't despair—the sun has a sinking spell every night, but it comes back strong in the morning.

ARE YOU A DAY DREAMER?

A little day dreaming is good for the imagination. Too much day dreaming is dangerous. It gives the dreamer a false view point of life and makes him queer. There is a lot of pleasure in day dreaming. We can imagine things as we would like them to be. The next step, however, is to get busy and do something to make these dreams come true—to attempt to reach our ideal. The dreamer who is satisfied to spend all his time in the make-believe world of imagination will find himself unable to face the problems of real life.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health offers this motto: "Dream a little; do a lot."

STILL WORKING ON FELLS MURDER

No new developments in the Fells murder case which arose from the finding of the body of Vito Favrizza, Boston, pianist, in some shrubbery on the Lacker estate off Highland avenue two weeks ago, were announced at police headquarters last night. The authorities are still busy on the case several new angles presenting themselves during the past week having been thoroughly investigated. Sergt. Thomas Cassidy of the Winchester police who has been detailed to cooperate with State and city authorities in the prosecution of the case was willing to make no statement other than that things are progressing satisfactorily and that a definite announcement of interest may be looked for at any time.

100 PER CENT

BRIDE FROM WEST MEDFORD

Deal-Vaughn Wedding Held Wednesday Evening With Reception at Country Club

The wedding of Miss Mabel Winslow Vaughn of West Medford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Vaughn of 537 High street, and Mr. Elvin Parks Deal, son of Mrs. Hannah J. and the late Dr. Edward E. Deal of 36 Calumet road, this town, took place on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. There was a large attendance of relatives and intimate friends, and the residence was beautifully decorated for the ceremony with many potted palms, ferns and chrysanthemums.

Rev. Ernest Elwell of the Baptist Church of West Medford performed the ceremony and Miss Grace Bassett of West Medford played the wedding march. The couple were attended by Miss Ruth Bassett of Holton street, West Medford, who was maid of honor; Miss Virginia Vaughn, the bride's sister, who was bridesmaid, and Mr. Stephen Matherson of Chestnut Hill, formerly of this town.

The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin and chantilly lace and orange blossoms. Her bridal veil was of princess lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses, lillies of the valley and white sweet peas. The maid of honor wore pale green chiffon over silver and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses. The bridesmaid's dress was of silver beaded yellow chiffon and lace, and she carried pale yellow tea roses.

A largely attended reception, with guests present from all of the surrounding towns and cities followed the ceremony, it being held at the Belmont Spring Country Club from 8 until 10 o'clock. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Vaughn, the latter wearing a rhinstone studded black chiffon dress over shell pink and carrying pink sweet peas, and Mrs. Hannah J. Deal, who was dressed in gold brocaded orchid satin trimmed with colinsky fur and carried violets and lillies of the valley.

The ushers for the wedding and reception were Messrs. Edwin Matherson of Chestnut Hill, Parker Hart and Robert Hart of this town, and Irving Jennings, also of Winchester.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Deal left by motor on a wedding trip to New York, Atlantic City and Washington, visiting friends of the bride in the latter city.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

For some time it has seemed inadvisable for Winchester to retain its membership in the Suburban Basketball League. The league made up of Brockton, Chelsea, Framingham, Natick, Watertown, Wakefield, Winthrop and Winchester High Schools was in no sense a natural combination. Most of the trips were too long and too expensive both in time and money. There is no natural rivalry between Winchester and most of the other schools, consequently, Winchester and Wakefield have withdrawn from the League. Winchester has accepted membership in the Middlesex Basketball League composed of Belmont, Lexington, Stoneham, Reading and Winchester. These schools are all approximately the same size and each town can be reached easily within 35 or 40 minutes by motor. These schools are natural rivals of Winchester and are good basketball towns. The league voted to play first teams and second teams and to award cups to the winning teams.

The first issue of the Recorder is being circulated this week. The magazine has been changed in size and the new style seems to be a marked improvement. It is full of interesting stories, alumni notes, school items and athletic news. Gilbert Hook is the editor-in-chief and Freeman Miller is the business manager. The staff is to be congratulated on the success of its first issue.

Winchester people in general will learn with interest that Miss Chapman has again been engaged to coach the cast for the Junior-Senior Class Play. Miss Chapman has a well-deserved reputation for excellent work. The play will be presented Jan. 16, and many will wish to reserve that date, as Miss Chapman's plays are always pleasing.

The following extract from a letter from the secretary of the faculty of Amherst College furnishes further evidence of the good work of Winchester students in college:

"We think you may be glad to know that one of your boys, Richard James Clark, has distinguished himself during the past year at Amherst by securing honorable mention in Latin. To secure honorable mention the student must have a standing of not less than 75 per cent in every department and secure an average of 93 per cent for a full year's course in the department in which honorable mention is granted."

Malcolm Strauss of last year's Senior Class and now a Freshman at Williams is making an especially fine record in French and also finished first on the Freshman cross-country team.

Reports from Wellesley indicate that Barbara Bourne, one of our last year's Seniors, is continuing her fine scholastic record and that she is doing especially well in the department of mathematics.

There are 441 students enrolled in the High School this fall which is the largest number for some time.

SURPRISED ON 20TH BIRTHDAY

A suprise party was tendered Ruth McLaughlin at her home 895 Main street, Tuesday evening, it being her 20th birthday. There were violin selections by Thomas Gigliotti and piano selections by Miss Gilcher of Rosindale and Margaret Nolan of Salem. There was vocal selections too, after which games were played. Refreshments were served. The guests departed after wishing Ruth many happy returns of the day. There were guests from Rosindale, Milton, Dorchester, Salem, Belmont, Charlestown, Newton, Woburn, Cambridge and other places.

At 3:17 Tuesday morning an operator at the local telephone exchange notified the police that flashes were being received from the telephone at the residence of Mr. Charles H. Watkins on Ridgefield road but that no answer could be obtained from her calls. Officers Kelley, Reagan and Harrold were dispatched to the Watkins residence and upon arriving found the back door wide open. Upon entering the house the patrolmen were unable to find anything wrong, and it was subsequently discovered that a small brush upon the table with the telephone instrument had been moved by the breeze from the open door in such a way as to lift the receiver from the hook. It was thought that the door was left ajar by someone rightfully belonging in the house.

Members of the Medford Boat Club were among those hereabouts who saw the meteorite fall on Sunday forenoon. At the Boat Club a bright flash was seen, larger than any similar occurance ever witnessed by the watchers. The beam of fire appeared to fall into the lake near Sandy Beach. This is supposed to be the same meteorite seen at Rosindale and thought to have fallen near there. Meteors were also reported seen in Maine and New Hampshire, all falling at about the same hour Sunday forenoon.

The latest pastime in the centre, especially among the ladies, is to drive the car as far by the traffic signals (provided they are set against you) as one dares without incuring the wrath of the traffic officer, and then opening up the horn in one joyous (or otherwise) and continuous blast. It seems to be lots of fun for some of the drivers, and is growing in popularity. Just what the idea is, other than the usual impatience which is supposed to go with today's actions, is hard to determine, for the traffic officer cannot let two streets full of cars cross each other at the same time, and he has his rules governing the turning of the signals. However, it seems to provide a means for some of the motorists to let off steam, and if this can be done while the car is standing and not on the road, it may be a good safety vent for some of them.

The Metropolitan Commission added another mounted officer to its force in the Fells last week. The recent wave of crime has made this step advisable in furnishing protection to horseback riders and other persons who wish to enjoy this reservation.

Mrs. R. H. Clemson of Stoneham, formerly of Winchester, left Tuesday for Southern California en route for the Hawaiian Islands where she will remain until May.

See the new animate toys at Wilson's. Even the grown-ups will enjoy their antics.

A spare tire, rim and motormeter were stolen from the automobile of Mary Gustin last week Thusday evening while the machine was parked opposite her home at 217 Cambridge street.

Officer Edward Shea who patrols the Fells in the neighborhood of the Winchester reservoirs, is suffering from a broken arm, received Sunday when his horse suddenly reared and threw him.

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to all of the organizations of the town asking for their support in urging a new Post Office building. The letter contains specific data concerning the inadequate facilities of our present office and urges co-operation in action to remedy conditions.

Locke's Lending Library has opened a branch at the home of Mrs. Nason, 6 Park road, Win. 0524-M. Books may be obtained at all times. *

Mr. D. B. Badger of this town was one of those attending the 45th annual meeting and dinner of the "Old Schoolboys of Boston" which was held Wednesday evening at Young's Hotel in Boston. Mr. Badger, who has been a regular attendant at these functions for years, was elected a director of the organization at the business session of last night's get-together.

Mr .and Mrs. Manlio G. Moffett were pleasantly surprised on last Sunday evening when a number of their friends called at their home on Watson place to congratulate them upon the eighth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Moffett were presented with a purse of gold on behalf of the gathering.

William Whelan, well known employee of LeDuc's Auto Lunch, is proudly exhibiting a handsome, beautifully engraved card case, the gift of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion. The presentation was made on behalf of the members by Commander Nathan Thumim at the annual banquet of the Post last week, the gift being prompted by the appreciation which the Legionaires feel for the assistance "Bill" has rendered during the past year at their suppers and informal "feeds."

Clinton Mason of this town played at right end throughout the championship game of the "Little Three" between the football teams of Amherst and Williams at Williamstown last Saturday. Mason, who is a Junior at Williams has been in the starting lineup for all the important games which the Berkshires college has played.

Many Winchesterites will learn with regret that Capt. Edward M. Brawley who has been in charge of the Middlesex Fells Division of the Metropolitan Police, has been retired on a pension for physical disability. Capt. Brawley was a great favorite during the time he was in command of the police on the parkway.

The work of Capt. "Art" French was one of the redeeming features of the Harvard Freshmen's showing in their football game with the Yale youngsters at Soldiers' Field last Saturday. French is being mentioned as one who will receive serious consideration for a varsity job at Cambridge another year.

One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a similar affair attended the rumage sale held under the auspices of the Ladies Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church in the Town Hall Wednesday. Long before the doors opened a good sized gathering was on hand and by 10 o'clock there was a line from the entrance of the hall into Mt. Vernon street.

Mr. Leroy J. Higgins of Cross street, a telephone lineman, received a broken arm and numerous cuts and bruises when he fell from a pole on which he was working in Chelsea last Monday. He was taken to the Chelsea Hospital for treatment.

The Fire Department had two runs during the early morning hours of Thursday. The first call came 10 minutes after midnight for a brush fire on Nelson street, and the second was at 1:20 for a brush fire in the rear of the Noonan School.

Chief David H. DeCourcy of the Winchester Fire Department attended the meeting and dinner of the Massachusetts Fire Chiefs' Association in the Parker House, Boston, on Wednesday. Chief DeCourcy is one of those invited to attend the opening and exhibition of the new fire alarm signal tower in Boston next month. This tower, when completed, will be, a[cc]ording to reports, the finest thing [k]ind in this part of the cou[n]try.

WINCHESTER VISITING NURSE AND HOSPITAL NOTES

What wonder that people are talking of over-crowded schools, and rapid increase in the population of Winchester! Ten husky baby boys have arrived safely at the hospital in one week. At this rate the perpetuation of good old family names is assured. Not only the maternity, but also the X-ray department reports an unusual number of patients availing themselves of its service.

The all-day meeting of the State Nursing Association in Pilgrim Hall, Boston on Nov. 11, was attended by Mrs. Russell, members of the Board, and Mrs. Gormley. Very interesting and vital addresses were made by Dr. Martha Emerson from the Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C. and Dr. Lee Frankel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Men Differ

Some men are never so proud as when they are in a parade. And other men never feel more foolish than when they are in a parade.—Atchison Globe.

No Tubercular Birds

Although tubercle bacilli such as infest humans may be transplanted into birds, the bacilli will not multiply. Birds seem to have a natural immunity from tuberculosis. The resistance is perfect and not even local infection develops as in some animals.

ELKS' BALL

Concert Chairman George H. Lochman rather put one over on the guests during the early hours of the dancing previous to 11 o'clock when, with the orchestra striking up special music, a beautiful lady glided onto the floor for an attractive exhibition of fancy and eccentric dancing. Billed as the Great Mysterioso she kept every one guessing until the denouement of her act when, upon pulling off her wig, she disclosed her charming self to be no more than a mere female impersonator, thereby bringing the masculine half of her audience back to earth with a dull thud. It was an unusually clever bit of work and proved a pleasing break in the dance program showing as it did the resourcefulness of the lodge in providing something different.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the Elks left the hall to return led by Esquire Cullen, Exalted Ruler Dinneen and the officers of the lodge to form a huge hollow square in the center of the hall. To the center of this square Esquire Cullen escorted Exalted Ruler Dinneen and the guest of honor of the evening, District Grand Exalted Ruler, H. Wesley Curtis, accompanied by the lodge colors carried by Tiler John F. O'Brien.

As the chimes struck 11 the impressive Elks' 11 O'Clock Toast, always a feature of every gathering of the order, was delivered by Mr. Curtis with the response and singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the members of the lodge.

It is rather a solemn affair, this toast to the absent brothers, and never fails to make a profound impression upon those witnessing it for the first time. As a means of getting every one back once more into the mood for jollification the drawing for the Elks' Hope Chest was held directly after its conclusion. The drawing was in charge of Chairman Scholl and provided plenty of thrills and fun for the big gathering.

Following the award dancing was enjoyed until 1 this morning with the band functioning better and better as the evening waned.

The decorations on the stage were executed under the direction of George F. Arnold, and came in for much favorable comment.

Fred H. Scholl, always prominently identified with local Elks' activities, headed the committee in charge of last evening's party and to him much of the credit for its success belongs. His hustling committee included: George H. Lochman, treas.; Maurice Dinneen, E. R.; George T. Davidson, P. E. R.; Fred D. Clement, P. E. R.; John McNally, P. E. R.; Thomas F. Fallon, E. L. K.; Benjamin Cullen, esquire; James P. Donaghey, George F. Arnold, Benjamin F. Mathews, John D. Coakley, Charles A. Farrar, James J. Fitzgerald, Harry W. Dotten and the following aids, Robert M. Hamilton, William H. Vayo, John F. McCarthy, Samuel Ginsberg, George A. MacIsaac, Fred F. Croto, Joseph A. Scott, Edward F. Boyle, Frank A. Goodhue, William McMullin, Manlino G. Moffett, Timothy J. Connors, John Halligan, John McCarron and William L. Cummings.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Once again the centre is being dug up, making the continuous performance extend over a period of some two weeks. The latest excavations are to be used to house the cables for the new traffic beacons.

Mrs. Joseph C. Kennedy of Mt. Vernon street, who has been ill since last February, has so far recovered that she is able to be out, and this week walked as far as the centre.

Knife's Double Purpose

The table knife became popular after the Seventeenth century. During the period of transition from fingers to forks knives were used for eating as well as for cutting.

Blossoms Every Month

The Calendula plant gets its name from the fact that it was supposed to blossom on the first day, or the calends, according to the old Roman reckoning, of each month in the year.

Horse-Meat Passe

Clarence (finding a piece of rubber tire in his hash)—There's no doubt about it, the motor is displacing the horse everywhere.—Progressive Grocer.

Frightful Heat at Interior of Earth

As to the state or composition of the earth's interior we are comparatively ignorant, except for inferences which amount to little more than guesses, an English newspaper asserts. Nevertheless, it is hard to escape the conclusion that the earth's core must be much hotter than anything ever heated artificially by man, although very high temperatures have been produced under pressure. The deepest coal mine ever sunk is, to the mass of the globe, much less than the skin of an apple in relation to the apple itself. Even if we take it that, according to the experience of mine-sinking, the heat increases one degree every hundred feet bored, the temperature of the earth's center would reach 211,200 degrees Fahrenheit. We can form some idea of what this means when we remember that the boiling point of water at sea level is no more than 212 degrees Fahrenheit, so that the earth's center would be almost exactly a thousand times hotter than the water with which you make your tea.

Old Fort Landmark in State of Maine

Fort Edgecomb is one of eight old forts purchased from the United States government by the state of Maine. The historical and sentimental value of their ruined blockhouses and grass-grown ramparts cannot be overestimated. Particularly is this true of old Fort Edgecomb, on the Damariscotta river, in southern Lincoln county, Maine, says the Dearborn Independent.

Moses Davis deeded the site of the fort to the United States government June 13, 1808. Here a fort was built for the protection of the Maine coast. Here were built extensive earthworks and a magazine of brick and stone. The Edgecomb blockhouse is a heavy, square-timbered structure of two stories, with a basement. The first story, 27 feet wide, is pierced for musketry, commanding all approaches. Octagonal in shape, it still stands, showing the visitors the methods of construction of that day, the thickness of the walls, the wooden-peg construction, the size of the hinges bolted to the massive doors and the loopholes. The second story is 30 feet wide, 12-foot posted and pierced with heavy portholes like the gun deck of a man-of-war, having an overhang of about two feet, the whole being surmounted with a wooden tower, overlook or watch-box, with an extensive view of the river, harbor and surrounding country.

Latest Advance in Railroad Equipment

We understand articulation when applied to speech, but the phrase "Articulated Trains" may not be so well understood. Up to the present coaches have been connected or coupled, but not articulated. There has been constant effort, ever since the early days of railways, to combine solidarity with flexibility in the making up of a train. The first passenger coaches were attached to one another by a simple chain and hook, but for many years the couplings have been much closer and more compact, the finely adjusted spring-buffers being kept always in close contact. That was regarded until recently as the last word in smooth motion at high speeds, but now that articulation has come along it is seen that much greater smoothness of motion is produced by it. Instead of each coach being a separate entity, with its four bogey-wheels at each end, the bogey-wheels are placed between the coaches, so that two of the wheels are under one, and the other pair under the other. Thus the train is all in one piece, with perfect mobility throughout its length.

TOWN HALL PACKED FOR CONCERT

Roland Hayes Wins Enthusiastic Approval of Large Audience

Roland Hayes, internationally famous colored tenor, gave a song recital last Friday evening in the Town Hall. His program included the aria, "Tali e contanti sono" by Mozart; three songs by Schubert, "Hoffnung," "Das Sehnen," "Der Jungling and der Quelle"; "Benedeit die selige Mutter", by Hugo Wolf; Jensen's "Murmuring Zephyrs"; "Rose of the Night" by Griffes; "In the Silence of Night", and "As All Things Fade", by Rachmaninoff; and the Negro Spirituals, "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child", "Lit'l David play on yo' Harp", "I don't feel noways tired", and by request, "Deep River." As encores he sang after the group of German songs the old English melody "Passing By" by Percy Markelle and after the third group, the Negro melody "Didn't It Rain" and the "Dream Song" from Mime by Massenet. At the end of his program he sang "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" by Lawrence Brown and the "Crucifixion", the latter unaccompanied. The accompanist was William Lawrence.

Seldom has the Town Hall been so crowded as it was on last Friday evening. Even the stage was utilized, only room enough remaining for the singer and his pianist. In the small Town Hall extra seats were placed entirely around the wall, and these, as well as every available seat in the auditorium, were taken long before the hour set for the start of the concert. And seldom has an artist been received as was Mr. Hayes as he stepped on the platform for the opening number. For just a few moments it seemed that even the man who had appeared on the principal concert platforms of the musical world and had sung for the crowned heads of many foreign countries was embarrassed by the enthusiastic applause which greeted his appearance last Friday in Winchester. The ovation was spontaneously whole-hearted and of considerable duration.

Little need be said of Mr. Hayes' singing. It has stood the acid test alike of critic and music lover wherever he ha sappeared. He has a marvelously sweet voice which he controls with such artistry as to make it react to his every whim and mood. He seems equally at home in lyric or dramatic style, and his enunciation is faultless. Last Friday every word was distinctly audible, whether in English, French or German.

His entire program was interesting and one well calculated to show to advantage Mr. Haye's command of his art. All his numbers were received with an unfeigned enthusiasm which made it hard to choose any especial favorites. If such there were, judging by the applause, they might have been the beautiful English melody, "Passing By" and the humerous Negro melody, "Didn't It Rain?" The latter coming after the rather heavy third group of the program seemed particularly to please the large audience which contained many of the singer's own people.

Perhaps it was in his collection of Spirituals that Mr. Hayes made his greatest appeal. He has been described as something more than a delightful singer, and last Friday this group of elemental Negro melodies served admirably to display the quality which has made Roland Hayes unique among the vocal artists of his time. His singing of his final number, the "Crucifixion," unaccompanied, will long live in the memory of those who listened to it.

Mr. Hayes has a pleasing stage presence and is always considerate of his audience, a fact which was perfectly apparent when after his third group of songs, he turned and sang "The Dream Song" to those whom he termed, "My friends behind me."

Mr. Lawrence's accompaniments were sympathetic and wholly adequate, displaying interpretive power and technical skill which makes one agree with the great critic Philip Hale who in speaking of one of these concerts said, "Mr. Hayes and his accompanist were one."

To the committee, including members of the Pop Concert Committee and of the Unitarian Men's Club, whose vision and energy made possible the appearance in Winchester of such an artist as Mr. Hayes, much credit is due. Its members included Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn, Miss M. Alice Mason, Mrs. William Lefavor, Dr. Mary Maynard, Miss Helen E. Sanborn, Mr. Charles H. Watkins, Mr. Ralph S. Vinal, Mr. Harry E. Gardner, Mr. William R. Marshall and Mr. Philip E. Sawyer.

The ushers included, Mr. Kenneth Pratt, head usher; and the Messrs. Louis Goddu, Marshall Symmes, Harry Bigelow, Rowen Parker, George Cumings, Edward Sandberg, Edgar Taylor, Benjamin Drisko, Avard Walker, Temple Newell, Kenneth Caldwell, Herbert Miller and William Waite.

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The first meeting of the Winchester High School Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening in the assembly hall of the high school. There was a large and enthusiastic gathering.

Robert F. Guild, president of the association, presided. Mr. Guild spoke of the work of the association, the need of co-operation and new members.

Hon. Frank P. Bennett, editor of the United States Investor of Boston, and a past state senator, was the principal speaker. His subject was "Is the Public School our Only Hope?" Mr. Bennett gave a very interesting talk on the need of neighborhood spirit. He called attention to the drift of population from the rural districts to the city, with the resultant loss of neighborly spirit and friendship. Mr. Bennett thought the public schools could do much towards making a more friendly atmosphere in our cities by turning out boys and girls who will make better citizens. Everyone wished that the speaker could have been allotted more time for his instructive address.

Mr. Robert M. Stone, chairman of the school committee, spoke of the building growth in Winchester as compared with that in other towns and cities. He did not think the real estate development in Winchester would affect any of the schools as yet, with the exception possibly of the Wyman school. Here he thought some additions might have to be made in the near future. He also gave a brief analysis of school finances.

Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn spoke of the great good which could be accomplished by co-operation between parents, the school committee, officials of the schools and teachers and emphasized the importance of courage and character.

Principal Wade R. Grindle of the High School told the meeting about the scholarship system which had been instituted in the High School. This feature was but little known to the parents and, needless to say, was very pleasing to them. It was the concensus of opinion that this should prove a great incentive for better marks.

Mr. Elliott L. Bowker of the Merchants National Bank, Boston, appeared in the role of "Tony." He led the audience in community singing and also gave a number of Italian selections, with makeup and recitations. He was much enjoyed.

Mr. Guild stated that the scholarship committee of Stone School, Boston, of which he was chairman, had lately bestowed a scholarship on Francis J. Melley, a graduate of the Winchester High School of 1925, to enable him to complete his college preparatory work this year. This scholarship was given for good work both in athletics and school work.

Mr. Guild also spoke of the Winchester Smith College Club Scholarship in the High School, which is being enjoyed by a graduate of the high school now in the sophomore class at Smith College and stated that another is open for some sophomore in our high school who will graduate to enter Smith two years hence.

There were about 100 members enrolled at the meeting but the committee hopes that other parents and teachers will show their interest by sending in their names, so that there may be a fuller representation.

The officers of the year are as follows: Mr. Robert F. Guild, President; Mrs. Maurice Brown, Vice-President; Mr. George A. Kuyper, Vice-President; Miss Mabel A. Richmond, Secretary; Mr. William B. Denison, Treasurer.

K. OF C. NOTES

The turkey whist to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24 in the K. of C. Hall promises to be one of the most successful of the many parties which have been conducted by the Council. This event is to be in charge of the officers of the Council and they are working hard for its success. Many worthwhile prizes, including turkeys, have been donated, which should be an inducement and attraction to all the members and their friends to attend. Another attraction will be the awarding of the handsome K. of C. ring at this party.

A large number of Council members attended the exemplification of the Third Degree by D. D. J. Lowe McMahon for Arlington Council in Arlington old Town Hall.

The Membership Committee is very active and turned in a very favorable report at our last meeting on Monday evening, Nov. 16. The Budget Committee also turned in a very comprehensive report at this meeting and it showed that this committee has spent a lot of time and given a great deal of thought to the needs of the Council, and has convinced the members that a budget system is essential to the proper management of Council business. The Lapsation Committee are active in their particular duties and excellent results are being predicted. Since cold weather set in an increased number of members find the clubhouse a very comfortable place to while away an enjoyable evening in the recreation room or the library. Some very exciting games of pool are played off every night, also checkers and cards have their ardent following. All up for the Turkey whist Tuesday evening, Nov. 24.

Wonders of Science

Science has evolved a katharometer to measure a plant's breathing. Soon we'll be around to the fine point where we can measure the sound waves emitted by a snoring gnat—Buffalo Express.

RUBBER: IN OUR MEADOWS AND ELSEWHERE

How far does rubber stretch? Scientists have discovered that raw rubber stretches throughout the Tropics and even to our own American meadows.

Milkweed is one of the hundreds of varieties of plants, bushes, trees, roots and vines in the world that contain rubber, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. Milkweed, however, cannot supply sinews which will stand the strain demanded of the commercial product.

Para Rubber Orchard Crop

Plantations of the Malay States, Java and Ceylon monopolize the famous Para rubber, but, with one exception, they do not control the other useful rubbers. Para rubber is now an orchard crop. But the other commercial rubbers, gutta percha, balata and chicle have been tamed to straight rows. As Para rubber was sought 20 years ago, so these others must be wrested from the wild jungle today. Indians do the work in Central and South America and native Malay tribes do it in the Far East.

Latex makes the rubber family kin. Latex is milk from irritated plants. Like cow's milk, its color is white, its globules of rubber are in suspension in the water base like globules of fat, and it will sour quickly if not preserved. The function of latex is different from that of milk, and different from the function of sap, with which it is often confused. Nature uses it as a combination fly paper and automatic vulcanizing patch.

Milk of the milkweed, familiar to every boy and girl, is essentially the same as the milk of the king tree of the rubber world. But milkweed milk has only a fraction of rubber in its latex, while the best rubber trees give from one to two quarts of rubber per gallon. The latex occurs in a layer of cells between the outer and inner bark. It brings certain death to a beetle that attempts to bore into the tree. Having killed the borer the latex proceeds to heal the wound by drying into a little patch of rubber. Plainly, if this patch were hard and brittle, the tree's swaying would break it open. Foresighted nature prevents new fissures by fixing a patch which stretches. She is such a good craftswoman that hundreds of chemists wrestling for a rubber substitute have not equaled Nature's elastic.

Used For Cables And Golf Balls

Singapore, Britain's key port of the East Indies, is the world market for gutta percha, one of the most important other rubbers, just as it is for Para rubber. Big percha trees which natives slash for gutta (gum) are found in the jungle forests of Indo-China, Siam, Malay States, and in adjacent islands. Although plantation cultivation is coming in, gutta percha still commands the commercial field it first invaded, submarine cable insulation. Of recent years it has found a new usefulness closer home. Golf balls combine gutta percha and another rubber; the interior is wound with Para rubber thread; the whole is bound in a gutta percha sheath.

On first sight there seems to be no good season for the existence of Boa Vista, the only town on the Rio Branco, an Amazon tributary as big as the Ohio River. Closer scrutiny by any one who wishes to travel a month in the jungle from Para, at the Amazon's mouth, will disclose that balata is one reason. Balata is a heavy, stiff rubber. It is obtained from the bully tree in the same manner the world's entire supply of fine hevea rubber was once harvested in the Amazon Valley. The demand for balata to make rubber belting has in part compensated for the blight brought on the Amazon trade by the East Indies' capture of the Para rubber business.

How Chicle Helps Science

Balata is a close relative of chicle, the Mexican and Central American rubber which serves America's nervous jaws. Over ten million pounds of Chicle came from Yucatan and British Honduras to the United States last year. Indirectly, the American people's demand for chewing gum has boosted the cause of archeology, since many of the Maya ruins have been discovered by chicle hunters. The standing reward for discovery of forgotten, jungle-swallowed cities which one scientist offered to chicle gatherers brought many finds.

These are the main commercial rubbers. Each has a different quality. There are many others which give more or less good rubber more or less generously. Latex plants are typical of many plant families in their distribution. Quite opposite from the human race, the most ambitious members of the rubber family inhabit the Tropics. In Central Africa, the East Indies and the Amazon the rubber brothers and sisters or cousins are tree giants or great vine dragons of the jungle. In northern Mexico they have become bushes. In parlors of the 1890's the Far East's huge India rubber tree lived a smug life as the rubber plant. Our cherished temperate zone can produce naturally only latex-veined pygmies; the milkweeds, Indian hemp, bell flower, and sow thistle. It was from the sow thistle that Germany extracted some rubber during her wartime isolation.

Crude Hooks in Use by Early Fishermen

In France several caves have been found in which men are believed to have lived about 200,000 years ago. In these were found what are probably the oldest fishhooks so far known to have been used by man.

These first-known hooks consist of a stone ground down into the shape of a small banana with a ridge cut in the middle, the string, or whatever was used for a line, having been tied around the stone in this ridge. Cavemen of ages ago took this banana-shaped stone and covered it with meat. Then they kindly allowed a fish to swallow the whole thing.

Then the fisherman would give a pull on the string, or whatever it was. The "hook" would straighten out horizontally and therefore refuse to come out of the water without the fish, so, when the fisherman hauled in, the fish with the hook caught in his gullet, would keep the crude fishhook company.

Around the lakes of Switzerland scientists have found various kinds of hooks considerably later than those crude relics from France. Many of the Swiss hooks are of bronze, some having barbs, but the really ancient ones were barbless and consisted of two hooks at right angles to each other.

Cut Flowers Arranged to Express Sentiment

There is romance in the arrangement of cut flowers. At least that is what Japanese girls and women, who spend many hours in the arrangement of a few flowers, believe. It is lucky to have an odd number of flowers, they think. Three is a favorite number, although one, five and even seven are used.

A three-flower arrangement represents heaven, earth and man. The water in the vase or bowl represents the surface of the earth and each flower is arranged at a different distance from it. The flower representing earth naturally has the shortest stem, that standing for man having a longer one and heaven the longest stem. Each of the flowers is always tipped in a different direction.

In the spring the Japanese women bend the flower stems slightly to represent flowers in the wind. When a member of the household goes away, a willow branch is bent and arranged in a vase to represent sorrow for his departure. When flowers are to be given away it is customary to give them in bud. Red flowers are used only for funerals.

Called Gas "Wild Spirit"

John Baptist Van Helmont, a chemist of Brussels, born in 1577, is credited with the first recorded scientific observation of gas. He noted that his heated crucibles did "belch forth a wild spirit, or breath," which he called "geest" or "geist," the Dutch and German for ghost or spirit. That is how gas got its name.

Van Helmont was searching for a means to turn base metals to gold. Had he found a method and transmitted the formula to his successors it is doubtful if the world would have been greatly benefited.

On the other hand his "wild spirit," now tamed and at the command of the humblest household, is a daily and hourly necessity in hundreds of thousands of homes. It supplies all the heat required in huge factories, and is equally adaptable for a single jet.

Malthusian Theory

In an essay Thomas Robert Malthus (1766-1834), a distinguished political economist of his day, pointed out that the natural tendency of population is to increase more rapidly than the means of subsistence, and that hence the time will come when population will outgrow the means of food supply. He counseled that governments should pass laws to restrict marriages, and thus limit the increase of population. These views were not original with Malthus, but were enunciated not only by Plato and Aristotle, but also by Franklin, Hume and others in modern times. It was the merit of Malthus to have presented the doctrine in systematic form, with elaborate proofs derived from history.—Kansas City Star.

Old Belief Is Error

The Department of Agriculture says that in some regions certain organisms belonging to the genus Cordius, and somewhat closely resembling horse hairs, are not uncommon. They get into the water by leaving insects and other small organisms in which they have previously lived. They go into the water for the purpose of mating and depositing their eggs. These latter are microscopic and give rise to microscopic young ones in enormous numbers, some of which later find their way into suitable hosts and grow to the size of the so-called hair snakes. This all takes place inside the hosts. The hairs from the mane and tail of a horse will not, however, come to life.

Brick Goes Far Back

Progress in brick making is typified by improved manufacturing methods and by the numerous and beautiful brick faces that now adorn modern home buildings. Brick, like cement, has been made for centuries. It is perhaps, the oldest manufactured building material, going back fully 2,000 years before the time of Abraham. Even in America the use of brick dates back to the time when the Indians in the Southwest made adobe brick thousands of years before the white man came.

Hams Are Tokens of Friendship in China

The Chinese have many ham dishes of their own—fried, smoked, steamed and boiled. On such occasions as weddings, birthdays of important persons, the birth of a first son, spring and autumn festivals and, most of all, at Chinese New Year, the Chinese send gifts to each other much like westerners, but more lavishly, the North China Herald says.

If a ham is the first present in the parcel, the recipient feels that an appropriate display of friendship has been made and appreciates it accordingly.

Various factors contribute to the reputation of Chekiang hams. One is that hogs and pigs thrive well in that province, which is believed to affect the flavor of the meat. Anyway, they are famed throughout the country. Another is that the hog food available favors the production of red flesh.

The prosperity enjoyed by the Chekianese makes it possible for nearly every farming family to raise a couple of pigs every season. Public opinion, as a matter of fact, is against those who do not keep pigs, regarding them as shiftless indeed.

MILK CHART FOR OCTOBER 1925

Published by the Winchester Board of Health

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

HILBERG—FLAHERTY

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Mary's Rectory, when Miss Elizabeth Grace Flaherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Flaherty of 514 Washington street, became the bride of Mr. Roy Arnold Hilberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hilberg of 654 Green street, Cambridge.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, the double ring service being used.

The bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Louise Flaherty, sister of the bride and the best man was Mr. Robert E. Reid of Cambridge and a graduate of M. I. T. '24.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a wedding dress of white crepe satin and wore a lace veil with an embroidered train, which was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was made up of brides' roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's dress was of beaded blue canton crepe. She wore a silver wreath and carried a bouquet of tea roses.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by their parents, after which a buffet luncheon was served to about 75 people.

Entertainment and music was furnished during the evening. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in Cambridge.

Last Friday evening the Winchester Police were called upon to smooth over a domestic difficulty which was in progress at a house on Harvard street. There were no casualties.

MOTORS FIGURE IN THREE ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

Only three automobile accidents were reported in town over the past week-nd, two of which came on last Friday morning after the Star had gone to Press.

The first occurred when a large White truck, the property of the Atlantic Refining Company of Boston, skidded while on the curfe west of Arlington road on High street and turned over on its side. The machine was being driven by Roland D. Seger of 20 Buckminster street, Allston, who was unhurt.

At 10:05 Friday morning a Graham Brothers truck, owned by the Better Beverage Company of Everett, driven by Albert G. Wallace of 97 South Main street, Reading and a Ford truck belonging to the Metropolitan District Commission, operated by William L. Murphy of Boston street, Woburn, were in collision on Main street at the filling station of the Colonial Gasoline Company. The Graham truck was going south on Main street while the Ford was headed north and was making a left turn to enter the gasoline company's premises. The front end of the smaller machine was somewhat damaged. No one was injured.

Shortly before noon on Sunday as James Clay of 39 Campbell street, Woburn, was driving his Ford coupe south on upper Main street the machine struck a dog owned by Louis Kaplan of 642 Main street. The animal died of its injuries.

STATE GUARD VETERANS FORM STATE WIDE ORGANIZATION

Believing that the interests of the large number of former members of the Massachusetts State Guard throughout the State can be better served by a State Wide Organization, delegates from a number of local associations have formed such an organization and have incorporated under the name of Massachusetts State Guard Veterans.

It is hoped that every local association will become affiliated with this State Organization, to the end that former services may receive proper recognition and the associations and friendships formed during the term of service be kept alive through fraternal bonds.

In localities where there are no local associations any ten men who were members of the Massachusetts State Guard may form a local Unit, and will be granted a charter by the State Organization.

For full particulars and information address Capt. Charles B. Moseley, State Commander, 161 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, or Lieut. Harold M. Richardson, State Adjutant, 333 Beale street, Wollaston.

"LAZYBONES" COMING TO THE AUDITORIUM

Owen Davis' latest success "Lazybones" will be the attraction for next week at the Malden Auditorium, and if local playgoers like a well-written, warmly appealing and always interesting play, with an unusual romance, lots of big laughs, plenty of "punchy" drama, and moments of pathos that bring out the handkerchiefs, "Lazybones" will undoubtedly be acclaimed the best play of the current season.

The story of the play is best left untold before being seen. It is sufficient to say that the plot has to do with the silent fortitude with which Steve (Lazybones) Tuttle, the village ne'er-do-well, bears the hardships which pile upon him because he has the courage to stand by and help one poor girl when life was darkest and most bitter for her.

The title role of "Lazybones" will be played by Rikel Kent and patrons remembering his performance in "White Cargo" are looking forward to seeing him in this totally different character. The usual matinee on Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) will be omitted and in its place there will be an extra matinee on Friday.

Mrs. James Chefalo on Cedar street had eight of her hens killed by dog last week.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

MAN BURNED IN MANHOLE DIED AT HOSPITAL

Edward J. Crowe of 95 Medford street, Arlington, a foreman in the employ of the Arlington Gas Light Company, died Saturday night at the Winchester Hospital of burns received in an explosion which took place late Friday night in a manhole in which he was fixing a gas leak on the West Side of the town.

Crowe was at the bottom of the manhole about 11.45 p. m., reseating a valve at the junction of Sheffield road and Everett avenue on the west side of Winchester. It is believed electric wires connecting the lights which illumina ed the pit must have become crossed. A flame of gas blew up up n Crowe, filled the whole manhole and made a geyser of fire high up ab ve the street.

Richard Muller, 26, of 61 Mystic street, Frank Blair, 27, of 943 Massachusetts avenue and George Langdon, 32, of 55 Dow avenue, all of Arlington were outside around the manhole, helping. In the fury of the gale of blazing gas they grabbed the rope attached to Crowe's shoulder harness and while they, too, were enveloped in fire, they tried desperately to pull out the trapped man.

The foreman, a huge man, had been pulled by the super-human efforts of his companions to the top of the manhole when the rope, charred through by the flames gave way, necessitating the pulling of Crowe bodily from the flames.

Meanwhile the roar of the burning gas had aroused Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Black who live at 26 Everett avenue. Mr. Black notified the police and Officer Daniel Kelley dispatched the police ambulance to the scene while the Fire Department was answering the call which came from Box 521. Doctors Frank R. Brown and Richard W. Sheehy were summoned by the Misses Kathryn E. Doyle of Winchester and Winifred Joyce of Woburn, telephone operators on duty at the Winchester Exchange.

The injured men were removed to the Black home where they were given first aid treatment before being removed to the Winchester Hospital. Crowe, Blair and Muller were found to have been painfully burned, the former so seriously that his name was at once placed upon the danger list. Blair and Muller were able to go to their homes after treatment. Langdon refused to go to the hospital at all, though he too had been quite badly burned.

The fire proved one of the hardest to put out which the Fire Department had encountered for some time.

Chemicals couldn't be used to advantage because the source of the flame was many feet underground. Gas oozed up through the soil and burned for many feet around the manhole.

General Superintendent Wadsworth of the gas company, came to the rescue with a group of his men and they tried to get at the main further back, to stop the flow of gas.

The moment a pick was touched to the ground within 25 or 50 feet of the main trouble, there would be more flame, because the gas seeped up through the earth in a wide radius. Finally the men went 350 feet back and tapped the main, inserting a balloon stop, like a bladder, which when introduced into the main, blew up until it choked the main, and kept the gas from going farther.

It was 2 o'clock Saturday morning before the burning gas was finally conquered, and daylight arrived before things were gotten into condition to leave. Chief DeCourcy and his men put in a busy time while the fire was in progress. Not only were they on the jump getting the flames under control, but it was also necessary to maintain a strict guard about the fire area to prevent anyone endangering his life by coming near the gas escape where any sort of spark would have caused another explosion.

Crowe Buried Wednesday

Funeral services for Edward J. Crowe were held on Wednesday with a solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Agnes' Church, Arlington.

The deceased was 60 years of age and was born in Ireland, coming to this country with his parents when a child. Much of his life had been spent in Arlington where he enjoyed a wide circle of friends. He had been in the employ of the Arlington Gas Light Company for the past 32 years.

Mr. Crowe was active in the work of St. Agnes' parish, was a member of the Arlington Board of Trade and of Medford Lodge of Elks. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Lillian Germaine of Cambridge.

MAN INJURED AT FREIGHT YARD

Adolph Hendrickson of 10 Cross street, Woburn was painfully injured early Monday morning at the Winchester freight yard when he was caught between a freight car and an automobile truck owned by Thomas Quigley Jr., of this town and operated by Richard G. Sefton of 6 Russell terrace, Arlington.

Hendrickson, who is employed by the William Baird Company, manufacturers of refrigerator bodies, was assisting Sefton in the removal of a body from the latter's truck to a freight car. In some manner he slipped between the moving automobile and the car, being crushed between the two. He was at once removed to the Winchester Hospital by Harold Larson of Main street where he was treated for multiple contusions about the body by Dr. Sheehan of Stoneham. While painfully hurt Hendrickson was not found to be seriously injured and was removed from the hospital to his home on Wednesday.

Two Winchester men were among the Harvard Freshmen elected to the Freshman Dormitory Committees by the class of 1929 last week. They are E. W. Sexton, who will represent Little Hall, and A. E. French, representing Shepherd Hall. Their duties will be to help arrange class meetings and entertainments. French, who is captain of the Freshman football team, polled the largest vote of the 41 nominees.

NEEDLE WORK GUILD

On Wednesday, Nov. 11, the annual meeting of the Winchester Branch of the Needlework Guild of America was held at the Parish Hall of the Church of the Epiphany. There were not as many Directors present as usual, due to the fact that the meeting was held on Armistice Day. They had sent their boxes and baskets, however, well filled with donations—new, warm garments and articles of household use and these were soon counted and laid out upon the tables.

A short business meeting followed, Mrs. Anthony Kelley, the secretary, reading the report of last years' meeting and distribution of 489 garments, and Mrs. Weeks, the treasurer, reporting a payment of $40 to the Thank Offering of the National Organization in commemoration of 40 years of work in this Country, the money to be used to further extend this work in our United States.

Mrs. W. E. Wilde, President, said a few words, thanking the Directors for their devotion to the Guild. She also announced a Subscription Luncheon to be given on Monday the 16th at the Women's Republican Club of Boston, by the Boston Chapter, in honor of the newly elected National President, Mrs. Thomas Preston, Jr., of Princeton, N. J.—the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland. Six delegates, including the four officers of the Guild, announced their intention of attending the luncheon. They went and very much enjoyed the occasion. About 300 women were seated at tables in the ballroom of the Historic old Jordan House, the wood panelled room with its fine leaded glass window, making a beautiful setting.

Mrs. Preston spoke most informally and intimately. Her enthusiasm is sincere and contagious. She held the attention of all present.

Mr. Cheney C. Jones, the superintendent of the New England Home for Little Wanderers also spoke and told many interesting and touching stories to illustrate the regenerating effect of new, warm and even beautiful garments, in the eyes of the little ones, for neglected and half clad children. It was certainly pleasant to hear his enthusiastic appreciation of the gifts of the Boston Chapter. They, in turn, promised him an even larger donation this year. So, some wandering "Tiny Tim" will be given a "Merry Christmas" by this active branch of the Needlework Guild. They reported 6000 garments distributed in 1924.

Mrs. Wilde closed her remarks by announcing her intention of serving as President but one more year and also the interesting fact that the annual meeting of the National Organization will be held in Boston, the first week of May, 1926. She expressed a hope that each and every member of the Winchester Branch will plan to attend at least one of the meetings. They are sure to be interesting and inspiring.

Later the secretary reported 500 gifts upon the tables and the treasurer $25 in money.

The garments will be quickly distributed to the best known welfare organizations of our Town and neighborhood—like the Mothers' Rest at Revere, the Tubercular Sanitarium at Reading and the Sailor's Haven in Charlestown. Miss Smith, in charge of our Town welfare work, was much pleased with the largest bundle given out.

THE FOLLIES OF '76

The Follies of '76 is the title of the big masonic night to be given by the combined Winchester Lodges, together with the local chapter of the Eastern Star, this winter. It will be the gala event of the season and will take place at the Town Hall on Friday evening, Jan. 22.

For the first time in Winchester's masonic history, the two Blue Lodges, the Chapter and the Eastern Star will combine their talents in an original entertainment and ladies' night. Following the entertainment, which is to be one of the finest ever given here, both in music and action, there is to be dancing.

A feature of the evening is the fact that the tickets for the affair are to be placed on public sale so far as they are available after the members of the various orders engaged are taken care of.

The play is to be coached by Mr. George E. Willey and Mrs. Arthur E. Sanford will head the show committee.

BRIDGE PARTY

There was a large attendance at the mixed bridge party at the Calumet Club on Friday evening—there being 13 tables on Friday the 13th. The hall and card rooms were decorated for the evening with flowers of the season, greenery and crepe. The prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. E. D. Squires, Mrs. Roy Wilson, Mrs. William H. Bowe, Mr. E. D. Chase, Mr. R. E. Carlisle, Mr. Walter E. Chamberlain. The party was in charge of a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase.

WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

The November meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon, the 24th, at the hom of Mrs. Newton Shultis, Winthrop street at 3 o'clock. Mrs. George H. Hamilton and Mrs. M. Ella F. Gleason will bring interesting accounts of the National Convention which they are now attending in Detroit.

FOURBALL PLAY AT COUNTRY CLUB

T. A. Freeburn and R. H. Boutwell led the field in the fourball play at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon with a best ball of 76, three strokes under that of E. H. McDonald and W. W. O'Hara.

The scores:

T. A. Freeburn and R. H. Boutwell	76
E. H. McDonald and W. W. O'Hara	79
J. A. Wheeler Jr. and R. F. Whitney	80
S. E. Newman and H. V. Hovey	81

A Finer, Luxurious 4-Door Sedan Priced Less than a 2-Door Coach

CLOSELY following the news of Chandler breaking all records as winner of the annual Labor Day automobile contest terminating at the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,109 feet above the sea, Chandler now announces a notable advance in body development, together with large reductions in prices.

It is one thing to reduce prices. It is another thing to increase quality. Still another thing is to break records in performance. But to do all three things at the same time is an accomplishment of triple interest to the public.

The new Chandler Twentieth Century Sedan is the most important accomplishment in Chandler history—a magnificent, large-size, four-door Sedan that is priced less than a two-door Coach! Chandler believes that the ultimate and logical closed car of all closed cars is the 4-door Sedan.

Here is quality appeal plus price appeal—an ideal development in body-building on the perfected Chandler chassis—with the marvelous Pikes Peak Motor.

Chandler power, Chandler pick-up, Chandler hill-climbing, Chandler steering, Chandler brake action—all will open your eyes to motor car efficiency that is completely and faultlessly delightful.

And with it all, you save money. Note these price reductions—then see and drive the cars.

WHAT THE CO-OPERATIVE BANK IS AND WHAT YOUR DOLLARS CAN DO!

Loans on Real Estate

We are organized primarily for the purpose of assisting you to own your own home.

The monthly savings of our depositors are invested in first mortgages on homes. We are privileged to loan up to 80% of the value of a property as appraised by our investigating committee.

We cannot loan more than $8000 on any one piece of property nor more than $8000 to any one person.

All of our loans are at the rate of 6% per annum with interest payable monthly.

For each $200 borrowed, one share of the bank is pledged so that the borrower saves monthly $1.00 on his loan and pays $1.00 interest. By so doing the loan is paid up in full in about twelve years.

Borrowers are privileged to pay off their loans at any time either in full or in $50.00 payments, thus enabling them to save interest and pay up their loan sooner.

Own Your Own Home This Way

Loans on Deposit Books

A depositor who finds he needs money for a certain length of time can borrow 90% of the value of his account at any time. These loans are made on a 5½% rate with interest payable monthly and at the same time the share payment is made. This enables the depositor to keep the account undisturbed and saves the trouble of going anywhere else for accommodation.

These loans can be paid up at any time either in full or in multiples of $10.00.

This is a convenient way to help yourself or a friend without interrupting your monthly saving plan.

Earnings of The Bank

Our earnings are received from interest due on real estate and share loans and for fines due on account of non-payment of the monthly payment.

All these earnings belong to the share holders.

Every six months a dividend is paid to the share holders. Every share holder is treated the same. His account is credited with his dividend and all dividends are compounded semi-annually.

You are privileged to withdraw your account at any time.

Our dividends have been at the rate of 5% per annum compounded semi-annually since 1902.

Take advantage of our system and let your money earn you this rate instead of a lower rate.

Monthly Saving Plan

The system of our bank is such that a depositor may take out shares and save monthly, regularly.

A depositor cannot carry more than forty shares, but he can carry any number from one share to forty shares. These shares are represented by a monthly payment of one dollar for each share. These shares can be withdrawn at any time.

When the shares together with their earnings amount to $200 they mature. That is, they must be withdrawn. It takes at the present time, 146 months for a share to mature. At maturity the depositor is privileged to withdraw the money or leave it on deposit in the form of a certificate or deposit or re-invest it in other serial shares.

New Shares go on sale every six months, so a person is able to start on a dollar basis with us every November and May.

We have paid 5% on these serial shares since 1902.

We would suggest that you look into this monthly saving system so that your idle money will be put to work earning you a better rate than it is now doing.

WYMAN MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The work of the year started auspiciously with a very interesting meeting, held at the school on Tuesday, Nov. 24. Mrs. Kenneth Young, the new president, presided. Mrs. George Leghorn, the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee announced that to raise money for a curtain for the Wyman Hall stage, a bridge would be held in Wyman Hall, Monday, Dec. 14. Tickets are $1 each, and mothers and friends are urged to attend, that the affair may be both a social and financial success.

The musical part of the program consisted of a piano duet by Mrs. Whorf and Mrs. Proctor, two McDowell selections by Mrs. Whorf and a group of three songs by Mrs. Winship.

The speakers of the afternoon were Mr. Quinn, Superintendent of Schools; Miss Pratt, Supervisor of Elementary Education; Miss Thyng, Supervisor of Art Work; and Miss Spencer, Principal of the Wyman School.

In her talk on curriculum making Miss Pratt explained that the emphasis was part on the development of the child and that the goals to be attained were the best possible mental and physical health, and the greatest possible character development.

Mr. Quinn asked us to show a more constructive interest in school affairs by studying the school department's budget intelligently and critically, and then by attending the annual town meeting when appropriations are voted upon.

JULIUS P. FREEMAN

Julius P. Freeman, a former superintendent in the employ of the old McKay Works, passed away last Friday night at his home on Elm street after several months of failing health.

Mr. Freeman was 79 years old and a native of Webster, the son of George and Adaline (Towne) Freeman. His early life was spent in Webster where he became known as an expert wool sorter. He was prominent in the political life of his community, and served for several years as local representative in the State Legislature.

Upon coming to make his home in Winchester some 27 years ago Mr. Freeman became superintendent of all the outside work at the McKay plant on Swanton street, a position which he held luring the life of the concern in town. For the past 10 years he has been retired from active business. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. J. Albert Hersey of Winchester and a brother, George Freeman of Scituate.

Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock on Monday morning at the late residence, 6 Elm street, and were conducted by the Rev. John H. Whitley of the Second Congregational Church. There was a large attendance and a profusion of beautiful flowers. The interment was in the family lot at Webster where the committal prayers were read by the Rev. Henry Baker of Woodstock.

OUTPUT OF WOBURN PLANTS WORTH $14,201,959

The state department of labor and industries in a report this week made public the manufacturing statistics for Woburn for 1924. They show that the 48 Woburn factories produced goods valued at $14,201,959 for the year, employed 2331 persons, who received $3,279,750 in wages. Leather and chemicals were the principal products.

EPIPHANY MEN HELD LADIES' NIGHT

The Men's Club of the Epiphany Church held its first meeting of the season in the Church parish house on Monday evening, the affair being in the nature of a ladies' night with the big feature the preparing and serving of a splendid dinner entirely by the men.

Nor did the menu suffer for lack of feminine supervision. For instance there was included, fruit cocktail, cold home-boiled ham and chicken salad with vegetables and the proverbial ice cream, fancy cakes and coffee, all tastily prepared and dispensed with commendable efficiency and dispatched by a corps of waiters in costume, including George Bryne, James Cleaves, William Cole, Albert Capron, Dudley Cotton, Robert Davis, George Fitch, John Johnson, Herbert Kelley, Lewis Latremore, E. Z. Neil, Dr. Harry Y. Nutter, A. E. Sweet, Ralph Garner, Robert F. Guild, C. W. Meek, F. N. Hamerstrom, C. F. Smith, Harry Sawyer and A. B. Jackson.

The hall was decorated with colored balloons which together with the gaudy paper hats worn by all present, lent a festive spirit to the occasion which was reflected by the 150 diners, each of whom was provided with a balloon whistle and noise maker as vents for his exhuberant spirits.

President Edward B. Smalley of the Men's Club acted as toastmaster and called upon Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., pastor of the church; Mr. Alfred S. Higgins, long a warden and formerly for many years the church treasurer; Mrs. Robert Davis, head of the Epiphany Church Service League, and Mr. Herbert S. Underwood, recently returned to Winchester after a year abroad.

Following the supper a splendid entertainment program was enjoyed. There were selections by a chorus of male voices from the church choir directed by Choirmaster J. Albert Wilson, vocal solos by Mr. Kenneth McLeod and Mr. Edwin Corthell of Brookline, and a duet by Mrs. Cora Phelps and Mr. Corthell. The latter, a favorite entertainer at Epiphany gatherings, was voted an honorary member of the club as a token of appreciation for the services he has so often rendered.

Perhaps the big feature of the evening was a clever juvenile sketch by a dainty young lady soprano, attractively gowned in blue with a large picture hat, who turned out to be "Sonny" Tufts, one of the Epiphany choir boys. His accompanist was Miss Cecile de Coriolis.

At the conclusion of the entertainment dancing was enjoyed by something over 50 couples, splendid music being furnished by Down's Orchestra of Stoneham. The elimination dance was won by Mrs. T. I. Freeburn and Mr. Lewis W. Latremore.

The committee in charge included F. W. Aseltine, dinner; H. F. Begien, entertainment; and T. I. Freeburn, waiters, with President Smalley exercising a general supervision.

Officers of the Epiphany Men's Club for the ensuing year are: President, E. B. Smalley; Vice-President, A. S. MacDonald; Secretary, E. S. Larned; Treasurer, W. L. Hart.

FRANK LEONARD

Frank Leonard, a widely known resident of the town for the past 30 years ,died at 9:30 Thursday morning, at his home on Harvard street, following a shock suffered last Saturday from which he failed to rally. He had been in poor health for about a year.

Mr. Leonard was 72 years old and a native of Biddeford, Me., the son of Patrick and Hannah Leonard. He came to Winchester from Lawrence, and was for a number of years connected with the local plant of the United Shoe Machinery Company, later working with the same concern at its Beverly factory. For the past 17 years he had been employed as a machinist at the Boston Navy Yard, retiring on a pension a year ago. He was a charter member of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Helen Webber of Boston and Catherine A. Leonard of this town; and four sons, William of Woburn, and John P. Frank M., and James A. Leonard of Winchester. Another son. Augustus M. Leonard. for whom the playground. Leonard Field, in the Highlands district was dedicated on last Memorial Day, lost his life in action while serving with the United States Expeditionary Forces in the World War.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

BUILDING PERMITS

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for week ending Thursday, Dec. 3, as follows:

Ivan N. Fox, Somerville, new dwelling on lots 33-32 Highland avenue.

Wilbur W. McElwen, Winchester, private garage at 20 Kenwin road.

Timothy Hannon, Winchester, addition to present dwelling at 791 Main street.

Van French, a regular on the Tufts basketball team for the past two seasons is again a candidate for the quintet and is expected to hold down either a forward position or his old berth at center. Big "Jim" Fitzgerald, a freshman at the Medford college is the most promising candidate for center on the yearling outfit. The "frosh" are expected to put a whale of a team on the floor this season, and they couldn't have a better man to build around than "Harpy."

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The Edward T. Harrington Company reports the following recent sales negotiated through their Winchester office.

The above sales and rentals were made through the office of Edward T. Harrington Company.

THIEVES GOT ABOUT $2000

Two thieves, entering the home of Mr. Charles F. Winship, 61 Yale street, escaped with jewelry valued at over $2000 early Tuesday evening. As usual, an automobile was employed in the robbery, and when discovered at their work of ransacking the house, they succeeded in getting to the car and escaping after throwing a pursuing auto off their track.

Mrs. Winship who was to attend the theatre with her husband, had been dining at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Reynolds on Bacon street. Returning to her own home to get a heavy wrap before going to Boston, she found a sedan parked at her front walk and saw a light in an upstairs window.

Thinking that possibly her husband had returned home for her or that her parents, who were expected, had arrived and entered, she went into the house by the front door. As she entered she called, but there was no response, and a second later she heard an upstairs window open, followed by the noise of someone falling in the shrubbery at the side of the house.

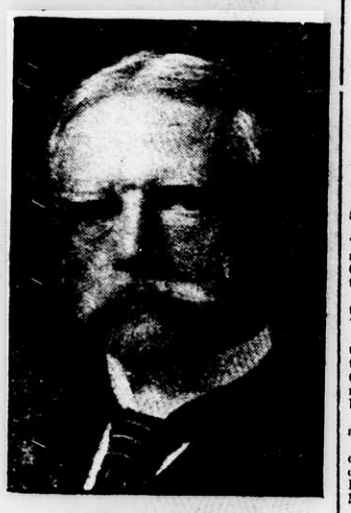

She ran out and around the side of the house to be confronted by two men picking themselves up out of the shrubs, one of whom pointed a revolver at her while the other cried "shoot her; shoot her." She ran back to where her own car was standing with the chauffeur while the two men ran to the other car, standing with the engine running, and started off.

Henry Zimmy, chauffeur of the Reynolds car was waiting with Mr. Robert A. Reynolds, and with Mrs. Winship started in pursuit of the robbers' car, only to lose it at the end of Calumet road. The car evidently turned down Fletcher street, while the Reynolds car went through to Wildwood street.

How the men entered the house is not known, for all of the doors were open, together with one window. They had just about completed ransacking the upper rooms of the house when discovered, and had made a thorough job of going through everything, leaving great confusion behind them. Fortunately they had not reached the downstairs rooms, and the silver was not touched. The loot included one diamond ring valued at $1500, besides smaller rings, pearls, etc.

CHRISTMAS SERIES AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A series of special Sunday evening Christmas services will be held at the Baptist Church in December. A chorue choir has been organized, which will render a special anthem. Paul Russell of Brookline, tenor soloist, will also assist in the musical program. The program for the next three Sundays is as follows: Dec. 6 at 7 p. m., Dicken's Christmas Carol and its spiritual message will be presented with the stereopticon and beautifully colored slides; Dec. 13 at 7 p. m., "Why the Chimes Rang" will be presented with lantern slides and a message on, "The Contagion of Unselfishness"; Dec. 20. at 4 p. m., a Christmas vesper service with a Christmas cantata and a Christmas message will be presented. These meetings will be of interest to men, women and children and all who have no other church home are cordially invited.

SAMUEL J. ELDER

His Daughter, Margaret M. Elder Writes His Biography

Romance, history, college life, politics, the law court, diary confessions, life on the sea, and international relations are blended together in a rich kaleidoscope in the recent "Life of Samuel J. Elder" by Margaret M. Elder.

It pictures the little red-headed boy about the streets of Lawrence trudging after the soldiers as they marched away to the Civil War, his efforts to earn money for an education by selling newspapers and collecting bills for doctors, his romancing to breathless playmates at school recess, foreshadowing his brilliant gifts as a raconteur in later life. Then comes the college life at Yale, beginning with the dramatic experience of being chased down street by sophomores as soon as he got off the train in New Haven because he, a freshman, appeared unwittingly with a cane! His early struggle to get a foothold in the law practice of Boston and his marriage to Lilla Thomas of Hastings-on-Hudson whom he first met when she was a guest at the house of Edwin Ginn in Boston, are told in another chapter.

His diary tells of his pathetic fits of depression and self-searching, with his final appraisal of himself as only an ordinary little man. Then come fascinating chapters on the Eastman murder trial, word pictures of the brilliant Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, whose counsel Mr. Elder was for years. These are followed by an account of the Fisheries Arbitration Case at the Hague, in which Mr. Elder was one of the counsel for the United States Government.

From the warm-hearted "introduction" by Chief Justice Taft to the tender account by Charles Gallagher of the funeral services in the First Congregational Church, the book marches along amidst laughter, high resolves, court episodes, family life, and friendships, to ultimate success.

The Boston Transcript, after giving half a page to the review of the book, says: "Even this extended review only hints at the treasures to be found within the pages of Miss Elder's book. It is a contribution to the literature of Boston's emminent citizens which is engaging as a work of biography and a fit memorial to one whom to know was to love."

The book is published by the Yale University Press, and Mr. Elder's old-time friends in Winchester will be glad to know that it is on sale at the Star office. It is a book for one's library and a book to send to friends out of town at this Christmas season as a genial reminder of happy days and associations.

DIED IN WINCHESTER HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Timothy Eagan of Lynn died Tuesday afternoon in the Winchester Hospital with a fractured skull, the result of having been tsruck by an automobile while walking near dead man's curve in Reading at about 4:30 o'clock. He was rushed to the hospital but died soon after his arrival, the body being removed to the undertaking rooms of Kelley & Hawes Co. until it could be claimed by relatives.

The operator of the machine, Timothy J. Buckley of 109 Haverhill street, Reading, claimed he was unable to see the man because of the heavy rain and the uncertain light. He was held by the police charged with manslaughter and driving so as to endanger the lives of the public. In the Woburn Court Wednesday morning he asked for continuance, pleading not guilty to the charges. His case was continued two weeks until Dec. 16.

Christmas at the Hospital

HEALTH is the greatest asset in life—next to Happiness it is the most glorious treasure in the gift-shop of the Almighty, and indeed there can be no true happiness without good health. Think well, and kindly then of those who are not in good health this Christmas-tide. We have the sick in the home—their plight is sad—they cannot romp and make merry with the children,—and they cannot perhaps leave the sick room to join in the family Christmas dinner. They do find solace, however, in the presence of friends and relatives and the cheer of the home. Infinitely sadder is the plight of those who are sick in the Hospital on Christmas Day.

Shorn of the surroundings of home, the Great Day to them is joyous only from recollections of past merriment, or the hope of other pleasant holidays when health is restored. Let us, therefore, remember those who are sick in the Hospital this year. The Magi were wise men—they chose wisely their gifts.

Let us emulate them so far as possible in spirit, and in the choice and bestowal of ours. This is the season for remembering the nurses who care for the sick as well as the patients themselves. Their festivities are few, but each year they enjoy to the full their Christmas dance, their tree, and the fun of decorating their Home as well as the Hospital.

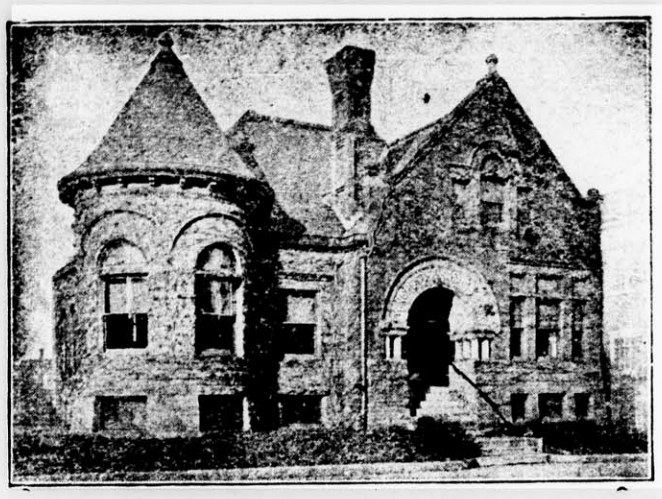

The Training School, and House Committees of the Hospital announce that the following articles will be gladly received. Please send your gifts as soon as possible to the Hospital in care of Miss Olive MacKay, Superintendent, or telephone her your intention to send later in the month. Here is a list from which to choose: wreaths (12 last year), mistletoe, bunches of holly, packages of snow, tinsel by yard, paper bells, rolls of red, white and green crepe paper, ropes of evergreen—large tree for nurses and strings of lights, small tree for children in wards—small candy baskets and favors for patients' trays (provided), oranges and other fruits.

In the new Nurses' Home there are many little gifts which will add to the comfort and home-like atmosphere, such as odd cups and saucers of attractive design, or plates for the tea service, a few teaspoons, lemonade glasses, books of short stories, or other light reading matter, to be enjoyed in the very rare hours of leisure, plants for the lovely new sun-porch or even a good second-hand piano.

Beside the interest of individuals, there are groups of young people who will have a happier Christmas if they plan to share their good things with the friends at our Hospital.

LOCAL YOUNG MEN ARRESTED WITH GIRL FOR THEFT IN LOWELL

Charles T. Williams of 541 Main street and Roco Di Tesco of 21 Summer street with a 19 year old girl who gave her name as Harriet Mahoney of 26 Summer street, Stoneham are held in bonds of $1000 each to appear in the Lowell Court on next Wednesday, Dec. 9, when they will answer to the charge of larceny of a fur coat from the establishment of Fidler's Inc., in that city early on Monday morning.

The trio were arrested by the Lowell police after one of the number, it is alleged, had broken a window in the furriers' shop and had removed the coat which the girl was wearing when the arrests were made.

According to the police account of the affair Williams, Di Tesco and the girl had been riding in an automobile and when the latter expressed the desire for a fur coat, had gone in quest of one.

A garment which pleased the fair one was discovered in Lowell in the window of Fidler's Inc., and the glass was quickly broken that the coat might be taken immediately.

Patrolman Charles Dennelle of the Lowell Police heard the crash of the window and arrived on the scene in time to see the machine containing the trio disappearing down Merrimac street. He notified police headquarters and a searching party came upon Williams, Di Tesco and the Mahoney girl near the City Hall where they were placed under arrest.

The girl, so it is alleged, was bleeding about the face and hands from cuts which may have been inflicted by broken glass, but although she was accused by the police of having broken the furriers' window she denied the fact nor would either of her escorts admit that she was the guilty one.

When arraigned before Judge Enright in the Lowell Court their case was continued until Dec. 9, all three being held in bonds of $1000 each. In lieu of bail they were remanded to jail at East Cambridge but were released when the bonds were furnished Tuesday.

Mrs. Ethel J. Stretch has sold her property at 16 Sheffield West to Mr. Joseph Pistorino who buys for occupancy. Chamberlain and Burnham, Inc., were the agents.

WINCHESTER ELKS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES SUNDAY

On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Lyceum Hall, Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its annual memorial services for the members of the order who have passed beyond. The public is cordially invited to attend the exercises which should prove of exceptional interest.

The speaker of the evening will be the Hon. Joseph Warner, former speaker of the House of Representatives in Massachusetts and at present Assistant Attorney General of the Commonwealth. Anyone who has heard Mr. Warner speak will not miss this opportunity to repeat that pleasure while those who have not may rest assured of a treat in store.

Mrs. Clara Morrison, a great favorite with the Elks and their ladies will be the soloist and there will be orchestral selections by the Lincoln Players Club Orchestra of 18 pieces under the direction of Walter L. Rice.

WADLEIGH PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

All Winchester parents are welcomed by the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association to come and hear in the High School Assembly Hall what promises to be a most helpful talk on "Fatherhood a Profession." All parents have of necessity their individual problems in the upbringing of their boy or their girl. Mr. J. Adams Puffer who speaks before the Association on the evening of Dec. 17 is well qualified for his talk. He is a lecturer of wide repute who is in constant demand by Teacher Associations, East and West, Chambers of Commerce, Rotary Clubs, and Scout Organizations, and is the author of a classic on the boy and the editor of a series of books on Child Guidance. He knows whereof he speaks, for he is the parent of children as well as an expert student of their ways. He will hold a forum for the answering of questions at the close of his talk.

Tickets may be had of Wadleigh pupils or at the school.

RALPH E. JOSLIN, PRESIDENT

The Board of Directors of the Winchester Trust Company has elected Ralph E. Joslin president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Frank L. Ripley.

OH! DO I HAVE TO EAT THAT?

Is not this a familiar cry in many a household, and does it not bring dismay to the housekeeper who knows of what real value certain foods would be to her family, and at the same time feels unable to cope with the whims, distastes and prejudices that have risen up against such dishes.

If this is your dilemma, come to the Second Congregational Church on Cross street at 2 p. m. on Wednesday Dec. 9 and let Miss Beatrice Billings, in her third lecture on, "Food and Nutrition" help you solve this problem. "Making wholesome foods palatable and attractive to the family" is the general subject of her talk, next Wednesday. Demonstration dishes will be served and receipts will be given out.

These lectures are given under the auspices of the Washington Chapter of the Mothers' Association, by one of the Home Demonstration Agents of the Middlesex County Extension Service. They are free, although a penny-or-nickle contribution is solicited to defray incidental expenses. An attendant will be there to take care of little children.

Wednesday, Dec. 9, at 2 p. m., Second Congregational Church.

EXHIBITION BOWLING

There is to be an exhibition bowling tournament at the Calumet Club on the evening of Saturday, Dec. 12, when two prominent bowlers of the Middlesex Sportsmen's Association of Arlington will visit the local club and roll two well known Calumet men. The visitors will be W. L. Pyatt and W. H. Baker. Pyatt has an average of 115 and Baker 129. They will be matched against Edwin R. Rooney and Earle B. Goldsmith, both expert bowlers.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Larned of this town have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Priscilla Larned, to John Hamilton Clarke also of Winchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan Clarke of Toronto, Canada. Miss Larned attended Mt. Holyoke College at South Hadley. Mr. Clarke is a graduate of McGill University, Montreal. No date has been set for the wedding.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

On Tuesday evening a most enjoyable whist party was conducted in the K. of C. Hall under the leadership of Sister Katherine Fallon who was assisted by an able committee. The attendance, though a stormy night, was very gratifying and the proceeds will be most acceptable to our treasury in enabling us to carry on our charitable work during the coming Holiday season. As in the past our chief interest at Christmas time is the Home for Destitute Children. Through the combined assistance of the many Guilds throughout the State, the little ones have for several years past been able to enjoy Christmas in a most happy way, for after all Christmas is the childrens' holiday. We have also at this time some local charity which receives our attention.

Sunday, Nov. 21 was Guild Day at the Holy Ghost Hospital for Incurables in Cambridge. Each of the several Guilds contributed a number to the program which was conducted in all the wards at the institute. Mrs. Mary McGrath, of our local Guild, was certainly a very pleasing number. She was received with much applause in her several offerings of songs, which included the sublime as well as the ridiculous.

The next regular business meeting of the Guild will be held on next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in K. of C. Hall. It is earnestly hoped that all members will make every effort to be present for much of importance will come before this meeting. Also, come early so that the meeting may be called without delay.

"THE RIVER" SCORES HIT AT THE COPLEY THEATRE

Score another bullseye for E. E. Clive of the Copley Theatre, Boston, for this astute manager has unfolded another sure-fire success in "The River," which opened an indefinite engagement at this pouular playhouse last Monday night. The piece was offered for the first time in America and like its predecessor "The Creaking Chair," seems happily destined to attract capacity houses to the Copley Theatre. For this reason it might be safe for out-of-town playgoers who anticipate an afternoon or evening of real pleasure to go to the Copley Theatre and see "The River." "The River" is a gripping play of tense appeal. It is presented in three acts, replete with brisk dialogue, spirited action and vigorous drama. It is the work of Sir Patrick Hastings, who has taken the west coast of Africa as an atmospheric background. The story concerns chiefly of the adventurous career of John Carew, who has migrated to the blazing tropics in an effort to forget his wife's deception. It is she, however, who has saved him from the hangman's noose, from the murder charge against him, after confessing her guilt. The events that follow come in rapid succession and keep you on the anxious seat until the drop of the final curtain. The usual matinees at the Copley are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Winchester National Bank, Winchester, Mass., will be held in its Banking Rooms on Tuesday, Jan. 12, 1926, at 8 P. M., to elect Directors for the ensuing year and to transact such other business as may legally come before the meeting.

WINCHESTER SHOWED MUCH IMPROVEMENT DURING PAST FOOTBALL SEASON

While the Winchester High School football eleven did not win the Mystic Valley League Championship this Fall nor did it emerge victorious from a majority of its games, the team on the whole enjoyed the best season it has experienced since the scrapping of its dreadnaught outfit of three years ago.

Winchester played a schedule of ten games, winning four, losing five and tieing one. It's League standing was .400 with two wins and three reverses. In the matter of points scored, Winchester had a distinct edge, amassing a total of 137 to 93 for its opponents. In only two games, those against Arlington and Melrose, was the team outclassed.

From the angle of student interest the local school never enjoyed a better season. The largest squad ever reported for the eleven at the first call for candidates and a big majority of the boys remained out through the season. This fact in itself reflects great credit upon the new Coach, Wendell D. Mansfield, who took the place left vacant when the former athletic instructor, Ernest H. Roberts accepted a position at Medford High School. Coach Mansfield entered upon his new duties with enthusiasm, an enthusiasm which never faltered throughout the year.

Blessed with a fair squad of players with more or less experience the new mentor began at the beginning, developing his team gradually until at then end of the season he had a machine on the field which was equipped to play good football and which did just that. His standing with his boys is best indicated by the fact that they presented him with a gold watch and chain at their football dinner last week, a gift which many a winning coach of long years' standing never receives.

This season's eleven was captained by Floyd "Bud" Robinson who played left end and managed by Holbrooke Lowell. It's first string lineup found Robinson and "Spike" O'Donnell, Captain-elect for next year, on the ends; "Charlie" Cassidy and Hight at the tackles and "Jack" Harriman and Walker, playing the guards with McCauley or McCarthy at center. In the backfield were "Nicky" Fitzgerald at quarterback, and "Hennie" Knowlton, "Wop" Rolli, and "Jim" Halwartz playing the halves and full. The team this year had a wealth of backfield material, Haley, Simonds, Prue and Kendrick, being on par with the first named players while Drohan, Flaherty and Taylor also showed to advantage. On the rushline "Barney" Murphy, Morton, the Amico boys, Franklin, Berry and Nelson proved capable replacements. Winchester's outstanding players throughout the season to the writer's way of thinking, were "Hennie" Knowlton, "Charlie" Cassidy and "Hank" Prue. No team in the league boasted a better tackle than Cassidy with the possible exception of Watertown whose Captain Packard was a very sweet performer. Knowlton ranked with the leading backs on the circuit and was not out-kicked this season. Prue deserves especial credit for his ability to play any position in the backfield with no loss of efficiency and also for being a real iron man who was always ready to go. Walker, Haley, Simonds and the veteran "Wop" Rolli also flashed fine football at times. Injuries prevented O'Donnell and Captain Robinson from showing their best game while "Jim" Halwartz also was way below his last season's form.

The letter men include Robinson, Rolli, Fitzgerald, Kendrick, Prue, Cassidy, Hight, Harriman, Johnson, McCauley, Halwartz, O'Donnell, Walker, Simonds, Knowlton, Haley, B. Murphy, A. Amico, Franklin and McCarthy. Of this list Coach Mansfield expects to have as a nucleus next year Captain-elect O'Donnell, Prue, McCauley, Halwartz, Walker, Simonds, Knowlton, Haley, B. Murphy, A. Amico, Franklin and McCarthy which with Taylor, Drohan, Berry, B. Amico, Flaherty, Nelson and Morton makes the outlook for a winner unusually bright.

The season's record follows:

Winchester	0 Medford	13
Winchester	6 Stoneham	12
Winchester	12 Saugus	0
Winchester	13 Lexington	13
Winchester	6 Watertown	8
Winchester	21 Wakefield	0
Winchester	6 Melrose	20

CAR THIEVES SENTENCED

Frank Smith and H. Arnold Graham, both of Boston, the two young men arrested by officers Hogan, Kelley and Harold of the Winchester police early Thanksgiving morning and charged with the theft of an Essex coach from the Boston concern of H. L. Golden Company, the same being discovered by the authorities badly smashed near the corner of Cambridge and High streets, appeared in the City Court, Boston, Friday morning. They were found guilty as charged, and were sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction. They appealed the sentence.

CHRISTMAS CAROLING TO BE ORGANIZED IN 2000 CITIES

Old Time Waits Prove Popular Bearers of Yuletide Message

The revival of the old-time, Old World custom of Christmas Eve caroling has made such rapid progress in the United States during the past decade, according to the statistics of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, that it will be organized in probably more than 2000 towns and cities this year, many of which are already recruiting and rehearsing their singers.

Among the first to announce its plans is Chicago, whose caroling committee includes Mayor Dever as honorary chairman. Max Mason and Harry Pratt Johnson, president and president emeritus respectively of the University of Chicago, Frederick Stock, director of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. James W. Morrison, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters. Hotel lobbies, schools, churches, theatres, clubs, homes, hospitals, jails and all public institutions where people are gathered will be visited by the groups of carol singers, and their music will also be broadcast by radio. The committee plans to have every human voice in Chicago join in the singing on Christmas eve and Christmas morning.

In Detroit, where the caroling has been done on a larger scale each year since 1916, the head of the 1925 committee is Mrs. C. B. Chamberlain, chairman of the Fine Arts Department, Detroit Federation of Women's Clubs. The Camp Fire Girls and the Girl Scouts will furnish the caroling bands, or waits, for the residential districts. In this city, as in St. Louis, Atlanta and others ,a charitable purpose has been combined with the social one of bringing the message of good will to all through the bright and charming traditional melodies. In each of these places money collected by the carolers has gone toward the care of the city's needly children.

The Music League of Philadelphia is organizing the caroling in that city, as it has done for the past two years, and is preparing 60,000 song sheets for the purpose. The rehearsing will be in the hands mainly of 150 song leaders, trained by Robert Lawrence, the well known music director of Washington, D. C. A special "remembrance carol" will be sung where two candles in the window signify that a member of the family is absent.

One of the interesting later developments of the movement has been its spread into the rural communities, with the carolers conveyed by auto, or when there is snow on the ground, by sleigh, from village to village. In North Dakota the State University at Grand Forks through it extension division, is giving impetus to this activity for the coming Christmas.

For those who wish to organize caroling groups there is considerable information and assistance available which may be obtained by writing to the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music at 45 West 45th street, New York, and which is free upon request in single copies. It includes the general descriptive booklet, "Christmas Eve Caroling Being Revived," outlining the methods adopted in places of various sizes, a survey listing 1285 towns and cities, reports of whose caroling activity had been received up to last year, and a paper pattern of the hood and cape costume which is being widely used by the itinerant bands, and which adds so much to the color and picturesqueness of the scene. Those who organize the groups are most frequently school teachers, music teachers, Sunday school superintendents, club leaders and individuals generally who enjoy working with young people and helping them to serve their community.

Copied Eastern Tables

It was not, probably, until the time of the Crusaders that the table became an honored piece of furniture in the homes of the Britons. It has been established that the knights and squires of these times, on their journeys to the East saw specimens of tables that were exquisite in their beauty of design and perfect craftsmanship. It is not too much to imagine that on their return to their own land they set about to copy the tables that they had seen in the palaces of the Egyptians and Assyrians.

LEWIS PARKHURST ON FOOTBALL

To the Editor of the Transcript:

In the Transcript of Nov. 23, Mr. George C. Carens, who has written so many interesting articles concerning football during the last few weeks, published quite a long article explaining why Harvard and Yale each failed to score in their game on the previous Saturday in the Stadium at Cambridge. In this article he makes the following statement:

> They say that Harvard's severe entrance requirements drive much good football material from the Cambridge portals. Andrew James Oberlander, the greatest forward passer that the game of football has produced, told me Saturday morning at the offices of the Harvard Athletic Association that he tried to get into Harvard before matriculating at Dartmouth. How handy he would have been in putting on this new Harvard offense.

In an article in the Transcript of Nov. 28, in which he praises Oberlander and his teammates for their refusal to follow the lead of "Red" Grange into the ranks of professional football although several of them have received most flattering offers, he refers to the above quoted article and says, "This note was used in connection with the loss of Yale's captain-elect through class room deficiences."

It is difficult to understand why in discussing the affairs of Harvard and Yale or the class room deficiences of any of their men it was necessary to interject this comment on a young man's experience in entering Dartmouth College, but whatever the reason for doing so, the impressions made upon the average reader were:

First, That the academic requirements for admission to Harvard were of a higher grade than at Dartmouth, and second, that football players do not come from the brainy end of a college class.

With reference to the first impression, a letter from the authorities at Hanover, dated Dec. 1, states that > Oberlander was admitted by "special" certificate, with 17 units credit, by virtue of having graduated fifth in a class of 183. It is interesting to note that under the present Harvard honor system of admission Oberlander would have been admitted there without condition and without examination. As you perhaps know, about one-third of the present (freshman) class at Harvard entered by certificate without examination.

The second impression seems to me entirely unfair to the young men who make up the football team at Dartmouth, and I have no doubt the same is true of other colleges, for at the close of the last college year it was found that a large proportion of the entire team were of Phi Beta Kappa rank.

For the last two years I have watched with considerable interest the method of teaching modern football at Dartmouth, as practised by Head Coach Hawley and his assistants, and the results of that teaching as exemplified both upon the gridron and upon the men who make up the teams. I have been present at nearly every game during the last two years, including the recent games with Harvard, Brown, Cornell and Chicago University, and in my judgment no member of the faculty has done more than Mr. Hawley to train men for leadership—and training men for leadership is my conception of the function of a modern college—for by example and precept he requires of his students manly conduct, obedience to those in authority, straight thinking, quick acting, and a willingness to fight to the limit for whatever cause they have espoused—all qualities that make for leadership in life—and through it all to be a gentleman at all times.

I am fully convinced that the briny end of the class will always furnish a considerable number of men to the successful modern football team, and that this game will continue for many years to come to be the leading athletic game throughout the colleges in this country and will be supported by all lovers of true outdoor sports; provideded those professional coaches who have a baneful influence upon the student body can be eliminated, and provided that the alumni and friends of the colleges will be willing to leave at home their pocket flasks when they attend the great autumnal games of football.

SCARING A CHILD DANGEROUS

It is dangerous to scare a child with stories of the bogie man and threats of punishment. First of all, it tends to make the child timid and easily upset. Even more important is the fact that the child soon realizes the deception, and no longer has faith in his parents' statements. He finds that there is no bogie man, and so his parents were lying. Or perhaps he never gets over being afraid of the dark.

A child also should be taught to love animals. If he is threatened with a statement that the dog will bite him if he doesn't do thus and so, it will be almost impossible to teach this child to love animals.

Helpful Suggestion

"Yes," said the doctor, impressively, "I think you had better take up golf."

The patient squirmed uneasily in his chair. "I have, doctor," he said at length. "I've taken up golf. In fact, I've taken it up and dropped it." The physician was not daunted in the least. He smiled and continued: "In that case I would suggest you take it up again and try to get some indestructible clubs."

SALE SUCCESSFUL DISPITE POOR WEATHER

The Woman's League of the First Baptist Church held a most successful Christmas sale in the church chapel yesterday from 11 in the morning until 9 at night The approach of the Christmas season was reflected not only in the decorations but in the merchandise on sale which included useful articles and a good assortment of toys and games suitable for holiday giving.

A cafeteria luncheon was served at noon with supper at 6.30 in the evening, the tables being gay with red and green novelty decorations and sprays of holly. The proceeds of the sale are to be devoted to the Parish House Building Fund.

The various committees in charge of the affair were under the direction of chairmen, Miss E. A. Friend and Mrs. Grace Hight, and included the following:

Fancy Goods—Mrs. W. A. Snow, Mrs. Newton Shultis, Mrs. L. M. Crowell, Mrs. Harry Winn, and Mrs. W. E. Cobb.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAM TO PLAY IN NEW CIRCUIT

For the first year in many seasons Winchester will not be a member of the Suburban League basketball circuit. Instead it will play in the newly formed Middlesex League composed of teams from Belmont, Lexington, Reading, and Stoneham, schools more nearly the size of the local institution and with which it has a more natural rivalry. It will continue to remain in the Mystic Valley football and baseball league.

The new move seems a good one. While Winchester has always made a good showing in the Suburban League, it has seldom had much of any chance to win the circuit championship, due to the big handicap which schools like Chelsea, Brockton, and Watertown have enjoyed in the matter of material. Then, too, with the exception of Watertown and Wakefield Winchester has had little in common with the other Suburban teams against which it has competed. In the new circuit the local boys should cut a much wider swath, and have at least an even chance for the flag each year.

This season's first call for candidates was issued on Monday of this week when a large squad of some 70 boys reported to Coach Mansfield and Capt. "Wop" Rolli. In the squad are several players of more or less experience, and the outlook for a winning five is fairly bright despite the loss of the two Franks, Tansey and Melly. Rolli, McCauley, Cassidy, Johnson, and "Ray" Halwartz have all had varsity experience, the "Wop" being a veteran of three year's standing. In addition to those named are many boys who played with the high school seconds a year ago, and Coach Mansfield was well pleased with his first peek at the squad.

Butterfly Migration Puzzles Scientists

Year after year millions of butterflies leave their breeding grounds in the South and fly northward. Those that travel the greatest distance cover about 4,000 miles.

They are found on the southern shores of the Mediterranean about April and reach England towards the end of May. Many still continue to fly northward, arriving in Scotland about mid-June, and eventually reaching Iceland in July. According to M. C. B Williams, chief entomologist to the Egyptian ministry of agriculture, they originate from south of the great desert belt that crosses Africa and western Asia.

These butterflies have never been seen making the return journey, and it is a mystery how every year swarms leave Africa and find their way to the same countries in the North. It has been suggested that some go back, but since they have never been seen they must either travel by night or return in ones and twos. Mr. Williams' theory is that the migration of the butterflies resembles a kind of relay race, and that those that ultimately reach Iceland are many generations younger than those that first set out from Africa.—Tit-Bits.

Boredom in Marriage

South African Tells of Odd Sea Monster

One morning I saw what I took to be two whales fighting with some sea monster about 1,300 yards from the shore. I got my glasses and was surprised to see an animal which resembled a polar bear, but in size was equal to an elephant. This object I observed to back out of the water fully 20 feet and strike repeatedly at the two whales, but with seemingly no effect."

So writes H. C. Ballance of Natal, Africa, in a Natal newspaper. Continuing, he says: "After an hour the whales made off and the incoming tide brought the monster within sight, and I saw that the body was covered with hair eight inches long, exactly like a polar bear's and snow white."

Next morning Mr. Ballance found the carcass lying high on the beach. He measured it and found it was 47 feet from tip to tail. The tail was ten feet long and two feet wide, and where the head should have been the creature had a sort of trunk 14 inches in diameter and about five feet long, the end being like the snout of a pig. The backbone was very prominent and the whole body covered with snow-white hair.

"For ten days," said Mr. Ballance, "this mass lay inert. On the eleventh day there was not a sign of the creature. I met some natives, who told me that while fishing they had seen the monster out at sea, going up the coast, and that is the last we have seen of it."

Matter Was Obviously Question for the Deer

Representative O'Connor was discussing in New York his plan for an investigation of telephone and telegraph companies.

"These companies need investigating, if only for their own good," he said. "They have such a bad habit, when questioned, of giving haughty and evasive answers.

"They're like Colonel Carter of Cartersville. The colonel sat in the lounge of a New York hotel one evening with a New York banker.

"'Yes,' he was saying, 'it's a powerful fertile country down round Carter hall. Why, sah, I know woods down there where the trees grow so close that you can't shove your hand between the trunks. And game. Why, sah, I've seen deer in them woods with a ten-foot spread of antlers. Yes, sah, a ten-foot spread.'

"'But, colonel,' said the banker, 'how can the deer get those antlers between those trunks?'

"Colonel Carter drew himself up.

"'That, sah,' he said, 'is their business.'"

Had Two Methods

Mrs. Smith had inserted an advertisement in the papers for a new nurse maid and was interviewing the first applicant. "And what," said she, "is your attitude on corporal punishment?"

The applicant thought for a while and then replied, "Generally, I takes 'em across my knee, but I can smack 'em standing up if necessary."

FRENCH TOWNS LACK PHONES

Many Rural Centers Are Without Them Owing to the Scarcity of Money.

"An American is readily excused if he comments on the inferiority of the French telephonic system, when he compares it with that of his country," declared M. Paul Laffont, French postmaster general, in a recent interview for the New York Herald.

"More than a third of the villages and the smaller towns of France," M. Laffont continued, "cannot be reached by telephone because they have none. Those that have—and quite large towns at that—can be reached only after hours of waiting, and sometimes not at all. With certain cities abroad, such as Vienna and Lisbon, there is no means of getting into communication, because no lines run from them to any town in France."

This condition the postmaster general attributed to lack of funds for telephone development. The government, which owns and operates the telephone system in France, he explained, has had to devote the greater part of its budget since 1871 to "the reconstruction of the devastation of war and defensive preparation against further devastation."

The French government has therefore been able to allot only a small percentage of its total budget for telephone improvements; and as M. Laffont significantly remarked: "In France it must be remembered that there are no private telephone and telegraph companies."

Where Fido's Mother Was Born.

A woman carrying a little dog in her arms was riding in a bus that went along Park lane. All the way up she worried the conductor to know whether they had come to No. —, mentioning a house nearly at the top. When they reached the number the conductor halted the bus, thinking the woman wished to alight there. Instead of doing this, however, she went to the door of the bus and, holding up the dog, said: "Look, Fido, that's where your mother was born!"

Siege Declared Myth

The siege of Troy was largely a myth, and, even according to Homer's own account, Helen must have been sixty years old when Paris fell in love with her.

Heavy Mortality Due to Little Insects

The famous scientist, Prof. A. R. Wallace, was once asked what was the most dangerous beast he had encountered in the course of his tropical travels. Though he had roamed through the haunts of the jaguar, the peccary and the giant anaconda, he declared that he was most afraid of the wild bee. Kipling has a story about the terror of the wild bee, when it is numbered by countless millions, which gives a graphic picture of what that danger can mean.

There are certain species of ants, both in Africa and South America, before the march of which nothing can live. The fiercest and strongest and most agile beasts must give way to them.

Though many thousands of deaths are attributed to snake bites in India every year, this mortality is slight compared with the toll taken of human life by malarial mosquitoes in various parts of the world. Had the neighborhood of the Panama canal been infested with lions or tigers, the work would have gone on merrily, but the awful mortality caused by these tiny insects defeated its first builders. South Africa has suffered from locusts a thousand times more than it ever suffered by reason of all the wild beasts within its borders.

FOR SALE
RADIO
I regret that some of you were disappointed to learn that my radio advertised last week was sold so promptly. It was spoken for before the STAR was off the press, and was providing a fine concert for one of our families the next evening.
However—I know the two Fergusons also sold are performing equally as well and giving greater distance and volume, as well as a much better separation of stations.
At this time I can supply Fergusons sets as ordered. I doubt if I will be able to as the holiday season approaches.
If you want a radio which is unequalled in distance, selectivity and quality, now is the time to get it. If you would like to see it and hear it, telephone me at 0029. T. P. WILSON.

Success in Adversity

Adversity is all right. Nobody ever became heavyweight champ by licking little fellows.—Duluth Herald.

Names of Colors Rare

Names for colors are comparatively rare in early writings; even in the Bible, the sky, though frequently mentioned, is not stated to be blue.

Raining Fish and Frogs

A gentleman visiting in the East some years ago tells a remarkable story of a rainfall of grown frogs, tadpoles and fish of all sort, including varieties hitherto unknown in that neighborhood. He says: "One, more lively than the rest, drew my attention and I picked it up, only to relinquish it immediately, as I experienced what felt like an electric shock. Naturally, we discussed the matter. My explanation of this phenomenon was that the fish and frogs had been drawn up by 'whirlwinds,' which drew their contents from the open sea and from the tracts of fresh water at the mouths of the Ganges and Brahmaputra. The terrific force of the upper currents of air had swept the living freight through the skies and deposited it, with equal precipitancy, in the heart of the jungle. The odd thing about the matter was that the frogs and fish were alive."

Their Motto

The motto of those elusive holdup men seems to be: "There is no arrest for the wary."—Boston Transcript.

His Winning Guess

A pessimist may have his faults but his ideas about fishing are generally pretty accurate.—Cornell Widow.

Message of Centuries Long Past Discovered

The British museum has come into possession of a group of ancient manuscripts which include two of the oldest pieces of paper known to exist on the earth. These letters are supposed to have been indited 1,800 years ago and were found by Sir M. Aurel Stein in the ruins of military stations along the ancient wall dividing the Chinese empire from Turkestan. The two scraps of paper in question are tattered fragments, one about as big as a street car ticket, the other twice as big. Parts of two sentences of Chinese characters are legible on one—" . . . making a profound salutation (kowtow) says . . ." and " . . . hoping that Mr. Hsieh Yung-ssu may under all circumstances enjoy good health . . ." On the second fragment are the words " . . . as soon as the foot soldiers arrived, he sent . . ." The other pieces were found in different parts of China. One of these, thought to be 1,500 years old, seems to have been written by a wife complaining of the shortcomings of her husband who, she says, has ruined a bright career by his debauchery.

TEACHERS' CLUB BRINGS NEWMAN TO WINCHESTER

Mr. E. M. Newman, of "Traveltalk" fame, ending his 17th season at Symphony Hall, Boston, comes to Winchester for a single lecture, giving in the Town Hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 19, his complete lecture on "London, with rambles through England and Scotland." The Teachers' Club feels honored in being able to present Mr. Newman to Winchester. That he needs no introduction to some is seen by the large advance sale of tickets.

Mr. Newman's lecture is no set, ordinary tour. He found the hidden corners and resources of London and photographed the great city from new angles. The out-of-the-way nooks, with which the average tourist is unacquainted, will be shown. The landmarks of Dickens, Thackeray, Milton, Cromwell, will also be brought before us. The views of the Wembly exhibition are complete.

On the ramble through England and Scotland we shall see many spots of interest—Canterbury, Warwick, the Shakespeare country, Oxford, Gloucester, Chester, the Lake country, Sulgrave, the homes of Burns and Scott.

The public school teachers of Winchester ask your support of this lecture given under their auspices. It is a worthwhile event. The cause is as worthy. Tickets are on sale at the Star office, or from any teacher; telephone orders taken by Mr. Kuyper, Winchester 1139-R.

RECEPTION

Mrs. Vincent Farnsworth entertained at a reception and tea on Wednesday afternoon at her home, 7 Copley street. The house was profusely decorated wiah flowers and ferns. Chrysanthemums and roses were used in the living room where Mrs. aFrnsworth received, assisted by her mother, Mrs. C. F. Fenno of Revere, and her daughter, Mrs. George F. Neiley of Bronxville, N. Y. and Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth of Winchester.

Mrs. C. F. Fenno, Mrs. C. P. Fenno, Mrs. W. D. Eaton, Miss S. L. Richardson, Mrs. George Neiley, Mrs. C. P. Nutting, Mrs. W. S. Wadsworth and Mrs. C. A. Lane presided over the tea table in the dining room.

Frappe was served by Mrs. C. A. Gleason, Mrs. A. H. Dean, Mrs. E. L. Pride, Mrs. R. K. Hunt, Mrs. J. B. Shurtleff and Miss H. C. Fenno.

The following ladies assisted in serving: Mrs. John Tarbell, Mrs. Lucius C. Smith, Mrs. Lowell Smith, Mrs. Dean Blanchard, Mrs. Charles R. Marshall, Mrs. Henry A. Spencer, Miss Dorothy Armstrong, Miss Marion Parshley Miss Mary Tredennick, Mrs. Elmer R. Glidden, Mrs. Fred C. Herson, Mrs. Kenneth C. Young, Mrs. Newell A. Squires, Miss Charlene Dean, Miss Mildred Stone, Mrs. E. Ober Pride, Mrs. Loring Gleason, Mrs. Allan Wilde and Mrs. Warren F. Goddu.

JUSTICE HARRIS GUEST OF BAR ASSOCIATION

Mr. Charles N. Harris of this town, Justice of the Probate Court for Middlesex County, was one of the honorary guests at the 27th annual dinner of the Middlesex County Bar Association which was held on Wednesday evening at Young's Hotel, Boston. A reception preceded the dinner. Other guests included Justices John C. Leggat and Arthur E. Beane, both of the Probate Court, together with the Register and First Assistant Register of the Court, Loring P. Jordan, Esq., and Miss Nellie H. Philbrick. Hon. George L. Mayberry, president of the association presided.

MR. CHASE SPOKE ON ALASKA

A good sized gathering listened with much pleasure to a talk on Alaska by Ernest Dudley Chase of this town at the regular monthly meeting of the Congregational Men's Club held on Tuesday evening in the church vestry. Mr. Chase, himself a member of the club, was warmly greeted. He illustrated his talk with motion pictures, which he took while visiting Alaska last summer. Despite the interest which all had in these fine views it was, after all, some pictures taken of familiar places in Winchester which he showed toward the end of his talk which aroused the greatest enthusiasm. At the conclusion of his talk refreshments were served.

WELL KNOWN BALL PLAYER TO MAKE HOME HERE

Horace H. Ford, former Somerville High and Tufts diamond luminary, later with the Boston "Braves" and last season shortstop with Wilbur Robinson's Brooklyn "Dodgers" is to make his future home in Winchester, occupying the property at 20 Kenwin road which he has purchased. Ford is known as one of the best fielding infielders in the National League, and is equally at home on either side of the keystone sack. Two seasons ago he finished second to Frank Frisch of the "Giants" in the final fielding averages of the older circuit, and last year was going along smoothly until forced out of the game with a bad spike cut received while playing against his old club at Braves Field.

Popular Fruit

The culture of alligator pears is a thriving industry in southern California and Florida. It takes from six to eight years for an avocado plant to bear fruit. The flavor depends upon the variety. The variety grown in the United States is very good and compares favorably in flavor with the imported fruit.

Strange Bequests

The bequest of his body to a hospital by a certain gentleman to help in the discovery of the origin of headaches, reminds us of the following strange bequests: A certain philosopher directed that his skeleton should be clothed, provided with a specially molded wax head, and presented to the medical section of a London university where it may still be seen.

LOCATELLI'S CAPITOL THEATRE ARLINGTON

For the coming week Locatelli's new Capitol Theatre, Arlington, will offer three of the greatest productions of the season. For the first three days the screenings will be a Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece, "The Ten Commandments." The production of this picture takes a little over two hours and is divided into two parts, ancient and modern. In the former, the picture opens showing the Israelites building the city of Rameses in Egypt. They are being cruelly treated and things look dark until Moses emerges to lead them. He asks for their liberty and when it is not granted ten plagues are visited upon Egypt. After Ramese's son is killed in the last of the plagues, Rameses orders the Hebrews to leave. This part of the picture is in natural colors.

Then follows the modern story written by Jeanie Macpherson. It shows that the Ten Commandments are as great a moral force today as they were in the days of Moses. The lives of two brothers are followed. One creates and breaks his own laws, while the other keeps the decalogue as his guiding force. In the end, evil is punished and good is rewarded.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be shown "The Coast of Folly" featuring Gloria Swanson, a new and wonderful Gloria back to America from France, an actress with a full awakening to power and genius. Her characterizations in this production are the most difficult ever undertaken by a motion picture star, and Miss Swanson has made them the letter of perfection.

The accompanying picture will be "Below the Line," with Rin-tin-tin the wonder dog. You have no idea how fine it is to see a nice sensible dog, after witnessing reel on reel of persons who are sometimes not so sensible. The picture is diverting and it will give you an hour of real entertainment. The four footed hero in his most exciting picture.

Other short subjects will also be presented.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Congratulations of the court are extended to Sister Ella O'Connell on the arrival of a baby boy born last week at the Winchester Hospital.

Best of luck to Sister Josephine O'Brien on the arrival of a baby girl at her home last week.

Sister Mary McHugh of Canal street celebrated her 25th wedding anniversary on Thanksgiving eve by having a reception at her home.

Sister Catherine Lynch of Scott street, Woburn, formerly of Winchester, and one of the court's most active members will conduct a matinee whist at her home Friday afternoon, Dec. 4, at 2:30 o'clock. The proceeds of this party will go toward the Christmas charity fund.

Sister Catherine Lynch will be assisted by her two daughters, Marie and Frances who are also very active members.

All arrangements have been completed for the Annual Charity Whist which will be held in Lyceum Hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 17. Whist starts promptly at 8:30. There have been many urgent requests for charity during the last month and there are immediate cases that must be taken care of. In order to comply with these requests the charity committee needs plenty of ready money, so we ask each and every member and her friends, especially at this holiday season to do their utmost to make this charity whist party the best yet.

Please reesrve this date, Thursday evening, Dec. 17 in Lyceum Hall, Winchester. Don't forget to cancel all other engagements for that date, and show your Christian charity by buying a ticket, being present at the Charity whist and helping us to help others.

Annie E. Vayo, G. R.

Two Things Compulsory

It is said that comedy, at its highest, touches tragedy. This would appear to be true of a line appearing in a negro comedy played in New York. In one of the scenes one comedian orders another to do something. "I don't gotta do that at all," the other retorts. "I only gotta do two things in this life—stay dark and die."

Rise of German Empire

The immediate cause of the Austrian-Prussian war, also known as the Seven Weeks' war, was the Schleswig-Holstein question. It resulted indirectly from the long rivalry between Austria and Prussia. The conflict was the culmination of the plan of Bismarck to force Austria out of the German confederation and to make way for a new Germany under Prussian leadership.

Glass Houses May Be Residences of Future

Plans for building houses of glass are being considered by glass experts. Opaque glass can be produced in great quantities, it is claimed, at a reasonable cost.

"The glass house," says a writer in a trade journal, "has been the butt of many jokes, when not actually used as a target for brickbats. It has carried with it, too, the idea that everything within its walls was open to public inspection, and that the occupants must go to bed with their clothes on to avoid embarrassment.

"The material for the proposed glass house can be made in slabs one-eighth of an inch thick, thirty inches wide, and nine feet long. These slabs of opaque glass can be made in any shade or color the builder wants."

The writer says that glass houses must be constructed on a concrete foundation and a wood framework. There will be an air-pocket between the outside and the inside walls which will keep out both heat and cold. It is claimed that the first cost of the house would also prove to be practically the last, as the need for repairs would be almost nonexistent.

Dickens Great Artist, Not Mental Specialist

Mr. Micawber, Miss Flite and the numerous other queer characters who populate the pages of Charles Dickens' books are correctly depicted from the viewpoint of the layman who sees what he thinks he ought to see, but not when viewed by a specialist in mental diseases.

This is the opinion of Dr. Charles W. Burr, professor of psychiatry in the University of Pennsylvania medical school, who has applied to these fiction characters the methods which he uses in diagnosing mental disorders when called into a criminal court as an alienist.

"Dickens was an artist," says Doctor Burr, "and not a specialist in mental medicine. Just as the dying of a great actor on the stage is altogether unlike death as the physician sees it, so life seen with an artist's eyes is unlike life seen by the professor trained in the learning of the schools. Death as it really happens, acted on the stage, would be flat, stale and uninteresting. Dickens describes a fairyland, not seldom a fairyland into which devils have intruded. This is the secret of his wide appeal spreading through space and lasting through time."—Science Service.

Had to Time Their Walks by Almanac

Ouvrard, the great French army contractor, was at one time "wanted" by the officers of the tribunal of commerce for some offense. According to the law he could not be arrested as long as the sun was not up. As a result he was in the habit of taking his constitutional for an hour before sunrise every morning, judging the time by the almanac, H. C. Kitchen contributes to the Kansas City Star.

In spite of his care, however, he was arrested one morning on his saunter, and the authorities proved that the almanac was wrong, and that as a matter of fact the sun rose ten minutes earlier than the book stated.

Consequently, Ouvrard brought legal actions against both the compiler and publisher of the book. The courts upheld him and the latter were forced to pay damages.

This "walking by the almanac" was no unusual thing in France. Balzac was at one time under the necessity of timing his public appearances in this way.

Treasures in Ocean

The ocean appears to the traveler to be a vast expanse of salty water valued chiefly for transportation and source of rainfall. Yet it is veritably teaming with plant and animal life, and its depths hold untold treasures. Its saltiness has caused much inconvenience, for many, as Coleridge's Ancient Mariner, have had parched throats with "Water, water everywhere, nor any drop to drink." Although apparently a nuisance and worthless, sea salt is Nature's storehouse of treasures to the chemist, for it contains all the valuable constituents of the earth's crust that have been leached out by the countless rains of former years.

Keep on Keeping On

When last I went West by way of the Broadway Limited, I was sitting on the observation platform, watching the scenery dash by, when the porter came out to straighten the chairs which had been left in some disorder by a group of young folks.

"We don't seem to be going so much faster than an ordinary local train, George," I commented. "How, then, can this be the fastest train on earth?"

"Wall, suh," replied the African, with a grin, "de fac' is we alls doun go no faster'n lots of them pesky locals, but we gits dar in quick time because we jist keeps on keeping on."—W. L. Barnhart in Forbes Magazine.

Fame and Glory

Fame is the favorable celebrity that is handed to a man who has made folks think he has done something better than the ordinary; Glory is the wide-spread praise and honor accorded to any one by common consent. They are two of the most widely advertised articles ever put on the market. If, in a general way of speaking, Fame is the red seal of merit pasted on a man's brow, then Glory is three coats of scarlet paint, rubbed down and varnished and touched up with gold leaf.—Ellis Parker Butler in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Turning State's Evidence

State's evidence is testimony given by a person implicated in a crime. Such evidence is presumed to incriminate others. A person who gives such testimony is said to "turn state's evidence." Usually in such cases there is a direct or implied promise from the authorities not to prosecute the person who testifies for the state. Naturally such immunity from prosecution is not promised by the prosecuting officers unless there is lack of sufficient evidence to convict those against whom the evidence is directed.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Hum of Telephone Wires

The humming noise made by telephone and telegraph wires is caused by vibrations of the wire set in motion by the wind and other air currents. The intensity of the humming is determined to some extent by the tightness of the wires and the distance between the poles. The greatest noise is heard at the poles, the wood being set in vibration by the wires.

Carbon Is Great Joiner

Because of its remarkable power of uniting with itself as well as with other elements, carbon is enabled to build up single molecules containing large numbers of atoms, and such molecules form the basis for framing the structure of living organisms. Without these properties of the carbon atom life as it is known upon the earth would be impossible, it is said.

Dog's Character

One often hears it said that a dog acquires the character of its owner. It is true that bad treatment will sour the disposition of a dog that was originally good-tempered, and it is equally certain that good and wise treatment will bring out all the best in a dog's nature; but neither bad nor good treatment can change the original character of the dog.

Deadly War Weapons Used by the Aztecs

The offensive weapons of the Aztecs consisted of bows and arrows, slings, clubs, spears, light javelins and swords. The bows were made of tough, elastic wood and were about five feet in length. For strings they used the sinews of animals or stags' hair twisted, says the Detroit News.

The arrows were of light cane, with about six inches of oak or other hard wood inserted in the end; at the extremity a piece of itzli (obsidian) was fastened with henequin fiber and further secured with a paste of resin or other adhesive substance.

Sometimes instead of itzli they used the bones of animals or fish. The bone of a fish called libisa is said to have caused by its venomous properties a wound very difficult to heal.

It is well known that the Nahua nations did not use poisoned arrows; such weapons would have defeated the object for which they often fought—namely, that of taking their enemies alive for the purpose of sacrificing them upon the altars of their gods.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO GENERAL MGR.

Salary Increase Comes With Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—After a careful survey of the entire labor situation extending from office boy to president, indications are that positions showing increases in salaries require experienced help.

Consulting the president of one of our largest industries, the writer inquired regarding the rapid success of a certain young man who had become general manager and who a few years ago was but office boy; his answer was, Brown started as office boy, the lowest salaried position in our office, he was ambitious and managed to purchase a typewriter on small monthly payments and after three weeks of practice at home he was promoted to bill clerk, which position gave him knowledge of the selling price of all merchandise. His next advance was that of typist, which taught him the numerous forms of letter-writing and enabled him to hold a stenographic position, giving him complete knowledge of letter-writing. He was then made secretary, bringing him into contact with all business details and qualified him for the general manager's office at ten thousand per year.

The same opportunity awaits every young man and woman. Education or age have nothing to do with operating so simple a machine as the typewriter. We are informed that a great piece of benevolent work is being carried on by a large Chicago mail order house in furnishing typewriters to people worthy of credit, by selling on small monthly installments, so low as to average about eight cents per day and actually teaching their customers how to use and operate any typewriter in about three weeks' time. You can get other information by writing the International Typewriter Exchange, 184 W. Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

Use for Old Newspapers

A European inventor claims that ordinary newspapers folded together in a thick strip and held between wire clips will make a good substitute for the regulation leather razor strop. The ink on the paper is said to assist in putting a keen and non-pulling edge on the blade.

"BEAUTIFUL—THE HOUSEWIFE'S HANDS!"

"I don't see how artists can paint these so-called society women. Have you ever seen a society woman whose hands were worth painting? A woman's hands are lovely if they are accustomed to housework."

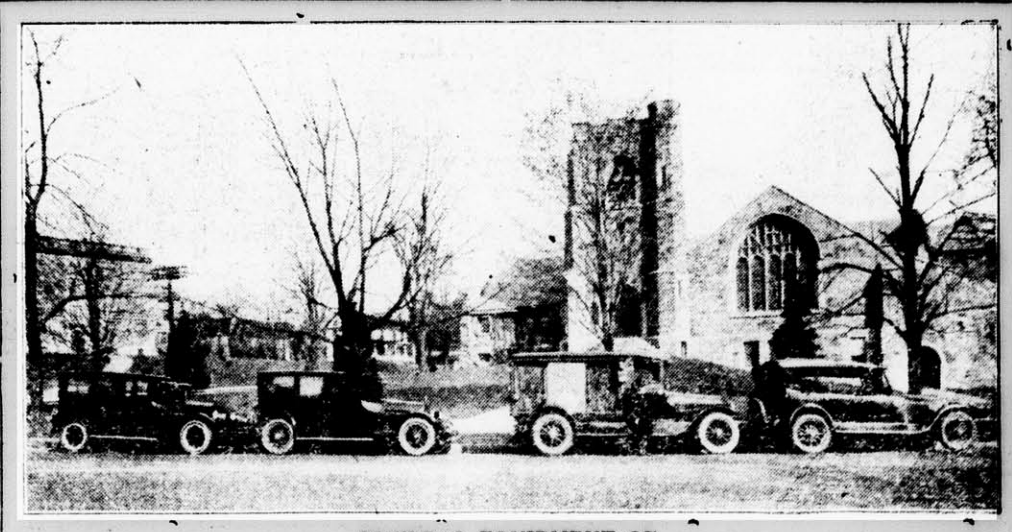

This is the testimony of Renoir, the artist, in a new biography of his life, just published. He goes on to say—"At Rome there is a painting of Venus by Raphael. What marvelous hands and arms! She looks like a great healthy housewife, snatched for a moment from her kitchen to pose as Venus."

So you see that hands can work and yet be fair more so now than ever, because gas does much of the hardest labor. The very fact that there are no more fires to build is saving many smooth hands from grime, roughness and age.

Coloring Hydrangeas

The color of the flowers of the shiny-leaf hydrangeas is variable and seems to be dependent on the acidity or alkalinity of the soil. An abundance of lime produces pink in the flowers, while blue is produced by acid conditions which may be augmented by the use of alum, rusty iron or iron filings. Too much lime will check the growth of the plants and cause a yellowing. Treatment for any effect needs to be begun a year before the result is desired.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DR. JOHN L. HILDRETH

Many leading members of the medical profession and others prominent in civic and professional life in this section attended the funeral services on last Sunday afternoon in Mt. Auburn Chapel for Dr. John L. Hildreth of Symmes road, a noted physician and a former Dean of the Tufts Medical School, who passed away Friday, Nov. 27, at the Winchester Hospital. Through a strange coincidence the services were held on the 87th birthday of Dr. Hildreth.

Rev. Raymond Calkins, pastor of the First Church (Congregational) in Cambridge, of which Dr. Hildreth had formerly been a member for some 50 years, conducted the services, assisted by the Rev. Cyrus Richardson of Concord, a classmate of the doctor at Dartmouth. Organ music was played by Henry D. Wyeth of Cambridge.

The honorary bearers were Dr. Edmund H. Stevens of Cambridge, Dr. George W. Gay of Chestnut Hill, Dr. Samuel H. Durgin of Allston, Dr. George T. Tuttle of Milton, Dr. Abner Post and Dr. James A. Dow of Cambridge. The ushers were Judge Arthur P. Stone of Belmont, Frederick B. Hill of Brookline and George A. Rivinius and James W. Russell, Jr., of Winchester.

The Cambridge Hospital of which the deceased was a physician and surgeon from 1886 until his retirement and removal from Cambridge to Winchester, was represented at the services by Albert M. Barnes and George Howland Cox, trustees. Representatives of Harvard University present were Prof. Emeritus Francis G. Peabody and Prof. Edwin H. Hall.

Dr. John Lewis Hildreth was one of the best known physicians in Greater Boston and one of the leading physicians of his generation in this part of the state. He was a native of North Chelmsford and was graduated from Appleton Academy, New Ipswich, N. H., entering Dartmouth with the class of 1864.

In 1863 he left college during the Civil War to join the United States Sanitary and Relief Commission with which he served during the remainder of the war as an agent and inspector of camps and hospitals.

He returned to Dartmouth in 1865, helping to finance his way through both colleges and medical school by teaching. He was principal of the Peterboro, N. H., Academy from 1865 to 1867. He received his medical degree from Dartmouth in 1867 and was given his AB from the same college, as of the class of 1864, in 1879. He also studied at the Harvard Medical School.

From 1867 to 1870 Dr. Hildreth practiced medicine at West Townsend. He came to Cambridge in 1870, and took up the work of general practitioner in that city. He served as medical examiner of Middlesex County from 1877 to 1882, and on the Cambridge School Committee from 1875 to 1884. He was the organizer of the Cambridge Dispensary and devoted many years to its development.

Dr. Hildreth was one of the medical leaders in the Militia after the Civil War. He was a professor at Tufts Medical School in clinical medicine, and held other medical teaching positions at Tufts Medical School, beginning in 1849. He was the dean of the Tufts Medical School from 1897 to 1900, and was made a professor emeritus of the school. He received the degree of LLD from Tufts in the same year.

While practicing medicine and teaching at Tufts Medical School he served on the Massachusetts State Board of Lunacy and Charity from 1895 to 1898.

Married in 1864

Dr. Hildreth was a member of many medical associations, including the American Academy of Medicine, American Medico-Psychological Association, the Massachusetts Medical Society, Obstetrical Society of Boston, Boston Society of Psychiatry, Boston Society for Medical Improvement and the Cambridge Medical Improvement Society.

Dr. Hildreth married Miss Achsah B. Colburn of Temple, N. H., on March 2, 1864. She died some years ago. He is survived by a son, Alfred H. Hildreth of Highland avenue and a daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Barrett of Bacon street. A brother, C. W. Hildreth of Westford and two sisters, Mrs. Augusta Tenney of New Ipswich, N. H., and Mrs. Ella Frost of Colorado Springs, also survive him.

Dr. Hildreth was president for many years of the Hildreth Family Association. He also was a trustee of the Appleton Academy of New Ipswich, N. H., and of the Public Library of New Ipswich. He was a member of the St. Botolph Club of Boston and of the Colonial Club of Cambridge.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Room Committee regrets to announce that the Housewarming planned for Dec. 7 has had to be postponed.

The Literature Committee calls especial attention to the following change in plans, occasioned by the opening of The Fortnightly Room. The class will meet Monday, Dec. 7, at 2.30 in the High School Library. After a brief summary of literary news, there will be a program in charge of Miss Mabel A. Richmond and Mrs. W. D. Elliot, developing the topic of "The Short Story Abroad."

Friday, Dec. 11, Social-Bridge party at The Fortnightly Room at 2 o'clock. This party is under the direction of our Conservation Committee, Mrs. G. H. Lochman, Acting Chairman. If you do not play bridge come and bring your sewing. There will be some entertainment and refreshments. A pleasant afternoon is assured. The Committee hopes to defray the expense of lighting the Community Christmas Tree by making this party a great sucecss.

SNEAK THIEF VISITED CENTER

Another sneak thief paid Winchester a visit on last Monday, this time apparently choosing the center of the town for his operations which in one instance at least was quite successful.

In the early afternoon a man entered the store of the Hersey Hardware Company, coming in by the way of the Main street entrance. It is thought that the visitor was one who had previously been in and, after some conversation relative to a lock, had promised to return.

On the second occasion the man stepped through the main store into the back shop where the bookkeeper, Miss Johnson, rose to wait on him. Telling her that he was waiting for the clerk in the other store he motioned her back to her desk. Shortly thereafter Miss Johnson was called into the front store and upon her return found the visitor had been to the extreme end of the back room and was in the act of going into the Main street store as if to speak with the clerk, Mr. Hartley. The latter being busy paid no particular attention to the man who left the store at once.

About two hours after, Miss Johnson had occasion to go to a desk at far end of the back shop, and when she did so discovered that a bag containing about $60 in cash together with some personal effects, her own property, was missing. At once suspicion pointed to the man who had visited the store earlier in the afternoon and the police were notified of the affair.

An investigation was begun at once, but beyond the fact that the same man had visited other stores in town little could be accomplished. At the Little Shoppe on Common street it was reported that man whose description tallied with that of the Hersey visitor had been in and several articles of merchandise were missed upon his departure. The man was described as young and of good appearance.

CAPT. CHAMBERLAIN AND THE WORLD COURT

On Sunday evening, Capt. Thomas Chamberlain, a World War veteran and a practising attorney in New York City brought to the Protestant churches of Winchester a clear, forceful exposition of the Permanent Court of International Justice. By applying legal principles to controversies between nations the World Court has already justified its existence by a record of four successful years. A World Court has been advocated by all of our presidents since the administration of President McKinley. Capt. Chamberlain stressed the fact that the Court asit now exists was American planned, citing the contribution of the Hon. Elihu Root. As the jurisdiction of the Court is purely voluntary the United States would be under no obligation to submit its difficulties unless it so desired. Capt. Chamberlain demonstrated the unsoundness of the familiar objections. A resolution favoring the adhesion of the United States to the World Court was introduced, adopted, and forwarded to Washington.

Miss Elizabeth Mazur, the soprano soloist of Temple Israel enriched the service with two beautiful songs.

The meeting was planned by the committee on International Co-operation to Prevent War, of the local League of Women Voters, Mrs. Helen Hamerstrom, chairman; and was conducted by the Inter-Church Council in the First Congregational Church.

VAIL MEDAL AWARDED TELEPHONE OPERATOR

Mrs. Katheryn C. Brisson, night telephone operator at Fitchburg, is one of seven employees of the Bell System in the United States to whom a national Vail medal and cash award has been given for noteworthy public service.

For her "resourcefulness and persistent effort in effecting the rescue of two fellow employees from extreme peril" on Jan. 31, 1924, she will receive a Vail medal of silver with a cash payment of $250.

This distinction has been conferred by the National Committee of Award, after reviewing the awards for Vail medals in bronze, by the Bell System associated companies in 1924.

Mrs. Brisson is the third employee of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company to be awarded a national Vail medal with $250 since the Theodore N. Vail Memorial Fund was established six years ago. The others are Mrs. Alice C. Tillinghast of Housatonic, Mass., and Fred J. Bayha of Providence, R. I.

PROGRESS ON NEW POST OFFICE

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce wishes to report the following progress in relation to the post office. About 50 letters have been sent to the financial, civic and social organizations asking for concerted action to bring as much influence as possible to bear upon the authorities at Washington to give our town the much desired building.

A petition has been circulated among the business firms and more than 100 signers were anxious to cooperate and help secure the much needed improvement.

Without doubt letters from the citizens of the town who may be acquainted with any of our Congressmen or Senators would assist very much in bringing into existence the new improvement.

The original appropriation was $75,000 and would not be sufficient to erect a building. The authorities at Washington now recommend that the amount be increased to $165,000.

Our Chamber feels that a united and persistent co-operation is very much needed at this time.

Professor J. J. Cornelius of the University of Lucknow was one of the special speakers in the Open Conference on India at the Institute of Politics on Aug. 4, 1925. On that occasion he made a stirring and vigerous presentation of the Hindu Nationalist point of view, which gained for him unusual applause from a critical audience. As a speaker he made a pleasing impression, even upon those who did not share his views.

Prof. John Jesudason Cornelius will speak at the usual hour of morning worship at the Second Congregational Church.

"Laughter a Low Thing"

According to one authority, Moltke, the famous German general, only laughed twice after attaining years of discretion. The first occasion was when he heard the news of his mother-in-law's death; the second, when some one told him that a military construction just outside Stockholm was considered by the Swedes to be a strong fortress. Moltke would have indorsed Lord Chesterfield's indictment of laughter as "a low and unbecoming thing, not to mention the disagreeable noise that it makes, and the shocking contortion of the face that it occasions. . . . I am sure that since I have had the full use of my reason nobody has ever heard me laugh." Charles Sumner, the American statesman, could make a similar boast; while, according to John Martineau, who was for some time a pupil at Eversley, Charles Kingsley never laughed.—Family Herald.

The First Circus

The traveling circus originated in London and was kept by a man named Philip Astley, who lived at the end of the Eighteenth century.

From the very beginning, the circus was held in a tent, the center of which formed the arena where the performance took place. The seats for the spectators were arranged in tiers ascending from the central space.

The same exhibitions which characterized our own circus were found in the first one. There were feats of horsemanship, such as leaping through hoops from the back of a galloping horse, standing with one foot on each of two horses, as they gallop side by side.

Actor Badly Rattled

A young man had to take part in some amateur theatricals. His part was quite a minor one and there was really not a great deal for him to do or say.

After the shooting scene the young man had to enter the wings and say:

"Hark! 'Tis the pistol!"

Now, during rehearsals a real pistol was never used, and the youth, on receiving his cue, walked in and performed his part quite efficiently.

On the opening night, however, a real pistol was substituted for the cue, and this apparently took the young man by surprise, for as the pistol went off he rushed on and gasped:

"Ye gods! What on earth was that?"

Fur of the Otter

The skin of sea otters is very loose upon the body, says Nature Magazine. The fur is generally of a deep liver-brown color, frosted with a scanty growth of long, silver-tipped stiffer hairs and underlain by a preponderance of beautiful soft woolly fur which gives the pelt its value. The animals feed on mussels, sea urchins, crabs and perhaps the tender shoots of kelp.

Irreverent Youth

Susie raised her voice and called to her mother in the next room, "Mother! Mother! You'd better come in here right away!" Mother arrived panting and out of breath. "What is it?"

Susie pointed at her small brother and continued in an awe-stricken tone, "He was teasing God! Saying his prayers with one eye open, he was!"

A MEDICAL LETTER

To the Editor of the Star:

The Massachusetts Medical Society representing over 4100 physicians practicing in this state requests me as Secretary for the Middlesex East District to bring to the attention of the various communities of the district the views of the Society concerning medical registration and education in Massachusetts. We ask that you assist us by publishing these views and that our townsmen consider them impartially and if they then agree with us to give their aid in carrying out the recommendations of the Recess Committee of the Legislature which follow, insofar as they pertained to the practise of medicine.

Registration

It is necessary at present that those who wish to practice medicine be examined by a board of seven physicians, not more than three of whom should belong to any one chartered medical society. The Governors for a number of years interpreted this provision to mean that there should be three members of the Massachusetts Medical Society, three of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Society and one member of the Eclectic Medical Society. At a time when the Eclectic Society had become very small and the Osteopaths were moving for a separate Board of Examiners, an Osteopath was substituted on the Board for a member of the Eclectic Society. This situation has continued up to the present day.

Massachusetts, ever since the establishment of this Board of Registration, has maintained a single standard of examination for those who wish to practice the healing art. In this respect, the standard in Massachusetts has been high and we have not been exposed to such scandals as occurred recently in Connecticut, where men had been licensed to practise medicine by some of the special Boards of Examiners.

In 1924 a Recess Committee of the Legislature presented a report having to do with the registration of physicians. The essence of their recommendations concerning physicians was as follows:

1st. That the single standard of examination should be maintained and that therefore there should be no special board of Chiropractic examiners.

2nd. That a board of seven members should be appointed, no two of whom should belong to any single trade of profession, to have general supervision of the different technical examining boards which had to do with those registered in various trades and professions.

3rd. That this board should be given the power to pass upon the qualifications of medical schools.

4th. That the restriction placed upon appointment of membership in the Board of Registration in Medicine mentioned above should be removed.

The Joint Committee on Legislation of the Massachusetts Medical Society and Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society endorsed these recommendations of the recess Committee and favored the bills accompanying the report until, in the final drafts, they were changed radically. When the power to pass upon the qualifications of medical schools was removed and when a change was made which compelled the Governor to appoint one osteopath on the Board of Registration, the bills were opposed by the joint committee.

We still favor the original recommendations made by the Recess Committee except the second which provides for the creation of a board to be placed over the Board of Registration. We ask that the single standard of examination for the right to practice medicine be maintained. We oppose all efforts to have special Boards of Examiners appointed, whether for Chiropractors or any other school of Medicine or healing cult, because we believe that the creation of special boards would inevitably lead to such scandals as have occurred in Connecticut, and at times in various states.

We favor the fourth recommendation, the removal of the restriction upon the appointment to membership in the Board of Registration, not because we favor or oppose the appointment of a majority of any one school of medicine but because we believe that the Governor should have a free hand in the appointments and should not be embarrassed as he was recently in making these appointments At the present time the membership of the Massachusetts Medical Society is somewhat over 4100. The membership of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society is about 400, and of these a majority are also members of the Massachusetts Medical Society. Of those who remain a certain number are excluded from membership in the Board because of their connection with the faculty of the Boston University School of Medicine. Thus as the law stands today the Governor is practically compelled to select three members of the Board of Registration from among a very few members of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Medical Society. We do not either favor or oppose the appointment of Osteopaths on the Board. As a matter of fact the Secretary of the Board at the present time is an Osteopath and he is elected by the Board itself.

Education

We believe it is essential that those who undertake to treat the sick should know the structure of the human body and the manner in which the various organs perform their function. In other words that a knowledge of anatomy and physiology is essential. We regard as essential an undertaking of the changes which occur in the various organs when the human machine is out of order or in other words a knowledge of pathology. We consider as essential a knowledge of the methods by which the human body becomes disordered. Thus a knowledge of bacteriology is necessary. We consider it essential that those who are to undertake the practice of Medicine should know the elements of Surgery. We believe all physicians should understand child birth. These are the important matters. It is important to note that the subjects in which candidates are examined have been determined by the Legislature and not by the members of the Board of Registration.

We consider that the work of our National, State and municipal health authorities which are created to maintain the public health and to prevent disease depends upon fitness of individual physicians.

We believe that the orderly and efficient conduct of life, accident and health insurance, the work of our Medical examiners in detecting and preventing crime, the work of our school physicians in preventing epidemics, are all dependent upon the fitness of the individual physician. We do not believe that the State should dictate the methods by which the sick are to be treated except insofar as to insist that the public health be not endangered, but we do believe that the State should certify to the competence of all who undertake the treatment of the sick or injured.

We strongly favor the recommendation of the Recess Committee that the equipment of the medical schools and the quality of their instruction be passed upon by some authoritative body. We are ready to have this done by the Board of Registration in Medicine, by the State Department of Education or by any Board of Laymen or Physicians appointed by the Governor. We ask this because of the only five lowest grade medical schools now existing in this country, two are under indictment for fraud and may very likely pass out of existence and of the other three, two are located in Massachusetts. Graduates of Massachusetts College of Osteopathy are also examined for the right to practice in this State. The plea is made in behalf of these schools that they give an opportunity for the poor boy to study medicine which would otherwise be denied him. We do not seek the destruction of these schools. We ask simply that they be placed under some supervision by the Board of Education or some other similar body which may require reasonable standards of fitness in equipment and quality of instruction. We do not seek state control of education. The reason why we believe that these schools should be placed under competent supervision is shown by the following statistics, taken from the official reports of the State.

Total Number of Physicians Examined, Registered and Rejected by the Board of Registration in Medicine from 1911-1924:

School	Examined	Registered	Rejected	Per Cent Rejected
Harvard	700	692	8	1.14
Tufts	969	895	74	7.5
Boston University	207	197	10	4.83
Massachusetts College of Osteopathy	303	129	174	57.4
College of Physicians and Surgeons, Boston	156	55	101	64.7
Middlesex College of Medicine and Surgery	160	81	79	49.3

We are just as anxious as anyone that the poor boy should have a chance to study medicine but we are also anxious that he should not waste his time and money in securing an education which is inadequate to enable him to secure the right to practice his chosen profession. Furthermore, in all medical schools regarded as high grade and located in Massachusetts, financial aid to the extent of over $12,900 annually is provided to help the poor boy to study medicine.

In brief, then, the Massachusetts Medical Society advocates the maintenance of a single standard for the right to practice medicine and the removal of the restrictions placed upon appointment to membership in the Board of Registration. The Society also advocates provision for the supervision of the equipment and instruction given in our medical schools by some competent body, lay or medical.

We seek these objects because we believe they are practical, reasonable and just provisions for the public welfare. They are the recommendations of a Committee of the Legislature who studied the problems presented to them from every angle and listened patiently to all parties who wished to be heard. We are sure that any fair minded body of citizens after similar study would come to similar conclusions. We ask you to consider the matter impartially and if you then agree with us we ask your aid in carrying out the recommendations of the Recess Committee relative to the practice of Medicine.

WINCHESTER PLAYWRIGHT'S COMEDY PRESENTED TONIGHT IN TOWN HALL

The Dramatic Committee of the Fortnightly presents tonight at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall "The Second Puncture," a comedy in three acts, by Carolyn Draper Gilpatric, Winchester's own playwrite who already has had several plays produced in town with much success.

Tonight's performance should prove a happy one with the cast including as it does many of those who become favorites with Winchester audiences.

The cast follows:

In the order of their appearance

Betty Holmes	Winifred Bent
Faith Hyland	Doris McCleod
Slippery Jim	Jerome B. Foster
Dick Loring	Kenneth Caldwell
Harry Moseley	Dean W. Symmes
Mrs. Wallace	Martha Tibbets
Mr. Wallace	Dr. F. Milne Blanchard
Delia	Etta Cayting
A Detective	Hubert Bernard, Jr.
Norah	Betty Fessenden
Lena Moseley	Lois Abrahamson
Grace	Madeline Collins

ACT I—A camp in the mountains.
ACT II—Same as Act 1, the following morning.
ACT III—Living-room at Twin Elms, evening.

Under the Direction of Mr. Frank E. Fowle

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The next meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 8. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock, and the meeting will open at 2, with a short business session. Mrs. Samuel McCord Crothers, the speaker of the afternoon, will talk upon "Hospitality." The Fortnightly Quartet have graciously consented to sing.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The meeting on Tuesday evening in the Wyman School Assembly Hall was of unusual interest. Not largely attended because of the storm, it partook more of the nature of a Round Table Conference.

Miss Natalie Jewett outlined the aims and accomplishments of the Public Welfare Board. Self help is the ideal striven for, the welfare of the individual being closely followed by that of the town.

Mr. W. L. Parsons, generously condoning the mistakes of our forefathers stated that the aim of the Planning Board was to see that these mistakes are not repeated. The Board seeks to avoid trouble, to save money and to save waste.

Mr. Walter Dotten, speaking for the Board of Selectmen emphasized the value of the assistance given by the Planning Board to the Selectmen. The problems of improving accepted roads, the damage caused by heavy trucks, and sidewalk construction are vital ones.

Mr. Clarence P. Whorf, representing the Water Board spoke of the responsibility involved in maintaining 49 miles of water pipe: of the 210 acres of water which is now being protected by 220,000 pine trees set out in the last ten years under the direction of Mr. Charles Kendall. He commented on the advisability of having members of the Finance Committee on boards expending large sums of money.

Mr. Samuel Symmes' historical sketch of the tree warden's duties was humorous and enlightening, these duties ranging from setting out trees and chasing bugs, to the province of general utility man.

Mr. David DeCourcy brought information from the Fire Department which every citizens should know. The constant supervision necessary to keep 20 miles of wire in order, batteries charged every day and inspected every hour, and other duties well performed makes Winchester a very safe town as far as fire protection is concerned. The grade crossing is the greatest problem of the Fire Department. Fortunately an arrangement has been made with the Woburn Department which protects the West Side of the town should the crossing be blocked in an emergency.

Mr. Harry Winn, chairman of the "unpopular" Board of Assessors outlined in a vivid way the aims of his department to treat taxpayers with justice in accordance with the law and regulations.

Mr. Nathaniel Nichols speaking for the Chamber of Commerce asked the co-operation of all present in obtaining a new post-office.

Mr. Raymond Fenton spoke of the aims and accomplishments of the North End Improvement Association which numbers a membership of 800.

Mrs. Clara Morrison, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Lochman contributed two songs which gave great pleasure to all.

TWO LAST SUNDAY

Winchester's quota of motor mishaps for the past week-end was limited to two, both of which occurred on Sunday.

At 5.20 in the morning as James F. Gill of 189 Calef road, Manchester, N. H., was driving his Ford sedan south on Forest street and was about to make the turn into Washington street, the machine skidded on the car track and tipped over. With Gill in the car were Roy Thompson of 1382 Elm street, Manchester, N. H., and Maurice Appleton of the same address. Thompson sustained a cut on the hand which was dressed at the home of Mr. H. C. Goodwin, 569 Washington street. The sedan was badly smashed and had to be towed to the Central Garage.

The second accident occurred at 5.50 in the afternoon when a Ford coupe, driven by Cereno W. Campbell of 65 Arlington road, Woburn, and a Ford truck operated by John F. McKerring of 39 Middlesex street were in collision on Pine street at the corner of Curtis street. The Campbell car was making the turn on Pine street when the crash took place. Both machines were somewhat damaged but no one was injured.

"TWIN BEDS" AT MALDEN AUDITORIUM

There have been many successful farce comedies produced on the American stage during the past five years but it is safe to say none of them has proven to be the continued success that "Twin Beds," the attraction to be given by the Malden Players at the Auditorium next week, has been.

"Twin Beds" made a fortune for its producers. It broke records throughout the country not only financial records but also laughing records. It is sheer comedy from start to finish and as Malden audiences in the past have shown a decided preference for theatrical entertainment of this type no doubt but that there will be a dearth of seats before the end of next week.

The first performance of "Twin Beds" next Monday night is for the benefit of "The Christmas Cheer Fund" of Malden Lodge of Elks which automatically means a very large evening. There will be several features after the conclusion of the regular performance.

ABOUT MORTGAGES

There are many property owners in every community who find themselves burdened with mortgages, either on which they pay high interest rates, or large monthly amounts in dues or amortizations. There are also owners who wish to sell their homes but are unable to find a customer with sufficient cash. Henry W. Savage, Inc., has made a specialty of refinancing property in the above situations. They are in close touch with large trust funds, insurance companies, and others who are making good loans through their office, and are in a position to place an unlimited number of mortgages on desirable property in Winchester and vicinity.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

On Sept. 9, 1925, His Excellency, the Governor, declared a fuel emergency to exist in the Commonwealth, and designated the Special Commission on the Necessaries of Life as Emergency Fuel Administrator, under the provisions of Chapter 273, Section 3, Acts of 1925.

This is to certify that Mr. Walter H. Dotten has been appointed Emergency Fuel Administrator of Winchester and he is designated as the official representative of this Commission in Winchester in regard to fuel during the emergency, in accordance with letter dated Oct. 26, 1925, to the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen.

GRANDMA'S RADIO

(Florence Hascall Butler)

Goin' to see my Grandma
Used to be such heaps of fun:
She never cared, about the noise,
And I could jump and run;
Sometimes I'd chase the kitty,
Just to see how fast she'd go,
But that was all before the days
Of Grandma's radio.

My Grandma's cookie jar
Was filled up to the brim:
But now she hasn't time to bake,
Since she's been listenin' in.
And all I hear is, "hush, hush, husb,
Don't bother people so."
Can't have a bit of fun, since Grandma
Got that radio.

Once I said to Grandma,
"Say, what'cha hearin' now?"
"Hush, hush," she said, "It's recipes;
They're tellin' me just how
To bake a pie," and then she wrote it
In a little book!
Can't see its done me any good,
'Cause she don't stop to cook.

My Grandma always listens,
No matter what she hears,
And sometimes she is full of smiles,
And sometimes—full of tears;
One day she listened fast asleep,
I know, 'cause I heard snores;
When she waked up she said "Oh, pshaw!
I've missed the football scores."

So visitin' at Grandma's
Ain't what it used to be;
They even put the kitty now
Where she can't play with me;
And all that I'm allowed to do
Is sit and whisper now.
Gee! There's no more fun at Grandma's,
Since she got that radio.

WINCHESTER WINS SOCCER GAME AT FRANKLIN FIELD

Winchester Juniors took a second soccer game in the Bay State League from the Colonials of Dorchester last Saturday afternoon on Franklin Field, winning 4 goals to 3. Bernstan, right outside for Winchester scored three of the local goals, Dahlman being responsible for the other. Cunningham, Leith and Catterson counted for the Colonials.

The summary:

WINCHESTER—Thalberg, g; Sundwath, rb; Grandlund, lb; Heissel, rh; Lumbie, ch; Swanson, lh; Bertsan, rof; Dahlman, rif; Eklund, cf; Linden, lif; Carlson, lof.

COLONIALS—Cummings, g; Fogo, lb; Farmey, rb; Doran, lh; Matson, ch; Nordstrom, lh; Ayles, lof; Catterson, lif; Leith, cf; Popp, rif; Cunningham, rof.

Score—Winchester 4, Colonials 3. Goals, Dahlman 1, Bernsten 3, Cunningham, Leith, Catterson. Referee, R. Majura, Wollaston. Linesmen, O. Eklund, J. Leach, Dorchester. Time, two 45m. periods.

K. OF C. NOTES

The regular meeting of the Council will be held Monday night, Dec. 7. An entertainment and refreshments will be furnished. Special Committees will make their reports at that time. Arrangements will be made for winter activities, including a series of five whist parties. A special invitation is extended to all Past Grand Knights and Charter Members to attend this meeting. A very successful turkey whist was held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24 in K. of C. Hall. D. F. Dineen was chairman of the whist committee. The K. of C. ring was awarded to Harold O'Leary of Bow street, Arlington Heights.

All members are urged to keep our regular meeting nights in reserve, so that we may have a full attendance on these nights. Start in by being present next Monday night, Dec. 7 at 8 p. m.

WON BOWLING PRIZES

The prize winners at the afternoon bowling for the ladies at the Calumet Club Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. Willard T. Carleton, 110; Mrs. Harry L. Pilkington, 108; Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, 97; and Mrs. Earle B. Goldsmith, consolation. The prizes were for high single flat and with handicap. Mrs. Chester F. Wolfe and Mrs. Arthur W. Pitman were in charge of the afternoon.

Passion Hurts Strength

For in the same degree in which a man's mind is nearer to freedom from all passion, in the same degree also is it nearer to strength.—Marcus Antoninus.

An Ingenious Sidestep

An Italian woman, asked in court to state her age, replied, "Between thirty-five and fifty." When pressed to be more explicit she said that she kept exact count of her money and other possessions because some one might rob her of these. "But as no one can steal a year or a day, I do not bother to keep track of them."

Country Woman Said to Have Longest Life

The country woman, in spite of her long hours of hard work, has the best chance of attaining a ripe old age. She lives longer, on the average, than the city woman, the city man, or her country husband.

Mortality statistics show this to be the truth, notwithstanding the fact that better health protection is afforded in most cities than is found in country districts. The most favorable death rates are still found in the country, although it must be remembered that the reporting of deaths is probably far more complete in the cities than in the country.

Many cities have lower death rates than the country, however. The better health protection afforded by the health departments of most cities is weighed against urban congestion and certain rural conditions that may be specially conducive to health.—Hygeia.

Salt Old Symbol of "Wisdom and Grace"

Superstitions regarding salt were extremely numerous among the ancients, and the symbolism of salt is apparently one of the oldest among the early oriental nations. Salt is a symbol of "wisdom and grace," and of "perpetuity and incorruption." The oriental customs were to ratify compacts by salt. It was their emblem of friendship and fidelity. With it they made pledges of hospitality which were never to be violated. Salt was commended to the Jews to be used in sacrifices, and now some superstitious people carry first into a new home salt, a broom and a Bible. The salt is for pureness, the broom for cleanliness and the Bible for holiness. Salt has been indispensable to man as a seasoner and preserver of food from the earliest times. It has also been used for glazing pottery, for hardening soaps and for increasing the clearness of glass for many years. Soda, chlorine and other chemical substances are obtained from salt.—Pathfinder Magazine.

LIBERIA: A PROSPECTIVE RUBBER MART

Will Liberia, the African negro republic planned by Americans as a reparation for the seizure of its natives as slaves, in turn free the American automobilist from the burden of high tire costs? American interests, fighting the so-called British and Dutch rubber combines, have obtained a long time lease of 1,000,000 acres of land for rubber growing in the west coast republic.

Before the rubber industry in Liberia can be developed, however, it will be necessary first to develop a large part of the country, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. For some 50 or 60 miles back of its coast Liberia has been cleared and partly developed, but from that imaginary line inland there are dense forests and extremely primitive peoples. Sir Harry Johnston encountered beasts, birds and reptiles there, which, he writes, are found fossil in Miocene formations of France and southern Germany.

Not a Mile of Railroad

It would be safe to assume that local demand would never bring about the development of the country's rubber resources, for there are only two roads, one of them extending from Monrovia, the capital, 50 miles back into the country, and the other a short stretch of five miles inland from Cape Palmas. There is not a single mile of railroad. Native porters, balancing huge loads on their heads, are the only means by which products of the interior can be brought to the coast.

However, the potential wealth of the country should not be overlooked. Although Liberia, located as it is on the point where the west coast makes the great bend to form the Gulf of Guinea, does not stand out very prominently against the great bulk of the African continent, it has an area equal to that of Kentucky, and a total population estimated to be greater than that of any one of 30 States of the Union. Of these 2,000,000 or more inhabitans only about 50,000, of whom one-fourth are of American origin, may be considered civilized, and take part in the government.

With a rainfall of nearly 150 inches, one of the heaviest in the world, as well as consistently high temperatures, Liberia's soil is productive, although so far its cultivation has been neglected. Each year, however, there is a fair sized export of cocoa, cotton, coffee, rice, palm oil, palm kernels, beni seed, piassam fiber and other products. Porter trains bring iron ore, gold, tin, copper, zinc, ivory, hides, and precious stones from the mountains back of the coast.

Friendly to America

The little republic has hardly scratched the surface of its possibilities. Its interior is less accessible than is America, 4000 miles away, due to lack of communication. It is as little known to the Liberians themselves as it is to the world at large. Rivers are navigable for only a short distance from the coast, due to the rapids when the plateau region is reached. Along its 350 miles of coastline rough trails and small boats are used.

Liberians are friendly to Americans, as many of the high officials of the republic were born in this country, a few of them former slaves. The American spirit is strong in Liberia. The capital of the country, Monrovia, is named for the American President Monroe, while the traveler is likely to come upon a collection of huts or shanties in the midst of the African jungle with the incongrauous names of New York, or Philadelphia, or Bunker Hill, or Latrobe, or Hartford—all of them actual Liberian settlements.

The houses of the more well to do Liberians are built in the style of the Southern States, while much of the furniture, clothing and most of the books and papers are from the United States. Few of the natives have seen or ever expect to see the United States, but they like to feel, with a similar language, currency and customs, and a government modelled after ours, that they are still a part of America.

Some Wild Rubber

More than 20 varities of wild rubber vines and trees have already been found in the tropical wilderness that begins beyond the cleared areas. Liberia does not have a very extensive costal plain, with the moist, preferably inundated, ground best suited for rubber cultivation, but in Ceylon, where conditions are similar, cultivated rubber trees are growing at altitudes up to 2000 feet and even higher. On a rubber plantation, the trees are usually planted in open rows, like fruit orchards, and in the early stages of their growth catch crops, such as groudnuts, cassava, coffee, bananas, cotton, etc., are often set among them, with the idea of removing the catch crops later on. Thus a cotton, banana, or coffee estate can be gradually transformed into a rubber plantation as soon as it is certain the latter will pay.

Freak Sculpture

A sculptor, using old newspapers soaked in liquid paste for his clay, molded a large ornamental urn. Almost all the work was done without the aid of tools

TWO INJURED IN WEEK-END MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Two men were injured, one seriously, in the four automobile accidents reported in town over the past week-end.

Friday evening at 5:30 as Richard Coleman of 132 Winn street, Woburn, was turning his Ford sedan from Church street into Main street he was unable to avoid striking James Shirley of 644 Main street. Shirley was knocked down by the force of the impact. He was removed to the office of Dr. R. L. Emery where he was treated for injuries to his left leg and knee. He was later taken to his home.

Saturday's trouble started at 2 in the afternoon when Stephen M. Cushman of 69 Camden street, West Lynn, in attempting to turn his heavily loaded Nash sedan around at a narrow point on Arlington street, drove his machine onto a grass plot in front of the residence of Mr. William E. Schrafft, the machine doing considerable damage to the sod softened by the heavy rain. The police were notified and at once got in touch with Cushman who made restitution for the harm done.

The second of Saturday's accidents took place at 2.15 p. m. at the corner of Calumet road and Cambridge street. As Everett Williams of 4 Russell Hall, Cambridge, was driving his Ford sedan out of Calumet road to the left onto Cambridge street, his machine was in collision with a Durant touring car, operated by Caesar J. Caission of 35 Howard street, Lowell, and owned by a motor tour and rental service concern in Cambridge. The Durant was bound North on Cambridge street at the time of the accident and struck the Ford with sufficient force to tip the latter over, pinning a young lady who was riding with Williams under the body. She claimed to have been uninjured by her experience. Both machines were somewhat damaged.

The last of the four mishaps which took place a 5.35 p. m., Saturday proved the most serious of the lot. It occurred when Edward A. Bradlee of 11 Willow street, while driving a Buick touring car south along Pond street struck a pedestrian John Burnham of Henston place, Woburn, knocking him down and severely injuring him. The heavy rain and uncertain light is thought to have been responsible for the accident. Mr. Bradlee at once picked the man up and rushed him to the Winchester Hospital where he was attended by Dr. R. W. Sheehy. The examination disclosed that Burnham had sustained fractured ribs on his right side, a broken left arm, numerous cuts and abbrasions, together with a possible fractured skull. His name was at once placed upon the danger list, and he was at first thought to have but a slight chance for recovery. By the first of the week, however, his condition had improved sufficiently to warrant the supposition that he would recover unless unlooked for complications should arise. Burnham is employed at the Greenhouse of the Winchester Conservatories on Cambridge street.

JOE WARNER ORATOR

Large Attendance at Elk's Memorial Service Sunday

There was a large attendance at the memorial service held by Winchester Lodge of Elks in Lyceum Hall on Sunday evening, over 200 members and guests being present. The orator of the evening was Hon. Joseph Warner, assistant Attorney General of the Commonwealth and former speaker of the House. A musical program was rendered by the Lincoln Players, Walter Lincoln Rice conductor, and two solos were sung by Mrs. A. A. Morrison, "Absent" and "The Vacant Chair." Dr. James H. O'Connor, secretary of the Lodge, read the roll of deceased members, seven in all. The service conducted by the officers of the Lodge was impressive and in keeping with the season, and the memorial was undoubtedly the most interesting in its arrangement and attraction among the members of any yet held.

The annual Christmas entertainment for the children of Winchester will be held by Winchester Lodge of Elks this year on the day after Christmas, Saturday, Dec 26. As usual it will be held in the Town Hall, with a Christmas tree, gifts and an entertainment. Plans for the affair have been completed by the committee in charge under the direction of E. R. Maurice Dinneen and Chairman Nathaniel M. Nichols of the welfare committee.

EXAMINATION FOR CADETS

Congressman Harry I. Thayer will hold an examination to determine the principals and alternates to be appointed to fill vacanies from the Eighth Congressional District for the Naval and Military Academies, on Saturday, January 9, 1926, at 9 o'clock in the morning in the Custom House Tower, Boston.

All candidates must be citizens of the United States. For the Naval Academy they must be over 16 and under 21 years of age, and for the Military Academy, they must be more than 17 and less than 22 years of age. All candidates must be residents of the Eighth Congressional District which includes Cambridge, Medford, Melrose, Belmont, Arlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown, and Winchester.

The examination will be held under the auspices of the United States Civil Service Commission, and applications for permission to take the examination should be filed as soon as possible with the District Secretary of the Commission, Custom House Tower, Boston. The District Secretary will be able to furnish candidates with full information concerning the conduct of the examination.

The Fire Department was called out at 10 o'clock on Saturday night for a chimney fire at the "Old Cannonball" Hotel. There was no damage.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

Mrs. Samuel McCord Crothers, of Cambridge, at the meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 8, read a very clever and witty paper upon "Hospitality," the lack of which is so often felt by the stranger within our gates. She urged members of churches, especially, to welcome warmly any new comer, and reminded her audience that hospitality was a game two must play. She said that hospitality was talked of as an over act, offered only to strangers, and felt that if it were possible to inoculate each member with the spirit of hospitality, it would have the effect such as looking through eyes of genius. Mrs. Crothers also felt that we hid our best selves as if we had stolen them and that it is only in times of great sorrow or trouble, that trivial conventialities fell away, and the result is a sudden widening and lifting of the horizon.

Mrs. Charles E. St. John, Director for this branch of the Alliance, gave a short but very interesting account of the splendid work being done by Unitarians abroad.

The Fortnightly Trio, accompanied by Mrs. C. F. Alexander at the piano, sang delightfully a group of three songs.

Luncheon was served under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Downs and Mrs. L. L. Wadsworth.

METHODIST LADIES HOLD TWO DAY BAZAAR

Complete success crowned the opening on Thursday of the big two day bazaar held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the church vestry. The decorations reflected the holiday season, being carried out in Christmas colors of green and red.

The booths or tables on which the merchandise was displayed were arranged to portray the four seasons of the year. On the Spring table in charge of Mrs. Grace Johnson and Mrs. W. S. Simonds were displayed the fancy goods without which no fair of any sort is at all complete. Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong and Mrs. Lena Roberts were in charge of the table depicting summer on which were the handsome aprons while the autumn table of Mrs. Reuben Hawes and Mrs. Phillips Bourne was crowded with food and candy. Grabs and mysteries were at the winter table in charge of Mrs. E. P. Taylor and Mrs. Benjamin Miner.

A delicious cafeteria luncheon and a substantial supper was served yesterday by the Young Women's Class of the Church school and the same program will be followed today.

Last evening's entertainment was also arranged to typify the seasons of the year, opening with a gay Maypole dance for spring and continuing with a vocal duet for summer by Miss Margaret Blair and Mr. Gilbert Hook. Autumn was portrayed with readings by Miss Winnifred Bent and a little Christmas sketch in honor of King Winter was charmingly given by little Georgie Bradshaw and Andrew York with Mr. Walter Fancie a most realistic Santa Claus.

A particularly popular feature of the bazaar was the fortune telling booth of Miss Wood, palmist.

Tonight the entertainment program will consist of a playlet by members of the Young Ladies' Class.

The general chairmen in charge of the entire affair are Mrs. E. L. Dunning and Mrs. A. B. Bent with Mrs. M. V. Hitchcock in charge of the cafeteria.

The personel of the various tables follows:

Spring—Mrs. Grance Johnson, Mrs. W. S. Simonds, Mrs. G. A. Dodge, Mrs. G. T. Davidson, Mrs. Fred Wildberger, Miss Edna Johnson, Mrs. Grace Bancroft, Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. M. L. McRae.

Summer—Mrs. Robert M. Armstrong, Mrs. Lena Roberts, Mrs. G. H. McMillan, Mrs. R. A. Armstrong, Mrs. Norman Osborne, Mrs. Theodore Hartley, Mrs. Kenneth Dunlop, Mrs. Ralph Whitney, Mrs. Eben Ramsdell, Mrs. Herbert Seller, Mrs. Fred Snow and Mrs. George Dupee.

Autumn—Mrs. Rueben Hawes, Mrs. Thomas Bulmer, Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. James Blair, Mrs. Stillson, Mrs. Robert Dover, Miss Snellgrove, Mrs. C. H. Brown and Mrs. A. P. Welburn.

Winter—Mrs. Benjamin Miner, Mrs. P. P. Bourne, Mrs. E. P. Taylor, Mrs. Louise and Miss Bertha Seller, Mrs. H. W. Hook, Mrs. Vincent Clarke, Mrs. Charles Hoey, Mrs. Moran, Mrs. L. E. Crouch, Mrs. O. W. Billings, Mrs. E. L. Dunning and Miss Mary French.

Cafeteria—Mrs. Norman Hitchcock, Mrs. Fred Wildberger, Mrs. W. Fancie, Mrs. L. Roberts, Mrs. W. Goodenough and Mrs. J. Meade.

"THE ENEMY" BY CHANNING POLLOCK

Illustrated Lecture, First Congregational Church, Sunday Evening

The slides for this lecture present in pictorial form Channing Pollock's new play "The Enemy." The play is arousing as much comment in New York as Mr. Pollock's other play, "The Fool."

The scene of the play is laid in Germany at the time of the World War, and the play itself is full of dramatic episodes and thrilling climaxes.

Mr. Pollock has lent his slides to Mr. Chidley for Sunday evening and the lecture will interprete the different scenes, illustrated by the slides. The meeting will be in the vestry. The public is cordially invited.

BUILDING PERMITS GRANTED

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for week ending Thursday, Dec. 10:

Ralph P. Sylvester, Winchester—dwelling and store on lot at 755 Main street.

THE SECOND PUNCTURE GOES OFF WITH A BANG

On Friday evening, Dec. 4, the Dramatic Committee of the Fortnightly presented "The Second Puncture," a comedy in three acts by Carolyn Draper Gilpatric, a member of the club. The story of the play in brief is this:

"The Second Puncture" compels two girls to spend the night in a strange camp in the mountains. The owner of the camp turns up unexpectedly with another man, and complications ensue, including the theft of the men's watches during the night. The girls, aware of the men's suspicions that they may have been concerned with the theft of the watches, manage to escape the following morning in the owner's car, leaving a Ford with a punctured tire. The girls, pursued by the men and a detective, are finally caught. As the arrest is about to take place the owner's sister appears and recognizes one of the girls as a school friend whom she had been trying for years to have her brother meet, and all ends happily, with two married couples reunited after a tempestuous time and the prospect of a romance between the school friend and the brother of her chum.

The different parts in the play were skillfully portrayed by well-known Winchester people. The part of Betty was presented by Winifred Bent, whose clever work and charming personality have delighted Winchester audiences many times. Her timid friend Faith, who could do nothing but wail for her absent Will, was delightfully portrayed by Doris McCleod, who added a distinctly different type to her repertoire of characterizations.

The part of Dick, the owner of the camp, whose admiration for the vivacious Betty was apparent from the very first, was taken by Kenneth Caldwell, whose work is always a delight to those who are privileged to see him. The part of his timorous friend Harry, whose thought was always of his Lena and her jealous temperament, was acted in an absolutely delightful manner by Dean Symmes, who is well known in amateur theatricals. His final scene with Lena was a great treat to the audience in its delicious absurdity.

His wife Lena turned out to be Lois Abrahamsen, and her first appearance before a Winchester audience proved a most successful one, although it must be confessed that her final discomfiture enlisted no sympathy from those who witnessed it.

The part of Will, the husband of the tearful Faith, was cleverly played by Harry Bigelow, who gave a realistic picture of a jealous husband. Madeleine Collins gave a charming presentation of Grace, Betty's friend, who had tried so hard to bring her brother and Betty together, and was only successful with the aid of the second puncture.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, the old country couple, whose piety was affronted at sight of the two girls in the men's camp, were cleverly portrayed by Dr. Blanchard and Martha Tibbets. Mr. Wallace's deafness and his limp were well reproduced by Dr. Blanchard, while Mrs. Wallace's suspicion of the two girls was clearly shown by Martha Tibbets.

One of the best characterizations in the play was given by one of our club members, Etta Cayting, whose Delia was a real person indeed. Betty Fessenden made a most amusing and true to-life Norah, with her flour-bedaubed apron and her warm loyalty to Betty in her predicament.

Hubert Bernard, Jr. as the terrifying detective, was most impressive, while the part of Slippery Jim, with his fondness for watches and strings of pearls was presented in a realistic manner by Jerome B. Foster.

So well did each one in the play take his or her part that the attention of the audience was held from start to finish. The music given between the acts and for dancing after the performance, by Coppleman's Orchestra, added much to the enjoyment of the evening. During the dancing punch was served by Mrs. C. A. Batchelder, chairman of the Social Committee and her helpers.

The cast follows in their order of appearance:

Betty Holmes Winifred Bent
Faith Hyland Doris McCleod
Slippery Jim Jerome B. Foster
Dick Loring Kenneth Caldwell
Harry Moseley Dean W. Symmes
Mrs. Wallace Martha Tibbets
Mr. Wallace Dr. F. Milne Blanchard
Delia Etta Cayting
A. Detective Hubert Bernard, Jr.
Norah Betty Fessenden
Will Hyland Harry Bigelow
Lena Moseley Lois Abrahamsen
Grace Madeleine Collins

MISS ADELINE A. SINCLAIR

In the death of Miss Adeline A. Sinclair the Home for the Aged loses its oldest member. She was born in Boston, Oct. 19, 1837 and died Dec. 7, 1925.

She was of a retiring disposition and fond of a quiet home life, always busy for herself, yet eagerly offering to help others when possible.

By her sweet, gentle manner and speech she added much to the comfort and happiness of those about her and imparted her contentment to the family circle.

Bereft of her immediate family, one sorrow following another, in the infirmity of age, she gladly found refuge at last in the Home for the Aged, where during the last four years of her residence she has won the respect and love of every member of the family and was herself grateful and appreciative of all the care that was given her.

Mr. Roland H. Sherman, well-known local attorney has been elected to the staff of the Boston University Law Review.

SEWAGE MAKES LIFE UNPLEASANT LOR LOCAL MERCHANTS

The extremely heavy rainfall which was experienced in Winchester last week, and which in itself proved entirely too much of a good thing, produced a much more serious aftermath than the mere wear and tear on the average disposition. Many of the local merchants doing business in the square have reported property damage from sewage overflow in the basements of their several establishments which will amount to several thousands of dollars before absolutely normal conditions are restored.

The excessive fall of water amounting to more than three inches is blamed for the existing conditions which are the worst experienced here for some, if not for all, time.

Water was first noticed in the cellars of several local stores last Friday, a not unusual condition following a heavy fall of rain. It was noted, however, that many of the business houses which usually were troubled with surface water were reporting dry basements while others not so generally affected were noticing considerable water below decks.

By the first of this week it was discovered that this accumulation was clearly sewage, and Monday afternoon its stench became so unbearable that several stores were obliged to close while others were able to continue business only by keeping doors and windows open to the weather while using plenty of disinfectant.

Meanwhile local authorities were appealed to in an effort to alleviate conditions, but in each instance it was discovered that the Town's water and sewer officials were unable to act in the emergency, claiming the sewage influx in the Winchester basements was due to the fact that the Metropolitan sewers were unable to take care of the heavy flow of waste swelled to excess by the extreme wet weather. Local merchants were advised that nothing could be done until the water went down sufficiently to enable the sewers to function properly.

The local Board of Health quited the fear that the horrible stench experienced in the several buildings affected might lead to illness, but little relief was experienced from the unpleasantness of the situation.

The Metropolitan authorities were informed of conditions but professed themselves powerless to aid, claiming that their sewers were not able to take care of the abnormal flow of sewage resulting from the surface seepage of rain.

Apparently the local unpleasantness was caused by a backing up of sewage into the individual plants, the result of the inability of the Metropolitan sewers to care for the waste from the town under emergency conditions. The situation was quite general, extending from the center as far south as Lakeview road. Manholes in many parts of the town overflowed entirely, a notable example being that on the northwest extremity of Manchester Field which was finally broken open in the hopes that the swifter flow of waste into the river might lower the water level in the store basements.

Among the local establishments effected by the back-up were the automobile show rooms and shops in tre Norris Block on Main street, the shop in the Brown Block occupied by Miss V. L. Bunker, the Corner Shoe Store, Edison Light office, E. C. Sanderson Co., Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., and the F. D. Richardson Co. in the Lyceum Building, the apartment house and block of stores on Main street formerly known as the "Cannonball Hotel," the Hersey Hardware Co. in White's Block, and the office of the Winchester Star on Church street.

The damage done has thus far been hard to estimate. In many instances as the Star went to press the water and sewage had not gone down sufficiently to allow even an estimate to be made. The Star's loss will very probably exceed $4000 with bowling alley ruined and considerable Christmas stock destroyed. Mr. Harris Richardson of the F. D. Richardson Co. felt that his loss would be at least $500. The local manager of the A. & P. Store was of the opinion that his loss had been considerable, but had been unable to get at his stock to make any comparative estimate.

At least, Winchester merchants have experienced a property damage which will run into several thousands of dollars through a condition which is no fault of their own.

Placing the blame will be a hard job. The Metropolitan authorities have had representatives in Winchester to view the conditions, and presumably the local officials have taken steps to place the cause for the tie-up and to find a remedy for the same.

Whatever the cause, and whose ever the fault plans should be made immediately to prevent a recurrence of this week's conditions. conditions which have been in many instances unbelievably bad, conditions which had to be experienced to be appreciated.

EASTERN STAR ELECTS

Winchester Chapter, 175, O. E. S. held its annual meeting and election of officers for the coming year at their rooms in the Masonic Apartments on Monday evening. There was a large attendance and the report of the secretary showed a good financial balance with which to begin the new year.

The new officers are as follows:
Worthy Matron—Mrs. Edith Larrabee
Worthy Patron—Mr. G. Raymond Bancroft
Associate Matron—Mrs. Sarah Wood
Secretary—Mrs. Allena Roberts
Treasurer—Mrs. Edith Cummings
Cond.—Mrs. Mabel Edwards
Associate Cond.—Mrs. Grace Carruthers
Trustee for 3 years—Miss Ethel Jewett

FUNDAMENTALS IN USING BITUMINOUS COAL FOR DOMESTIC HEATING

1

Adjust number of radiators to meet desired temperature. It has been found that invariably the ordinary home is "over" radiatored rather than "under" radiatored.

To this effect is probably due the improper method of heating a house by invariably allowing all radiators to be turned on, the heat being regulated by allowing drafts on the fire to be set at maximum until the desired temperature of the house is reached, then the furnace is closed off for a spell until the room temperature again demands speeding up the furnace.

In a majority of cases the fire is "banked" at night, and, of necessity must be vigorously brought back to steaming in the morning.

The above condition exists merely because it is a time worn method which has been carried down from the age before the advent of steam boilers.

The healthful and economical method of operation lies in the control of temperature by using only enough radiators to maintain a given temperature for the class of weather which may prevail, and using these radiators all the time, both night and day. The maintenance of even temperature through the night is just as cheap and a lot more comfortable than "banking" the fire.

The writer has found in a house being equipped with 10 radiators that four were necessary, when on continuously, to maintain an even temperature throughout the house. In the case of severe weather, of course, others were used and again shut off when conditions warranted.

The above condition applies to any fuel which might be used, but particularly to Bituminous Coal when a constantly burning slow fire is a most favorable condition.

2

Class of Fuel

After many trials with various grades of Bituminous fuel, a coal having the following analysis proved most satisfactory: Moisture, 8 per cent to 2 per cent; volatile, 18 per cent to 20 per cent; carbon, 72 per cent to 74 per cent; ash, 5 per cent to 6 per cent; sulphur, 1 per cent to 2 per cent; B. T. U., 14,800.

There are many coals which fall within this analysis. The particular fuel upon which this report is based (having been used for several years) is Miller Vein Coal.

The preferred size is not over 4-inch lumps and preferably over a 1-inch screen; although run of mine may be used successfully by same methods, it is not as adaptable to household furnaces.

An amount of slack and dust due to breakage in handling from mine to consumer will run between 5 per cent and 10 per cent and this will in no way interfere with results obtained, as this fine material is not segregated but is found throughout the mass of coal.

3

Designation of Furnace Control Dampers

1. Smoke Pipe Damper—This damper is in the pipe leading from the furnace to the chimney. Its object is to control the effective draft to the fire, that is, the draft created by the height of the chimney. Once properly set to meet average conditions, it is not necessary to again change.

2. Check Damper—Is the auxiliary damper to control created draft due to chimney. This damper is usually located in short extension at back of furnace or in smoke pipe connection to stack.

It is usually of the flap type, when closed, allowing full suction effect of draft on fire, and when partly open, allows cold air to enter chimney, thereby cutting down draft.

This damper must be connected to the diaphragm pressure regulator by an easy running chain, as its operation must be dependent upon the steam pressure developed in the boiler; its position is closed with no pressure on boiler and open when pressure of from one-half to two pounds shows at steam gauge.

3. Ash Pit Damper—Is also usually of the flap type, and located in the base of the furnace, allowing air to enter under grate. It should be the only opening through which air should enter in the base.

It should also be connected by chain to diaphragm regulator and work in unison with the check damper, except in the reverse way, closing when pressure rises and opening when pressure falls.

The preliminary adjustment of these two dampers forms the most important item of burning any fuel successfully.

4. Most furnace firing doors are equipped with a shutter allowing the air to pass over fire through perforated cast iron plate suspended on door. In burning Bituminous it is well to allow this to remain open or practically so, which not only keeps the door cool but allows the air to mix freely with unburned gases coming off of fuel bed, and ignite in furnace chamber.

In applying above information to water boilers, the only change is that the damper chain connections be made to the sylphon water temperature regulator which is assumed will be set to operate at about 160 degrees to 180 degrees, dependent upon the service.

If a water boiler is not equipped with this water temperature regulator, it should be.

The ash clean-out door is not designed for draft purposes and should never be used for same.

This also applies to the coal feed door, which should only be opened for the purpose of feeding coal and closed at all other times.

NOTES

There will be special bowling at the club this Saturday night, when Messrs. W. L. Pyatt and W. H. Baker of the Middlesex Sportsmen's Association will roll Edwin R. Rooney and Earl B. Goldsmith. The visitors hold averages of 115 and 120 respectively, and as the home-club members are no slouches when it comes to handling a bowling ball, an interesting exhibition is anticipated.

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE

Everyone is invited to the Town Hall on Christmas eve at 7:30 o'clock prompt, for Carol singing and opening exercises of the presentation to the Town of the Community tree which is to be yours and your children's for years to come.

This has been the dream of the Fortnightly for the last few years and the dream has now come true.

The Conesrvation Committee which believes in planting, not destroying, has been busy raising the necessary founds for lighting the tree which was purchased by them and set out on the Common last May and tenderly nurtured by the caretaker, Mr. Alexander MacDonald.

After short exercises at the hall we will march out singing carols on our way to the tree which will be illuminated for the first time and the bronze tablet unveiled.

The tree is to be named Ann B. Winsor in honor of a founder and first president of the Fortnightly.

All come and join in the Christmas-tide inspiration of Carol singing under the wonderful leadership of Mrs. Mabel Barstow, official State Federation song leader.

The trumpeters are under the leadership of Mr. Rawson who is so well known here to music lovers.

After the exercises it is desired that all carolers go to the Home for the Aged on Mt. Vernon street and repeat the music.

Among the speakers will be Mr. Robert Winson, formerly of this town, Mrs. Myron B. Davis, State Federation Chairman of Conservation, and Mr. George T. Davidson, Chairman of the Park Board who will accept the tree for the Town.

WINCHESTER TAX RATE LOWER THAN MOST OF ITS NEIGHBORS

The complete list of tax rates for the various cities and towns in Massachusetts as furnished by the office of the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation shows that in general the rates for 1925 are about as they were [illegible]ous year. Higher rates in [illegible]es have been offset by a low- the tariff in others.

[illegible]s, which for years has had one of the lowest rates in the State, showed the greatest increase this year, raising from $11 to $18.80. Monroe will pay the lowest tax in the State this year, its assessment dropping from $18.50 to $10. The rather doubtful honor of paying the highest tax in the Commonwealth goes to Revere with a rate of $48.80.

Winchester's tax rate compared to those of its immediate neighbors is on the whole much lower than might be expected. Tax rates of course mean little so far as the ultimate tax to be paid is concerned since the mat[illegible]n of property is equal- is entirely possi- y with a tax rate in taxes than another with a [illegible]ate. An inspection of the rates paid by those cities and towns most closely associated with Winchester shows that Arlington pays a rate of $30, Billerica, one of $26; Burlington, $25; Lexington, $35.70; Medford, $33.20; Melrose, $32.20; Stoneham, $34.60; Wakefield, $35.60; and Woburn, $33.20 as compared with our own $28.

A list of the rates paid by a few of the neighboring cities and towns follows:

Andover	$24.20	Malden	32.20
Arlington	30.00	Medford	33.20
Belmont	35.70	Melrose	32.20
[illegible]	26.00	Milton	23.80
Boston	26.00	Natick	44.40
Brookline	19.20	Plymouth	24.00
Burlington	25.00	Reading	33.75

UNITARIAN MEN TO CONDUCT SERVICE

The coming Sunday, Dec. 13, will be observed as Laymen's Sunday in the Winchester Unitarian Church. The entire morning service will be conducted by men of the parish, the details being arranged by the Men's Club under the direction of its president, Ralph T. Hale. The minister, Rev. George Hale Reed, will for once take no part in the service but will sit with the other members of the congregation in the church auditorium.

Both President Hale and Vice-President Watkins of the Men's Club will speak at the service and will be assisted by the secretary, George Cumings, and Augustus J. Boyden of the Church Standing Committee.

Of especial interest in connection with the service will be the singing of the hymn, "Our Fathers Cleared a Path For Truth," written by R. T. Hale for the 200th anniversary of the First Religious Society (Unitarian) held at Newburyport last June. The complete program for Laymen's Sunday follows:

Organ Prelude—"March of the Priests" Mendelssohn
Anthem—"Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord" Garrett
Sentences and Doxology Mr. Boyden
Responsive Reading, Page 64 Mr. Boyden
Choir Hymn 464—"Hark, Hark My Soul"
Scripture Reading Mr. Hale

MUSICAL COMEDY NEXT WEEK AT AUDITORIUM

"The Clinging Vine," the delightful musical comedy in which Peggy Wood made such a tremendous hit last season is the attraction for the coming week at the Auditorium. Styled "the prettiest and daintiest of all musical comedies," it is bound to prove a big hit with Hazel Shannon the Malden Players' delightfully clever little leading lady in the role originally payed by Miss Wood. Severa song hits are to be featured, a chorus to be added to the regular company and a number of specialties performed by different members of the company. Manager "Eddie" Hayden has engaged George Dill, well known Broadway actor and author of "Top Hole" and several other musical comedies to sing the leading male role next week.

TO BROADCAST FROM WBZ

Winchester music lovers will be interested on Wednesday evening, Dec. 16 to tune in on Station WBZ for the program of instrumental music which is to be broadcast from that station by three well known Winchester artists including Jane Hanson, violinist; Helen Hegel, cellist; and Lucy L. Wilcox, pianist. These local favorites will be on the air from 9 until 9.30 o'clock.

LOCATELLI'S NEW CAPITOL THEATRE, ARLINGTON

A program of fine entertainment will be offered at this beautiful new theatre during the coming week. Heading the bill for the first three days will be Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman" undoubtedly the greatest comedy ever shown on the screen.

In the story Harold Lamb, a freshman who wants to be the most popular boy in college, is put into the big football game of the season during the last few minutes of the play. Harold is the coach's last hope—in fact, he isn't even that, for Harold is only the team's water boy. But every substitute has been put into the game, and there is only left this willing-spirited but untrained Lamb.

With a score 3 to 0 in favor of the opponents and only a few seconds to go, Harold makes a touchdown that it is safe to say never before took place on the gridiron—or on the screen. It is anticipated that Red Grange, the great college football warrior, will envy Lloyd's dodging ability, as demonstrated in "The Freshman."

The accompanying picture will be "Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman. A story of gay, glittering Paris with its beautiful women and a reckless Russian Prince.

Thursday there will be an entire change of program consisting of Betty Bronson in "The Golden Princess."

As the heroine of the "Golden Princess" Betty is said to have a part that suits her to the proverbial "T." Picture her as a little mountain girl, made an orphan through the violent death of her father and the desertion of a faithless mother, reared by a Spanish mission padre at an Indian settlement, and suddenly brought into contact with the rough and ready atmosphere of the gold mining camps.

This is Miss Bronson's first picture as a full-fledged star and you'll love her as the girl of the Golden West.

On the same bill will be shown Creighton Hale in "The Circle." A powerful play that fascinated Broadway for two years, now made into a gripping motion picture.

CALUMET TOURNAMENT

Scores Made During the Week's Matches

Team 1 staged a come-back Monday night in the Calumet winter tournament by taking all four points from Team 10, the third closing with a margin of two after Stephenson arose to the emergency and tossed down a couple of spares. Team 2 got three from 6 and 3 a like number from 11. Stephenson was high roller, his 385 being a record. The individual work was as follows:

Stephenson	138	385
C. Smith	119	337

Tuesday night's bowling in the Calumet house tournament failed to develop any remarkable scores. The only point of interest other than the straight win of four points by Team 13, was the roll-off of the third string in the 18 vs. 19 match. Nineteen took the point in question and thus won all four. Team 8 also won three points from 4. Al Snow was high man for the evening, the best scores being as follows:

WINCHESTER'S DATES IN MIDDLESEX LEAGUE ANNOUNCED

The organization meeting of the Middlesex Interscholastic Basketball League which is to include Belmont, Lexington, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester High Schools was held last week-end in the Middlesex Sportsman's Clubhouse, Arlington.

As a result of this meeting Felix V. Cutler, assistant principal of Belmont High School will act as president of the new league which will number several of the fives which formerly played in the old Middlesex-Essex circuit. Winchester is the only team in the new organization which formerly competed in the Suburban Basketball League, withdrawing for the first time in several years this season.

The schedule of games as announced provides for 20 home and home games opening Jan. 8. Winchester's first game comes on that date when it will journey to Belmont. Its first home battle comes on the 13th with Reading, a club with which it had many a stirring contest back in the days before the formation of the Suburban League.

The schedule follows:

Jan.
8—Stoneham High at Reading
8—Winchester High at Belmont
13—Reading High at Winchester
13—Lexington High at Belmont
15—Stoneham High at Lexington
15—Belmont High at Reading
22—Winchester High at Stoneham
22—Reading High at Lexington
29—Belmont High at Stoneham
29—Lexington High at Winchester

Feb.
5—Belmont High at Lexington
5—Reading High at Stoneham
10—Reading High at Belmont
12—Belmont High at Winchester
12—Lexington High at Reading
17—Winchester High at Lexington
17—Stoneham High at Belmont
19—Winchester High at Reading
19—Lexington High at Stoneham
26—Stoneham High at Winchester

ST. MARY'S HOLY NAME SOCIETY

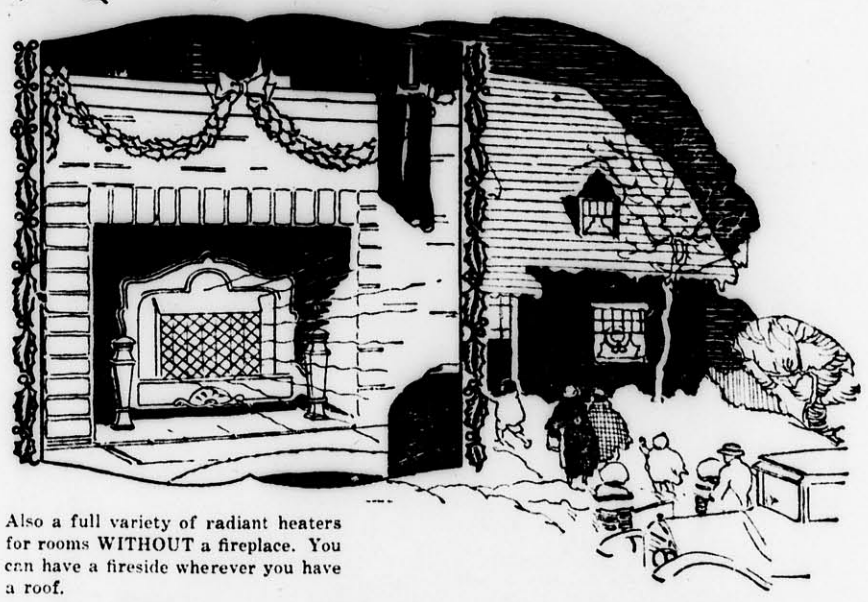

The new officers of St. Mary's Holy Name Society for the year 1926 were chosen at a monster meeting of the Society in the School Gymnasium last Sunday night. While the ballots were being totalled by tellors Joe Blackham, John Cassidy and Robert Sullivan, Frank Gaffney, the Society's organist, provided at the piano in an impromptu concert. Speeches were made by many of the members congratulatory of officers and successful committee heads of past years; John O'Neil, poet extraordinary of the Society, read an original Christmas poem. Fr. Fitzgibbons, Director of the Society spoke and then President Danehy announced the successful officers chosen for 1926 as follows:

President—M. P. Ambrose
Vice President—Edward Dineen
Recording Secretary—Peter Coss
Financial Secretary—Martin Foley
Director—Rev. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons

Thirty-five members of Winchester Lodge of Elks headed by the Officers of the local organization were present at the annual visitation of Concord Lodge of Tuesday evening. The trip to Concord was made by motor bus and in private machines.

"FOLLIES OF '76"

January 22 is an objective date in Masonic calendars just now, with plans materializing for the "Follies of '76," which will be the annual joint entertainment and ladies' night in the Town Hall. The fact that most of the show talent will be local is of wide interest, and attendance at Monday night rehearsals in the Masonic Apartments is very gratifying. It is hoped by next week to be able to announce the complete coaching staff, Mrs. Helen Barr of Wedgemere Avenue having been already chosen as Director of Singing.

The show committee is pleased to announce that it has engaged the popular Ives' Orchestra of Boston both for the show and general dancing afterwards. This is the same organization which furnished music for the two persons mid-winter frolics, and is very widely known among Masonic bodies. This week they officiated at the annual inspection of Hugh de Payens Commandery at Melrose, and have done considerable work for Boston Council and the various Scottish Rite functions.

D. A. Ives, the orchestra conductor, is well-known as bandmaster for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Before the World War he was bandmaster of the Massachusetts Naval Brigade, and during the war was stationed at Newport, in charge of fleet bands, with the rank of lieutenant. His work as conductor is perhaps best known to the public through his supervision of music at the Shrine Circus in the Mechanics Building, where hundreds came from all parts of New England. Mr. Ives is at present co-operating with the committee on the musical program, of which announcement will be later made.

NEWMAN AT TOWN HALL NEXT WEEK

"London, with Rambles Through England and Scotland," is the travel-talk which E. M. Newman will present next Saturday evening at Town Hall. It is a summing up of the delightful spots in rural England and Scotland, and the out-of-the way nooks in the world's metropolis.

In a new group of still color and motion pictures, the master traveler takes his fellow-travelers to Canterbury, Stokes Poges, Oxford, the Shakespeare Country, Gloucester, Chester, to the Scott and Burns country, through the Crossachs, to London, where, in addition to the better known spots, many sights that the average tourist overlooks, will be enjoyed. For variety, the Grand National, the most sensational race run anywhere on earth, is shown. A visit to the Wembly exposition affords its special treat.

Seats are procurable at the Star office or from any public school teacher.

Miss Maribelle Vinson and Miss Susan Davis of this town are among the frequently mentioned feature skaters at the Boston Arena. Miss Vinson is a former Junior skating champion of America.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Remember the tea kettle—up to its neck in hot water yet it continues to sing.

He wins the most, who can the most endure.

Every black sheep was somebody's pet lamb once.

Can it be true, that home is the place where we are treated the best, and grumble most.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling but in rising every time we fall.

If all of lifes' misfortunes were in one heap and each of us was compelled to take our full share—we doubless would be content to take our own and depart.

The Star is glad to note this year the return of the custom of carol singing in Winchester on Christmas eve. Started a number of years ago, it met with great success and proved a feature which carried the holiday spirit and cheer, not only to our shut-ins and sick, but to the whole town at large. HEALTH HINTS FOR THE CHRISTMAS SHOPPER

How much common sense are you going to show in your Christmas shopping, asks the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Are you going to use up all your vitality and good nature fighting your way through crowds the last possible day so that your Christmas spirit becomes one of exasperation rather than one of kindliness? One must remember too, that a tired individual in a crowd of coughing, sneezing humanity is very apt to pick up some infection which may keep him in bed Christmas Day.

Isn't it in accordance with good physical and mental hygiene to use moderation and common sense in this matter as in others? Avoid the crowds as much as possible and keep away from sneezers and coughers. Women, especially, should avoid shopping all day with an insufficient lunch, hastily eaten. A present or two extra for the family is bought at too high a price if it involves bad temper or illness.

FUNDAMENTALS IN USING BITUMINOUS COAL FOR DOMESTIC HEATING

4.

Method of Firing and Control of Fire

The usual method of starting a fire is followed and when a good free burning wood fire is going see that ash pit damper is open, check damper closed, then open fire door, slowing closing smoke pipe damper to a point just before which smoke or flame issues from fire door; lock damper in this position. This setting of the smoke pipe damper should not be changed, as it should take care of all conditions.

Bituminous fuel can now be added at intervals, three or four shovelfuls at a time, and always at the front of the fire—that part nearest the firing door—never shovel in coal so as to spread it; take shovelful of coal, place in fire door and tip shovel.

Gradually build up amount of fuel in furnace to fire door by above method. It will be found that the larger lumps will roll to back of furnace due to the slope of the fuel bed, and that a small amount of flame will at all times be visible cutting up through these lumps at rear of fire. This is the correct condition to maintain. In a fresh fire, this amount of fuel will be sufficient to keep fire at least four hours without further attention as to fuel.

It is probable that the boiler has developed some steam pressure by this time; if so, proceed to place radiators in service that are believed necessary. When pressure shown on steam guage, say one-half to one pound, adjust ash pit damper to a point about one-third open and connect to pressure regulator, also chain from check damper to regulator the check damper being closed.

Shift the weights on regulator so that when one pound pressure registers on guage, regulator closes ash pit damper, opens check draft.

It will be found then that at about one-half pound, check damper will partially close and also ash pit damper partly open and a little lower pressure both will be in original position and fire will pick up again. Once these dampers are properly regulated they will not need changing to meet weather conditions.

Ordinarily this automatic cycle of regulation will take place once every hour and a half to two hours.

It will be found that radiators in service maintain practically a constant temperature and are not dependent upon the air valve to admit and expel air every three or four hours, also that the cracking and water hammering which usually accompanies the "fire up when you want steam" method is entirely absent.

The next firing period is now due, and will be the same followed throughout the season.

First take shaking-bar and just give several short, jerky shakes—more of a rattle—not the full rolling kind that is necessary to break clinkers. A very light ask is all that should be present and will come down easily, as will be seen by a dull red glow in ash pit directly after shaking. Do not shake until fire falls, as with anthracite.

Fill up fire chamber to fuel door, always tilting shovel and not throwing coal in. When fuel is up to door opening turn shovel over and gently push fuel bed to rear to allow for more fuel at front of fire and the lumps to tumble to rear. The very back of the fuel bed will be only about six to eight inches thick and will slope sharply up to their height of the fire door.

This fueling will last about eight hours normally, and in severe weather about six hours. It needs no further attention. If desired to speed up slightly, shake a very little at two or three hour intervals. This will cause the cooked mass to fall a little, closing larger air openings. Under no consideration poke the fire with a bar.

The coal must burn from underneath and at the rear. Do not expect to find a roaring or flaming fire. A small flame should always appear at the back of the fire box. Just before the firing period the fuel bed will show an apparent hole, bright red, one quarter toward the rear; one half fuel bed show burning coke and one quarter near door will be quite dark or black.

On shaking, this whole mass falls about six to 10 inches and starts to burn quite freely. If coal were thrown in the effect of the finely divided fuel striking the incandescent portions would create so much gas the passages would not handle it, the consequence being puffs or smoke and back-firing through door. So again, always allow fresh fuel to strike the coolest portion of fuel bed and gradually build out to the hotter parts. When finished fueling a blue flame will be seen licking up through the lump coal at back of furnace.

Make it a practice to sweep up in front of boiler after each firing period, to avoid tracking coal dust throughout house.

It is always well to allow shutter in fuel door to remain open or partially so to admit a little extra air over fuel bed to ignite gas being distilled off surface of coal; this also keeps door cool.

Attend fire regularly as near eight-hour periods as possible. Ashes should be cleaned out once a day and before shaking fire preparatory to firing.

The reason for this is that the ash is very light and also quite gaseous, when hot, so must be handled cool to prevent flying around in air and giving off fumes.

The same method of shoveling coal into furnace should be used in handling ash into ash cans, as the ash if thrown will cause the air to be filled with this fine dust and cause no end of a nuisance. With a good coal an ordinary furnace for an eight room house will average about five shovelfuls of ash for 24 hours.

If it is necessary to "bank" fire, that is, keep the fire in boiler and boiler warm over period of a day or two, proceed as in regular method of firing, choosing the finer or slack coal for the last few shovelfuls; close ash pit damper and open check damper. Do not allow fuel door to remain open.

In burning any Bituminous fuel a certain amount of soot will be formed and cling to passages of furnace. A regular method and time for cleaning should be adhered to.

Furnaces having small passages for gas before reaching smoke pipe, a two to three weeks cleaning schedule should be made; those having larger openings may run along once or twice a season, but in all cases if the surfaces are cleaned merely by shoving through a fire brush or scraping passages with wire rod once every two or three weeks, will more than pay the consumer in the fuel saved.

A dirty furnace is best indicated by the fuel door warming up considerably with the shutter open, and also a tendency for the smoke to come out fuel door when firing under normal conditions.

Every chimney should be cleaned once a year no matter what fuel is used.

As to the matter of economy, an actual check through seasons, the same furnace and house, 13 tons of Anthracite were used against eight tons of Bituminous.

The last two years the use of Bituminous in a home under test has been the means of maintaining a temperature not varying over six degrees at any time, night or day, from the usual standard of 72 without the use of thermostatic or other control than that mentioned in this report.

In conclusion it might be well to add that no clinker trouble was encountered at any time and the original grates are apparently in as good condition today as four years ago when Bituminous was first used.

The ash pile and handling amounts to about one quarter of that when using Pea and Stove Coal sizes.

OUR OUT OF-PLACE BOUNDARIES

Work recently begun to check up the condition of monuments marking the straight line boundary between New York and Pennsylvania, and to find how far the line varies from its proper position, brings to attention only one of the scores of "boundary skeletons" in the national closet, says a bulletin fro mthe Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

It is probably safe to say that not one of the 48 States is now administering exactly the territory which supposedly belongs to it, continues the bulletin. In some asecs the differences are only matters of hundreds or thousands of acres, but in others they must be measured by hundreds of square miles. These faulty boundaries are for the most part accepted now, especially in the States longest settled; but the agreements have not all been reached quietly. There have been scores of disputes between neighboring States and territories, dozens of law suits have been brought before the Supreme Court, and in one or two cases bitterness has been so great that civil war has seemed on the verge of breaking out.

Difficult to Draw Straight Lines

The chief difficulty is in drawing straight lines. Anyone can draw a straight line on a piece of paper. He can construct a reasonably straight edged flower bed or driveway. But try to lay out a straight line some miles or hundreds of miles long on the face of the earth, over hill and dale, valley and mountain, and you are faced by a vastly more difficult problem.

Many of the supposedly east and west lines between the colonies, later inherited as boundaries by the States, were laid out with no other instrument than the magnetic compass. The direction in which the needle pointed varied as the surveyor advanced; but in some cases no account was taken of this and in others inaccurate corrections were applied. The lines, instead of being straight and running in a true east and west direction, were traced somewhat like rail fences, between their terminal points, or struck off from the true direction at an angle and had to be brought back at intervals by offsets.

Plumb Lines Lead Surveyors Astray

Later when better instruments, astronomical methods, and higher mathematics were used the errors in running boundary lines were greatly reduced. An absolutely accurate line hundreds of miles long through rough country has never yet been marked out on the earth's surface, however, and probably never will be—chiefly because surveying instruments depend on plumb line of spirit level to establish perpendiculars, and these indicators vary with differences in density of the rocks from place to place. The closest approach to accuracy has been made by the "triangulation system" which the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey has extended over a great part of the United States. Errors still crop up, but they are almost negligible. It is this triangulation system which has disclosed many of the rather glaring inaccuracies of the earlier boundary surveys.

A number of boundary difficulties have arisen because of mistakes in geography. Thus the first boundary treaty between Great Britain and the United States in 1782 provided that the northern boundary of the United States should run from the Lake of the Woods on a due west course to the river Mississippi—a physical impossibility. This error had to be adjusted later but the tiny projection of United States territory into Canada at the 95th meridian—like the sight on a rifle barrel—is a monument to the mistake.

A Misplaced Lake

Another error that led to trouble was the belief that an east-west line through the southern extremity of Lake Michigan would cut Lake Erie at or north of the latter's western end. The extension of Indiana and Ohio several miles north of this old east-west line testifies to the correction that had to be made. The shifting of the Ohio line north, incidentally, was one of the boundary matters that came near causing civil war. Militia from both Ohio and Michigan were mobilized near the disputed territory in 1835 and bloodshed was avoided by the narrowest margin.

One of the most peculiar State boundaries in the United States is the northern line of Delaware which is the arc of a circle nicked out the southeastern corner of Pennsylvania. Laying out the Delaware boundaries was a rather difficult problem in geometry and surveying combined. While the north line is an arc of a circle drawn from the center of the town of Newcastle with a 12-mile radius, the west line is in the main a tangent to the circle from the midpoint of a base line in the south between the Atlantic Ocean and Chesapeake Bay.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Chairman Harry T. Winn of the Town's Board of Assessors has been elected Vice President of the newly formed Middlesex County Assessors Association. The organization meeting was held last week in Lowell.

The Town Counsel has written the Selectmen stating that the Park Board should be notified that the land taking for the Loring Avenue Playground had passed into their jurisdiction.

Officers Hogan and Dempsey of the Winchester police discovered an abandoned, stripped automobile by the side of East street at 10.25 p. m. Wednesday. The machine had evidently been there for some time.

Use for White Stockings

An eastern hosiery firm received an order from a North Carolina woman with the following note: "The reason I get white stockings is on account of fleas, and we don't know where so many fleas come from. I can't see them on black stockings and they are gone before I can see them, so that's why I get white stockings, so I can catch fleas on them."

Tree Surgeons Advance

Tree surgery is making marked advances. Many of the professionals in the business are discarding the concrete and cement filler and use a material made from baked cork, put under high pressure. This new filling is both permanent and flexible. Being lighter than the wood it replaces, it is conducive to quick healing through the growth pressure.

Smallest Organ

The accordion, the smallest member of the organ family, has the distinction of being able to produce a greater volume of sound for its size than any other musical instrument. It was invented about 1829 by Damian of Vienna, and became popular throughout southern Europe. In Italy instruments were made that were capable of taking different parts in a score, and orchestras made up wholly of accordions were assembled.

Those Foreign Diseases

An American physician goes abroad to investigate hotel kidney cures, and says that when he let it be known he was rich he was speedily invested by diagnosis with all sorts of deadly diseases, with the assurance that the cures plus starchy fees would insure speedy recovery. Well, at that, it is about the best news coming from foreign parts in a long time.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Parsley Ball

Moisten a sponge with water, then sprinkle parsley seeds over it and, by means of a loop, hang it up in a convenient place. After a few days the seeds sprout and then the green leaves begin to show. The curly leaves make quite attractive decoration, and there is always some parsley handy for cooking purposes.

Electrocution in New York

The law making electrocution the death penalty for first-degree murder in New York state went into effect January 1, 1889, for crimes committed after that date. The first electrocution took place on August 6, 1889.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Regular meeting of the Fortnightly will be held at the Town Hall on Monday at 2:30 p. m.

John Clair Minot will be the speaker and will tell us "What's What Among the New Books." Mr. Minot has been Literary Editor of the Boston Herald for the past six years, after having been one of its editorial writers for the preceding 10 years. His Wednesday and Saturday book pages have brought him to a prominent place in the newspaper world. In addition to his Herald work he conducts a lecture course on current literature at the College of Practical Arts and Letters, Boston University. Members are requested to bring questions relative to books to ask Mr. Minot during the half hour following his talk.

Miss Gertrude Felber, violinist, will furnish a part of the program for the afternoon.

Before and after the meeting there will be a sale conducted by the Room Committee of Chinese lantern flowers, winter bouquet and Christmas greens.

The second meeting of the Literature Group was held on Monday afternoon in the High School Library.

Miss Marjorie Weeks gave the literary current events talk which has become such an interesting part of the program each month.

The study of the short-story was continued under the leadership of Mrs. Elliott and Miss Richmond, who had for their special topic "The Contemporary Short-Story in Europe." Miss Richmond discussed some of the writers on the Continent. Stories illustrating the work of Chekhov in Russia, Bjornson in Norway, and De Manpassant in France were read by Mrs. A. J. Wallace, Miss Jessie D. Pierce, and Mrs. E. A. Carlisle. Mrs. Elliott talked about the short-story writers of England and Scotland. Miss Mary L. Hodge and Mrs. Elliott read stories by Hardy and Barrie.

Miss Winnifred Bent concluded the program with Kipling's charming "Wee Willie Winkie."

Tea was served by Mrs. Eugene McDonald and Miss Hodge.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The December meeting will be held at the home of Miss Bertha Kelley, 4 Dix street, on Friday, Dec. 18, at 3 o'clock. Members are requested to bring money or donations for the shut-ins as is customary at this season of the year.

What Prohibition Actually Has Done

"Years ago," said Judge E. Y. Webb, of North Carolina, "I stood on historic King's Mountain and saw the smoke of 38 government distilleries. I saw no macadamized roads, scarcely a school house. I saw saloons everywhere. There were only two or three factories, giving employment to 200 or 300 people. Some years after the people had driven out this curse, I stood in the same place. I found macadamized roads in almost every part of the county. I saw magnificent churches of almost every denomination. I found school houses in every district of that county. There was not the smoke of a single distillery, but instead I saw the smoke of 43 of the largest cotton factories in the United States."

MRS. BARSTOW TO LEAD CAROLERS

Mrs. Mabel Barstow, who is coming to Winchester to lead the Carol singing Christmas eve, has recently been made official song leader of the State Federation of Woman's Club.

Mrs. Barstow has a rare faculty for making any gathering sing. Those who have heard the mighty tide of song surge under her magnetic leadership never forget it and are willing to go long distances to hear songs sung as she can inspire an audience to pour it forth.

Winchester is very fortunate in securing Mrs. Barstow for the exercises in connection with the dedication and illumination of the permanent Community Christmas Tree to be formally presented to the Town by the Fortnightly.

SIDNEY CHARLES FAULKNER

Sidney Charles Faulkner, a former resident of Winchester, passed away Thursday morning, Dec. 3, at his home in Orlando, Fla., after a long illness. Mr. Faulkner was 63 years of age and a native of Montreal, Can. For many years previous to 1913 he made his home in this town, removing at that time to Detroit from which city he went to Florida in 1918. During his residence in Massachusetts he was for a number of years associated with the Merchants & Miners Transportation Co.

Surviving are his wife, Caroline Wright Faulkner; a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Wellington Bartlett of Orlando, Fla.; and two sons, Sydney W., and Winthrop Faulkner, both of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services and interment both took place at Orlando.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

The Winchester police received a telephone call at 7:05 Tuesday evening stating that two men with a motor truck were stealing something from a gravel pit on Pond street owned by Mr. Michael J. Lynch. Officers W. Cassidy and C. Harold made a hurried trip to the place in the police car and arrested three men whom they allege were about to drive away with a load of stone. They were brought to the station and locked up charged with larceny. Later they were released in bail. In the District Court Wednesday morning they were found not guilty, and were discharged.

TO ENTERTAIN DEC. 22

A SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER PROVED ARMY WORKER

In response to a phone call Tuesday evening from a resident of Everett avenue stating that the residents of the vicinity had become suspicious of the actions of an individual who was going from house to house canvassing, Sergt. Cassidy with officers Hogan and W. Cassidy rounded up a man who proved to be a member of the Salvation Army engaged in raising funds for its Christmas work. It was suggested that he would do better to confine his efforts to the hours of daylight.

Action Before Words

Few men suspect how much mere talk fritters away spiritual energy—that which should be spent in action, spends itself in words.—F. W. Robertson.

Harsh Words

Over-Gushing Hostess—Such a dear man the new vicar is—so outspoken. In his sermon last Sunday he censured the devil most severely!—London Passing Show.

Die in "Wishing Pool"

The finding of the body of a young woman at the "wishing pool," to which girls of Sedgley, England, went to wish for a sweetheart, has disclosed that many suicides have been committed there.

Ancient Form of Torture

The boot was an instrument of torture formerly in use to extort confessions from suspected persons or obtain evidence from unwilling witnesses. It originated in Scotland, being known to have been employed there before 1600. The boot was made of iron, wood and iron, and was fastened on the leg, wedges being driven between the leg and the boot by blows from a mallet. After each blow a question was put to the victim, and the ordeal was continued until he gave the information or fainted. There were also iron boots which were heated on the victim's foot. A less cruel form was a boot made wet and drawn upon the leg and then dried with fire.

Funny Farewells

Whatever dallying may have preceded it, the actual parting of a Briton and his sweetheart is usually sealed with a kiss. To us this seems the natural thing to do, but other nations have different ideas.

The Turkish lover bows low, his hands crossed reverently on his breast. This is a dignified farewell compared with that of the amorous Japanese, who, on leaving his sweetheart, removes a slipper and brandishes it in the air! Lovers in New Guinea have the pleasing habit on parting of exchanging slabs of chocolate, while the lovesick man of the Philippine Isles vigorously rubs his sweetheart's cheeks before leaving her.

Santa's Secret Disclosed

Nature's blush is failing the dear old gentleman. Years have slipped by and the paling cheeks must be restored to his customary ruddy hue with a touch of the perfumers' art. Santa must merit the best, for he is the nicest old gentleman we meet in the year, and he visits the best of society. He has recommended to us his favorite toiletries and testifies to the quality, refinement, and allurement of his discriminating selection.

LEIGH'S EXCLUSIVE TOILET REQUISITES

This is one of the oldest perfumers' lines in the country, which has reached the wealthiest social set and ladies of recognized discrimination. Leigh's advertising is the quality, refinement and delicacy of its line. Leigh's is called the most exclusive toilet requisite line in the country. We use only import concentrates, oils, colors and bases. Leigh devotes money to details of manufacture and skilled labor. Leigh's prices are reasonable with no advertising costs to be covered. Leigh's exclusive distributors and select clientele are its best advertisement of the quality of its toiletries.

New York's Colonial Club Ladies of the select four hundred were our original patrons. We now serve from our dainty Fifth Avenue Shop through our exclusive distributors to discriminating ladies of refinement and wealth to all parts of the world.

We assist Santa with his holiday problems in the following suggestions:

BATH CRYSTALS
BATH WATERS
TOILET WATERS
FACE POWDERS
SACHETS
BATH TALCUMS
BATH SETS
PERFUMES
FACIAL CREAMS
COSMETICS

A complete line of Leigh's Exclusive Toilet Requisites with color, attractiveness and refinement is carried in our fall numbers. May we assist you in your selections for Christmas.

NOTICE

Is hereby given that the BOARD OF SURVEY OF THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER will give a public hearing, in the Selectman's Room in the Town Hall Building on Monday, the twenty-first day of December, 1925 at 8:30 P. M. upon the petition of Frances D. Pond, for approval of a certain plan, filed with said petition, of a certain private way beginning at a point about three hundred and eighty feet (380.) easterly from the easterly extremity of Prospect Sreet and to extend easterly about one hundred and eighty feet (180.) which the petitioner proposes to open for public use.

After which hearing the Board may alter said plan and may determine where such way shall be located and the width and grades thereof.

Prior to the hearing the plan may be examined at the office of the Town Engineer.

By order of the Board of Survey, this seventh day of December, 1925.

LADIES—BAKE A CHRISTMAS PIE!

What a pie this must have been, described in the chronicles of Newcastle, England, for the year 1770:

"Monday last was brought from Howick to Berwick, to be shipped to London for Sir Henry Grey, Bart., a pie, the contents whereof are as follows:

2—bushels of flour
20—pounds butter
4—geese
2—turkeys
2—rabbits
4—wild ducks
2—woodcocks
6—snipes
4—partridges
2—neats' tongues
2—curlews
7—blackbirds
6—pigeons

"It was supposed a great curiosity, and was made by Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, housekeeper at Horwick. It is near nine feet in circumference at bottom, weighed about twelve stones and will take two men to present it at table. It was neatly fitted with a case, and four wheels to facilitate its use to every guest that inclines to partake of its contents at table."

Mrs. Patterson must have had some difficulty in the baking of a nine-foot pie on an open hearth. We can't forebear the comment that she could have done it better with GAS!

The Winchester Police aided in the round-up of four Charlestown youths who were surprised by the State Police while in the act of stripping a motor truck which they had driven into some woods off the main road in Wilmington last Saturday afternoon. The machine is alleged to have been stolen in Charlestown earlier in the day. Two of the youths escaped at the time of the discovery, but one of them was captured by the State Police after a chase. The other was subsequently picked up by the local authorities and booked as a suspicious person, being later turned over to the State officers. The four youths when booked at the Woburn station were held in $2000 bail for a hearing the first of this week. In lieu of bail they were remanded to jail.

At 2:30 Monday afternoon the Winchester Fire Department was called by an alarm from Box 46 for a fire in the residence of Joseph L. Kagan at 29 Arthur street. The fire started from some unknown cause in a room used by Mr. Kagan as a storage room for dry goods. Much of the damage was done by smoke, but its total was estimated to be in the vicinity of $500.

Since the founding of the Monrovian Rubber Company (later known as the Liberian Rubber Corporation) in 1904, rubber has had a place in the trade of the nation. Sixteen different grades are obtained from the natural growths, the lianas or vines of the interior forests being the main source of supply. These huge creepers grow up tall trees and sometimes extend 300 to 400 feet along their tops. The ropelike stems are often nine inches in diameter.

ANNIE S. PALMER

Mrs. Annie S. Palmer, wife of Wallace P. Palmer and a life-long resident of Winchester, died last Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. C. MacDonald on Kenwin road after a three month's illness.

Mrs. Palmer was born in this town 67 years ago, the daughter of the late Salem, and Betsy (Shaw) Wilder. Her father was one of the prominent men of the district, being head of the Buttrick Pattern Company and well known as a musician. Mrs. Palmer was educated in the Winchester schools and attended the New England Conservatory of Music from which she was graduated in 1881. In 1882 she was married to Wallace P. Palmer who survives her with a daughter, Mrs. Helen M. MacDonald, two sons, Guy Prescott Palmer of Chicago and Howard S. Palmer of Stoneham and by seven grand children.

During her many years in town the deceased had made for herself a wide circle of friends. She was active in the affairs of the First Baptist Church, was a member of the W. C. T. U. and also of the Winchester Branch, League of Women Voters.

Largely attended funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter and were conducted by the Rev. Clifton H. Walcott, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who was assisted by the Rev. Henry Hodge, former pastor. Three deacons of the church, Messrs. Harry Winn, Alexander MacDonald and J. Albert Hersey acted as honorary bearers. The Schubert Quartette of Boston sang three hymns, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "How Firm a Foundation," and "Nearer My God to Thee." There were many beautiful flowers. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MICHAEL CONROY

After a year of failing health Michael Conroy, aged 69, died last Sunday morning at his home on Lloyd street.

Mr. Conroy was born in Ireland, the son of William and Mary (Ahern) Conroy. When 25 years old he came to this country and for 30 years previous to coming to Winchester made his home in Weston where he was prominently identified with the affairs of St. Julian's Parish. During his stay in Weston Mr. Conroy was connected as a foreman with the firm of J. A. Gale Company at that place, but had retired from active business upon taking up his residence in this town six years ago. He was a member of the Holy Name Society and several other organizations. Mr. Conroy was a widower, and leaves no immediate family. A son, the Rev. Fr. William E. Conroy, who was Assistant Chancellor of the Arch Diocese of Boston, passed away three years ago.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning with a Solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock. Rev. Fr. William A. Dacey and Rev. Fr. Neil A. Cronin of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston, and Rev. Fr. Frederick Murray of Malden officiated at the Mass which was largely attended. Thirty priests from Boston and surrounding parishes were present.

The bearers included Messrs. Timothy Conroy of Dedham, Louis A. White of Jamaica Plain, John Herlihy of Weston, Dr. Thomas Caulfield of Woburn and Daniel H. Murphy and Daniel Lydon of Winchester.

Interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington, where the committal prayers were read by the Rev. Fr. Francis E. Rogers of St. Charles Church, Woburn.

ELLEN HANLON

Mrs. Ellen Hanlon, widow of Michael J. Hanlon, passed away Sunday noontime, Dec. 13, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Edwards on Thompson street. She was 75 years of age and had been in failing health for some months.

Mrs. Hanlon was a native of Chatham, N. B., but spent most of her life in St. Johns, N. B. She came to make her home with her daughter in Winchester a little more than a year ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Daniel McCann of Brighton and Mrs. Benjamin Edwards of Winchester, and four sons, John P. Hughs of St. Johns, N. B., Charles A. Hanlon of Butler, Penn., Joseph Hanlon of Butler, Penn., Joseph M. Hanlon of Brighton and William F. Hanlon of this town.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning with a Solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Mary's Church celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt assisted by the Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons and Rev. Fr. Cornelius Murray. A grandson of the deceased, Arthur McCann, a student at St. Joseph's Seminery, Callicon, N. Y., also assisted with the mass. The bearers were Messrs. Michael and David Kiley and Michael Griffin of Brighton, Alexander Gauley of Somerville, Maurice Noonan of Brighton and Howard Green of Newton. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Roxbury.

S. CLARK P. WELLCOME

S. Clark P. Wellcome, widely known among the older residents of the town, died suddenly at his home on Washington street early Sunday morning, his death being caused by an acute heart attack.

Mr. Wellcome was 72 years of age and a native of Randolf, the son of Abner P., and Sarah (Tucker) Wellcome. As a young man he entered the employ of the American Express Company and for 45 years continued in the service of this concern running on trains between Boston and New Hampshire. He retired some nine years ago, following injuries sustained in a train accident at East View, N. H. He had made his home in Winchester for the past 24 years, coming here from Newport, N. H., where he was affiliated with Sugar River Lodge, 55, I. O. O. F. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Josephine R. Wellcome, and a sister, Mrs. George E. Little of Cambridge.

Odd Fellows funeral services were held on Monday afternoon in the funeral parlors of Kelley and Hawes Company. Noble Grand Arthur Cameron of Waterfield Lodge, I. O. O. F. of this town officiated assisted by the officers of the lodge. The bearers were Messrs. John Lutes, Harry Dotten, Burt Guerley, George Hamilton, J. Albert Hersey and Arthur Cameron.

Following the Odd Fellows' ritual, services were held in the Chapel at Woodlawn Cemetery, conducted by the Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the First Baptist Church. A large delegation of former associates of the deceased with the Boston & Maine Railroad were present. The interment was in the family olt at Woodlawn.

FIREMEN HAD FIVE RUNS OVER WEEK-END

The members of the Winchester Fire Department responded to five calls for four fires over the past weekend, starting with the answering of a still alarm at 12:30 p. m. Saturday for a grass fire on some vacant land beside the residence of Mr. J. H. MacAlman on Everett avenue.

At 2:50 Sunday afternoon a still alarm summoned a piece of apparatus to put out a grass fire on Church street near the residence of Mr. C. Edwin Jennings. While the men were busy on this mission Box 57 was sounded for the same fire, summoning the entire department upon a wholly unnecessary run.

Twenty minutes after this call another still came in for a grass fire at 77 Church street, while the last alarm was also a still for burning bullrushes in the rear of the Whitney Machine Company on Main street.

WATERFIELD LODGE NO. 231, I. O. O. F.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

A special Christmas service will be held morning and afternoon at the First Congregational Church next Sunday. At the usual hour of morning worship Mr. Chidley will preach on "A Little Child Shall Lead Them." The Chancel Choir of 42 voices, led by Mr. G. Wallace Woodworth of Harvard, will sing. There will be also a children's choir of 100 voices which will sing from the rear gallery Christmas carols led by Mr. Woodworth. The decorations of the church this year, as in the past years, are in the hands of Mr. John C. Haartz. Those who remember the beautiful decorations which he has supplied at other Christmas seasons, will want to see them this year.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a Christmas pageant giving the story of the birth of Christ and its background. This pageant will be followed by a brief Candle Light service. The Chancel Choir will assist at the afternoon service also. The Christmas pageant at the First Congregational Church has drawn increasing congregations year by year, until last year the church was crowded. The public is invited. The offering of the afternoon will go to the Sunday School.

MARY LYONS McLAUGHLIN

Mrs. Mary Lyons McLaughlin, wife of John H. McLaughlin, passed away early Monday morning at her home, 895 Main street, after a brief illness. She was 51 years old.

Mrs. McLaughlin was born in East Boston, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons. She removed to Woburn with her parents when a child, remaining in that city until one year following her marriage to Mr. McLaughlin in 1890 when she took up her residence in Winchester. The deceased had many friends both in this town and in Woburn where she was a member of Div. 5 L. A.; A. O. H.; Circle 1315, Companions of the Forest and George A. Campbell Post, A. L. Auxiliary. With Mr. McLaughlin she celebrated the 35th anniversary of her marriage on the 9th of November.

Surviving are her husband, John H. McLaughlin, two daughters, Marie G., and Ruth H. McLaughlin; three sons, John H. Jr., Lawrence J., and Walter J., all of Winchester; a sister, Mrs. Anna English of Los Angeles, Cal., and two brothers, Henry J. Lyons of Chicago and William Lyons of Los Angeles.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning with a largely attended Solemn High Mass of Requiem celebrated at 9:45 in St. Mary's Church. Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons was celebrant assisted by the Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt and the Rev. Fr. Cornelius J. Murray. The bearers included Messrs. Roger Dwyer of Lynn, John Lyons of Boston, Frank Shea of Allston, John Shea of Cambridge, Edward McHugh of Charlestown, cousins of the deceased; Daniel Mahoney of Somerville and John Nowell and William McKee of Winchester. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, East Woburn.

Mr. Martin Nelson of Prince avenue sailed last week Thursday on the S.S. Gripsholm of the Swedish-American line for Gothenburg, Sweden, where he will spend the Christmas holidays with relatives.

SEWAGE MOSTLY OUT OF CELLARS

Gangs of men have been at work during the week pumping out the cellars of various buildings in the centre which were flooded with sewage a fortnight ago. It being impossible to secure the use of any gasoline pumps in town, the work has mostly been by hand—a slow process considering the great volume of sewage. As soon as the Metropolitan sewer was broken open at Manchester Field and allowed to flow into the river, the flood subsided, but in most instances it was found impossible to clear the cellars except by pumping.

According to latest reports the trouble is said to have been caused by the heavy rain seeping into the sewers, filling the Metropolitan so that it was unable to function. The sewage went out of some of the buildings the first of last week, only to come back in increased quantity during the day. All buildings with basement toilets were flooded by the filth backing up through the traps, while other buildings had the mess come through their floors and walls.

Whatever the cause, it is considered very peculiar that this sewage should back up so suddenly and in such great volume. Several buildings previously affected by water in their cellars failed to produce a drop, while others usually dry, were badly afflicted. Building owners and merchants are interestedly awaiting a report of the cause.

Health Agent Maurice Dinneen has been busy advising regarding the fumigating of the various buildings ly used, together with about ev ery other disenfectant obtainable, it is not thought that any epidemic will re ult.

NEWMAN HERE TOMORROW

Winchester should feel gratified in being able to hear E. M. Newman give one of his famous traveltalks in our Town Hall tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Winchester Teachers' Club. Mr. Newman has just closed his seventeenth season of lectures at Symphony Hall, Boston, and before going on to Baltimore and Washington he comes to us to give a single lecture on "London, With Rambles Through England and Scotland. The following is what the eminent Boston critic, Philip Hale, wrote in the Boston Herald regarding the Newman Travel Talk given in Symphony Hall last week, which Mr. Newman will present in town Hall tomorrow under the auspices of the Winchester Teachers' Club;

"Newman Travel Talk on London"

"Deals also with rambles in England and Scotland."

"The title of Mr. Newman's travel talk in Symphony Hall was "London, With Rambles Through England and Scotland."

"There was a very large audience last night, the audience being greatly interested and enthusiastic over the beauty of many of the pictures, especially those taken in the English country, the lake region and the Trossachs. Among the famous places visited were old Canterbury and Chester, the scene of Gray's elegy, the manor house from which Penn set out for Pennsylvania, Oxford with views of Magdalen and Christ Colleges. Considerable time was spent at Stratford-on-Avon. To few if any in the audience was Ecton known, the old home of Ben Franklin's family, highly esteemed as capable blacksmiths. Chester and Gloucester were interesting. Scots in the audience, and others, were delighted with the pictujres of Robert Burns' country, the two bridges, the inn in which Tam O'Shanter drank deeply, the Auld Kirk in which he saw the witches dancing and the frightful scenes, and to his cost shouted approval of 'Cutty Sark,' then the bridge where Tam saved himself; Edinburgh and Melrose Abbey.

"On the way to London the audience attended the grand national race. The slow motion pictures of it gave an excellent idea of the actual appearance of horses in the act of jumping.

"Mr. Newman showed not only the more or less familiar buildings of importance in London; he also pictured vividly the East side and the street life. Sights were shown unknown to the generality of tourists or neglected by them, as the tombs of the Crusaders. There were views of interiors. The travel talk ended with many pictures of the Wembley Exhibition.

"All in all this travel talk is one of the most fascinating that Mr. Newman has given, and this is saying much. It is a pleasure to know that the present series has been eminently successful in all the cities where it has been given.

P. H."

There are still some seats on sale at the Star office. The box office at Town Hall will be open at 7 o'clock and doors will open at 7:30. Since the lecture is illustrated with many pictures and colored slides, the hall will be darkened during the lecture ,and all are requested to be seated by 8:15.

This is a worthwhile event, and the public school teachers are looking to the people of Winchester to give Mr. Newman a "full house."

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR CHILDREN FROM BOSTON HOME

ARE YOU INTERESTED in making others happy at Christmas? Do you wish to extend the Christmas cheer beyond your own family and intimate friends? If you, too, want to make some one happy at this Christmas season—send your contributions to Mr .Nathaniel M. Nichols, 29 Crescent road, or call him up, tel. 0763-W and he will tell you how to avoid duplications of dinners or gifts.

IMPORTANT!

Next Friday, Christmas Day, being a holiday, the publication of the STAR on Thursday necessitates our usual request to advertisers and correspondents for the early receipt of their copy. Your copy MUST be in early in the week to insure publication.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

At the last regular meeting of the club a final report of the Hope Chest Committee was given by the Chairman, Mrs. Anna W. Lochman. The proceeds, a large sum of money, was turned over to the local lodge of Elks for welfare work in the town.

Tonight a group of carol singers from the club will accompany the Elks on their annual trip to West Roxbury Hospital. Each member will bring a gift of home-made candy. Of course this is but one item of the many good things that Mr. N. Nichols will have gathered up to treat the disabled veterans with, and the visitors are always well repaid in the welcome given them by those "shut-ins" whom the world has forgotten.

Just at this season of the year the regular business of the club is generally set aside in order that full cooperation may be given the local lodge of Elks in its Christmas activities. An invitation has been extended to the club to participate in the Christmas festival for the children. As outlined by Mr. Nichols, the affair will be held in the Town Hall, Saturday, Dec. 26 at 1.30. As usual the ladies are needed to assist in looking after the little ones.

The next regular meeting, Dec. 23 will be omitted and the hall will be put at the disposal of the Fortnightly for carol practice. A most cordial invitation is extended to members of the Emblem Club to attend the Community Tree exercises to be given under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club on Christmas Eve.

Next month, January, will see the Club back in schedule time again with everything set for a busy social season. Mrs. A. W. Lochman announces a luncheon whist to be held in Boston, Jan. 15, with a very attractive menu. Also, plans are being formulated for a New Year's Dance on Wednesday, Jan. 27. A very enterprising committee has this affair in charge and will report at the next meeting.

ANNA O'CONNELL WELLS

Mrs. Anna O'Connell Wells, wife of George F. Wells, Jr. of 65 Washington street, passed away last week Wednesday, Dec. 9, after an illness of four days. Her death was unexpected and came as a shock to her many friends.

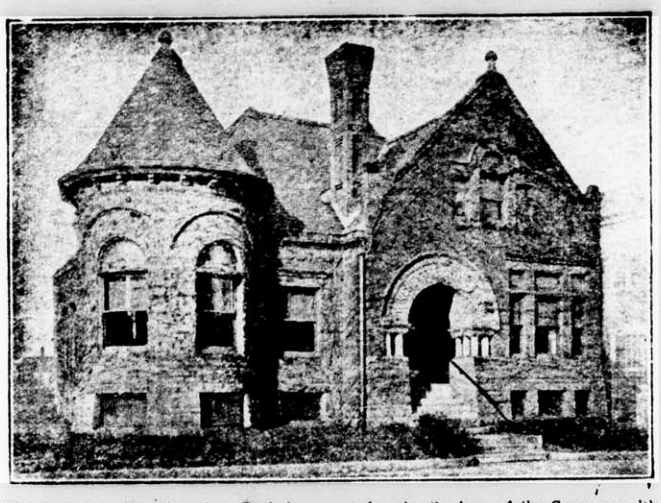

Mrs. Wells was a native of Winchester and the daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Timothy O'Connell. She was 18 years of age, and attended St. Charles Grammar School in Woburn before entering High School in this town. She was graduated from the Winchester High School last June with the class of 1925.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a daughter, Dorothy Anne, her mother, Mrs. Mary O'Connell, and two sisters, Mary A. and Frances O'Connell of Winchester.

Funeral services were private. The interment was in Calvary Cemetery, East Woburn.

COMMUNITY CHRISTM PROGRAM

The Fortnightly hopes that the old custom of carol singing will be revived in Winchester.

Many requests for visits of carollers to the homes of the sick and the "shut-ins" who long to hear the songs but are prevented by illness and infirmity from attending the exercises in the Town Hall, have surprised and touched the committee having the services in charge. They will try to arrange to visit as many of these friends as they possibly can.

The singing at the Town Hall will be led by Mrs. Mabel Barstow official Song Leader of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and by a quartette of trumpeters.

The bells on the Town Hall and on the churches will be rung at 7.15 p. m. Christmas Eve. Led by the trumpeters and Mrs. Barstow, we shall march singing carols through the street to the Common where the Fortnightly tree will be lighted for the first time.

The bronze tablet bearing the name of the tree, the date, etc., will be unveiled, after which the tree will be formally presented to the Town by the President of the Fortnightly, and accepted by Mr. George Davidson. Dr. Howard J. Chidley will then bless the little tree and pronounce the benediction, after which visits to the sick will be made by the carollers.

Following is the program to be given at the Town Hall at 7.30:

America the Beautiful
Salute to the Flag
Scripture Selections Pertaining to Trees and the Women of the Bible, (4 minutes) by the Rev. Mr. Hodge
1. Oh Come All Ye Faithful
2. It Came Upon the Midnight Clear
3. Holy Night

Five Minute Speech by a Member of the Winsor Family
Letters by Mrs. Lillia Sanderson
Oh Little Town of Bethlehem (3 verses)
Three Minute Speech by Mrs. Myron Davis, State Chairman of Conservation
Hark the Herald Angels Sing—March from the Town Hall singing this.

Words of the Carol to be Sung at the Fortnightly Tree on the Common Christmas Eve

There's a wonderful tree, a wonderful tree
The happy children rejoice to see.
Spreading its branches year by year,
It comes from the forest to flourish here.
Oh, this beautiful tree, with its branches wide
Is always, is always blooming at Christmas tide.

'Tis not alone in the summer's sheen,
Its boughs are broad and its leaves are green
It blooms for us when the wild winds blow,
And earth is white with feath'ry snow:
Oh! this Fortnightly tree, with its branches wide,
We hail it with joy at the Christmas, Christmas tide.

"FOLLIES OF '76"

HELEN EDLEFSON BARR
Director of Music for Follies of '76

Announcement that Helen Barr of Winchester is to direct the singing in the "Follies of '76", the show to be sponsored by Winchester Masons on Jan. 22, has met with widespread approval. Mrs. Barr is a soprano of recognized ability, with considerable experience in directing musical affairs, and the Show Committee feel very fortunate in obtaining her services.

Much of the success of recent pop concerts has been due to Mrs. Barr's supervision, and her delightful recital two years ago under auspices of the Pop Concert Committee is remembered with pleasure. At present Mrs. Barr is in charge of music at the Orthodox Congregational Church in Arlington, and she has lately achieved marked success in the broadcasting of songs through radio station WEEI, besides arranging several of their evening programs.

It has been the desire of the Show Committee to make the "Follies" as nearly a Winchester production as possible, as it was felt that everyone would enjoy a show originated by local people. The fact that Helen Barr has, with one short interval, lived in Winchester since childhood is of local pride, and her acceptance is another evidence of the enthusiastic support which is available for the coming event.

UNINJURED AS MACHINE STRUCK TREE

Shortly after 9 o'clock on Monday night as Dave Rossi of Sylvester avenue was driving his Gardner touring car at the corner of Bridge and Washington streets the machine got out of control and crashed into a tree at the side of the road. The police were notified of the accident and Officer John Regan hastened to the scene. He found the touring car completely wrecked and abandoned by its operator. The machine was towed to the Central Garage and later Sergt. Rogers and Officer John Hogan located Rossi at his home. So far as could be learned he was not badly injured by his experience.

NATIONAL BANK BUYS LANE BUILDING

According to reports current about town this week, the Winchester National Bank has purchased the Lane Building. The bank at present occupies large quarters in this building. The building has been owned by Mr. Francis R. Mullin, who purchased it from Messrs. Hovey and Lane earlier this year.

Cutting Glass Under Water

Submerging glass under water does not necessarily mean that it will cut easier, but it is much less likely to crack than when cut in air. The cutting sets up vibrations in the glass which have a tendency to crack it. These vibrations are greatly reduced if the glass is placed under water during the cutting process.

CAR RAMS MACHINE ON CAMBRIDGE STREET

What might easily have been an accident with serious results took place at 7:40 o'clock last Saturday evening when a street car of the Massachusetts Eastern Street Railway Company rammed a Studebaker touring car on Cambridge street opposite the entrance to Fernway, the residence of Mr. F. S. Snyder on Myopia Hill.

The street car which was in charge of Conductor Frank Gray of 12 Winter street, Reading, was headed toward the center while the Studebaker was coming out of the Fernway drive and crossing the tracks into Cambridge street. The electric struck the machine about midway on its right side, and pushed it along for some 25 feet until it crashed to a stop against an electric light pole. Operating the auto was its owner, Oscar Leander of 518 Washington street. With him were the Misses Olson and Maguire, both of this town. Miss Olson was unhurt but Leander and Miss Maguire were obliged to visit the Winchester Hospital where they were treated for contusions and abrasions by Dr. R. W. Sheehy. They were able to go to their homes following treatment. The Studebaker was completely wrecked and was towed to the Central Garage.

The only passengers in the electric who claimed to be hurt were Mrs. Helen George and her daughter, Alice, of Thompson street who complained of injuries to their backs. The accident caused quite a traffic tie-up, and Sergt. Cassidy and officer W. Cassidy of the Winchester Police put in a busy time before normal conditions were restored.

ABERJONA RIVER A NUISANCE

In a report filed Wednesday at the State House by the State Department of Public Health, "the Aberjona River is a nuisance and is badly polluted by industrial wastes from factories in Woburn." This is no news to Winchester residents, and with the present flooding of cellars with sewage, it appears that we have another nuisance in the Metropolitan Sewer.

EXHIBITION BOWLING

Local Men Lost Saturday Night by Small Margin

Edwin R. Rooney and Earl B. Goldsmith of the Calumet Club lost the exhibition match last Saturday night on the Calumet alleys to Pyatt and Baker of the Middlesex Sportsmen's Club by a small margin. The two visitors only had a lead of 70 pins at the end of the 10 strings. There was one of the largest crowds at the club thus far this year, and the bowling was held before a record gallery.

The bowlers were well matched. Rooney rolled over Pyatt by 62 pins and Goldsmith followed Baker by 132, although his single of 149 was by far the best of the evening. All-in-all, it was one of the best exhibition bowling matches the club has held in a long time, and further contests of a like nature are being planned. The local team is particularly fast, although probably not putting in as much practice as some of the visitors, but even so, it can give a good account of itself and make any other combination hustle.

Saturday night's scores were as follows:

Reward for Heroes

The Carnegie hero fund was created by Andrew Carnegie in April, 1904. It provides rewards which consist of medals and money grants to persons injuring themselves or to relatives of those losing their lives in an effort to save their fellow men.

"Give a Gas Appliance Gift"

You set your housekeeping methods back 15 years when you put an old cookstove in use for the winter. "You can do it Better with Gas" all year 'round.

Use Gas Heaters for Kitchen Warmth

Keep your clean, efficient gas range in operation

WHY go back to the muss and dirt and bother of your coal or wood range in wintertime? It's not such a great economy, after all, because solid fuel is expensive. And think of the bother! Aren't your time and strength worth something?

A little gas heater will quickly warm up the kitchen on cold mornings and you can regulate the heat more easily than in a stove built primarily for cooking. Continue to use your clean, convenient gas range for cooking, and have no fuel to lug, no ashes to carry, no fires to build, no hard, slavish work.

UNITED STATES POST OFFICE

Patrons of this office are entitled to and must receive prompt, efficient, and courteous service. If you think our methods or conduct can be improved, the Postmaster wants to hear about it, personally.

If your package is worth sending, it is worth good wrapping and packing.

1. Wrap with tough paper.
2. Tie with a stout cord.
3. Write or print address with ink. Be sure and give street and number; to omit such, means delay to your mail and to your neighbors mail. Also, the regulations require it.
4. Inclose articles liable to breakage in corrugated paper or wooden boxes and pack in excelsior or similar substance.
5. Place return address on upper left hand corner.
6. If contents are perishable or fragile, mark the package conspicuously or have the mailing clerk do it for you.
7. Think of the miles it must travel, handled and re-handled.
8. When ready to mail give it the "once over."—Address, Return Address, Stamps, Wrapper, Packing.
9. Mail it early.
10. Insure it.

Felt for Chair Legs

Felt glued on the ends of the chair legs will prevent them from marring the polished floor. Also this simple device will do away with the scraping noise chairs generally make when moved about. There are rubber caps manufactured for this purpose, but the felt will be found easier to attach, as it can be cut to any size. Long strips also can be cut to fit the rockers of rocking chairs.

Knowledge and Power

Knowledge is power when applied to purpose, that is, when it is used; for, in and of itself, it is incapable of accomplishing anything. He who uses knowledge wisely is a benefactor to his fellow man.—Grit.

WINCHESTER UNITARIANS OBSERVED LAYMEN'S SUNDAY

In connection with the nation wide observance Laymen's Sunday was observed on last Sabbath in the Winchester Unitarian Church, the morning service being entirely conducted by members of the Men's Club. The minister, Rev. George Hale Reed sat with the congregation.

Both President Ralph T. Hale and Vice-President Charles H. Watkins of the Men's Club delivered addresses and were assisted with the conducting of the service by the club secretary, George Cummings, and Augustus J. Boyden of the church standing committee.

Of especial interest in connection with the service was the singing of the hymn written by Ralph T. Hale for the 200th anniversary of the First Religious Society (Unitarian) held at Newburyport in June, 1925. The text follows:

"Our Fathers Cleared a Path for Truth"
(Tune: Christmas, 364)

Our fathers cleared a path for truth:
No timid souls were they:
Undaunted filled their faith with works,—
Can we do less, today?

Their conscience knew no compromise,
Their spirit no defeat:
They set their standards on the heights,—
Shall we, their sons, retreat?

Their vision saw the future fair
Beyond the sunset's gleam;
Their future we are living now,—
Have we fulfilled their dream?

Our sons we pray shall take from us,
As from our fathers we,
A past for ever holy and
A future ever free.

Br'er Williams' Petition

HIGH SCHOOL A. A. HELD DANCE

The Winchester High School Athletic Association held a dance last Friday evening in the school gymnasium with an attendance of about 25 couples. The gym was gaily decorated for the occasion with school and college banners. Music for the dancing was furnished by an orchestra. The matrons and patrons included Miss Eva M. Palmer and Miss Mary V. Perham, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Butters, and Principal Wade L. Grindle. The ushers were Holbrooke Lowell and George Bartlett. During intermission refreshments were served. The dance was under the direction of the social committee of the Athletic Association.

KATHERINE SHULTIS ELECTED HOCKEY CAPTAIN

Katherine "Kay" Shultis, a member of the Junior Class at the Winchester High School, was elected to lead the Field Hockey eleven for next season at a recent meeting of the letter players for the past fall. "Kay" is a halfback, and played her first season as a regular with the team this year. She will have as a nucleus for her team in 1926 only "Dot" Bond and Cecile de Coriolis fullbacks, "Kay" Cassidy and Florence Watters, halfbacks, and "Dot" Mackenzie, forward. Sally Brooks has been elected manager for next season.

Famous Old Legend

The story of Frankenstein was published by Mrs. Shelley in 1818. In it a young student relates how he created a monster with materials collected from tombs and from dissecting rooms. The creature acquired life and committed many terrible crimes. He murdered a friend of the student, strangled his bride and eventually met his death in the Northern seas.

His Business Hold

"Do you believe in the possibility of transmuting baser metals into gold?" "No," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "I'm a realtor. I don't depend on transmutation. I depend on commutation."—Washington Star.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The program of the Fortnightly on Monday, Dec. 14 was a particularly delightful one. There was first the unexpected pleasure in having the Fortnightly Quartette, one selection a Christmas Carol to be sung at the dedication of the Christmas Tree on the Common.

Miss Gertrude Felber, violinist, with Mrs. A. H. Abbott, accompanist, gave three beautiful selections.

Mr. John Clair Minot, Literary Editor of the Boston Herald, spoke of the new books.—his talk was most helpful at this season of the year. He said he would try to discuss definitely and specifically certain books, fiction and non-fiction—not the best perhaps or those which will live the longest—but those which stand out, are most talked about and most in demand. Following is his list with his comment.

"The Perrenial Batchelor," by Anne Parrish.—First on the list because it is the best selling novel in America at present. Should not be read for the story alone—how a mother and three daughters ruined the character of son and brother, by their unselfish devotion,—but for its background, a cross section of "American home life, styles, etc., covering a period of 60 or 70 years, which gained it the Harper Prize.

"One Increasing Purpose," A. S. M. Hutchinson—A book which will be reviewed in many pulpits this year on account of its religious mysticism, with human characters to give it interest. More humor than its predecessors, and everywhere, Mr. Hutchinson has a story to tell or a message to deliver, and is so happy in his interpretation that one can forgive him its ragged English and its paragraphs which become so involved they almost have apoplexy.

Two novels of early Spring have come over into the winter with unabated interest—"Glorious Appollo," E. Barrington—the author has dealt harshly with Lord Byron but the sheer beauty of its English sets it apart, and "Soundings," Hamilton Gobbs—one of the biggest first novels in which a young girl's attitude toward life, and her relation with her father, is particularly well done.

"Queer Judson," Joseph Lincoln.—Mr. Minot is very fond of all Joseph Lincoln's books, as they protray the kind of people whom one would like to meet in real life, the "kind God loved because he made so many of them."

"The Professor's House," Willa Catha.—For the vrst time this author deals with a cultured community life.

A group of novels, Mr. Minot called the "Prairie Group" dealing with prairie homes and life of the Northwest

"Wild Geese," Martha Ostenso—one of the best of these written with earnestness and understanding of dramatic values.

"The Emigrant."—another Prairie novel by Boger. A well told tale of a little group of Norwegian emigrants who have settled in this country.

"The Smith," Janet Fairbanks—a story of Chicago told in terms of one family's experience.

"The Virtuous Husband," Treman Tilden has done, to a certain extent for Boston what Janet Fairbanks did for Chicago.

"Portrait of a Man with Red Hair," Hugh Walpole—A fanciful tale, with something mystic, alomst supernatural about it.

"Drums," James Boyd—"best English novel about the American Revolution" quoted from Professor William Lyon Phelps.

In his list of non-fiction, Mr. Minot said he simply followed his own likes and dislikes.

"My Education and Religion," Dr. Gordon—Written with modesty and humor and loyalty to this country.

"Lord Grey's Biography"—most successful, but heavy reading and therefore not popular.

"Thunder on the Left," Christopher Morley—A satire hard to classify, enjoyed by those who can enter into a world of "make believe." It leaves parents with much to think about.

"Wives," Gamalial Bradford—intimate, interpretive sketches of well known women.

"When We Were Very Young," A. A. Milne—delightful volume of verse for the children and grown ups.

"Adventures in Understanding," David Grayson,—as always, delightful essays.

There were many questions asked, after the lecture about various books, all of which Mr. Minot answered satisfactorily.

Because the Fortnightly members and their many friends have been so generous and so kind, needs of many sorts have been met. Our Conservation Committee with their Chairman, Mrs. Chas. H. Hoey, are planning a special good time for their visits to the boys at the West Roxbury Hospital on Dec. 18 and 19. Every single boy in the ward, 38 in all, will be given a bathrobe and there will be gifts refreshments and a good time. Mrs. Helen Edlefson Barr will sing both in the Hut and in the Wards.

Mrs. Hoey wishes to thank all who have made it possible for her committee to go to these men at the hospital carrying the Christmas spirit and helping to make a merry holiday season.

Our Education Committee, Mrs. P. P. Bourne, chairman, are to present to the Winchester Hospital at Christmas time a book wagon, and it is their desire that this wagon shall be filled with good books and magazines. Will you kindly give to any member of the Education Committee books or subscriptions to magazines by Wednesday, Dec. 23. This wagon is to be used at the Hospital and can be wheeled to the bedside of a patient who may select his books, and thus shorten the long hours which the convalescent must sometimes spend in bed. Books are our friends—let us share them with others as we also share our friendship with one another.

Why worry about the weather? Forewarned is forearmed. Old Farmer's Almanacs at the Star Office.

Hunters Cite Little for Gnu's Ferocity

The gnu, with the head of a horse, the long, narrow face, the body of a horse, an antelope's legs, an upstanding mane and a flowing tail that reaches to the ground, is indeed a fantastic creature, writes Lillian Gish, F. Z. S.

His terrible voice, his pose—everything about him suggests fierceness. But though savage in captivity, he is extremely nervous, with a great regard for his own safety.

A herd of these gnus on the veldt is an alarming sight. Prancing and wheeling, and tossing their heads, they approach a strange object in single file, forming themselves into a solid square as they come near.

In this position they will stand for hours, glaring at a tent set up on the plains, as though ready to tear it to pieces.

But this is a game of bluff. Let the owner of the tent show himself with a gun, and though they may gambol wildly around him, uttering loud snorts, it will be in ever-widening circles.

The first shot sends them flying, and so great is their speed that they vanish within a few seconds.

Bird's Mother Love Example of Heroism

The boy who "stood on the burning deck, whence all but he had fled," has won the immortality of a well-known poem, but probably a certain skylark will not find her poet, although she certainly deserves one.

While beating out a field fire at Feltham, in Middlesex, firemen noticed a skylark sitting on her nest on the ground, in the direct path of the flames. The bird continued to sit on her eggs with dense smoke rolling round her, and even when the flames caught the grass of which the nest was constructed she did not stir until the firemen were close upon her.

So struck were the men with the bird's heroism and devotion that they determined to save her home at all costs. They set about isolating the nest, and were so successful that, although the fire spread all around, the nest was scarcely damaged and the eggs remained intact.—London Tit-Bits.

Grief in Animals

A man or woman who loses some dear one is overcome with deep sorrow, remembering only the admirable qualities of the lost one, but this feeling is soon softened by a multitude of external impressions and influences, so that sorrow gives way to melancholy, which in its turn diminishes.

Not so in the case of many animals. These not only retain their grief much longer, but there are cases in which it lasts as long as life itself.

The cat will swim after her kittens which some cruel man is trying to drown. The story of the dog who starves to death on the grave of his master is no fable. A stone in the Paris dogs' cemetery is thus inscribed: "He was so intelligent that he might have been taken for a human being—but that he was faithful."—Das Neue Illstein Magazin, Berlin.

Cause Enough

A camel has its limit of endurance as the old saw concerning the ultimate straw and the broken back will testify. Mrs. North also had her limit, which was finally reached when an argument, about which little could be understood, continued with unabated fury for two hours in the Smith household next door.

Calling to Willie Smith, who was playing in the back yard, Mrs. North asked the seven-year-old shining light of the warring Smiths:

"What is all the row about, Willie?"

"Oh, mamma put her cushion on daddy's chair and he sat down on it," replied the small lad.

"Why, that is no cause for such an argument, is it?"

"Sure it is! It was mamma's pin cushion!"

As Dad Sees It

"My boy," said the Billville father to his literary offspring, "this here so-called 'fire of genius,' is well enough in the lazy, dreamful summertime, but when the winter wind is rumbling in the hollows and cavortin' round the frosty hills, it can't hold a tallow candle to cordwood and hard coal. Here's a new ax that has never cut down a pine saplin', or a oak tree, and split 'em to kindling wood. Suppose you christen it, and make the chimney blaze? There's no better way to keep up your college athletic exercises. It beats an apple a day for downright good health and spirits. So roll up your sleeves and get busy."—Atlanta Constitution.

Viviant's Memory Prodigious

One of the sources of the late Rene Viviani's eloquence was his profound knowledge of French literature. He knew by heart thousands of verses and could recite entire acts of the classic tragedies without an error.

He demonstrated this at the time of his baccalaureate, when he agreeably surprised the examiner by his accurate analysis of "The Cid."

"Can you recite a few verses of it?" the examiner asked.

"Certainly," said Viviani, and had recited the whole of the first act before he was halted. On another occasion he recited the whole of "Horatius" and "Phedre" from beginning to end.

Ears That Tell Ages

To ascertain the age of a horse, if not too old, it is usual to examine its teeth. To tell the age of a fish, regardless of age, you look into its ear.

In the internal ear of a fish there is a little bony pocket. In this pocket is a tiny stone called an otholith, which rolls about as the fish tips this way and that, and so helps it to know if it is right side up. As the fish grows older, says a writer in English Mechanics, the otholith grows larger, and the age of the fish may be determined from its size.

Mankind's Oddities

Mankind are very odd creatures: one-half censure what they practice, the other half practice what they censure; the rest always say and do as they ought.—Benjamin Franklin.

Lighting Scheme

Speaking of modern conveniences and innovations, somebody who helped design the new infants' ward at the Children's hospital, St. Antoine and Farnsworth streets, used his or her imagination. About knee-high above the floor are recesses or slits in the walls fitted with lights. When a nurse enters during the night to tuck the babies in, she doesn't have to turn on the overhead lights and run the chance of waking the tiny patients up. The low wall-lights furnish her enough illumination to do her work without disturbing the babies. Out-of-town visitors have commented more on this little arrangement than on more important features of this great institution.—Detroit Free Press.

Only One Wood for Spools

In almost the entire world, with its great variety of wood to select from, there is only one kind that is used for spools—the ordinary spools on which sewing thread is wound, writes Charles N. Lurie in St. Nicholas. By far the greatest part of the world's spools are turned from the wood of the white birch tree. It grows in many sections of the United States, but especially well in Maine. Virtually the whole world's supply comes from the great north woods. Some of the spools are made in Maine, but a very large part of the wood is shipped elsewhere for spool-making, after being seasoned where it grows.

Where God Is

Eddie, age four, is a veritable question mark.

After attending Sunday school he was at home, seated on the floor playing with his sister, Virginia.

He looked up suddenly and asked: "Mamma, where is God?"

"God is everywhere," I answered.

Eddie held out his hand about twelve inches above the floor.

"Is God here, mamma?" he questioned.

I replied in the affirmative.

Then again from Eddie, still holding out his hand, "Come here, Virginia, and put your hand on God."

Those Dear Girls

Madge—Beauty is but skin deep, you know.

Marie—Then don't despair, dear, yours may come to the surface in course of time.

Said by the Cynic

A cynical bachelor says that one can never tell what a day may bring forth. A man may be happy today and married tomorrow

Wild Cereals

At one time or another all cereals, such as wheat, rice, and maize, were wild grasses, and many years of patient research have been necessary to develop their edible utility. There must be numerous grains of potential value growing throughout the world, but until the discovery of adlay no addition had been made to our existing supplies for centuries.

Family of Freaks

A family of women without fingernails or toenails was discovered in Italy recently by a scientist. For three generations no woman in the family has had a full-fledged finger or toenail. In every other way the women are normal and healthy.

Nothing Goes to Waste

Dried rabbit skins are used for the manufacture of felt hats. No part of the skin is wasted—the fur goes to hat factories, while the skins, reduced to shreds by the fur-clipping process, are made into glue, and the overhair and waste underfur are disposed of to manufacturers of fertilizer.

Chats with your GAS man

"Glad to get it at any price!"

As we close the door of 1925 and step across the threshold of a new year, let's pause for a moment and think how times are improving . . . in the matter of gas rates, for instance.

Sixty years ago, in certain districts, housewives considered gas service cheap at $4.25 a thousand feet, including a war tax. For years before that, gas had been so much more expensive that folks declared it would never be anything but a rich man's fad.

Today, you see the almost universal use of gas. For cooking alone, it requires seven million gas appliances to prepare the nation's daily food.

Gas is cheaper on the whole, better regulated, more helpful, more widely used than at any time in history.

RED CROSS NOTES

Madame Chairman, Members of the Board and of the Winchester Red Cross:

The year 1925 closes for this Red Cross chapter with a record showing efficient service to our members, and ous townspeople. The various chairmen will give you, in detail reports of their work during the past year.

Six regular meetings of the Executive Board have been held and in addition, this annual meeting.

In aJnuary, 1925, notification was sent to this chapter of the discontinuahce of the New England Division of the Red Cross, thereby linking the chapter directly with headquarters in Washington, D. C. Mr. Harris of Winchester was named as our local representative.

Another change is noted in our Home Service Department. This work so decreased during the year 1924, that the Board felt it no longer required the services of a paid worker. This very important branch of help to the community, however, has been ably carried on during this year through the volunteer work of Mrs. Joseph F. Ryan, whose broad knowledge of the needy townspeople, and whose willingness of spirit, ably fit her for this service. Twelve individual cases have been taken care of directly, and "follow up" work relative to these cases has been given added assistance. Along this line of service the Board voted to cancel several war loans, which, at the time, had been made to deserving men. Although payments were being regularly met on these loans, the effort to do so meant real sacrifice and privation of necessities. The Board felt that the condition of the treasury warranted the cancellation of these loans.

The Winchester Chapter, realizing the need of some emergency equipment for life saving purposes at Wedge Pond, consulted with the Park Board in this matter. Our chairman, Mrs. Newman, offered to purchase, and place a boat, legibly marked with a red cross, in a location accessible for emergency. The Park Board, however, did not accept this offer. The town officials were bending their efforts to discourage swimming at Wedge Pond, and should the Red Cross carry out its suggestion, it would seem to be inconsistent with the town's attitude in the matter.

An article in the Winchester Star, prior to the Roll Call Week, so well covered the activities of the various committees of our chapter that I beg leave to incorporate part of it into this annual report, feeling, that in its entirety, it sums up completely our yearly work.

Assisting as usual in the big causes Winchester did its share this year toward offering emergency relief and rehabilitation to the tornado sufferers of the Middle West.

Our Home Service Committee assists many disabled war veterans and their families. In our public health nursing the Red Cross volunteers cooperate with the Welfare Board, the school nurse, the Visiting Nurse Association, the Fortnightly in its soldier welfare work at the West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital, and the eVterans' Bureau. The cases where the local branch has offered much-needed help right here in town are many. Because they are so close to us, however, we believe it better not to cite any particular cases where the Red Cross proved most conclusively that it has its place here.

The Junior Red Cross of Winchester has been called the finest in the state by a member of the national organization. All of the elementary schools, including all grades up to the eighth, have a 100 per cent membership in it, and there is an active club in the High School. Eight of the girls of the club have passed the Junior life saving test and two have passed the senior test. Another class of candidates for the test is now taking instructions for it at the Cambridge swimming tank under the direction of Miss Helen Bronson, a teacher in the Winchester schools.

The members of our motor corps who work under Mrs. Bowen Tufts as chairman have never failed to answer all requests for their assistance. They have proved themselves untiring in their willingness to be of service.

One of the accomplishments of which the Winchester Red Cross has reason to be particularly proud is the work of Miss Lillian Horne. Miss Horne has transcribed into Braille for the use of the Washington Library for Blind Soldiers two entire books, "The Life of Calvin Coolidge" and "The Passing of the Torch" by Mary Shipman Andrews.

The following list of articles prepared and shipped during the summer alone will give some definite idea of what the local branch has been doing. To the Canal Zone Chapter of the American Red Cross at Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, 25 dresses and layettes and five pajamas were sent. To the Field Dierctor of the Boston and New England Area at Boston went 10 convalescent robes. The director of the Red Cross Service at the U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 89 at Rutland, Mass., needed and received 10 sleeveless sweaters. Thirty Christmas bags were sent to New York, destined for the Canal Zone Branch and 86 Christmas boxes were prepared for children abroad.

This record of our yearly activities is measured, naturally, by the number of opportunities presented for our help. In itself it is a small matter compared to the larger universal purpose of the Red Cross—that of being ever ready for service to any one, at any time, in any place.

The annual roll call, which, as we all know is the accepted method of revenue for the carrying on of the great organization of the Red Cross, has been completed. Although final returns have not yet been tabulated, the results show splendid success. Approximately $2000 has been subscribed.

The Winchester Chapter, therefore, takes this opportunity to thank each and every person who contributed interest, time or money, to this splendid humanitarian work.

Respectfully submitted,
Marguerite L. Loftus,
Secretary

BILL ENTERED FOR POST OFFICE FUNDS

The following letter and bill are self explanatory. Activities of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce in its endeavor to secure adequate postal facilities for this town are bearing fruit. Winchester has a post-office site laying idle, it being impossible to erect a building owing to increased costs following the original appropriation made by the Government.

Rep. Harry I. Thayer has interested himself in the matter, and in his letter of this week and the bill which he has introduced in the House of Representatives, it appears very probable that in due time we will have our much-needed Federal building.

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.
Dec. 14, 1925

Mr. George F. Arnold, Pres.,
Winchester Chamber of Commerce,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mr. Arnold:

I have yours of the 10th instant, also the letters and petitions forwarded under separate cover have come to hand. I am today filing them with the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds for attention when the matter comes up for consideration.

I have received numerous letters urging me to use my best efforts towards securing an appropriation for a suitable building for the post office at Winchester, Mass.

With this purpose in mind I introduced a bill on the opening day of Congress, H. R. 3970, to increase the cost of the erection of a Post Office building, copy of which is attached herewith.

For your information would advise that I have just been assigned to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, which I trust will place me in a position to secure prompt action on this bill.

You may rest assured that I will do everything I consistently can to obtain favorable action on the aforementioned bill at the earliest practicable date, and it is just possible when it comes up for consideration that I may send for you to appear before the committee.

With kindest regards and best wishes, I am

Very truly yours,
Harry I. Thayer

69th Congress, 1st Session
H. R. 3970
In the House of Representatives
December 7, 1925

Mr. Thayer introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and ordered to be printed

A BILL

To increase the limit of cost of the erection of a post-office building at Winchester, Massachusetts

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the limit of cost of the United States Post Office building at Winchester, Massachusetts, be, and the same is hereby, increased $75,000, or so much hereof as may be necessary to meet the additional cost of the construction of said building as specified in the plans.

Life Work Well Done in Abodes of Content

A young married woman with a baby that took much of her time and care said she was discouraged when she thought how little her life work mattered compared with her husband's business. "He talks of large affairs," she explained, "and things I don't know anything about. My husband's work seems so large and mine is so little."

But the woman who felt that her life was caged and circumscribed was doing the creative and constructive work of building a home in a little house; and she did not realize that in so doing she fulfilled the law of her being and nobly served the race.

The nation is full of little houses where pure content abides. The misery that fills the divorce courts and gets into the headlines is so exceptional as to be "news." Most families are bound by ties of tender devotion, which the occasional friction or tension of dwelling in close proximity cannot destroy. Most husbands and wives are faithful and loving and indispensable to each other. Books and plays that discolor the universe with sensational misrepresentation, with untrue readings of life, cannot by their lying version efface the fact that most of the people most of the time—living in families, loyal friends, good neighbors, honest citizens—are trying to do right and in the low, narrow rooms of little houses are finding space for dreams as lofty as the stars.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Combines Fan and Fountain

One of the most remarkable palm trees in the world is to be found in West Africa. Its branches grow in the shape of a fan, and always east to west, and are filled with a cool, pleasant-tasting liquid, which often saves the lives of travelers whose water supply has run short.—Los Angeles Times.

Whistler Not Always Regarded With Favor

Whistling is forbidden in Iceland, where it is regarded as a breach of the divine law. But whistling is regarded with disfavor in other places as well. In the dressing room of a theater, for example, it dooms a play if anyone whistles within hearing of the players who are "making up" for the first performance, according to a very old theatrical superstition.

On shipboard you must not whistle unless you want to bring a gale of wind. You may whistle just a little in a calm, if you wish for a bit of wind, but sailors generally believe you are likely to get much more than you want.

Whistling after dark is regarded as unluckly in some parts, while miners hold that at no time of day should one whistle in a mine; doing so is sure to bring on a cave-in, an explosion, or some other form of disaster.

Among the races which resent all whistling are the Arabs. They say that it is inspired by the "evil one," and that it takes 40 days to purify the mouth of a whistler. Five years ago the governor of Guam, the American island possession in the Pacific, issued an edict against whistling on that island—presumably in deference to the prejudice of the natives against the practice.—Grit.

Gatherings Not Only for Trade Purposes

While the natives of Ethiopia represent a rather high order of intelligence they do not seem to be able to break away from their old traditions and their old methods. The market is the medium of exchange of news and views as well as of commodities, and market day is a treat that the native does not miss if it can be avoided. The inhabitants of the highlands bring their grain and similar products down to some large plain which is recognized as the "market," and there they meet the natives of the lowlands who have brought their cotton. The latter is the basis of all exchange and barter. They have money, but the value of the cotton regulates the value of the money. Salt also is highly esteemed. The coins made use of all bear the date 1780, no matter how recent their origin may have been. The date is regarded as evidence of their validity and a coin remains in service until the date is worn off, after which no one will accept it for anything.—Exchange.

Glaciers

You liked the music instruments that glaciers made, but no songs were ever so grand as those of the glaciers themselves, no falls so lofty as those which poured from brows and chasmed mountains of pure dark ice. Glaciers made the mountains and ground corn for all the flowers, and the forests of silver fir; made smooth paths for human feet until the sacred Sierras have become the most approachable of mountains. . . . The primary mountain waves, unvital granite, were soon carved to beauty. They bared the lordly domes and fashioned the clustering spires; smoothed godlike mountain brows and shaped lake cups for crystal waters; wove myriads of many canyons and spread them out like lace. —John Muir.

Weird Coffee Recipe

French coffee, Turkish coffee, Russian coffee, all have had their vogue among those who are constantly seeking the bizarre; but in "All About Coffee" we find a recipe which should be weird enough to satisfy anyone's taste. It is "Judge" Walter Rumsey's "new and superior way of making coffee" as given in 1657.

You must "take equal quantity of Butter and Sallet-oyle, melt them well together, but not boyle them. Then stirre them well that they may incorporate together. Then melt therewith three times as much Honey and stirre it well together. Add thereunto powder of Turkish Cophie, to make it Electuary."

Butter, salad oil, honey, and coffee mixed!

Aged Students

Cato at eighty, took it into his venerable head to learn Greek and Plutarch, almost as late in life, learned Latin. Theophrastus began his work on the characters of men at ninety. His literary labors were ended only by death. Socrates learned to play on musical instruments when well advanced in life. Colbert, the famous French statesman, returned at sixty to his Latin and law studies, and the great Doctor Johnson applied himself to Dutch but a few years before his death. Then there is the now forgotten Marquis de St. Aulaire, who was once regarded as a remarkable prodigy. At the age of seventy he began to write poetry and contemporaries declared that his verses were "full of fire, delicacy and sweetness."

Slow Growths of Oaks

England's famed oaks are disappearing. Many oaks were cut down during the war, as the wood was urgently needed. Said a botanist: "The wood of an oak is not really any good until the tree is four hundred years old, and people today cannot afford to grow oaks for posterity. Originally large parts of England were covered with oaks. The tree is almost a rarity now in some places. It is said that an oak takes 400 years to grow to full size, is mature for another 400 years, and takes 400 years more to decay. In some cases I should say this is true."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If your heart can carry kindly words, your lips will furnish the song.

The law of life is to grow, we cannot linger, keep to the course.

Notice all the little pleasures as well as the little fairies, forget your losses and remember your gains.

Laughing is the sensation of feeling good all over but showing it particularly in one spot.

Don't be discouraged, it is often the last key on the bunch that opens the door. Keep trying.

HEALTH FUN ISSUED BY STATE DEPARTMENT

A book of health fun, the second in a series of health fun books, has just been issued by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. The purpose of the booklet is to teach health habits to children in an attractive and appealing way. The first fun book was devoted entirely to cross-word puzzles on health. This material is issued free to citizens of Massachusetts, and lends enjoyment to adults as well as children.

NEED NOT GO TO BOSTON TO SEE SANTA

The North End Improvement Association, in a desire to relieve parents of the trouble and inconvenience attendant upon the annual trip to Boston with the kiddies to give them a glimpse of Santa Claus, is holding a party Saturday afternoon at the Lincoln School.

This party is for the little children and all are invited, no matter how small, up to 4th grade age. Larger children are not included in the invitation, as it is felt that for those above the 4th grade age, the illusion in Santa is largely lost, and their presence would not add to the enjoyment of the younger kiddies.

The party is to open at 2.30 o'clock. All children of the age of the first four grades of school are invited. There will be a fine entertainment; Santa Claus himself will be present, and the affair will be thoroughly in keeping with the holiday spirit.

So—if you have planned a trip to Boston with the kiddies to see Santa, take the route to the Lincoln School and avoid trouble and inconvenience.

LATE FIRES

The calls on the fire department yesterday were all for grass, the department answering several alarms and extinguishing burning grass and brush. This morning at 1.30 an alarm from box 41 was rung in by some folks returning from a dance. The cause was given as the glare from fires burning in the garage under construction by Mr. Ralph Sylvester on Main street at Cutter's Village and this excuse survived. Still later, at 8 o'clock, the department was called to the old Greeley mansion on Mt. Vernon street. This building is being demolished and in burning the rubbish, sparks ignited some of the lathes and lumber, getting beyond control. Box 62 was sounded for this blaze, which did no damage.

ELKS' CHRISTMAS TREE DEC. 26

The annual Christmas tree for Winchester children is to be held, together with a fine entertainment and party, in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 26.

Any child who has not received a ticket and who wishes one, should see Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols at his office at the Town Hall.

This party will be in keeping with the customary Christmas entertainment given by Winchester Lodge, and will delight the hearts of many children of the town who might not otherwise enjoy the holiday festivities.

JOE McKENNEY TO ADDRESS LOCAL KNIGHTS

Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold an interesting smoke talk in the home on Vine street next Tuesday evening, Dec. 22 under the direction of Harry Ferrullo, assisted by Arthur Day, Adloe LaForte and Terrence Cullen.

Several boxing exhibitions will be put on and "Joe" McKenney, star quarterback and captain elect of the Boston College football team will be the principal speaker. Billy Madden of Keith's Circuit and Cullen's Assabet Orchestra will be in attendance and a buffet luncheon will be served.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

To enjoy your home Carol singing, have your piano tuned. Leave your order at Butterworth's Jewelry Store, Win. 1427-M. Put your order in early.

COMMUNITY TREE IN HIGHLANDS

The Winchester Highlands Community Christmas tree will be held on Christmas Eve at the site of the new Second Congregational Church on Washington street.

COPLEY THEATRE

As a special attraction quite in keeping with the Christmas Holiday, E. E. Clive of the Copley Theatre, Boston, announces the production of "Robinson Crusoe." The piece will be given its first presentation on next Monday evening, Dec. 21, and continue for the remainder of the week with a matinee each day, excepting Monday. The play does not offer solution of any political, religious or social problem;—nor does it discuss the eternal triangle, or aim to offer any amendment to the enforcement of the Volstead act. The authors had in mind but one particular object; and that was to present something, in no serious vein, that would provide genuinely wholesome laughter. And that they have succeeded is really putting it mildly, for all advance reports from the rehearsals indicate that "Robinson Crusoe" seems happily destined to chalk up the laugh record of this popular play house. The play will unfold in burlesque fashion, the famous story and characters of this thrilling narrative. Miss Katherine Standing will essay the role of Robinson Crusoe with Victor Tandy as the man Friday. Alan Mowbray is assigned to the role of Captain Hook, the pirate; E. E. Clive will appear as Will Atkins; May Ediss as Polly Perkins; Morris Carnovsky as the Cannibal King and other minor roles will be entrusted in the capable hands of the other members of this worthwhile company. "The Sport of Kings," a racing comedy, will be the following attraction.

LEGION OFFICERS NOMINATED

At the regular meeting of Winchester Post, 97, A. L. held on Wednesday evening in the Legion home, the following were nominated as officers for the coming year:

Commander—Nathan Thumim, Kenneth S. Hall.
Vice Commander—George J. Barbaro, Louis A. Price.
Adjudent—Stanley W. Mobbs
Finance Officer—Andrew F. Anderson, J. Leslie Johnston.
Historian—W. Eben Ramsdell, Arthur S. Harris.
Chaplain—Vincent P. Clarke

The members of the Post made a contribution to the sum which is being raised by the State Department, A. L., and which is to be used to provide Christmas cheer for every veteran in a Massachusetts Hospital and for every Massachusetts boy no matter in what hospital he may happen to be.

The Post has been fortunate in being awarded by the State Quartermaster's Department several German war trophies, including two minnewerfers on wheels, two German Maxim machine guns, 12 German Mauser rifles with bayonets. It is planned to mount the large pieces upon concrete bases in the yard of the Legion home, and to stack the rifles in the memorial room. So far as is known these are the first war trophies to be received by the Town, and the Legion Post is to be congratulated upon bringing them to Winchester.

WINCHESTER TO OPEN WITH ALUMNI

Winchester High will open its basketball season next Wednesday evening in the High School gymn when the school quintette will lock horns with an outfit representing the alumni. For several years it has been the custom to meet an Alumni team in the opening contest of the year and some worthwhile battles have resulted. This year's game should measure up to standard since indications point to a strong graduate five being on the floor.

Francis Tansey, one of the best hooptossers the school has ever produced will lead the Alumni, and the school guards will be in for a busy evening trying to keep the stocky southpaw from breaking loose. With Francis will be big brother, "Muggins" Frank Melly, the one and only "Abie" Winer, big "Harpy" Fitzgerald, "Van" French, "Skinny" Lynch, "Joe" Mathews and other stars of years gone by.

The High School five will be recruited from among the following: Capt. "Wop" Rolli, Harriman, Johnson, Prue, McCauley, Fitzgerald, Paul and Russell Kendrick, Simonds and Reardon.

As a preliminary to the main clash there will be a game between two fives picked from the High School squad. This will start promptly at 7.30 p. m.

Winchester's first interscholastic game comes on Jan. 8 against Belmont High at the latters' gymnasium.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Winchester Fire Department answered three alarms on Thursday afternoon for fires in various parts of the town. None were serious.

Miss Helen E. Sanborn, daughter of Mrs. Oren C. Sanborn of Boston, formerly of High street has recently purchased for a summer home, Shadow Lawn the Judkins farm at Leeds, Me. It consists of 80 acres of land, Colonial house and farm buildings.

The Winchester schools will close on Wednesday, Dec. 23, for the Christmas recess.

A wedding of interest to many Winchester people will take place early in the New Year when Miss Dorothea Carhart Ashton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence Ashton of 15 Strathmore road, Brookline will becmoe the bride of William Hayes Soule of 520 Randolph avenue, Milton, the son of George H. S. Soule. The wedding is to be held in the Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel, Emanuel Church on Saturday, Jan. 2. Miss Cynthia Poinier and Miss Rhoda Marcy Townsend of this town will be bridesmaids. The Ashtons are well known here, having formerly for several years made their home in town on Oxford street.

Mrs. E. P. Buckley is leaving this week for Sarasota, Fla., to join her son Gleason Buckley who has been there since October with the A. S. Skinner Company, Realators.

They're coming back for our box assortment of Christmas cards. Better see them at the Star office.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Business slackened somewhat for the members of the local Fire Department on Wednesday, only three runs being made during the day. At 10:50 in the morning there was a grass fire at the freight yard, at 6:30 p. m. another grass fire on Palmer street, and 10:20 at night still a third grass fire on Metropolitan avenue.

Besides the wonderful crawling bugs we have the baby tanks, mystic creeping snails, and baby turtles. Get some for the little folks. 25c each at Wilson the Stationer.

The Winchester Post Office put a big five-ton army truck on the road Thursday morning to handle the Christmas rush in the parcels post department. "Tom" O'Melia who handled last year's assignment is driving the truck again this year with four or five helpers to handle the packages.

Fireman Robert Scanlon is enjoying his annual vacation this year with plenty of spare time for Christmas Shopping. Fireman Frank Duffy returned to duty at the Central Fire Station Monday.

The Old Farmer's Almanacs for 1926 have arrived at Wilson the Stationer's.

Just before 10 o'clock Sunday night the Winchester Police received a phone call from Superintendent Dodge of the Winchester Garage stating that two suspicious appearing fellows were loitering about the building. Officers Regan, Kelley and Dempsey answered the call, and were told by the night man at the garage that two motormeters were missing from cars and that several others showed evidences of having been tampered with. An investigation discovered the motormeters in a truck though how they came there was not determined. When questioned by the officers the two men who had been reported as hanging around claimed to have come to the garage to shift a tire. Their names and addresses were taken by the police, but as nothing was actually missing in the building they were allowed to go.

The Winchester Trust Company will pay to its stockholders Jan. 2, the regular semi-annual 4 per cent and a special 2 per cent dividend.

Bread and Cake Chests at the Mills Store.

Mr. George F. Arnold is suffering from a badly wrenched back, received while trying to lift one of his cars by the crank the other cold morning.

The Star extends thanks to the Edward T. Harrington Company for a fine reproduction of the original Declaration of Independence, done on fine art parchment. This gift is distributed by the Harrington Company at this season as an expression of "Good Will and appreciation and to commemorate fittingly this Sesquicentennial of its adoption by the Immortals whose Courage, Sacrifice and Devotion to Ideals laid the Foundation of all that we enjoy as Americans."

Ernest H. "Ernie" Roberts, formerly athletic director at Winchester High and at present assistant to Coach Arthur Sampson at Medford, has been appointed basketball coach of the Co. G Militia team of Woburn and will direct their efforts during the coming winter campaign.

RICHARD PARKHURST TO SUCCEED MARK R. JOUETT, Jr.

At a meeting of the Selectmen and the Board of Health in the Selectmen's room last Monday evening Mr. Richard Parkhurst of Grove street was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy left on the latter body by the resignation of Mr. Mark R. Jouett, Jr. Mr. Parkhurst is a Dartmouth man, and during the World War served as a chief petty officer in the Navy. He is associated with his father in business in the publishing house of Ginn & Co.

After the Smash Up

"It's a terrible mess. I am smashed up. The car is smashed up. My hopes are smashed up. The only thing that remains intact is the bill for the car!"—Lustige Blatter, Berlin.

British Doctor Gives New "Cures" for Ills

If you want to forget your troubles, think about them as hard as you can, says a leading British medical man. You cannot drive an unpleasant memory out of the mind, but you can, as it were, tire it out by constantly thinking about it, and it will then dissipate itself.

Another eminent doctor says that the way to cure contrariness in children is not by reproof but by approbation.

Contrary habits are common in children. If wanted to hurry they will dawdle, if asked to sit down they insist upon standing up. The way to check opposition of this kind is, we are told, to pretend that going slow and standing up is what is desired, and contrary habits at table should be combated in the same way. The trouble is not usually the child's own fault, but is more often than not due to a highly nervous, self-conscious temperament.

Animal Species

The biologist, Hunter, estimated that there were 518,000 species in the animal kingdom divided into 18 classes. The different insects are numbered 360,000 or over two-thirds of the total number of species in the animal world. There are 13,000 fishes, 1,400 amphibians, 3,500 reptiles, 13,000 birds and 3,500 mammals.

Asbestos From Cyprus

One of the chief minerals mined in Cyprus is asbestos, from which the inhabitants of the island make not only packing and building materials, but oil, water pipes and furniture.

Attitude for Success

He that would relish success to a good purpose should keep his passions cool and his expectations low; and then it is possible that his fortune might exceed his fancy; for an advantage always rises by surprise and is almost always doubled by being unlooked for.—Ohio State Journal.

Great Lakes "High Seas"

The controversy regarding the status of the Great Lakes was settled in November 20, 1893, when the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision that the term "high seas" justly applied to them.

Outstanding Economy

Co-operative banks are operated on a smaller percentage of expense in proportion to the total volume of transactions, than any other class of financial institutions.

Being mutual or co-operative, this gives the investor higher earnings and the borrower a home loan that is more favorable.

If you are not already sharing in these advantages, you can become a shareholder by subscribing $1 or more a month.

Ancient "Strong Box" Has Intricate Lock

Heave to, reader, and take a look at an old sea chest. One that any old-time pirate in good standing would have given three yards of his mustache to possess.

It rests in the front room of the home of F. S. Allen of Los Angeles. Mr. Allen devotes his time to collecting antiques and when he saw this old iron chest over in Italy he bought it.

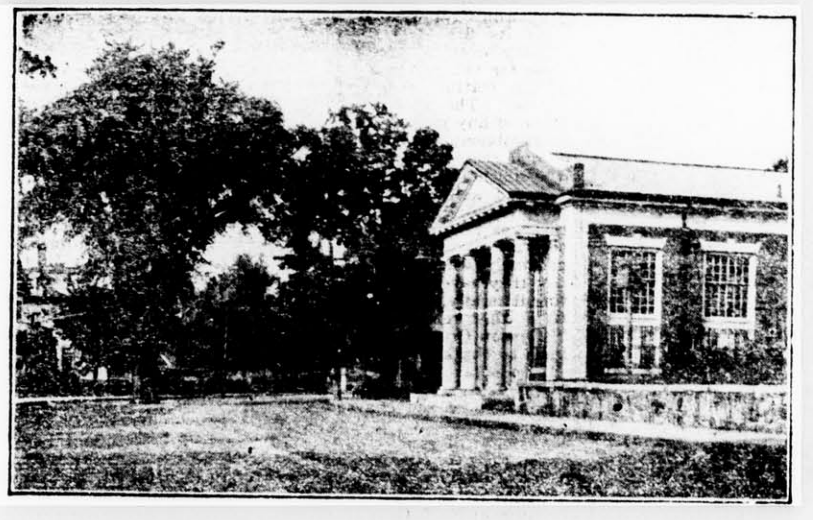

It's a battered old box made of iron. It was brought up from the bottom of the Mediterranean sea, where it reposed hundreds of years. As far as Mr. Allen can trace its history, the chest apparently was on board one of the ships that made up a Spanish armada of sixteen ships that went down in a storm in the Straits of Messina, in 1258. Mr. Allen discovered it among a lot of other curios in the San Mateo monastery up in the hills back of Naples.

It has a lock on it that spreads all over the under side of the lid like a big metal spider web. When the lid is shut there are a couple of hasps that come down on the front side of the chest, through which a big iron bar is run and a padlock attached.

You remove the big padlock, undo the hasps and lift, but your lift doesn't get you anywhere. The lid won't come up. If you are clever enough you discover that one of the rivet heads on top of the chest moves on a spring, revealing a big keyhole. You insert the key, give her a twist and eleven bolts are sprung back, releasing the lid. There is a dummy keyhole on the front side of the chest. It was put here to tease the pirates.—Los Angeles Times.

"By Rule of Thumb"

This old saying means measurement by the thumb, as in carpentry. By extension it means any simple method of measurement, practical rather than accurate or scientific.

Ancient Form of Torture

The boot was an instrument of torture formerly in use to extort confessions from suspected persons or obtain evidence from unwilling witnesses. It originated in Scotland, being known to have been employed there before 1600. The boot was made of iron, wood and iron, and was fastened on the leg, wedges being driven between the leg and the boot by blows from a mallet. After each blow a question was put to the victim, and the ordeal was continued until he gave the information or fainted. There were also iron boots which were heated on the victim's foot. A less cruel form was a boot made wet and drawn upon the leg and then dried with fire.

Grumpy Old Guy

The cynicism of Diogenes was shown in his famous search for an honest man. The old chap seems to have been misogynistic as well, for the story is told of him that seeing some women who had been hanged on the branches of an olive tree he remarked: "I wish all trees bore that kind of fruit."—Boston Transcript.

A New Pirate

"Ha, ha!" exclaimed Black, as he encountered his friend White in the street the other day. "I say, you are a one!"

"A one? What do you mean?" asked the other in a puzzled tone.

"I saw you the other night," went on his friend. "You were round in the park, walking arm-in-arm with Miss Lightfoot."

"Oh, did you see me?"

"Yes, when's it to be?"

"Don't be a fool!" said White. "I can't stand the girl, really. She uses far too much makeup to suit my taste."

"Yes, she'd be quite a nice girl if she'd give up piracy."

"Piracy!" exclaimed the other. "What do you mean?"

"Why, trying to make captures under false colors!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

HOW NURSES ARE TRAINED IN THE WINCHESTER HOSPITAL TRAINING SCHOOL

By the Training School Committee

When Florence Nightingale, that Saint of the soldiers, brought relief to the suffering during the Crimean War, she forever established standards for the Nursing profession.

Where her feet led, where her examples pointed, there have the many followd who would undertake the duty and the work of nursing. Those who become nurses today must submit to a tireless self-sacrifice just as did Florence Nightingale. Yet to the average man or woman, nursing is just "another profession for women." Because it is more than that, we are here giving to readers of the STAR a word-picture of the road a novice must travel ere she becomes a nurse. It is not an easy road. There must be courage and health and determination, and many tiresome weeks and months must be given over to the task before the right is won to wear the little white cap of mercy. And because being sick is such a personally-conducted affair the average person considers a nurse simply a part of the sick-room scenery. But the next time trained hands and a quiet voice, smooth away pain for you, remember that you are partaking of a service in your sickness as skilled and as well-directed as study, field work and intensive training can make it.

In the Winchester Hospital School of Nursing we give a three years' course in theory and practice. Instruction in the preliminary subjects is given by a graduate of Teachers' College, Columbia University; lectures in special subjects are given by our physicians. The school is registered in Massachusetts and its graduates are eligible to membership in the National and State organizations and the American Red Cross. Candidates must be from 18 to 35 years of age. High School graduates are given preference. One year of High School is the minimum requirement. Upon recommendation of the Superintendent and approval of the Training School Committee candidates will be received on a three months probation, and that period will decide as to the propriety of dismissing them, or retaining them for further schooling. Candidates thus retained become pupils of the school upon signing an agreement to take a three years' course and to obey faithfully the Hospital and School rules. Each candidate must present with her application for admission, a physicians' certificate as to her physical fitness, a dentists certificate and an educational certificate.

So much for the start of a nurses' schooling in our Hospital. Now let us consider for a moment the hard work of the three years' of intensive study and application that lies ahead of the candidate before she may obtain the goal and become a graduate nurse.

There are the lectures, the classes and the long evenings she must give to reading text-books and reference books on every subject realting to sickness, medicine and care of the sick. And above all there is the "Practical Work" that is required by the Board of Registration of Nurses. To give you an idea of this requirement let us give you a short summary of it as follows:

	Months
Pediatrics	3
Medical Nursing (daily average of four patients per student required)	3
Communicable Diseases (recommended)	2
Surgical Nursing	3
Mental Nursing (recommended)	3
Operating Room Experience	2
Maternity, with care and study of 10 complete cases	3
	Weeks
Diet Kitchen	6
	Months
Out Patient Department (recommended)	1
Social Service (recommended)	1
District Nursing (recommended)	2
Tuberculosis (recommended)	1
One of the following:	Days
Medical Nursing with daily care of one medical patient	360
Medical Nursing with daily care of two medical patients	180
Medical Nursing with daily care of three medical patients	120
Medical Nursing with daily care of four medical patients	90

Mr. Wilson, the Editor of the STAR, has been very kind to give us this space to tell his readers about the training of nurses at our Winchester Hospital.

Please do not let anyone tell you in the future that we have not in Winchester a very complete and efficient Nursing School. We aim to have one of the best in the State of Massachusetts and more-over we now have at the Hospital a fine new Nurses' Home, thanks to the generosity of our people during the recent campaign for funds.

Above all, we urge everyone of you to keep in mind the kindness and respect we owe to nursing and to nurses, for they have worked hard and faithfully both in training and after graduation.

East Indians Protect and Feed Wild Animals

A visitor walking along the dirty, dusty streets of Ahmadabad, India, a city which has 250,000 inhabitants, is often surprised at the number and size of the feeding places for birds. Some of these are built of marble and cost several thousand dollars. Sometimes there is a simple feeding platform supported by a single column. The platforms, which are from 12 to 20 feet above the street level, are reached by little stairways.

The wild birds come fearlessly to these feeding places and mingle with the pigeons and English sparrows. The feed is spread out on the floor and covered with a well-constructed roof which protects the birds from the fierce heat of the sun and also from the rain.

The Jains are the wealthier class of Indians. In their temples boxes are provided into which the worshipers drop coins for the purchase of bird feed. For the Jains, in common with all Hindus, do not believe in taking animal life.—Boys' Life.

See the new animate toys at Wilson's. Even the grown-ups will enjoy their antics.

Spaniard Gets Credit for the Frankfurter

What is a hot dog? Well, it is mostly bull; bull meat mixed with pork, highly spiced, steam cooked and smoked over hickory smoke. It originated in Bologna, Spain, so long ago that only the main facts may be recalled. They used to slaughter an enormous number of bulls in the arenas of Spain in days when bullfighting was more popular and more brutal than it is today.

It looked like a great economic crime to see so much prize beef wasted. But nobody wanted bull beef just so; bulls are tough and not so delicious as cows and steers are. A butcher in Bologna had an idea and bought bulls that were killed in the bull ring and made the meat into a sausage, mixed with pork and highly seasoned. Bologna sausage appealed to the popular taste.

Germans borrowed the formula, put the same sausage mixture into small casings and Bologna became "Frankfurter" in Frankfort and "Weenie" in Vienna. Coney Island gave it the name of hot dog and popularized it.

One stand in Coney Island that has been selling hot dogs for half a century is reputed to have a sale of five to ten tons of Frankfurters a day in the busy season. Somebody has to sell a lot of 'em to get rid of that 400,000,000 pounds a year.—Colliers' Magazine.

Confidence in Self Man's Biggest Asset

Life is an island, entirely surrounded by risks, losses, troubles, hardships and misadventures of all sorts.

Most men go to pieces when they have had a few beatings. They wilt. They fade away. They crawl into a safe little corner and hide, while the great rough tide of glorious life rushes past them.

The fact is that defeat is the normal thing in this haphazard little world, and victory comes but seldom. Every victory, usually, is the result of a long series of defeats.

A man must have faith in himself and in what he is trying to do. He must say: "I can." He must back himself to win. He must bet on himself. He must have faith in the people he works with. He must believe in his team. He must see the better side of his co-workers and not think that his own point of view is the only right one.

He must have faith in those great principles that make us superior to the animals of the forest—to Truth, Honesty, Sympathy, Justice, Progress.—Forbes Magazine.

Duchess of Fontanges

Marie Angelique, duchess of Fontanges, was the successor to Mme. Montespan in the favor of Louis XIV. "She was beautiful as an angel, but silly as a goose," said Abbe Choisi of her. She, nevertheless, captivated the affections of Louis XIV, who was tired of Mme. de Montespan.

As soon as she had discovered the passion she had inspired in the king, she became haughty and extravagant, spending at times as much as 100,000 crowns a month. She became the general dispenser of the king's favors and the model of fashion. She was made a duchess by the king, but did not long enjoy the rank, since she died at the age of twenty, in the abbey of Port Royal, at Paris.—Chicago Journal.

Apes and Monkeys

The terms "ape" and "monkey" are frequently used interchangeably; all monkeys are called apes and all apes are called monkeys. But the term "ape" is more particularly applied to the tailless, manlike monkeys of the old world, such as the chimpanzee; while "monkey" is more often used when speaking of the smaller aboreal monkeys.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Pastry That Has Lasted

A collection of well-preserved pastry, made 1,300 years ago, is among the exhibits sent the British museum from western China. It was buried with a traveler in the Seventh century, and includes delicate biscuits, pierced and worked until they look like filigree buckles.

French Literary Men Dispute Over Unicorn

Was there ever such an animal as the unicorn? Its existence has been testified to by no less authoritative writers than Aristotle and Pliny, and even in 1877 the members of the French academy, including the distinguished names of Renan and Victor Hugo, were so doubtful on the subject that in their dictionary they gave the ambiguous definition that, according to the most general opinion, the unicorn never existed. But the present members of the academy, still at work on the new edition of the famous dictionary, have tried to settle the question for once and all. The unicorn, say the immortals, is a fabulous animal of antiquity.

The French press refuses to accept the dictum as final. Why, queries Andre Billy, a well-known writer, should the members of the academy, counting not a single naturalist in their ranks, be allowed to settle the question? And, in the century of radium and the wireless, why should we deny the testimony of Pliny and Aristotle on the existence of a beast remarkable only in that it had a horn on its forehead?—Paris Letter.

Human Ruminants Not Unknown to History

The first case of a human ruminant reported in a scientific journal was that of Robert Gill, a cobbler of Dorsetshire, whose death was reported in the British Annual Register under date of October 1, 1767.

In ancient times and in the Middle ages men who chewed the cud were apparently very far from rare, but modern science would be prone to dismiss such tales were they not supported by evidence of more recent time. Roger Gill died after suffering "great tortures" due to the loss of his strange faculty.

Gill usually began his second chewing a quarter or half an hour, sometimes later, after dinner, when every morsel came up successively sweeter and sweeter to the taste. The chewing continued about an hour or more, and sometimes would leave him for a little while, "in which case he would be sick at his stomach." Many other and later instances might be cited of men who have been "brother to the ox" in the possession of this faculty.—Chicago Journal.

Plow as Wedding Guest

The recent appearance of tractors has created great excitement in isolated villages of Turkestan, Central Asia.

The mullahs, or priests, are strongly opposed to the invention, which they call "shaitan omach," or "the devil's plow," and they utter dark prophecies of crop failures and other disasters that will follow its use; but the Turkestan peasants take kindly to the tractor after they realize its superiority over their primitive wooden, ox-drawn plows.

One case is reported in which a Turkestan peasant insisted that the tractor should be present at his marriage, as a sort of honored guest.

Snake Fares Well in Japan

While laborers were at work in the grounds of the imperial palace in Tokyo, they came across a live snake, so large that they first believed it was a log and started to move it. The reptile came to life and the workmen scattered. However, they could have done nothing anyway, as the court officials ordered that the crawler not be needlessly disturbed and they emphatically declared there would be no snake hunt. The snake, Japanese believe, is the spirit of the ancient fortress that was once on the site where it was found, and if let alone will harm no one.

Light on Natural History

The discovery of a section of a large caribou horn imbedded in a swamp near White Cloud confirms the belief held by old-timers that Michigan once was the habitat of this northern game animal. This is the second find of this nature within recent years in the same territory.

Early Lighthouse

The first lighthouse built by the United States as an independent government is at Cape Henry, at the entrance of Chesapeake bay. It was finished in 1792, when fish oil was used for lighting, sperm oil being substituted in 1810.

UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of the Unitarian Church was held last Friday evening. "Bill" Wood and his gang served a delicious oyster stew dinner to about 50 men. After the dinner the club heard the report of the entertainment committee concerning the recent Roland Hayes concert. The speaker of the evening was Vesper Lincoln George, the well-known artist, who gave an illustrated talk on "Six Weeks in Spain." Mr. George, combining an artistic temperament, fine powers of observation and a keen wit made the members feel that they had experienced all of the trip except the seasickness.

On Sunday morning the entire church service was conducted by the officers of the club while the members occupied the main portion of the church. Mr. A. G. Boyden and Mr. George B. Cummings had charge of the first part of the service while Mr. Ralph T. Hale and Mr. Charles H. Watkins shared the usual sermon time and made short addresses. Mr. Hale urged on his hearers the importance of approaching religious questions with the same breadth of vision and maturity of thought that we would any other question of the day. Mr. Watkins' plea was for his hearers never to weary in their search for the truth; the most important thing being that they were really and actively searching. Applying this to the Men's Club in particular he urged his fellow members to ask themselves what in their opinion was the real purpose of the club.

On Friday, Jan. 8, Mr. W. Harry Allen, president of the New Brunswick Guides' Association and himself a trapper and guide of many years' experience will give a lecture on "Big Game Hunting and Salmon Fishing in New Brunswick." Mr. Allen's talk is illustrated throughout by moving pictures. This promises to be one of the most interesting evenings of the year, and because so many men in Winchester are interested in this sort of thing, the Men's Club invites all men of any denomination who care to come to be present at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Allen is making a gift to the club of enough of his choicest smoked salmon to suppy the chief course for the supper which precedes the lecture.

American Houses Supreme

American houses are the most scientifically planned and equipped of those in any country. In the best designs proper consideration is given to the beautiful as well as the practical, but construction and equipment are never sacrificed for architectural effect, nor is mere appearance allowed to take the place of actual convenience.

WYMAN MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The Wyman Chapter of the Mothers' Association ventured into a new field last Monday afternoon when it gave a bridge party in the school assembly hall. For nearly a year the mothers and the school children, too, have been accumulating a fund with which to buy a curtain for the Wyman Hall stage, and it is hoped that the proceeds of this bridge party will complete the sum needed. But, however that may be, the afternoon must be counted a very worth-while success, because of its unusually cordial and friendly atmosphere, and because of the splendid spirit of co-operation it brought into play.

To Mrs. George Leghorn belongs much of the credit, for she, as head of the ways and means committee, was general chairman. She was ably assisted by a committee of six: Mrs. Willard Carleton, Mrs. James McCormick, Mrs. Frederick Ritchie, Mrs. Isaac Sexton, Mrs. Ellsworth Snow, and Mrs. Alfred White. They in turn received whole-hearted support from the chapter members, whether they asked them to buy tickets, to sell tickets, to give candy or to donate prizes.

The donations deserve mention for they gave a colorful and holiday note. The tops of the card tables were covered to resemble neatly wrapped Christmas packages; the candy table and the table where the prizes were displayed was trimmed with broad bands of red crepe paper, and the committee wore smart little red paper aprons over their white dresses.

FIDELIS CLUB TO HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Fidelis Club, composed of young ladies of St. Mary's Parish, under the direction of its president, Miss Mary A. Boyle, will hold a Christmas party in the Parochial School gymnasium this Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The special guests will be 100 needy children of the parish.

The arrangements as announced leave nothing to be desired. There is to be a huge Christmas tree which will be well laden with gifts and sweetmeats for all. Carols will be sung and games enjoyed while an entertainment program will also be provided for the youthful merrymakers. It is rumored that "Tom" Dolan has made special arrangements to have St. Nicholas, old Santa himself, present at the party even though the genial gentleman is unusually busy at this season of the year.

To Dry Out Wet Boots

The quickest and best way to dry out wet hunting boots is to heat a pan of oats or small pebbles. Get them good and warm, not red hot. Pour them into the boots and let them stand for a half hour. At the end of this time all of the moisture will have been taken out and the boots are ready to wear. Don't forget that when the dew is heavy in the morning or slush snow covers the ground.

MILK CHART FOR NOVEMBER 1925

Published by the Winchester Board of Health

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

FORTNIGHTLY SOCIAL BRIDGE

A delightful party was held last Friday at the Fortnightly Rooms. Many were the exclamations of pleasant surprise at this first public gathering when our members and friends saw the new headquarters for the first time. Mrs. Woodside, Chairman of the Room Committee did everything in her power to have everything in readiness.

The new card tables and chairs were in use and the hall was full of happy faces. This card party was without prizes.

A most pleasing and artistic rendering of appropriate songs was contributed by our own Fortnightly Quartette, following which Mrs. Arzillia Higgins gave two readings apropros of the ocassion. This program gave much pleasure and well illustrated the fact that there is talent of all kinds among our members.

The Conservation Committee served delicious sandwiches, home-made cake and fruit punch at intermission. At each table was a pretty little basket filled with nuts, the baskets also the work of this committee.

A special feature of this party was the giving out of honor cards to the seven highest score holders toward a rainbow token. Mrs. Emerson, the President explained the meaning of the rainbow as a symbol of hope since Bible times, and called attention to the fact that a rainbow was composed of seven colors and that seven was the perfect number. Therefore the holder of seven of the "Rainbow scores" as entitled to display the token that would be given her to display and that would proclaim her a "Rainbow Card Player."

These cards are to be used at parties of ten or more tables given under Fortnightly auspices.

The proceeds from this party are to be used in defraying the expenses in connection with lighting the permanent Christmas tree that the Fortnightly will formally present to the Town on Christmas Eve when the tree will be lighted for the first time.

The names of the ladies who were the recipients of "Rainbow Honor Cards" and their scores are: Mrs. E. P. Randlett, 1685; Mrs. C. H. Symmes, 1547; Mrs. W. Doane, 1519; Mrs. Merrill, 1509; Mrs. Cooper, 1507; Mrs. McKenzie, 1395; Mrs. Balcke, 1324.

ANNOUNCED ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Gilman Hill of Hillside avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Warner Hill, to Malcolm Sawyer Emery, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Emery of Fletcher street. Miss Hill is a graduate of Wheaton College, class of 1924, and has been a student at the Massachusetts Normal Art School. The engagement was announced at a small party given by Mr. and Mrs. Emery at their home in honor of their son's birthday.

FLOOD IN LOCAL FACTORY PREVENTED BY TELEPHONE OPERATOR'S VIGILANCE

The water system of the Harper Knife Company, Inc. at 6 Hemingway street, Winchester, developed a leak at 12:30 a. m. on the night of Dec. 8. The flow coming in contact with the cord of a telephone set, through short circuiting, caused a light to show on the switchboard in front of the telephone operator.

Not receiving any response to her inquiries for the number, she called a telephone in the house near the shop and inquired of the occupants if they knew of any throuble existing in the shop next door. She was informed that nothing was wrong, which report ordinarily would satisfy most of us.

She in turn, insisted that there must be some trouble and requested the called subscriber to communicate with the manager of the plant which he did. The manager arriving on the scene discovered the trouble and by shutting off the water prevented a flood that would have caused serious damage.

HILLIAM H. HAMLEN

William H. Hamlen, a retired business man and former owner and manager of the Robbins Spring Water Co., died Monday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. A. Pope, on Symmes road. He was in his 80th year and had been for some time in failing health.

Mr. Hamlen was born in Charlestown in 1846. For 10 years before coming to Winchester he had made his home in Cambridge. He was for several years owner and manager of the Robbins Spring Hotel and the Robbins Spring Water Co. in Arlington. He retired from active business 15 years ago when he came to make his home with his sister in this town. Surviving are two sisters, Miss H. A. Hamlen and Mrs. F. A. Pope, both of Winchester.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at the late residence, and were conducted by the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Winchester Unitarian Church. There was music by the Apollo quartet of Boston. Interment was in Forest Dale Cemetery, Malden.

Danger Somewhere

Two men were watching two women pitching their tent at an auto camp in the mountains. "It's dangerous for women to be traveling around alone that way," remarked one, as the women set up their cots and unrolled their bedding. Just then one of the women opened a satchel, pulled out a big revolver, dumped out some cartridges and began cleaning and oiling the weapon. "Yes," said the other man, "it is dangerous. Mighty dangerous."

MADE SIX RUNS TUESDAY

Tuesday proved a busy day in the lives of the Winchester fire fighters, six alarms being answered for fires in various sections of the town.

The first call came at 8:58 in the morning, and was a still alarm for a grass fire at the residence of Mr. R. S. Stone on Lebanon street. One hour later the department was summoned to another grass fire at the residence of Mr. Herbert Wadsworth on Highland avenue. Still another alarm came in for burning grass in the rear of the home of Mr. Daniel J. Daley on River street at 10:50 a. m., while at 1 p. m. Box 571 sounded for a brush fire behind the residence of Mr. Lester F. Smith on Ridge street.

The last two runs were made late in the afternoon, the first at 5:05 for burning brush on Loring avenue in the rear of Lockwan street, and the second at 6:30 for a grass fire on Palmer street.

BAKERY THREATENED BY EARLY MORNING FIRE

The bake shop of Paolo Amico on Swanton street was threatened on Wednesday morning by a fire which started from some unknown origin in a pile of lumber and window blinds between the bakery and a garage at the rear of the shop. Box 35 summoned the fire department at 8:20, and the blaze was soon gotten under control. The only damage was that done the garage where the flames worked up to burn the roof slightly about the eaves.

First Gas Tip

The first gas pipes were gun barrels, soldered together. The lighted gas flared from the end and one day the gas tip developed by accident.

Murdock wanted to stop the flow of gas and used his wife's thimble. The top of the thimble was full of holes through which the gas escaped. It gave a much whiter, brighter light this way and the old open flame burner thus came into being.

Famous Organization

The Vestal Virgins were a group of well-born Roman maidens appointed to watch the sacred flame of the goddess Vesta and see that it never went out. One of them, Tuccia, was falsely accused of a want of chastity, but the goddess Vesta permitted her to carry water in a sieve as a sign of her innocence. Lerous' picture depicts that episode.

The Fool's Fire

Every morning in the country forest fires burn up the equivalent of a bushel basket full of $10 bills. When the last bill is in ashes our daily waste of $100,000 is accomplished and we square away for the day's work to replace with thought and sweat what folly has destroyed.—Colliers.

Hair's Change Never Explained by Science

To a recent number of T. P.'s and Cassell's Weekly, Prof. J. Arthur Thomson—who is a kind of self-appointed British pope of popular science, and a very good one, too—elucidates the causes that make people's hair turn gray.

The subject was dealt with very successfully a number of years ago by Professor Poulton, the Oxford entomologist, in his book, "Animal Colouration," on which Professor Thomson is evidently basing his own ideas.

The story of the responsible bankers whose hair turned gray in a single week during times of crisis like the World war is probably quite true. Such cases are not uncommon in history. Marie Antoinette's hair, for example, is said to have turned white in a very short time as a result of emotional distress; and similar instances are recorded by a number of medieval writers.

The sudden change of color is due to the intrusion of little bubbles of gas into the substance of the hair, which reflects the light and prevents the pigment, which is still present, from showing. When hair goes gray more slowly, it is—or so Metchnikoff believed—due to the officious activity of white corpuscles which have got into the bad habit of prowling up into the hair and devouring the pigment.

Many fur-bearing animals change color with the weather, and the mechanism involved in these changes appears to be very much like that which affects human hair.

British Expert Sees Addition to Wealth

Experiments in producing oil from coal, in which various science departments at Birmingham (England) university have been collaborating for three years, have shown that 61 per cent of liquid can be extracted from Lancashire coal by powdering it and subjecting it to very high pressures of hydrogen gas. Professor Nash, who has taken a leading part in research, when asked as to the significance of the discoveries from the standpoint of industrial utilization of British coal resources, said he was only able to announce that the laboratory tests had demonstrated oil could be got from coal. The commercial exploitation he was not competent to discuss. The liquid products have not been investigated in detail, but apart from small proportions of unidentified substances they consist of hydro-carbons which are basis of all fuel oils. South Staffordshire coal gave 37 per cent of liquid, while a South Wales coal gave 26 per cent.

JAMES W. RUSSELL

JAMES W. RUSSELL

James W. Russell who died at his home on Main street on Tuesday, Dec. 22 after a six week's illness had lived in this town nearly all of his life and was the son of the late William Adams Russell and Harriet Hill Russell. He was a descendant on his father's side of William Russell who came from England and died in Cambridge in 1661, and on his mother's side, of Abraham Hill who came from England in 1636 and died in Charlestown in 1670.

For 60 years Mr. Russell was a well known market gardener and one of the largest celery growers in the State. He was one of the Charter members of the Boston Market Gardeners Association and had been one of its vice presidents. He was one of the incorporators and directors of the Middlesex County National Bank and later when it became the Winchester Trust Company he was a vice president which position he held until the time of his death. He was a member of the Unitarian Church.

In 1874 he married Ella L. Symmes daughter of the late Marshall Symmes and Abigail Stowell Symmes of Symmes Corner. He is survived by his wife and four children, Fred Adams Russell, James W. Russell Jr., Mrs. Alfred H. Hildreth, Mrs. George A. Rivinius, eight grandchildren, a brother, Mr. Edward Russell and a sister, Miss Mary Russell.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at the late residence, 86 Main street and will be conducted by the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the Unitarian Church.

ELIZABETH E. MARSHALL

Elizabeth E. Marshall, widow of John Marshall, passed away Sunday night at the Winchester Hospital, following a brief illness with pneumonia. She was 64 years old.

Mrs. Marshall was born at Rockland, Me., the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Collamore. She was well known among the older residents of Winchester, having formerly made her home here for many years. Fifteen years ago she moved to Greenwood and lived later in New Hampshire until the death of her husband when she was for a time in California, returning to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Jennie Tolman, on Washington street. During her stay in Greenwood she became a member of the Union Church of that place and of several of its organizations.

Although of a quiet, retiring disposition, Mrs. Marshall was nevertheless known to a wide circle of acquaintances and friends who feel in her death a real loss. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. H. D. Frost and Mrs. Walter C. Swartwout, both of Pasadena, Cal.; one son, Maynard C. Marshall of Woburn and three grandchildren; besides five brothers, Benjamin S., Frederick C., Addison P., and Albert Collamore, all of Rockland, Me., and Leonard Collamore of Saugus; and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Tolman of Winchester.

Largely attended funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at her sister's home, 607 Washington street, and were conducted by the Rev. John E. Whitley, pastor of the Second Congregational Church. Two favorite selections of the deceased were sung by Miss Jean MacLellan. There were many floral tributes. The interment was in the family lot at Wildwood Cemetery.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cahill of 7 Nelson street are the parents of a daughter, Bridie, born Dec. 15, at the Winchester Hospital.

Clinton Mason of this town will be a candidate for the Williams varsity hockey team again this winter. Last season Mason played a wing position on one of the best sextettes the Berkshires college has ever produced.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT LARGELY ATTENDED

An audience of more than 800 which completely filled both the auditorium and gallery attended the presentation of the Christmas pageant at the First Congregational Church last Sunday afternoon.

The pageant portrayed the story of the coming of a Messiah as foretold by the Spirit of Prophecy, depicting the Madonna and Child with the adoration of the shepherds and wise men. The only spoken parts were those of the Spirit of Prophecy and the Rabbi who recited appropriate scriptural passages as the pageant unfolded, the remainder being in pantomime. The musical motif of the pageant with the oft occurring refrain and choral chants was sung by the Chancel Choir under the direction of organist and choirmaster, G. Wallace Woodward.

The setting for the pageant was in the chancel and was most unusual and impressive. It was done to resemble an Italian cryptic and was fashioned somewhat after the Madonna of Botticelli.

Concluding the affair was an interesting candle light service, the light from the chancel candles being distributed through the pastor and deacons of the church to each member of the congregation until every one in the auditorium had a small lighted candle. The church lights were switched off, the entire edifice being illuminated only by the tiny flames, a picture long to be remembered.

The various parts in the pageant were taken as follows:

Joseph Mr. Albert K. Huckins
Mary Miss Dorothy Ordway
Spirit of Prophecy .. Mr. Kenneth F. Caldwell
Rabbi Rev. Lisle B. Swenson
Shepherds—Mr. Holbrook Lowell, Mr. William DeCamp, Jr., Mr. Henry Simonds, Mr. George Tompkins
Wise Men—Mr. Arthur W. Hale, Mr. Roland Simonds, Mr. Herbert Cox
Two Shepherd Boys—William Allen, William Thompson

The scenery was painted by Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase; the floral decorations were by Mr. John C. Haartz. The pageant was under the supervision of Rev. Lisle B. Swenson, assistant pastor of the church who was assisted by Miss Ruth Elder.

ENTERTAINED FOR COLLEGE MATE

Miss Frances Lowell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Holbrook Lowell, entertained a number of her friends at an informal tea held last Saturday afternoon at her home on Lakeview road in honor of her college room mate at Vassar, Miss Persis Lennox of Albany, N. Y.

Those who poured were Miss Lowell's grandmother, Mrs. William L. Lowell of Boston; her great aunt, Mrs. George P. Additon, also of Boston; Mrs. Newton Shultis and Mrs. William P. M. DeCamp. Mrs. Maurice E. Brown was in charge of the dining room. The young ladies who assisted were Miss Katherine Shultis, Miss Virginia Farnham, Miss Dorothy Brown, Miss Louise DeCamp, Miss Amy Merrill and Miss Katherine Nelson.

OPEN HOUSE ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

The three Masonic bodies of Winchester, William Parkman Lodge, Mystic Valley Lodge and Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, will hold open house on New Year's Day as is their custom

From 11 to 1 o'clock, all brethren, whether members of these lodges or not, are cordially invited to visit the masonic rooms and participate in the exercises.

Miss Katharine Pike is reported to be having an unusually interesting time in Roumania. She has been invited to several diplomatic affairs in Bucharest. Recently a luncheon was given for her in that city at which were present young people of four different nationalities.

"FOLLIES OF '76"

Hazel Sands Welch, of Newton Centre, will direct the dancing in the "Follies of '76," to be given in the Town Hall, Jan. 22. The Show Committee feel very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mrs. Welch, who has successfully directed many amateur musical comedy productions in Metropolitan Boston. She will be remembered as Dancing Director of the Winton Club show last year, where her pleasing personality and dancing ability added much to the success of the evening.

Those who attended "The Rainbow Revue" will recall the colorful "Butterfly Ballet" and "Orientale" numbers, also "Hard-hearted Hannah," the Drill and the "Pie Dance"—the last being in collaboration with Hassler Capron, the dramatic coach. Mrs. Welch's extemporaneous interpretation of "Raggety Ann," the dancing doll, brought down the house and called forth several encores. Mrs. Welch later on coached these dances at Needham under the auspices of the Century Club, at Newton Centre for the Newton Women's Club, and later at Brookline and Falmouth.

Mrs. Welch danced this winter for Langdon Matthews, whose shows have been witnessed with pleasure by a number of our Winchester people. Her latest hit was as "Katinka," in a dance and song number for "Behind the Red Curtain," recently produced at Players' Hall, West Newton. Rehearsals for the "Follies" dancing are being held twice a week, and some fine work is anticipated.

MANY BEAUTIFUL TREES

Probably never before has this town been dressed up so beautifully for the Christmas season. The dedication of the fine community tree on the common, presented by The Fortnightly, appears to have stimulated many individual residents to decorate trees on their own estates, and as a consequence one meets these beautiful symbols of the Christmas season at every turn. Mr. Edmund C. Sanderson has had a busy time installing the electrical displays and has been much complimented upon the beautiful effects he has produced.

Among the trees which are lighted about town and much admired are the following.

Winchester Laundries, four trees on the river bank.
John H. MacAlman, 2 Everett avenue.
Dr. Clarence E. Ordway, Main street.
Louis G. Rondina, Highland avenue.
T. A. Snow, Ridgefield road.
Percy A. Bearse Warren street.
Isaac E. Sexton, Wedgemere avenue.
James B. Lord, Pine street.
Daniel R. Beggs, Everett avenue.
First Baptist Church.
Charles A. Burnham, Everett avenue.
Ralph P. Sylvester, Main street.
Harry Cox, Wedgemere avenue.
Francis P. Mullin, Main street.
James S. Murray, M. V. Parkway.

In addition to these beautiful trees, many residents have decorated their houses with Christmas lights, and one very attractive display installed in the center is that at the Winchester National Bank.

MISS RUTH ELDER DIRECTOR

The Chimney Corner Stage of the Girls' City Club, 8 Newbury street, Boston, will be christened Monday evening, when members of the Dramatic Club will present two plays. A version of "The Birds' Christmas Carol" will be given. The cast comprises the following numbers: "Mrs. Ruggles," Gladys Child; "Sarah Maud," Frances Kelley; "Peter," Doris Taylor; "Cornelius," Alice Wallis; "Kitty," Bessie Johnson; "Peoria," Miss Miriam Carlisle; "Clement," Ray Clark; "Larry," Leonard Prior.

The other play is "The Cloak," by Clifford Bax. The play has been given all over England by the Art Service League, a group of traveling players. This is the first attempt to produce the play in this country. The cast comprises: Rosalind Raez, as "The angel who guards the pass;" Teressa Perotti as "Unborn Spirit," and Gladys Raynor as "A Dead Spirit."

Miss Esther Strumpney will play the violin solos during the intermission, accompanied by Miss Madelyn Cobnam.

Costumes for both plays have been designed and made by members of the cast, all members of the club. The scenery has been designed and executed, including the painting of back drops, by Mrs. John T. Clark and Miss Ruth Elder. Both plays are under the direction of Miss Ruth Elder.

PUPILS OF MRS. PHELPS HELD ASSEMBLIES

About 300 attended the assemblies held in Waterfield last Saturday afternoon by the dancing classes of Mrs. Cora Corthell Phelps. The pianist was Mrs. Arthur B. Corthell.

At 2:30 there was the assembly of classes in Ballet and Plastique dancing for which the patronesses were Mrs. Charles Barry, Mrs. Richard Hull, Mrs. William McGill, Mrs. Ralph Tibbetts and Mrs. Clarence Whorf.

Mrs. Bertram Bernnard, Mrs. Claude Crafts, Mrs. Cutler Downer, Mrs. Henry Fitts, Mrs. Merton Grush, Mrs. George Kimball, Mrs. Alexander MacDonald, Mrs. Elmer Randlett and Mrs. Harry Sawyer were the patronnesses for the second assembly of the classes in ball room dancing which was held at 4.

It is reported that the boys at the West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital were unanimous in naming last Friday evening's entertainment put on by Winchester Lodge of Elks as the best which they ever witnessed.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

A very enthusiastic meeting was held on Dec. 18 at the home of Miss Bertha Kelley. It being the annual flower mission and relief day, a large box of delicacies was packed and sent to the Mass. W. C. T. U. flower mission in Boston to be distributed before Christmas. Mrs. W. H. Hook led the devotional services and Miss Jean MacLellan sang several songs which were much appreciated. The President Mrs. George Hamilton gave an interesting report of the National Convention which she attended in Detroit. She stated that 48,000 new members had been added to our ranks this year. She quoted the following from the National President's address. "We must provide an intensive public education which will result in a national wide-spread desire for law observance and law enforcement. With the same zeal which characterized our long struggle for prohibition, we must enlist in a campaign to hold what we have gained, and just as we trained the youth of our land for temperance through our "Loyal Temperance Legions' and 'Young People's Branches' so must we train them for law enforcement and law observance." It was voted to hold a mass meeting for children on Jan. 17 and ask the pastors of the various churches to emphasize on that date the great need of a better public sentiment for law observance. Mrs. John Cayting read a speech given by the new National Prohibition Director, General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary to the Treasury. He explained how he had divided the U. S. into districts placing an administrator over each district, saying to them "I give you all the powers of government. I also give you absolutely free hand in the selection of your personnele. Now do your job."

Today the administrator is instructed to build up a machine in which everyone is loyal to him. He has now the opportunity to gather together a group of young men with no other purpose than law enforcement. If he doesn't do it, it is his fault, and when I find out that he has not done it, I will get a man that will do it.

When we shall have that kind of an organization it will do away with much bribery and corruption that has been such a blemish in the past. We have to issue hundreds of thousands of permits in order that the normal business of the country may proceed, because alcohol in its various forms is essential in many of the products of industry, and I might say in matters of medicine and of religion. That is another reason for decentralization. Washington in trying to decide whether a man should have his permit, has to decide it on written evidence, and often decides it incorrectly. I want the man in the field to make those decisions. They will be more nearly true to the facts. If a man in the field judges a druggist unworthy of a permit; the chances are he knows.

In speaking to the women General Andrews said, "Let us feel your influence more. Why should not the women in any community get together, interest themselves in the work of law enforcement and elect to offices men they known are going to be loyal to the laws that are absolutely essential for community welfare. I would be glad to have a representative of any organization come to my administrator. Do not stop there. Have the committee call upon the district attorney. Above all have a committee sit in the court room every time a case is tried. Why shouldn't our officials be indifferent? The public is indifferent. You don't see many earnest women listening to the presentation of the case. But if women were sitting there I know they would have a wholesome effect. Particularly so if through some means, their report of what they saw became public. Not in the way of criticism, but in the way of information. How can public opinion be sound if it isn't informed? How can it be informed unless someone whom you trust is present to hear what goes on.

It seems to me that this one thing alone would do more to cure crime in the U. S. than anything else of which I can think."

At the close of the meeting a beautiful collation was served by Miss Mary Swift assisted by Mrs. Anna Razee, Mrs. Annie Blood and Mrs. Margaret Lawson. The ladies united in thanking Daniel Kelley for the Christmas gift given each one in remembrance of his wife who was for so many years the beloved Superintendent of our Flower Mission Work.

CAROL SERVICE AND MYSTERY AT THE EPIPHANY

The Children's Carol Service and Christmas Mystery will be held at the Church of the Epiphany on Christmas Eve at 4 o'clock.

The parts in the mystery will be taken as follows:

Virgin Miss Olive Page
Two Tiny Attending Angels—
Bessie Evans, Allen Evans, 3rd.
St. Joseph Harrison Chadwick
Angel Gabriel Miss Hester Harrington
Angels—Helen Claflin, Ruth Good, Eleanor Spong, Florence Spong, Virginia Smalley, Harriet Jackson, Charlotte Page, Harriet Keepers.
Shepherds—W. Dudley Cotten, Banfield Capron, Gordon Gillette.
Kings—The parts of the three kings will be played by three members of the Church School faculty.

Following the mystery the school Christmas tree was held with the distribution of gifts to the little helpers.

Motorists traveling along the Parkway from Bacon street to the Unitarian Church have remarked upon the attractive appearance which the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Murray at the corner of Cutting street makes in its holiday attire. Two natural Christmas trees, gay with colored lights, one on either side of the front entrance, add much to the neighborhood's attractiveness.

CHRISTMAS DANCES STARTED AT COUNTRY CLUB

The first of the holiday dancing parties was held at the Winchester Country Club on Tuesday evening from 8:30 until 1 o'clock, the affair being given by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Warren of Mystic Valley Parkway for their daughter, Miss Virginia Warren, at home for the Christmas recess from National Park Seminary, Washington, D. C. About 200 guests were present from Winchester and out of town with some as far distant as New York and Philadelphia.

The party was a complete success, all its features being just a bit out of the ordinary. Music for the dancing was furnished by "Chet" Jones and his orchestra from Boston while the festive appearance of the hall, gay with Christmas decorations and cut flowers, added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion. There were several novelty and favor dances. A buffet supper was served at 11 o'clock.

In the receiving line with the young hostess, Miss Warren, were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren. The ushers included John H. Gage, James Dwinell Jr., William H. Bowe, Gordon Smith, Robert Abbott of West Medford, Frank S. Black, Holbrook Lowell Jr., Charles C. Clark, Walter A. Redding, Francis Dabney and Edward Sexton.

WINCHESTER TEACHER PAINFULLY INJURED

Miss Frances E. Daley, widely known as the popular teacher of manual training at the Wadleigh School for the past 25 years, was painfully injured in an automobile accident while visiting friends at Mansfield during the past week-end. According to the report received by the School Department, Miss Daley was motoring on last Saturday with her hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Smith of Mansfield, when the machine in which they were riding skidded in such a manner as to cause a wheel to catch in the street car tracks and come off. The car plunged down an embankment at the side of the road and overturned, throwing Miss Daley and Mrs. Smith on to the ground. The latter suffered a broken collar bone while Miss Daley sustained several broken ribs. She was removed to the Morton Hospital in Taunton where as the Star went to press the exact extent of her injuries had not been ascertained. While painfully hurt it is not thought that she is seriously injured, and her name has at no time been on the hospital danger list.

Miss Daley's fellow instructors at the Wadleigh School have done their best to make her stay in the hospital as pleasant as possible, and the veteran slovd mentor has been the recipient of flowers and many Christmas cards while a delegation of teachers visited her on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Daley's home is at Etna, N. H., but during the school year she lives at 135 Appleton street, Boston.

ELKS' CHRISTMAS PARTY

All the kiddies are eagerly waiting for Saturday afternoon when the long expected Christmas tree and party of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be held in th Town Hall, starting promptly at 2 o'clock.

The youngsters all known from experience that an Elks' party is a real party and Chairman N. M. Nichols and his co-workers on the committee have been working over time to make this year's tree come up to the expectations of their expected guests.

Santa Claus has promised to stay over for the occasion, and an elaborate entertainment program has been arranged. Each child will be presented gifts of candy, pop corn and trinkets which will be a real delight. The ladies of the Emblem Club, the Elks' Auxiliary have promised to be on hand and help and help make the party the "best ever."

RICHBURG—TREADWELL

Ronald George Richburg, son of George W. Richburg of 13 Highland View avenue, was married on Saturday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p. m. to Miss Isabel Evelyn Treadwell, daughter of Mr. David R. H. Treadwell of Haven street, Dover, Mass. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by the Rev. M. Anderson of Somerville.

The couple were attended by Miss Helen Elizabeth Clarke of Philadelphia, Pa., a cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, and Albert Spence Treadwell a brother of the bride, groomsman. The bride was charming in a gown of white satin trimmed with pearls and Duchess lace, and a veil of tulle caught up with a crown of pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in orchid georgette over peach and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following a wedding trip to Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Richburg will make their home at 13 Highland View avenue.

ELECTRIC CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE

An electric car of the Mass. Eastern Railway Company and a Pierce-Arrow truck were in collision on South Main street on Tuesday, the accident taking place at a point about 75 feet north of the Winchester-Medford line. The truck, the property of Theodore Thomas and Charles Masoxplas of 60 Commercial street, Boston, and operated by Harold L. Bickford of 524 Central street, Lowell, was not damaged, but the front of the electric was badly smashed. The car was in charge of Conductor James L. McMahon and left Medford for Winchester at 6:58 p. m.

The installation of officers of William Parkman Lodge of Masons will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 12 at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6.30.

CALUMET

CALUMET NOTES

The annual New Year's Eve party will be held at the Calumet Club this year as usual, with all the fun and festivities of former years. There will be dancing from 8 until 1 a. m. Owing to the popularity of this event, the admission will, as usual, be limited to members and their ladies only.

Two afternoons of bowling for the ladies are announced. These dates will be Wednesday, Jan. 6 and Wednesday, Jan. 13. Both afternoons open at 2.30 p. m. sharp, and those who intend to attend and compete should notify Mrs. Chester F. Wolfe and Mrs. Harry Cox.

REV. HENRY LYONS 25 YEARS A PRIEST

His Danvers Parish Joined in Celebrating Event

Tuesday the parishioners of Annunciation Church joined with Rev. Henry Lyons, their pastor, in celebrating the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood with exercises in the Town Hall. Fr. Lyons was born in Winchester and upon his graduation from the High School here he entered Boston College, graduating from it as an honor student with the degree of AB.

In 1896 he entered St. John's Seminary at Brighton to study for the priesthood. Twenty-five years ago Tuesday he was ordained by Archbishop John J. Williams of Boston, shortly afterward receiving his first assignment at Marblehead. In the 11 years of his stay in Danvers he has endeared himself by his fervor and zeal to everyone in town.

In 1911 he was promoted to the parish of St. Augustine in South Boston. There he was chaplain of Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., and director of the Holy Name Society.

Outstanding features of his kindly nature are most prominent in his work among the poor and sick, to whom he brings cheer and assistance.

The principal speakers of the celebration were Theodore Glynn, Fire Commissioner of Boston, and Hon. Edward O'Brien of Marblehead, Grand Knight of Pere Marquette Council.

RETURNED BOY TO HOME

Shortly after 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning officer James Donaghey of the Winchester police picked up a child in the square who had apparently wandered away from home and become lost. The patrolman took the little fellow, a boy about three or four years of age, to the station where an investigation proved him to be the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orazio Fiore of 17 Spruce street. He was returned to his parents by Sergt. Rogers.

ATTENTION BICYCLISTS

The Winchester police, in response to numerous complaints from motorists, wish to call the attention of those who ride bicycles to the following act passed by the Legislature in 1921.

Chapter 277. Section 1 provides, whoever rides a bicycle 30 minutes after sunset without a light visible from front and rear shall be subject to a fine of $20.

At 8:30 p. m. Tuesday a Studebaker coupe, owned by Dr. H. F. Simon and operated by D. C. Pickering of Hemingway street, was in collision with a machine operated by J. F. Newman of Lebanon street on Highland avenue near Park avenue. The damage was slight.

CHILD STRUCK BY TRUCK AT WYMAN SCHOOL

Halford Ambler, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Halford A. Ambler of 93 Cambridge street, escaped without serious injury when he was struck and knocked down by a Ford delivery truck while crossing Church street at the Wyman School last Friday afternoon.

The little fellow, a pupil in the first grade of the school, had just come from his afternoon session and in company with other pupils was crossing the roadway when the accident occurred.

The truck, owned by W. K. Hutchinson Company and driven by George W. Richardson of 207 Cambridge street was going east on Church street. Richardson claimed that the boy ran directly in front of his machine and that it wa simpossible to avoid striking him.

The boy, who had apparently not seen the approaching truck was knocked down, suffering several bruises and cuts about the head as well as a severe shaking up. He was taken to the office of Dr. Arthur Brown for treatment and later removed to his home. The examination revealed no broken bones and no serious consequences are anticipated.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held Thursday, Dec. 17, at the home of Mrs. F. ', Alexander, 5 Lakeview road.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. George Hale Reed very delightfully sang three solos, accompanied by Mrs. Alexander.

The speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Foster S. Kellogg, Chief of the Medical Staff in connection with the home in Boston. Dr. Kellogg spoke in an interesting manner of the medical work at the home and the problems they have to meet; he gave his personal idea of a possible solution for this kind of work.

After the meeting, tea was served and Mrs. Apsey and Mrs. Blaisdell poured.

Mrs. William Herrick Hawkins (Roma Nickerson) who has been the guest of her mother Mrs. J. E. Nickerson of Highland avenue, left Tuesday, Dec. 14 for New York, sailing on the Kroonland Dec. 17 for Miami, Fla.

INJURED HORSE HAD TO BE SHOT

Shortly before 6 o'clock on Friday afternoon a rather unusual accident occurred at the corner of Pond and Cambridge streets. Three men, two of whom are unknown and the other, Leo Plante of 161 Fletcher street, Lowell, were riding three horses over the road from the Hanson Sale stables in that city to the Sales Stables of Stein and Myers in Chelsea, when they were run into from the rear by a Buick touring car, owned by Mrs. Rose Humphrey of 232 Cambridge street and operated by her son, Arthur, of the same address.

The horse being ridden by Plante was struck by the machine and knocked down, its rider being thrown to the ground. The animal suffered a broken fore leg, and had to be shot by Dr. William Buckley, veterinarian.

Plante was removed to the office of Dr. R. L. Emery where he was treated for cuts and abbrasions. He was not seriously injured. The body of the dead horse was removed later in the evening by the Stein and Myers Stables Company.

FINED $50 AFTER MACHINE HITS TREE

Donato Rossi of Sylvester avenue, who on Monday evening of last week ran his Gardner touring car into a tree at the corner of Bridge and Washington streets, wrecking the machine but escaping uninjured, was summonsed to appear in the District Court at Woburn last Saturday morning. Rossi was charged with driving so as to endanger the lives of the public, was found guilty and fined $50.

Frank Trott, veteran ice boat skipper, canoeist and bridge expert, evidently expects an early winter this season—one of those long, breezy, snowless seasons with 45 days of iceboating. He started in Monday to rig his boats on Mystic Lake, and by this time has not only his own, but the majority of the 15 or more boats located there all ready for safe ice. The sport promises to be more popular here than ever this season, and a number of new boats are either already at the lake or in process of rigging. With any kind of open weather, there is sure to be some exciting racing.

Publick sale of tickets for Ye Follies of '76 will soon begin.

CHRISTMAS EVE CAROLING

Carols are songs of joy, exultation, praise and devotion. Hence the carol expresses the true spirit of Christmas as no other class of vocal music can. Winchester has an unusual occasion this year for these songs of joy, as it is the presentation of the permanent Community Tree from the Fortnightly to the Town. All are invited to the Town Hall at 7.30 Christmas Eve to join in the opening exercises and then to march to the tree which is growing on the Common. The bronze tablet naming the tree for Ann B. Winsor, the first president of the club, has already been set up and the Edison Company has the permanent meter box and wiring installed. Mrs. Helen B. Emerson, President of the Fortnightly will press the button to illuminate the tree, Mr. George T. Davidson, Chairman of the Park Board will accept for the Town and Rev. Dr. H. J. Chidley will pronounce the blessing and benediction after which all will unite in singing two verses of "The Christmas Tree."

RETURNED LOST CHILD TO HOME

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Winchester Police were notified that a small child was wandering about at the Northeasterly extremity of the town near the Stoneham line. Sergt. Cassidy picked the little wandered up, and an investigation proved him to be Joseph Agri, 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Agri of 1 Holland street ,who had wandered away from his home earlier in the day. He was returned to his parents.

Mr and Mrs William C. Ash and family of Philadelphia are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Ash during the Christmas holidays.

SANTA CLAUS AT HELLO GIRLS' PARTY

The annual Christmas party of the Winchester Telephone operators was held in the rest room of the exchange on Washington street last Thursday evening with an attendance of approximately 75. Several officials of the Company were the special guests of the occasion, including Miss Mary T. Nelligan, formerly chief operator at the local exchange and now holding a similar position in Belmont, and Mr. L. Dahl, traffic manager; Mr. E. J. Veimilyea) traffic superintendent; Mr. Burns, district traffic manager for University district; Mr. Harold Fassick, social manager; Mr. Richardson, unit wire-chief; Mr. Loomis, assistant manager for University district; Mr. John MacDonald, traffic supervisor; and Mr. Ralph Hayes, traffic manager.

Both guests and the local operators spent a most enjoyable evening. The rest room was gay with the season's decorations of red and green while a large, handsome bedecked Christmas tree gave the desired touch of realism. Considerable excitement and amusement was aroused by the large grab bag containing presents for all, the gifts being distributed by a "surenuff" Santa Claus, impersonated with much success by Mr. Thomas Farrell, the local wire chief.

An entertainment program supplemented the Christmas merry-making, solos being sung by Miss Mary Kelley and Mr. Thomas Farrell, with a Charleston exhibition featuring Miss Marguerite McCarron and Mr. Alonzo Dempsey. Violin solos by Mr. Charles Farrar and victrola selections completed a satisfactory "bill."

During the evening the chief operator at the Winchester Exchange, Miss Mary J. Stevens of Medford, was presented with a silk umbrella and a string of rosary beads.

As an especial feature of the party a flash-light picture was taken of the entire group. Dainty refreshments added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Miss Mary J. Kelley Miss Marion L. Sullivan and Miss Ruth Reynolds.

Among the Christmas trees which have been erected and illuminated this year is a fine tree on a commanding position at the First Baptist Church.

Those who note such matters were surprised on Sunday morning to see that Big Mystic Lake was frozen over. On Sautrday afternoon the lake was clear, with no indication of freezing, and during the night the temperature did not drop particularly low, in fact a number of previous nights and days have been much colder. It is presumed that the conditions of air and moisture were just right for the freeze. This is very early for the lake to freeze, as it seldom contains ice before January. Warmer weather Sunday and Monday took the ice off.

The installation exercises of the officers of Winchester Grange will be conducted by Miss Evangeline Lister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lister of Stoneham. She is a student nurse at the Choate Hospital, Woburn, and is one of the youngest members of the Grange in the State to receive such an honor. She has also been invited to act as installing officer at the Burlington and Woburn Granges.

Hot Water Service

Complete hot water service will mean more to the woman in your home—and to every member of the family—than any Christmas gift you ever gave them, not excluding an automobile!

Complete hot water service for the family of moderate income means a gas heating tank in the basement and a thermostat control system that allows you to light the heater from the kitchen, the bathroom or any other room in the house. No trips downstairs! No dangerous matches! No bother about remembering "to turn off that heater!" Yet the gas is actually burning just so long as you need hot water—very economical and within the means of any family.

Ask more about this thrifty system. Or about the thermostatic control applied to your present gas water heater—that, too, would make an ideal gift. Inquire this week without fail. for any installation desired in time for Christmas.

A NEWMAN TRAVELTALK IN WINCHESTER

A large audience greeted Mr. Newman as he stepped out on the platform of Town Hall last Saturday night to deliver a traveltalk on "London, With Rambles Through England and Scotland," under the auspices of the Winchester Teachers' Club. After a brief prologue, in which Mr. Newman told of the genuine cosmopolitanism of the great metropolis, and expressed his hope that his audience, realizing the vastness of his subject, would not feel disappointed if a favorite spot were not shown, the house was darkened. Slide after slide, most exquisitely colored, depicting the various interesting spots of England and Scotland—Canterbury, Stoke Poges, Oxford, Warwick, Stratford, Banbury Cross, Chester, Ayrshire, Brig O'Doone, Loch Lemond, Loch Katrine, Edinborough, York—appeared on the screen; interspersing these slides were more than 4000 feet of clear motion pictures. The wonder is that such clear pictures were taken in the rain and fog. After a brief intermission Mr. Newman and his audience continued on their journey to London. Here were visited the nooks and corners usually missed by the traveler in this interesting city—the quarters of the Indians, Chinese, Jews, French, Italians, and others—comprising a veritable "trip around the world" within the bounds of London. The House of Parliament and Westminster Abbey were shown by the first motion pictures ever to be made inside these famous buildings. London Tower was visited, the Thames Embankment, Picadilly Circus, Hampton Court. The tour concluded with a comprehensive visit to Wembley Empire Exhibition, at which the Queen's Doll House was closely and fully photographed in motion pictures.

Mr. Newman's wide experience as a traveler, photographer, and lecturer resulted in a splendid lecture which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. Mr. Newman's informal manner, his delightful personality, his sense of humor, and his pleasing voice which carried to the last row of seats without difficulty, all aided in making this a worthwhile event.

The proceeds of the lecture went to the treasury of the Teacher's Club; this organization is to be congratulated on its efforts in bringing a man of such renown and ability as Mr. Newman. It is hoped that his visit will be repeated. Special credit is due to the ones directly responsible for carrying out this undertaking—the Executive Board of the Teachers' Club, of which George A. Kuyper, head of the English Department at the High School, is president. Miss Jane Davis of the Wadleigh School did heroic work in taking charge of the tickets and their distribution and collection; Miss Ruth Dority of the Mystic School gave all some valuable lessons in salesmanship, proved practical by her large personal sale of tickets; Miss Louise Taylor of the Lincoln School enlisted the services of the ushers; Mrs. Bertha Heffion is secretary and treasurer of the committee. The committee extends its thanks to all who aided in making this event a success.

Previous to the lecture Mr. Newman was entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kuyper of Mt. Pleasant street.

A NEW PRODUCT

The Ren Manufacturing Company, located in the Lyceum Building has recently put on the market a new product. It is the Ren Ventilator Cover which can be attached to the inside of the hood of an automobile to keep the motor warm. It is not a substitute for a radiator cover, but is necessary in addition to the radiator cover, to keep the heat in.

Most cars have ventilators or openings on the sides of the hood. These are intended to cool the motor in summer. They also are responsible for freezing it in winter. The Ren Ventilator Covers keep the air from entering or leaving through these openings in winter. They keep the engine warm and save gas. They reduce danger of freezing and save alcohol. They make starting easier and save batteries.

Ren Ventilator Covers can be obtained in Winchester at the Central Garage.

Messrs. Winthrop Palmer and George Salyer start next week on a cruise around the world. They have shipped on a steel steamer.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

There are a great many people who just give up too easily whereas if they stuck to it they would discover America.

Being in a good frame of mind helps keep one the picture of health.

One more good man on earth is better than an extra angel in Heaven.

Money talks but with some people its conversation is very limited.

The will power of some people is very strong while with others the won't power prevails.

A great command of language enables one to keep quiet.

The Star wishes its subscribers and friends a Merry Christmas.

Tonight—Christmas Eve—Winchester dedicates its Community Christmas tree. What better illustration can be furnished of the friendly feeling which exists among us? Nothing, at this season, tends to bring a family together like a Christmas tree. What can do more to bring a Town and Community together than a Christmas Tree, It is your tree and my tree! Our pride in it is mutual! The glow of its message of good will and friendliness carries far beyond our borders. May it grow and flourish and carry its message far and wide, sturdily rooted before the house of worship which fosters and protects it.

According to reports as published the first of the week, the Suffolk Grand Jury censures Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin for his charge that five cases of murder had been disposed of by fines instead of imprisonment. "It developed that the charge was based on 'erroneous' records filed at the State House from the office of the clerk of the Suffolk County Criminal Court." Although these records were "supposed" to be correct, and Mr. Goodwin's use of the statistics, it was said, was justified at the time, he appears to be wrong. We knew he would be! In some quarters he is wrong and always will be wrong. Incidentally it is interesting to note the severity of the recent sentences awarded some of the late law breakers. The Star is very much inclined to favor Mr. Goodwin's wrong doing. He appears to be wrong in the right way—at least he is getting action, and we have noticed that he has not been jailed yet—although we imagine that, since District-Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien says that Suffolk County compares favorably with any other county in the nation in its prosecution of criminals, he would be if any cause for it existed. It is refreshing sometimes to see someone stand up in his boots and "talk turkey," and when that person is a public official he certainly deserves a word or two of commendation! As Registrar of Motor Vehicles of this State, Mr. Goodwin has filled the position to our entire satisfaction. This is a free country and it costs little or nothing to sling mud and throw stones; if Mr. Goodwin can keep his coat-tails clean and clear the atmosphere at the same time, he is a pretty valuable member to the community, by and at large. We're for him!

NEW YEAR'S RESOLOTIONS

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health offers the following creed for New Year's Resolutions:

"My Body is the Temple of My Soul"

Therefore I will strive:

To keep my body clean within and without.

To breathe pure air and to live in the sunlight.

To do no act that might endanger the health of others.

To try to learn and practise the rules of healthy living.

To work and rest and play at the right time and in the right way, so that my mind will be strong and my body healthy, and so that I will lead a useful life and be an honor to my family, to my friends and to my country.

THE STORY OF BRENDA BOND

By Nelle Dee

Women are strangely like flowers and bloom often in a garden where, growing like other flowers and against a background of variety and color, they turn to the sun for delicacy, fragrance and beauty, as if silently, unconsciously, they were seeking to vie with each other, lifting gentle, glorious faces to any who may come to admire, choose or pluck and hence cherish.

In the world of pictures there is a garden of wonderful women—young, beautiful, varying in color and charm, in character and appeal, to the senses of the lovely and the perceptions of the artistic. Now and again we find an individual bloom—a flower rather different, with a touch of something vague and the lure of that which is sweet, lovely and inspirational.

C. C. Burr, who has been most prolific in finding and making new stars for the screen, discovered such a flower in Brenda Bond and immediately signed her to play the leading feminine role opposite Johnny Hines in that comedian's new First National starring vehicle, "Rainbow Riley."

Mr. Burr first noticed Brenda Bond's picture potentialities when he saw her playing the part of "Jill" in "Jack and Jill," a musical comedy which had an extended Broadway run. The symmetry of her features, her poise and her charm so impressed the producer and star discoverer that he decided one day to give her a screen test. Later he saw her in "Sun Bonnet Sue," Gus Edward's show, in which she played the role of "Stella." Again he was greatly impressed by her outstanding ability and when the time came for the casting of "Rainbow Riley" he remembered and called her in for the promised test. So well did it turn out that he immediately signed her for Mr. Hines' leading lady.

Miss Bond comes from Winchester, Mass., where she was one of society's debutantes. Born with a consuming ambition, she finally, after great opposition, obtained the consent of her parents to study for the concert stage. Her voice showed immediate promise, and it was not long before she was scheduled to sing in a society fashion show in Boston.

There she was heard by Alexander Leftwich, of the Shubert Theatrical interest, who brought her to New York, where she was featured in such well-known successes as "The Forty-Niners," "Moonlight," and the two others already mentioned.

When Channing Pollock's picturization of "The Fool" was ready for the casting Brenda Bond was chosen from all of the possible leading lady material in New York for the title role, and picture fans will remember that she scored an unqualified success in this picture.

But her love at that time was the musical comedy stage, and it was to that she returned, forsaking the screen until again rediscovered by Mr. Burr.

She is simple, naive and wholesome to such an extent that acquaintances instinctively trust and give out their confidences. She is always in good taste, well dressed as to body and well groomed as to mind. These are the attributes of which a woman of the world might well be proud, and these are the attributes that Brenda Bond has proven that she possesses.

But above everything else she has youth, and youth, bright, sparkling, effervescent youth, gives to the camera what experience can never give. Youth dares to challenge the camera to tell the true story of that which the merciless lens encompasses within its vision. Brenda Bond's fair, unlined face, with its curving lips, long lashes, its tenderly arched brows; her fine small head, her wealth of hair, her slender figure with its instictive grace, her softly foulded arms and hands, her dainty feet that skip and scintillate—these ask no photographic tricks to give them passport to an audience's heart.

Her beauty is undeniable. Her personality of the sort that men love and women graciously acknowledge. It is a mixture of young vitality and gentle, girlish dignity covering a fire and passion that can be roused when the emotion to be depicted calls for it. One feels that she sees more than she admits, feels more than she is ready to express, knows more than appears through her acting. Her gaze that is so full and so direct seems to read into you with what is not a talent but a wistful query. Her quiet poise, her soft assurance of manner, her matter-of-factness as regards her prettiness, these are very taking and make certain of the homage that she unconsciously inspires.

When you meet her off the screen and off the stage she is the concentrated suggestion and essence of spring, not the frail ethereal Botticellian spring, but a vivacious ,colorful, all moving emotional spring. In her deep eyes lie dreams and mysteries—a sense of fairies playing by still lakes hidden under the everlasting hills—but in her strong, youthful, vigorous body there lies a woman willing to do, ready to dare, determined to make her wonderful colorful dreams comes true.

Brenda Bond knows that life is beautiful and that art is the soul of life finely expressed. She has been brought up on books and athletics. She loves beautiful things around her, but has no penchant for the exotic. She wants that which is wholesome and good. She is a reader, a student; she learned books before she learned life. She translated her vision wrought out of books into a new vision of life that gave her her opportunity to interpret feeling of form and color; that is the first principle of the artist in her.

And because she is beautiful and believes in both mind and body she works hard mentally and physically to maintain her standard. She is proficient in all forms of out-door exercise to which the body of a healthy woman is adaptable and is as strict in maintaining her daily regimen as she is in giving the best that is in her to an admiring public.

In view of Mr. Burr's past achievement in the discovery and development of screen star talent, it would seem plausible that the future holds many beautiful and wonderful things for this lovely little lady.—[Cinema Art, January 1926.

THE SEWER FLOOD

To the Editor of the Star:

In scrutinizing the columns of the last two isues of the Star, I was amazed when I learned of the deplorable conditions that the innocent sufferers, or in other words some of the taxpayers, had to contend with when the main trunk line sewer that cost the inhabitants of this Commonwealth thousands of dollars to construct, was unable to take care of a small amount of surface drainage water that seeped into this main sewer as some folks inform us.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have witnessed several times this filthy overflow of our public streets, when there was no rain for several days, depositing the filthy mess into various basins, that some folks declare would make ideal bathing places; and please remember, I am writing in regards to the State sewer, not the Town sewer.

It seems to me that some folks have made a tremendous mistake when they burst open the main sewer on Manchester Field to relieve the store keepers in the center of the town and elsewhere, and make the inhabitants south of Manchester Field suffer, so to speak, from the odor that at times permeates the atmosphere in that immediate vicinity.

And remember, this sewage in my opinion is contaminating the water at Sandy Beach.

In conclusion Mr. Editor, the Moderator of our Town Meeting appointed a committee to investigate the pollution of the Aberjona River, and I trust that some folks will inform your humble servant through the columns of the Star who is guilty at the present time of polluting the Aberjona River. Is it the Commonwealth of Massachusetts or the Town or Winchester that is responsible for this monstrosity that exists adjacent to our beautiful Manchester Field and handsome bridges that the Town of Winchester expended a large amount of money to build in removing a nuisance that existed in that immediate vicinity?

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

NOTE—Mr. Craughwell is in error in assuming that the main sewer was broken open on Manchester Field to allow the sewage to flow into the river. The sewer was already flowing into the river in great volume through the tops of the manholes. By breaking the sewer open at a lower point the pressure which was forcing the sewage all through the centre was relieved. This gave the merchants an opportunity to get some of the filth out of their buildings, as it was no longer forced through walls, floors and toilets. It is common knowledge that this sewer has been flowing through manhole tops into the river for a long time. It is the general opinion of practically everyone about the centre who had to try to do business in the stench, that most of the sewage came from the Woburn tanneries; the chief question is why it appeared in such damaging volume so suddenly.—Ed.

GOVERNOR BRYAN'S PROCLAMATION

Through the courtesy of Mrs. A. F. Woodside the Editor has received a copy of the Thanksgiving proclamation of Governor H. F. Bryan of Samoa. Governor Bryan, a former resident of this town, has many friends here, and feeling that they will be interested in his decree, the proclamation is given herewith.

Government House, Pago Pago
American Samoa
18 November 1925.

Proclamation

Throughout the history of the world, days of Thanksgiving have been set apart in celebration of important events, sometimes merely as days of Thanksgiving and sometimes as days of thanksgiving and prayer.

A vintage celebration of the Canaanites is recorded in the Old Testament in the Book of the Judges. A vintage or harvest celebration appeared later among the Hebrews, as an act of worship to Jehovah; and Moses in Deuteronomy, gave instructions about its observance. In Leviticus and the Book of Nehemiah there are commands about the harvest festival.

The Pilgrims of New England held their first Thanksgiving Day in 1621, to celebrate their first harvest, on which their lives depended.

Since 1865 it has been the custom of the President of the United States to issue a Proclamation each year making the last Thursday in November a day of thanksgiving and a national holiday.

God has been good to American Samoa; and it is our duty to acknowledge His divine providence, "to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favor."

Therefore, I do hereby assign Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November next as a holiday to be spent in thanksgiving and prayer; and I call upon the people of American Samoa to rest from their usual occupations on that day, and, in their homes and places of worship, to give thanks to our Almighty Father for His manifold blessings and mercies.

Done this eighteenth day of November, A. D., 1925.

H. F. Bryan,
Governor of American Samoa

PLUS INTEREST

Winchester National Bank

Christmas has meant the message of
"Peace on Earth, Good Will To Men."
Not merely to men of our own race and color
Nor men of our way of thinking,
But to all Mankind. It has meant
The substitution of the law of love and the Accomplishing of things through it, for
The old law of claw and fang.
And this new teaching, which despite our protestation
Has been of slow growth among us,
Is slowly, oh, so slowly, making over the world.
May every home in Winchester be happy and May you all have a really Merry Christmas
And A Happy New Year.

National Gems

According to old philosophy a particular talismanic gem is allotted to each country in the world. Thus England has the diamond, France the ruby, Germany the hematite, Ireland the emerald, Italy the sardonyx, Japan the jade, China the pearl, Spain the turquoise and America the tourmaline.

The Cynic.

A cynic is a man who pretends to be tired of the world, but in reality he is a man of whom the world is tired.

BULGAR-GREEK BORDER: A POWDER FUSE OF THE BALKANS

The bombardment of the Bulgarian town of Petrich by Greek guns brought forth from American cartoonists the inevitable smoking volcano with "Balkans" heavily labeled on the lower slopes. The artists might have penciled a whole range of volcanoes. All of them could be dormant except one large cone marked "Petrich." The district around Petrich has been a center of Balkan eruption.

The Greek-Bulgarian boundary line near which Petrich lies is approximately 200 miles long but there are very few places in this stretch where it is easy to penetrate from one country to the other, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

One of these routes is by the Maritza River which runs through Adrianople before turning into Bulgarian territory. But this entrance would bring Turkey into the question since the lower reaches of the Maritza from the Turkish-Greek frontier.

Swinging Door Between Two Countries

Petrich, on the other hand, is the doorway to a private corridor between Greece and Bulgaria. The town lies close to the Struma River which cuts its way directly north through the disjointed mountain ranges of the Balkans. The Struma is an avenue to the heart of Bulgaria and to Sofia, as straight and broad as the Hudson is to Albany. Nowhere else between the Struma and the Maritza is there a direct pass to the interior. This doorway to Bulgaria is also within easy reach of the sea. Saloniki, the important Greek city and logical port for most of the Balkan peninsula, is only 50 miles away.

Villages where fighting has been reported all lie in the southwest corner of Bulgaria. Many of them figured in the Balkan wars leading up to the World War. Demir Hissar, which has been serving as a Greek concentration point, was the scene of a double massacre in 1913. The defeated Bulgarian army was retreating up the Struma when the Greek inhabitants of Demir Hissar fell upon the Bulgarians.

Before the Greek army reach the scene, the Bulgarian rear guard had exacted swift and bloody vengeance.

"Committee Man" a Dread Name

Another familiar name in the Balkan news is "comitadjis." Translated this means committee man, which sounds peaceful enough. But the word "comitadjis" is enough to make Greece shiver and the Bulgarian government shudder.

"Comitadjis" appeared in the Balkan lexicon shortly after the Treaty of San Stephano. England had been sufficiently aroused by the Bulgarian atrocities at the hands of the Turk to co-operate with Russia in assuring an autonomous Bulgaria. But England could not approve Russia gaining her long-sought outlet to the sea, although it would be only by proxy through Rumania and Bulgaria. Therefore, the Macedonian plain, which is now Grecian territory between Bulgaria and the Aegean Sea, was reserved to Turkey.

Bulgarian residents in the Macedonian plain despaired of further help against the Turk from western Europe so they organized their committee men. These insurgent bands spread a reign of terror. Turkey's customary severe control was revamped into a rule of ruthlessness but that did not check the "comitadjis." Even women joined the guerrilla bands, enduring camp life, marching mountain trails at night and obeying the strict rules of the insurgents. The story is told of one young woman who joined a band to be with her lover. She began to lag from weariness and the chief ordered her left behind. The comitadjis rules permit no desertion. When her lover tried to stay behind with her he was executed.

The Turk's attempt to put down the "comitadjis'" rebellion unified the Balkan peoples for once and in 1912 they very nearly drove Moslem power out of Europe. The advantages of this war were dissipated by the fighting over the spoils in 1913 when Bulgaria contested against all her neighbors. The original "comitadjis" organization did not die and its border raids are believed to be partly the cause of the present strife.

Greek-Bulgar warfare has blazed up in the presence of two movements which were expected to promote permanent peace. The exchange of alien populations has gone forward rapidly between Greence and Bulgaria. Tens of thousands of Bulgarians living in Greek territory have crossed the border and passed up the Struma Valley while Greeks have been moving in the other direction. Furthermore, the irritation of both Bulgaria and Yugoslavia at being denied a trade outlet to the Aegean has been relieved recently by the Greek government's declaration making Saloniki a free port in accordance with the Treaty of Neuilly.

Entitled to Honor

Every Memorial day Mrs. Emma Gooch goes out and puts a wreath on the grave of the late Emil Gooch. People got to noticing it and somebody asked Mrs. Gooch what war the late Emil had fought in. "He never fought in any war," the widow replied. "Then why do you put a wreath on his grave on Memorial day?" "Wasn't he my husband?" retorted Mrs. Gooch, and went up and laid her wreath on the grave of the "Heroic Dead."—Detroit Saturday Night.

By Request

The golfer nonchalantly stepped up to the tee and swung one of those carelessly careful drives.

The ball sailed straight down the fairway, leaped gaily across the green and dived into the hole like a prairie dog.

"What have you suddenly gone crazy about?" inquired the golfer's wife, who was trying to learn something about the game.

"Why, I just made a hole in one!" yelled the golfer as he essayed a double handspring with a wild gleam of delight in his eyes.

"Did you?" sweetly said the little woman. "Please do it again, dear. I didn't see you."—Town Life.

Days of Youth

"We are young only once," you often hear some person remark as an excuse for "hitting the pace."

True, we can be young but once, and the pleasures of youth must be crowded into that space of time.

But how long are we young? Some men are old at forty, while others are still young at sixty. It depends upon the pace they hit and the manner in which they hit it.

We can crowd a lot of work and pleasure into youth if we keep our hearts and our minds and our bodies clean. We can reduce the amount of both and shorten our youth by resorting to reckless dissipation.—Newcastle Courier.

Tibetan Village Holds Record for Dirtiness

Tibet is famous for many things, but few people know that the dirtiest place in the world is to be found in the land of the Lamas.

It is a village, Phari-jong by name, situated on a piece of rising ground in the center of a plain not many miles from Mount Chomolhari, one of the finest mountains in Tibet. It stands over 18,000 feet above sea level, and is believed to be the highest place in continuous habitation in the world.

Phari consists of a fortress, surrounded by 200 hovels. Owing to the fact that everything which we would throw into our dustbin is there simply thrown out, these hovels are now below the level of the ground. Year by year the heaps of rubbish have grown, until the occupiers of the "houses" have had to cut paths through them from their front doors to the road.

In spite of its "buried" look, however, Phari is one of the leading "market towns" of Tibet. There is a respectable bungalow in the village, kept up by the Indian government for the use of its representatives, and it was here that the last Mount Everest expedition arranged to stop when carrying out their exploration of the nearby mountain. Phari is also in postal and telegraph communication with India.

The Aurora Borealis

Until electricity was discovered, the cause of the aurora borealis was unknown. It is generally supposed to be caused by the recomposition of positive and negative electricity. It exists only in the region of the poles.

History Told by Trees

The people of long ago did not trouble to say much about the weather in their writings, but the botanists do not need the help of records. The books they study are the trunks of trees. When a tree is cut down its age can be found by counting the number of rings between the heart and the bark. Each of these rings represents one year of growth, and scientists believe that we can decide whether a specified season was late or early, dry or wet, by studying the thickness and consistency of the fibre of the corresponding circle.

Dangerous Experiment

Mr. and Mrs. Author were going out for the evening. They had engaged a new nurse and she was left in charge of the children for the first time.

"Dear," remarked Mrs. Author as she came downstairs, "I looked into the nursery and noticed nurse was reading. Who gave her the book?"

"I did," replied her husband.

"What book is it?"

"My last," he answered.

"Darling!" exclaimed his wife. "And you know how important it is that she should not go to sleep!"

Truant's Good Excuse

Schoolboys are extremely practical in these days. The headmaster of a school in an English district recently received a note apologizing for a boy's absence from school because he was repairing his boots. The master was naturally interested, and upon inspection was astonished at the skillful way in which this lad of thirteen had soled and heeled and patched the boots he was wearing. Handiwork is not taught in vain apparently.

Crimes of 300 Years Ago

Traces of crimes committed in the Sixteenth century have been discovered near Neustadt (Germany). Workmen digging on a site occupied in the Middle ages by a hostel for pilgrims unearthed two human skeletons. The hostel was kept by a mother and her son, and it was discovered in 1597 that for years they had been killing and robbing rich foreign pilgrims, burying the bodies beneath the cellar floor. The son's sweetheart overheard a conversation between the two criminals and denounced them. Mother and son were beheaded in the public square of Musshach

Sort of a Chair Quarrel

My father used to tell a story about a couple recently married who got into an argument.

"I saw a rat," she said.

"It was a mouse," he replied.

"I say 'twas a rat," she declared.

"A mouse," he rejoined.

They parted, but later they saw how foolish they were. They came back together and almost the first words he said were:

"How foolish we were to quarrel over a mouse."

"But that was a rat," she asserted.

Then the quarrel started again.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The Sauvlet Trio, composed of Lucia Sauvlet, violin; Dorothea Fraleigh,, cello; and Elford Caughey, harp and piano; will entertain at a concert in the Town Hall on Monday at 2.30 o'clock. These are first class artists and a full attendance of our membership is expected.

Lucia Sauvlet was born in Holland. At the age of five she began to study the violin, following the method of the Sevick School. Recently she has been studying in Boston, playing with the MacDowell Club Orchestra and doing extensive solo and trio work.

Dorothea Fraleigh is a pupil of Mildred Ridley, 'Cellist of the Durrell String Quartette. She is also a member of the MacDowell Club Orchestra and has had wide experience in solo and ensemble work.

Elford Caughey studied with Joseph Schuecker and is now a pupil of Alfred Holy of the New England Conservatory. He occupies a position of great responsibility with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, that of second harp, and many of his friends and admirers think that he rivals his teacher, Mr. Holy, in solo work. He is a very young man and shows exceptional ability.

Some of our members who are familiar with the Trio consider that the program they will give us is equivalent to that of a Symphony program and they are asking how did the committee manage to give the Club two such fine concerts, this one and that which is coming on March 22.

The Room Committee, Mrs. A. F. Woodside, chairman, cordially invites all club members to attend the Fortnightly Housewarming Wednesday, Jan. 6 from 2.30 to 4.30 in the new club rooms over Randall's store. This committee has given much time and energy to make the Fortnightly room attractive. A new linoleum is being laid in the kitchen and many other things are being accomplished to make the rooms in readiness for your inspection on Jan. 6.

Soldier and Sailor Welfare Committee

This Committee on Dec. 18 visited the U. S. Veteran's Hospital at West Roxbury and distributed 38 bathrobes and 11 sweaters to the men in Ward B. These were the men whose disability was such that they had the greatest need of these garments and the robes were supplied by interested friends in Winchester and other places in the vicinity of Boston. The sweaters were contributed by the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross.

After the distribution of the gifts an entertainment was provided in Ward B, Collins and the Hut, by the following artists who gave their services, Mrs. Helen Edlefson Barr and Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker Clarke. Refreshments were served consisting of ice cream and home made cake.

On Dec. 19 the committee again visited the hospital where an entertainment was provided at the Hut by Miss Esther Brown's troop of Girl Scouts and Mrs. Annette Symmes Hughes who entertained with songs and dances in costume. This affair was attended by 120 men who each received gifts of socks, ties or handkerchiefs, which had been provided by friends. The Girl Scouts distributed pop corn balls to the men and the 14 members of the troop each contributed an individual gift for some one of the men. Mr. Alfred K. Comins donated a sufficient quantity of cigarettes to supply all of the men on both days.

The Committee on its own behalf and on behalf of the men at the hospital, thank all who have given pleasure to the men by contributing gifts or providing for their amusement.

STAGED ENTERTAINMENT AT WEST ROXBURY HOSPITAL

A party of almost 50 members of Winchester Lodge of Elks and the Emblem Club visited the veterans hospital at West Roxbury Friday night and gave the disabled soldiers an evening of fun and entertainment. About 30 made the trip in a large bus, the others going over in their private cars. During the journey the party rehearsed Christmas carols under the direction of Mrs. George H. Lochman and Miss Jean MacLellan. At the hospital a fine entertainment was given, the show being put on under the direction of Mr. William Shepard. A feature of the program was the singing by Mr. Kenneth McLeod of Winchester Lodge, himself a World War veteran with Co. E, 314 Inf. Div. Penn. He was at the front most of the time that the American troops were in action and was gassed in the Argonne. He was accompanied in his songs by Miss Mary French. Christmas carols were sung by the party as an opening number, the audience joining in. During the evening the veterans were given cider and refreshments, the Misses Doris Nichols, Nancy Wilson and Eleanor Larsen assisting Mrs. N. M. Nichols and Mrs. Lochman in the serving. The evening was voted one of the best the boys have enjoyed in a long time, and their thanks were most appreciatively expressed to Winchester Lodge. The entertainment and details of the evening were in charge of Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols, chairman of the Welfare Committee, to whom the credit for the success of the visit is due.

MASONS TO ENTERTAIN

For the next regular meeting of Mystic Valley Lodge of Masons, to be held in the Masonic Apartments on the evening of Jan. 7, an interesting program has been arranged. There will be a reception to the ladies and other guests at 6.15 with dinner served at 6.45. The public installation of officers will be by Most Worshipful Dudley H. Ferrell, Grand Master of Masons of Massachusetts, who will be assisted by Right Worshipful Frank H. Hilton, Senior Grand Warden, Acting Grand Marshall. These ceremonies will begin at 8.15 and will be followed by dancing to music by Ives Orchestra.

The Old Farmer's Almanacs for 1926 have arrived at Wilson the Stationer's.

TWO MOTOR SMASHES SATURDAY

No one was injured in the two automobile accidents reported last Saturday. The first took place at 9 o'clock on Washington street when a Buick touring car, owned by Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of 182 Highland avenue and operated by James Fellar of 172 Highland avenue, was struck by a Ford sedan owned and operated by Florence E. Plummer of 15 Clematis street. The Ford was going south on Washington street while the Buick was crossing from Park avenue into Swanton street. Both cars were somewhat damaged.

The second smash took place about noontime at the junction of Highland avenue and the Parkway when a Ford touring car, owned and operated by John J. Flynn of 145 Washington street, Arlington, was in collision with a Peerless sedan, owned by the Taxi Service Company of 27 Lansdown street, Boston and driven by Daniel Doherty of 199 Audubon road, Boston. The damage done both machines was slight.

LEGION AUXILIARY OFFICERS INSTALLED

The Women's Auxiliary of Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, held the installation of officers for the ensuing term at its regular meeting held last Thursday evening in the Legion Home on Washington street.

The installing officer was Miss Anna Marion of Waltham, a member of the Executive Committee of the County Council, who was assisted by the Stoneham Auxiliary Color Team. Much favorable comment was aroused by the efficiency with which the work was done.

Following the installation, refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed with an addres by Miss Manion of especial interest to auxiliary members.

The newly installed officers include Mrs. Bessie A. Pierce who is serving her fourth term as President, and the following:

1st Vice President—Mrs. Eleanor Lawson
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Mary T. Hanlon
Chaplain—Mrs. Mary A. Mathews
Secretary—Mrs. Ruth Nelson
Treasurer—Mrs. Theresa Roche
Sergeant-at-Arms—Miss Alice Hanlon
Executive Committee—Mrs. Margaret LeDuc, Mrs. Clara J. Mullen, Mrs. Blanche L. Bennett.
Historian—Miss Mary Reebenacker

Mrs. Blanche Bennett and Mrs. Eleanor Lawson were the committee in charge of the program.

Folks who were sad on Christmas

Christmas is such a time of gayety everywhere, that it's surprising to learn of a district in England where the rural householders once spent the saddest, most burdensome days of the year during holiday week.

And the reason was that all the servants were fled!

These wary men and maids hired themselves out from New Year's Eve to the next Christmas Day, thus giving themselves a week's vacation with a year's wages in their pockets. With this income invested in "smockfrocks, cotton dresses, plush waistcoats or woolen shawls," they held high carnival in shops and taverns, while the former mistresses wrested with scullery duties in the mansion kitchens.

Gas Appliances are a better kind of servant. They take no vacations and are very modest in the matter of wages. The modern homemaker with her staff of gas helpers is more independent of servants than any women at any age have been.

ALUMNI 31, HIGH SCHOOL 27

Winchester High Alumni defeated the High School Varsity in a thrilling contest, which was anyones game all through. The score at the half stood deadlocked at 10 to 10. The alumni used two combinations with the team of F. Tansey, Fitzgerald, etc., doing the heavy scoring which stayed a last ditch rally that swept them across to victory. The work of N. Fitzgerald and Rolli featured for the losers while the Tanseys starred for the victors.

Those Wonderful Atoms

People often talk glibly about atoms without for a moment realizing what an atom really is. Its diameter is too small to be seen under an ordinary microscope. Atoms have been closely studied for over a century, and only within the last decade has it been possible to measure them. An atom is indivisible and is found to be very much like celestial solar systems in that it contains a central sun which is called the nucleus around which revolve from one to ninety-two planets called negative electrons. These move in orbits after the style of the planets. Small as the atom is its nucleus, which is charged with positive electricity, is so much smaller that there is enough space in an atom for 8,000,000,000 or more nuclei.—Family Herald.

Residents of English Town "Cultivate" Cats

The old nursery rhyme about the cats of St. Ives is based on a solid foundation, for St. Ives, England, is the cat kingdom, as is evident to any visitor. Cats are encouraged to the limit. By an old resident it is thus explained:

"This is a very old town—500 years some of the houses, leastways their cellars, and parts of the foundation are. Now, we keep our fishing gear in the cellars, and there is a terrible lot of rats and mice about in an old place like this. Well, the rats, and the mice, too, would eat the nets; they'd eat us out of house and home if it were not for the cats.

"A charactertistic of the cats of St. Ives is that they do a little fishing for themselves. These sleek, well-fed and exceptionally friendly animals delight in a romp over the sand and in dodging the waves. Afterward they will watch for hours by some shallow pool for some unsuspecting fish or small crab which ventures from its retreat from a bunch of seaweed or a rock."—Chicago Journal.

Common Word "Fiasco" Borrowed From Italy

The word "fiasco" has become current coin in English speech, though it is doubtful if many who use it know that it is an Italian word meaning bottle. Several accounts have been given of why an immediate failure is called a bottle. A correspondent of "Notes and Queries" wrote in 1863: "Some years since, Signor V. Pistrucci, professor of Italian at King's college, gave me the following derivation. A gentleman visiting an Italian glass manufactory was struck with the apparent simplicity of the work, so he asked permission to try his hand at glass-blowing, but found the operation more difficult than it looked and the only thing he was able to produce was the common flask (fiasco). The amused workmen crowded around him, and greeted each successive failure with laughter and the cry of 'Altro fiasco! altro fiasco!'" (Another fiasco.)—Exchange.

"According to Hoyle"

The expression "according to Hoyle" refers to Edmond Hoyle, a writer on games, who was born in England in 1672. Little is known about Hoyle's life. Tradition says he was educated for the bar. At any rate, he went to London, where he spent much of his time writing on games and giving lessons in card playing, especially whist. He published a book in which he systematized the laws and rules of whist, a game on which he was considered an authority. His name became proverbial as an authority on games.

Playing a game "according to Hoyle" came to mean playing it fair and according to the recognized rules. Hoyle died in London in 1769.—Kansas City Star.

It Makes a Difference

Your success in life depends on your motive. There is an old fable about a dog that boasted of his ability as a runner. One day he gave chase to a rabbit but failed to catch it. The other dogs ridiculed him on account of his previous boasting. His reply was, "You must remember that the rabbit was running for his life, while I was only running for my dinner."

The incentive is all-important. If you are in the race merely for your dinner you will not put the same vim and energy into your running as you will if your ambition is deeper and more serious. Get the right motive and your chance of success will be much greater.—Boston Transcript.

Care of Umbrellas

A shabby umbrella will spoil an otherwise perfect outfit. A much-used umbrella soon shows signs of wear. When this happens, it is a good idea to open the umbrella and sponge it with strong sweetened tea. The tea freshens the color and the sugar imparts a slight stiffening to the fabric. An umbrella that has been dropped in the mud and cannot be cleaned by ordinary brushing is best treated in the following way: After greasing the inside wires to prevent them rusting, the cover of the umbrella should be scrubbed with warm, soapy water. It should be rinsed in clear, cold water and hung, still open, in the sun to dry.

The Warning One

On the plains of the West thousands of cattle may be seen grazing as one. They move slowly, feeding as they go, their heads pointing in the same direction. Occasionally among the hundreds there will be one individual that ignores the custom of the others and feeds where it will. The cattlemen have learned through experience to look to such an animal for the salvation of the rest in times of emergency. When wild creatures attack or sudden storms break, the solitary feeder is one to give warning or lead the herd to safety.—Cornelia James Cannon in the Atlantic Monthly.

Begging the Question

Begging the question is assuming a proposition which, in reality, involves the conclusion. Thus, to say that parallel lines will never meet because they are parallel, is simply to assume as a fact the very thing that you profess to prove. A "circle" in logic is a vicious form of argument in which the conclusion is assumed to prove the premise, and then the premise to prove the conclusion.

Shelley's Words

His words are as flexible as any words: the rhythm of some modulating air seems to move them into their place without a struggle by the poet, and almost without his knowledge. This is the perfection of true art.—Walter Bagehot.

Porpoise's Diet

"Polly," a full-grown porpoise, the chief attraction at Brighton (Eng.) aquarium, has been trained in three days to take food from the hands of the chief attendant. Polly now devours seven pounds of herrings each day, and her rations will be doubled shortly.

Eat Pure Oysters

We have oysters, grown by R. R. Higgins Co., in waters of Rhode Island and Virginia, whose purity is certified by the health Authorities of those States, and shucked in packing houses, operated under State Inspection.
